REDS RETREAT ALL ALONG FRONT

Far East Air Force Chiefs Are Replaced

Weyland Succeeds Gen. Stratemeyer

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Air Force tonight announced the replacement of its two top commanders in the Far East.

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, who was stricken with a heart attack in Tokyo last week, will be succeeded by Lt. Gen. O. P. Weyland as commander of the Far East Air Forces.

Maj. Gen. Frank F. Everest, assistant chief of staff for operations at Air Force headquarters, was named to succeed Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge as Fifth Air Force commander in Japan.

Gen. Stratemeyer

Announcing the reassignments, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, said he and the whole Air Force "deeply regret the illness which has made it impossible for Gen. Stratemeyer to continue in command of the Far East Air Forces.

"We are fortunate to have a man of the caliber of Gen. Weyland to succeed him."

Stratemeyer has held the key Far East command since April, 1949. Partridge has been in command of the Fifth Air Force in Japan since 1948.

The two new commanders will leave for Japan this weekend.

Stratemeyer has appeared to side with some of the views advocated by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for stronger measures against Communist China, notably on bombing Red China.

However, an Air Force spokesman declared tonight this had "absolutely nothing at all to do" with the shift. He said the sole reason for sending a replacement for Stratemeyer was that he was too ill to carry on.

Secretary of Defense Marshall told senators at the outset of his testimony on Capitol Hill that "we didn't particularly appreciate" a recent interview Gen. Stratemeyer gave to a magazine.

Asked if Stratemeyer would be fired for airing his views publicly, Marshall replied:

"That issue has not been brought up with the President."

Marshall went on to say: "We had enough of excitement in air at the moment, and he was not a person in the prominent position of Gen. MacArthur."

Stratemeyer had told the U. S. News and World Report that he was convinced the Reds were biulding up their air power in Manchuria, and declared:

"You can't stop a determined air offensive unless you can get at the facility from which it originates. As you know, going north of the Yalu River, the boundary between Korea and Manuchuria) is not permissible, and as a consequence our stopping of air attacks can't be air right. He can hit me where I am based, but I can't hit him."

The Air Force did not mention any reassignment for Gen Stratemeyer.

No Red Feelers, Acheson Says

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today declared American readiness to negotiate with the Chinese Communists for a settlement of the war in Korea. But he said he knew of no overtures from the other side.

His declaration was made at his news conference in response to questions about a speech made by his chief subordinate for Far Eastern affairs, Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk had called the Red regime "a colonial Russian government." In a speech in New York Friday he also said the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa represents the views of the Chinese people "more authentically" than does the Communist administration.

Rusk's speech has been widely interpreted as a change in United States policy toward China, barring Korean peace negotiations with the Reds and firmly attaching the United States to Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek on Formosa .

Acheson denied in detail that Rusk had declared any new policy, but when it came to the words Rusk used Acheson refrained from endorsing them and left the impression that he did not consider them in all cases well chosen.

Republicans Have "MacArthuritis," Sen. Kerr Declares

DENVER, May 23 (AP) —Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) said tonight the Republicans are suffering from "MacArthuritis" and want to mire America down in a bloody, all-out war with Red China.

Kerr, first of the congressional criticis of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, spoke at a western Democratic conference at which Secretary of Agriculture Brannan led a party chorus of hopeful expressions that President Truman will run again in 1952.

The Democratic National Committee, meeting Friday, is scheduled to pick Chicago for next year's nominating convention site despite a $250,000 cash bid by Philadelphia. Leaders said the Democrats probably will hold their meeting the week of July 21, two weeks after the Republicans have picked a nominee.

House Committee Votes 12.5% Hike In Income Taxes

Republican Members Charge 'Railroading'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—A bitterly divided House Ways and Means Committee voted today to increase everybody's income tax 12½ per cent and to slap $730,000,000 additional excess profits tax on corporations.

The committee's 10 Republican members, overridden in the voting by the 15 Democrats, angrily charged that the changes were "railroaded through" after the majority members reached an agreement at a secret caucus.

Easier On Small Taxpayer

The flat 12½ per cent boost in individual income tax liabilities would be somewhat easier on smaller taxpayers than the committee's original plan, and correspondingly tougher on those with bigger incomes.

The original plan, adoped May 9 but now discarded, called for an increase of three percentage points in each income tax bracket. This figured out a 15 per cent increase for those in the lowest bracket and 3.4 per cent at the top.

The 3.4 per cent in the top income range, however, was on a much bigger proportion of total income than the 15 per cent in the bottom pay group.

For instance Capitol tax experts figured that present law provides an $120 tax bill for a married taxpayer with two dependents who has $3,000 left after allowable deductions but before personal exemption. That is an even four per cent of his net income. Under the May 9 plan the bill would go to $138 and under today's change $135.

Break For Single Persons

At $100,000 a year the experts figured the tax bill for the same man to be $51,912 under present law. That is more than half of the whole net income. The discarded three per centage point rise would carry that tax bill up to $54,840. Under today's change the increase would be to $58,401.

The new formula, in general, gives a better break than the percentage point system to single persons with incomes below about $8,000 a year. It takes more from single persons above that level. For a married pershon the break point comes at about $15,000.

War Heroes Near U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP) — Heroes who died in Korea, and many more who lived to return to their homeland, will arrive in San Francisco Bay tomorrow and Friday.

There will be 420 flag-draped caskets aboard the Bartlesville Victory when she makes port tomorrow.

The vessel will be followed by the transport Gen. E. D. Patrick, with 414 U. S. airmen aboard — the first fliers to return under the rotation program.

Gen. Bradley Tells Probe Any Korean Peace Terms Must Have Safeguards

General Asserts More Is Involved Than Withdrawal

JCS Chairman Says Iran Is Danger Spot

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley told senators today South Korea would remain under constant threat of new Communist attacks if a peace settlement called for the withdrawal of United Nations forces without any safeguards.

The five-star General said ceasefire terms will have to contain "certain safeguards" against a renewal of Red aggression — and will involve more than just the withdrawal of Chinese and U. N. forces from Korea.

"The question of decision that is going to have to be reached," he said, x x x is whether or not that (withdrawal) is acceptable from all angles — political, military and so forth — and it is going to involve more than just the simple things, that we both withdraw.

"I think it is going to have to have certain other safeguards x x x but it may boil down to a question of whether or not you accept that or nothing."

Mac's Argument Challenged

Bradley said from a military viewpoint a withdrawal by the Chinese-U. N. forces would leave the Communists "in a more advantageous position to renew the conflict."

Bradley gave these views to the Senate inquiry group studying the reasons behind the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Earlier, he declared that MacArthur's own field intelligence should have spotted the big Chinese Red build-up in North Korea last fall before it drove his army into retreat.

With this testimony, Bradley openly challenged the MacArthur argument that this information was beyond the limits of his command and was the responsibility of higher intelligence in Washington.

But Bradley added that MacArthur could not be blamed if his field commanders did not give him the information "which could have been obtained or should have been obtained by air reconnaissance and ground reconnaissance."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff strongly suggested that MacArthur should have resigned his Far Eastern commands before he began taking public issue with the Truman administration over Far East policy.

Iran Is Danger Spot

The five-star General declared the MacArthur plan to bomb Red China's supply bases could not be done effectively without attacking points in Russia — and such attacks would mean another big-scale war.

He also told the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in their study of the MacArthur ouster that:

1. There is danger the Russians might move into oil rich Iran and start another war. He named Yugoslavia and Indo-China as other danger points. He acknowledged that the fighting in Korea limits American ability to checkmate aggression at these danger spots, but he insisted that the MacArthur plan would not end the Korean war.

2. It was Gen. MacArthur who first proposed sending American troops into Korea to check the North Korean invasion last July.

PRESTON, Eng., May 23 (AP) — Supply Minister George Strauss declared today Britain may have to draft workers to meet the needs of her booming defense program.

Allergic To Meat

Mike DiSalle Rejects Offer Of Steak Dinner In Advance

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Mike DiSalle got an offer of an $8 steak dinner today. All he has to do is find one registered Republican working for the Office of Price Stabilization in Colorado.

However, DiSalle had in effect turned down the offer even before it was made. He said he's getting allergic to meat.

All this came up at a meeting of the House Agriculture Committee. DiSalle, the nation's price boss, was there to explain a rollback he has ordered on meat prices.

Rep. August H. Andresen (R-Minn) at one point said, "now you take the meat you buy—."

"I don't buy it generally," DiSalle said sadly. "I've developed an allergy to it lately."

But Rep. Hill (R-Colo) apparently wasn't convinced.

DiSalle furnished the committee with some figures his regional officers had supplied on the cost of raising cattle.

Here Hill burst in with:

"If you used the political hacks, the ones you put in Colorado, why those figures are no good. They're all Democrats who have been beaten for office. I'll buy you an $8 steak dinner if you can find me one registered Republican."

Seven Killed In Crash Of Air Force Cargo Plane

A new type C-124 Globemaster II, trying to make an emergency landing in a newly-planted cornfield near New Lisbon, Ind., yesterday, flicked the top of a tree, smashed into another large tree, flopped on its belly and burst into flames. Seven of the 12 men aboard the giant Air Force cargo plane were killed. The four-engine ship was on a operational flight from Wright Field, Ohio. The Globemaster can carry 200 fully equipped troops or a payload of 50,000 pounds.

Senate Passes Trade Program Extension Bill

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed a bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements program for two years until June 12, 1953.

The vote was 72 to 2, with only Sens. Malone (R-Nev) and Dworshak (R-Idaho) voting no.

The bill carries an economic weapon aimed at Russia and all other Communist countries. It directs the President to withdraw or suspend all tariff concessions which go to Communist nations under the trade pacts.

Bill Goes To Conference

The measure now goes to conference with the House which passed a three-year extension bill.

Under the reciprocal trade legislation, first out on the statute books back in 1934, the President can cut tariffs in return for concessions from foreign nations. These cuts are embodied in trade agreements.

The program was started under the leadership of then Secretary of State Cordell Hull in an effort to build up world trade.

The bill passed by the Senate tonight ,like the House bill, contains restrictions on the power of the President to negotiate the pacts.

"Peril Point" Provision

These are contained in a "peril point" provision and an escape clause section. The former says that if the President reduces a tariff to a point which the U. S. Tariff Commission considers dangerous to the American economy he must explain to Congress.

Under the escape clause, this country could withdraw a tariff cut if it were found that the reduction seriously affected a domestic industry.

Brunette's Nude Body Found At Trysting Spot

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS)—The nude body of an attractive, dark-eyed brunette, strangled wtih her own stocking, was found today atop a wooded hill in a Staten Island trysting spot overlooking New York harbor.

Police said the slender victim, about 30 years of age, had been dead about two days.

The body was found by John McSorley, West New Brighton, while horseback riding in the fashionable Dongan Hills section.

Detectives said the victim wore only one shoe and a stocking. The rest of her clothes were found about a quarter of a mile away from the scene.

McAuliffe To Become Army Personnel Chief

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe will become chief of Army personnel, the Army announced today.

McAuliffe, who in World War Two became famous for his "nuts" reply to a German surrender demand at Bastogne, now is chief of the Chemical Corps.

He will succeed Lt. Gen. E. H. Brooks, who is taking command of the Second Army at Fort Meade.

American Broadcasting Co., United Paramount Theatres Merger Deal Is Announced

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — A merger agreement was reached today between the American Broadcasting Co., big radio-television network, and United Paramount Theatres, Inc., which operates some 600 motion picture theaters throughout the nation.

The merger will be achieved by an exchange of stock. The new company will be known as "American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc." ABC stockholders will receive approximately $25,000,000 worth of stock in the merged firm.

United Paramount's television station WBKB in Chicago, said the announcement, will be sold to the Columbia Broadcasting System which itself late last month had sought a merger with ABC to obtain more television stations. The merged company will retain ABC's Chicago video station, WENR-TV.

The agreement today came quickly on a resumption of negotiations after the collapse of discussions some 10 days ago on an ABC-United Paramount merger.

It still is subject to approval by the boards of directors and stockholders of the two companies and also by the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates radio and television broadcasting.

While the merger brings together television and motion picture interests, it does not necessarily presage a supply of late films for ABC since United Paramount does not produce motion pictures. However, as a major film exhibitor and also employer of entertainment talent for the stages of its theaters, it is in a position to strengthen ABC programming.

In their joint statement, Leonard H. Goldenson, president of United Paramount, and Edward J. Noble, board chairman of ABC, said:

"Complete daytime and nighttime programs on a scale and of a quality not previously practicable nor attainable is in prospect through the new company. New personalities and programs will be introduced to both radio and television."

U. S. Casualties Rise To 66,816

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Announced U. S. casualties in Korea reached 66,816 today, an increase of 1,293 since last week.

The total covers casualties whose families were notified through May 18. It includes 10,038 killed, 45,567 wounded and 11,211 missing.

Of the wounded, 1,174 have since died, and of the missing 101 are known dead, making the combat death toll 11,313.

The missing total included 1,199 who have since returned to U. S. military control and 115 known prisoners of war leaving 9,796 currently missing.

Diplomats Fear Iran Situation Is Dynamite

MOSCOW, May 23 (AP)—Foreign diplomats here fear the Iranian situation is loaded with dynamite which could blow up world peace.

Some observers are of the opinion there is a growing possibility Iran may turn to Soviet Russia for advice, if not aid, in operating the British-run oil resources she has nationalized. The heart of Russia's oil business is at Baku, near the Iranian border.

If the present confused situation continues in Tehran, some diplomats feel, Britain may be forced to send in armed forces or relinquish completely her Iranian oil interests.

But should she attempt to use troops or warships, these diplomats say they believe Iran would quickly replace Korea as the greatest danger to world peace.

Mercy Killing Opposed

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—The General Council of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. today expressed official opposition to a movement to legalize mercy killing.

Dr. Jesse H. Baird, San Francisco, council chairman, said the general assembly, which meets tomorrow will be asked to take action.

Telegraph Rate Hike Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—An $11,000,000 a year jump in Western Union telegraph rates, scheduled to go into effect June 1, was blocked today by government action.

The Federal Communications Commission raised the stop sign on the increases. It directed the company to make no changes, at least until September 1, so that FCC might have time to investigate.

Public hearings on the matter were ordered to begin here June 25. FCC Examiner Elizabeth S. Smith was assigned to preside over these sessions.

Western Union gave public notice early this month that it proposed to raise its rates on telegrams by approximately 10 per cent and increase telegraph press rates by about 15 per cent, with proportionate hikes in other Western Union services. The plan involved increases in the allowed wordage on straight telegraph messages from 10 to 15 words and on night letters from 25 to 50 words.

Cost-Of-Living Index Halts Its Upward Spiral

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The government's cost-of-living index came to nearly a dead stop in its upward spiral today for the first time since the outbreak of the Korean war last June 25.

Food prices were lower for the first time since February, 1950.

However, the index had already risen enough since January to assure 1,000,000 auto workers a three-cent hourly wage boost. The increase is tied to rise-and-fall "escalator clauses" in the workers' contracts, based on the federal cost-of-living barometer.

The latest index is based on prices as of April 15. The Bureau of Labor Statistics put out two sets of figures—one an "old style" set and the other a new style revised index, based on later buying habits.

Food Prices Drop

The old style index showed that on April 15 Americans were paying 184.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average for their normal living costs—the same figure as on March 15. That is the index followed by the auto industry's contract.

The new-style index edged up to 184.6 or 0.1 per cent above the March 15 level.

Food prices dropped 0.2 per cent, with the food index standing at 225.7 per cent of the 1935-39 average or 11.1 per cent above last June.

Generally speaking, the index bore out predictions of government officials that prices are gradually levelling off.

Meanwhile, the battle over federal anti-inflation controls brought these developments:

Truman Backs Beef Rollback

1. Sen. Moody (D-Mich) said after a White House visit that President Truman is "going to stand firm" behind Price Director Michael V. Disalle on his order for a rollback on beef prices.

2. DiSalle himself went on the griddle before a hostile House Agriculture Committee and roundly defended his beef order.

3. William W. Russell, speaking for the National Apartment Owners Association, Inc., told the Senate Banking Committee that a bill to extend federal rent controls for two more years would give "dictatorial powers" to local rent directors.

Peron Reportedly Arrests Atom Process 'Discoverer'

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 23 (AP)—A front page story in Tribuna Da Imprensa said today that President Juan D. Peron of Argentina had ordered the arrest of Dr. Ronald Richter, the scientist whom Peron had hailed two months ago as discoverer of a new process for releasing atomic energy.

(There was no confirmation of the report from any source in Buenos Aires.)

The newspaper story, with a Buenos Aires dateline, said Peron had issued the order after learning that Richter had discovered nothing but "a spetacular process for obtaining the Peronista medal of merit."

It asserted that the information about Richter's arrest was certain, but it gave no source.

The story said Argentina army technicians had analyzed Richter's "discovery" and found the whole thing only "a colossal bluff."

It reported that Peron was furious and had Richter arrested but had not announced his action and probably would not do so. The matter is being kept secret by circles close to the President, the story said.

Attacking U.N. Tank Columns Pursue Enemy

Within Shelling Distance Of 38th

TOKYO, Thursday, May 24 (AP) — The Reds retreated all across the 125-mile Korean warfront today under hot pursuit of attacking Allied tank columns.

Tanks in the west rumbled up to within shelling distance of Communist North Korea across the 38th parallel.

Bled by losses of 70,000 or more, the Reds ceased attacks everywhere and withdrew from the debacle of their second spring offensive. It had lasted only six days.

A field dispatch today from the U. S. division sector — the point where the Reds had hit hardest — quoted dazed Red prisoners as saying they were amazed at how quickly the Allies struck back.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the Reds showed no sign they would stop at the 38th parallel, the old political boundary for North and South Korea.

Tanks Mile From 38th

"They might go up across the parallel and wait for us to come to them," he said, "but it is impossible to tell what the Chinese are going to do."

North of Seoul, tank-led South Koreans approached Korangpo, one mile south of the 38th parallel. The tanks reached positions where they could shell Reds retreating into North Korea from around Korangpo and across the nearby Imjin River.

The U. S. First Calvalry Division advanced more than five miles in another western sector without finding any Reds.

Allied forces were on the prowl for Reds up the main north highway from Seoul for 16 miles. They dispersed one group five miles north of Uljongbu.

In West-Central Korea, the U. S. 25th Division advanced nearly four miles into strong positions ringing Kapyong. Wednesday, 25th patrols entered the highway hub 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

Reds Salient Contained

"All trails and roads in the vicinity west and southwest of Kapyong were loaded with enemy going north," an Eighth Army spokesman said.

In Central Korea, the U. S. First Marine Division hunted Reds to fight and found few.

The Allies now control both sides of the Hongchon River in the central sector.

In East-Central Korea, the valiant U. S. Second Division rolled north. Less than a week ago, the Second was battling for its life against 96,000 Reds trying vainly to destroy the famed Indianhead division and avenge past defeats at its hands.

Even in the rugged east-central sector, Eighth Army said that a deep Red salient near Soksa "is considered contained." Soksa is 18 miles inland from the east coast.

The Allies advanced over roads strewn with the bodies of dead Chinese and North Koreans.

In most sectors, the mountainous terrain was the chief obstacle to the U. N. advance.

Rep. August H. Andresen (R-Minn) at one point said, "now you take the meat you buy—."

"I don't buy it generally," DiSalle said sadly. "I've developed an allergy to it lately."

But Rep. Hill (R-Colo) apparently wasn't convinced.

DiSalle furnished the committee with some figures his regional officers had supplied on the cost of raising cattle.

Here Hill burst in with:

"If you used the political hacks, the ones you put in Colorado, why those figures are no good. They're all Democrats who have been beaten for office. I'll buy you an $8 steak dinner if you can find me one registered Republican."

Gen. Bradley Tells Probe Any Korean Peace Terms Must Have Safeguards

General Asserts More Is Involved Than Withdrawal

JCS Chairman Says Iran Is Danger Spot

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley told senators today South Korea would remain under constant threat of new Communist attacks if a peace settlement called for the withdrawal of United Nations forces without any safeguards.

The five-star General said ceasefire terms will have to contain "certain safeguards" against a renewal of Red aggression — and will involve more than just the withdrawal of Chinese and U. N. forces from Korea.

"The question of decision that is going to have to be reached," he said, x x x is whether or not that (withdrawal) is acceptable from all angles — political, military and so forth — and it is going to involve more than just the simple things, that we both withdraw.

"I think it is going to have to have certain other safeguards x x x but it may boil down to a question of whether or not you accept that or nothing."

Mac's Argument Challenged

Bradley said from a military viewpoint a withdrawal by the Chinese-U. N. forces would leave the Communists "in a more advantageous position to renew the conflict."

Bradley gave these views to the Senate inquiry group studying the reasons behind the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Earlier, he declared that MacArthur's own field intelligence should have spotted the big Chinese Red build-up in North Korea last fall before it drove his army into retreat.

With this testimony, Bradley openly challenged the MacArthur argument that this information was beyond the limits of his command and was the responsibility of higher intelligence in Washington.

But Bradley added that MacArthur could not be blamed if his field commanders did not give him the information "which could have been obtained or should have been obtained by air reconnaissance and ground reconnaissance."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff strongly suggested that MacArthur should have resigned his Far Eastern commands before he began taking public issue with the Truman administration over Far East policy.

Iran Is Danger Spot

The five-star General declared the MacArthur plan to bomb Red China's supply bases could not be done effectively without attacking points in Russia — and such attacks would mean another big-scale war.

He also told the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in their study of the MacArthur ouster that:

1. There is danger the Russians might move into oil rich Iran and start another war. He named Yugoslavia and Indo-China as other danger points. He acknowledged that the fighting in Korea limits American ability to checkmate aggression at these danger spots, but he insisted that the MacArthur plan would not end the Korean war.

2. It was Gen. MacArthur who first proposed sending American troops into Korea to check the North Korean invasion last July.

Seven Killed In Crash Of Air Force Cargo Plane

A new type C-124 Globemaster II, trying to make an emergency landing in a newly-planted cornfield near New Lisbon, Ind., yesterday, flicked the top of a tree, smashed into another large tree, flopped on its belly and burst into flames. Seven of the 12 men aboard the giant Air Force cargo plane were killed. The four-engine ship was on a operational flight from Wright Field, Ohio. The Globemaster can carry 200 fully equipped troops or a payload of 50,000 pounds.

Senate Passes Trade Program Extension Bill

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed a bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements program for two years until June 12, 1953.

The vote was 72 to 2, with only Sens. Malone (R-Nev) and Dworshak (R-Idaho) voting no.

The bill carries an economic weapon aimed at Russia and all other Communist countries. It directs the President to withdraw or suspend all tariff concessions which go to Communist nations under the trade pacts.

Bill Goes To Conference

The measure now goes to conference with the House which passed a three-year extension bill.

Under the reciprocal trade legislation, first out on the statute books back in 1934, the President can cut tariffs in return for concessions from foreign nations. These cuts are embodied in trade agreements.

The program was started under the leadership of then Secretary of State Cordell Hull in an effort to build up world trade.

The bill passed by the Senate tonight ,like the House bill, contains restrictions on the power of the President to negotiate the pacts.

"Peril Point" Provision

These are contained in a "peril point" provision and an escape clause section. The former says that if the President reduces a tariff to a point which the U. S. Tariff Commission considers dangerous to the American economy he must explain to Congress.

Under the escape clause, this country could withdraw a tariff cut if it were found that the reduction seriously affected a domestic industry.

Brunette's Nude Body Found At Trysting Spot

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS)—The nude body of an attractive, dark-eyed brunette, strangled wtih her own stocking, was found today atop a wooded hill in a Staten Island trysting spot overlooking New York harbor.

Police said the slender victim, about 30 years of age, had been dead about two days.

The body was found by John McSorley, West New Brighton, while horseback riding in the fashionable Dongan Hills section.

Detectives said the victim wore only one shoe and a stocking. The rest of her clothes were found about a quarter of a mile away from the scene.

McAuliffe To Become Army Personnel Chief

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe will become chief of Army personnel, the Army announced today.

McAuliffe, who in World War Two became famous for his "nuts" reply to a German surrender demand at Bastogne, now is chief of the Chemical Corps.

He will succeed Lt. Gen. E. H. Brooks, who is taking command of the Second Army at Fort Meade.

American Broadcasting Co., United Paramount Theatres Merger Deal Is Announced

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — A merger agreement was reached today between the American Broadcasting Co., big radio-television network, and United Paramount Theatres, Inc., which operates some 600 motion picture theaters throughout the nation.

The merger will be achieved by an exchange of stock. The new company will be known as "American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc." ABC stockholders will receive approximately $25,000,000 worth of stock in the merged firm.

United Paramount's television station WBKB in Chicago, said the announcement, will be sold to the Columbia Broadcasting System which itself late last month had sought a merger with ABC to obtain more television stations. The merged company will retain ABC's Chicago video station, WENR-TV.

The agreement today came quickly on a resumption of negotiations after the collapse of discussions some 10 days ago on an ABC-United Paramount merger.

It still is subject to approval by the boards of directors and stockholders of the two companies and also by the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates radio and television broadcasting.

While the merger brings together television and motion picture interests, it does not necessarily presage a supply of late films for ABC since United Paramount does not produce motion pictures. However, as a major film exhibitor and also employer of entertainment talent for the stages of its theaters, it is in a position to strengthen ABC programming.

In their joint statement, Leonard H. Goldenson, president of United Paramount, and Edward J. Noble, board chairman of ABC, said:

"Complete daytime and nighttime programs on a scale and of a quality not previously practicable nor attainable is in prospect through the new company. New personalities and programs will be introduced to both radio and television."

U. S. Casualties Rise To 66,816

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Announced U. S. casualties in Korea reached 66,816 today, an increase of 1,293 since last week.

The total covers casualties whose families were notified through May 18. It includes 10,038 killed, 45,567 wounded and 11,211 missing.

Of the wounded, 1,174 have since died, and of the missing 101 are known dead, making the combat death toll 11,313.

The missing total included 1,199 who have since returned to U. S. military control and 115 known prisoners of war leaving 9,796 currently missing.

Diplomats Fear Iran Situation Is Dynamite

MOSCOW, May 23 (AP)—Foreign diplomats here fear the Iranian situation is loaded with dynamite which could blow up world peace.

Some observers are of the opinion there is a growing possibility Iran may turn to Soviet Russia for advice, if not aid, in operating the British-run oil resources she has nationalized. The heart of Russia's oil business is at Baku, near the Iranian border.

If the present confused situation continues in Tehran, some diplomats feel, Britain may be forced to send in armed forces or relinquish completely her Iranian oil interests.

But should she attempt to use troops or warships, these diplomats say they believe Iran would quickly replace Korea as the greatest danger to world peace.

Mercy Killing Opposed

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—The General Council of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. today expressed official opposition to a movement to legalize mercy killing.

Dr. Jesse H. Baird, San Francisco, council chairman, said the general assembly, which meets tomorrow will be asked to take action.

Telegraph Rate Hike Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—An $11,000,000 a year jump in Western Union telegraph rates, scheduled to go into effect June 1, was blocked today by government action.

The Federal Communications Commission raised the stop sign on the increases. It directed the company to make no changes, at least until September 1, so that FCC might have time to investigate.

Public hearings on the matter were ordered to begin here June 25. FCC Examiner Elizabeth S. Smith was assigned to preside over these sessions.

Western Union gave public notice early this month that it proposed to raise its rates on telegrams by approximately 10 per cent and increase telegraph press rates by about 15 per cent, with proportionate hikes in other Western Union services. The plan involved increases in the allowed wordage on straight telegraph messages from 10 to 15 words and on night letters from 25 to 50 words.

Cost-Of-Living Index Halts Its Upward Spiral

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The government's cost-of-living index came to nearly a dead stop in its upward spiral today for the first time since the outbreak of the Korean war last June 25.

Food prices were lower for the first time since February, 1950.

However, the index had already risen enough since January to assure 1,000,000 auto workers a three-cent hourly wage boost. The increase is tied to rise-and-fall "escalator clauses" in the workers' contracts, based on the federal cost-of-living barometer.

The latest index is based on prices as of April 15. The Bureau of Labor Statistics put out two sets of figures—one an "old style" set and the other a new style revised index, based on later buying habits.

Food Prices Drop

The old style index showed that on April 15 Americans were paying 184.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average for their normal living costs—the same figure as on March 15. That is the index followed by the auto industry's contract.

The new-style index edged up to 184.6 or 0.1 per cent above the March 15 level.

Food prices dropped 0.2 per cent, with the food index standing at 225.7 per cent of the 1935-39 average or 11.1 per cent above last June.

Generally speaking, the index bore out predictions of government officials that prices are gradually levelling off.

Meanwhile, the battle over federal anti-inflation controls brought these developments:

Truman Backs Beef Rollback

1. Sen. Moody (D-Mich) said after a White House visit that President Truman is "going to stand firm" behind Price Director Michael V. DiSalle on his order for a rollback on beef prices.

2. DiSalle himself went on the griddle before a hostile House Agriculture Committee and roundly defended his beef order.

3. William W. Russell, speaking for the National Apartment Owners Association, Inc., told the Senate Banking Committee that a bill to extend federal rent controls for two more years would give "dictatorial powers" to local rent directors.

Peron Reportedly Arrests Atom Process 'Discoverer'

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 23 (AP)—A front page story in Tribuna Da Imprensa said today that President Juan D. Peron of Argentina had ordered the arrest of Dr. Ronald Richter, the scientist whom Peron had hailed two months ago as discoverer of a new process for releasing atomic energy.

(There was no confirmation of the report from any source in Buenos Aires.)

The newspaper story, with a Bue- , Aires dateline, said Peron had issued the order after learning that Richter had discovered nothing but "a spetacular process for obtaining the Peronista medal of merit."

It asserted that the information about Richter's arrest was certain, but it gave no source.

The story said Argentina army technicians had analyzed Richter's "discovery" and found the whole thing only "a colossal bluff."

It reported that Peron was furious and had Richter arrested but had not announced his action and probably would not do so. The matter is being kept secret by circles close to the President, the story said.

Attacking U.N. Tank Columns Pursue Enemy

Within Shelling Distance Of 38th

TOKYO, Thursday, May 24 (AP) — The Reds retreated all across the 125-mile Korean warfront today under hot pursuit of attacking Allied tank columns.

Tanks in the west rumbled up to within shelling distance of Communist North Korea across the 38th parallel.

Bled by losses of 70,000 or more, the Reds ceased attacks everywhere and withdrew from the debacle of their second spring offensive. It had lasted only six days.

A field dispatch today from the U. S. division sector — the point where the Reds had hit hardest — quoted dazed Red prisoners as saying they were amazed at how quickly the Allies struck back.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the Reds showed no sign they would stop at the 38th parallel, the old political boundary for North and South Korea.

Tanks Mile From 38th

"They might go up across the parallel and wait for us to come to them," he said, "but it is impossible to tell what the Chinese are going to do."

North of Seoul, tank-led South Koreans approached Korangpo, one mile south of the 38th parallel. The tanks reached positions where they could shell Reds retreating into North Korea from around Korangpo and across the nearby Imjin River.

The U. S. First Calvalry Division advanced more than five miles in another western sector without finding any Reds.

Allied forces were on the prowl for Reds up the main north highway from Seoul for 16 miles. They dispersed one group five miles north of Uljongbu.

In West-Central Korea, the U. S. 25th Division advanced nearly four miles into strong positions ringing Kapyong. Wednesday, 25th patrols entered the highway hub 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

Reds Salient Contained

"All trails and roads in the vicinity west and southwest of Kapyong were loaded with enemy going north," an Eighth Army spokesman said.

In Central Korea, the U. S. First Marine Division hunted Reds to fight and found few.

The Allies now control both sides of the Hongchon River in the central sector.

In East-Central Korea, the valiant U. S. Second Division rolled north. Less than a week ago, the Second was battling for its life against 96,000 Reds trying vainly to destroy the famed Indianhead division and avenge past defeats at its hands.

Even in the rugged east-central sector, Eighth Army said that a deep Red salient near Soksa "is considered contained." Soksa is 18 miles inland from the east coast.

The Allies advanced over roads strewn with the bodies of dead Chinese and North Koreans.

In most sectors, the mountainous terrain was the chief obstacle to the U. N. advance.

REDS RETREAT ALL ALONG FRONT

Far East Air Force Chiefs Are Replaced

Weyland Succeeds Gen. Stratemeyer

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Air Force tonight announced the replacement of its two top commanders in the Far East.

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, who was stricken with a heart attack in Tokyo last week, will be succeeded by Lt. Gen. O. P. Weyland as commander of the Far East Air Forces.

Gen. Stratemeyer

Maj. Gen. Frank F. Everest, assistant chief of staff for operations at Air Force headquarters, was named to succeed Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge as Fifth Air Force commander in Japan.

Announcing the reassignments, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, said he and the whole Air Force "deeply regret the illness which has made it impossible for Gen. Stratemeyer to continue in command of the Far East Air Forces.

"We are fortunate to have a man of the caliber of Gen. Weyland to succeed him."

Stratemeyer has held the key Far East command since April, 1949. Partridge has been in command of the Fifth Air Force in Japan since 1948.

The two new commanders will leave for Japan this weekend.

Stratemeyer has appeared to side with some of the views advocated by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for stronger measures against Communist China, notably on bombing Red China.

However, an Air Force spokesman declared tonight this had "absolutely nothing at all to do" with the shift. He said the sole reason for sending a replacement for Stratemeyer was that he was too ill to carry on.

Secretary of Defense Marshall told senators at the outset of his testimony on Capitol Hill that "we didn't particularly appreciate" a recent interview Gen. Stratemeyer gave to a magazine.

Asked if Stratemeyer would be fired for airing his views publicly, Marshall replied:

"That issue has not been brought up with the President."

Marshall went on to say: "We had enough of excitement in air at the moment, and he was not a person in the prominent position of Gen. MacArthur."

Stratemeyer had told the U. S. News and World Report that he was convinced the Reds were biulding up their air power in Manchuria, and declared:

"You can't stop a determined air offensive unless you can get at the facility from which it originates. As you know, going north of the Yalu River, the boundary between Korea and Manuchuria) is not permissible, and as a consequence our stopping of air attacks can't be air right. He can hit me where I am based, but I can't hit him."

The Air Force did not mention any reassignment for Gen Stratemeyer.

No Red Feelers, Acheson Says

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today declared American readiness to negotiate with the Chinese Communists for a settlement of the war in Korea. But he said he knew of no overtures from the other side.

His declaration was made at his news conference in response to questions about a speech made by his chief subordinate for Far Eastern affairs. Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk had called the Red regime "a colonial Russian government." In a speech in New York Friday he also said the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa represents the views of the Chinese people "more authentically" than does the Communist administration.

Rusk's speech has been widely interpreted as a change in United States policy toward China, barring Korean peace negotiations with the Reds and firmly attaching the United States to Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek on Formosa .

Acheson denied in detail that Rusk had declared any new policy, but when it came to the words Rusk used Acheson refrained from endorsing them and left the impression that he did not consider them in all cases well chosen.

Republicans Have "MacArthuritis," Sen. Kerr Declares

DENVER, May 23 (AP) —Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) said tonight the Republicans are suffering from "MacArthuritis" and want to mire America down in a bloody, all-out war with Red China.

Kerr, first of the congressional criticis of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, spoke at a western Democratic conference at which Secretary of Agriculture Brannan led a party chorus of hopeful expressions that President Truman will run again in 1952.

The Democratic National Committee, meeting Friday, is scheduled to pick Chicago for next year's nominating convention site despite a $250,000 cash bid by Philadelphia. Leaders said the Democrats probably will hold their meeting the week of July 21, two weeks after the Republicans have picked a nominee.

House Committee Votes 12.5% Hike In Income Taxes

Republican Members Charge 'Railroading'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—A bitterly divided House Ways and Means Committee voted today to increase everybody's income tax 12½ per cent and to slap $730,000,000 additional excess profits tax on corporations.

The committee's 10 Republican members, overridden in the voting by the 15 Democrats, angrily charged that the changes were "railroaded through" after the majority members reached an agreement at a secret caucus.

Easier On Small Taxpayer

The flat 12½ per cent boost in individual income tax liabilities would be somewhat easier on smaller taxpayers than the committee's original plan, and correspondingly tougher on those with bigger incomes.

The original plan, adoped May 9 but now discarded, called for an increase of three percentage points in each income tax bracket. This figured out a 15 per cent increase for those in the lowest bracket and 3.4 per cent at the top.

The 3.4 per cent in the top income range, however, was on a much bigger proportion of total income than the 15 per cent in the bottom pay group.

For instance Capitol tax experts figured that present law provides an $120 tax bill for a married taxpayer with two dependents who has $3,000 left after allowable deductions but before personal exemption. That is an even four per cent of his net income. Under the May 9 plan the bill would go to $138 and under today's change $135.

Break For Single Persons

At $100,000 a year the experts figured the tax bill for the same man to be $51,912 under present law. That is more than half of the whole net income. The discarded three per centage point rise would carry that tax bill up to $54,840. Under today's change the increase would be to $58,401.

The new formula, in general, gives a better break than the percentage point system to single persons with incomes below about $8,000 a year. It takes more from single persons above that level. For a married pershon the break point comes at about $15,000.

War Heroes Near U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP) — Heroes who died in Korea, and many more who lived to return to their homeland, will arrive in San Francisco Bay tomorrow and Friday.

There will be 420 flag-draped caskets aboard the Bartlesville Victory when she makes port tomorrow.

The vessel will be followed by the transport Gen. E. D. Patrick, with 414 U. S. airmen aboard — the first fliers to return under the rotation program.

Mike DiSalle Rejects Offer Of Steak Dinner In Advance

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Mike DiSalle got an offer of an $8 steak dinner today. All he has to do is find one registered Republican working for the Office of Price Stabilization in Colorado.

However, DiSalle had in effect turned down the offer even before it was made. He said he's getting allergic to meat.

All this came up at a meeting of the House Agriculture Committee. DiSalle, the nation's price boss, was there to explain a rollback he has ordered on meat prices.

Rep. August H. Andresen (R-Minn) at one point said, "now you take the meat you buy—."

"I don't buy it generally," DiSalle said sadly. "I've developed an allergy to it lately."

But Rep. Hill (R-Colo) apparently wasn't convinced.

DiSalle furnished the committee with some figures his regional officers had supplied on the cost of raising cattle.

Here Hill burst in with:

"If you used the political hacks, the ones you put in Colorado, why those figures are no good. They're all Democrats who have been beaten for office. I'll buy you an $8 steak dinner if you can find me one registered Republican."

American Broadcasting Co., United Paramount Theatres Merger Deal Is Announced

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — A merger agreement was reached today between the American Broadcasting Co., big radio-television network, and United Paramount Theatres, Inc., which operates some 600 motion picture theaters throughout the nation.

The merger will be achieved by an exchange of stock. The new company will be known as "American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc." ABC stockholders will receive approximately $25,000,000 worth of stock in the merged firm.

U. S. Casualties Rise To 66,816

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Announced U. S. casualties in Korea reached 66,816 today, an increase of 1,293 since last week.

The total covers casualties whose families were notified through May 18. It includes 10,038 killed, 45,567 wounded and 11,211 missing.

Of the wounded, 1,174 have since died, and of the missing 101 are known dead, making the combat death toll 11,313.

The missing total included 1,199 who have since returned to U. S. military control and 115 known prisoners of war leaving 9,796 currently missing.

Diplomats Fear Iran Situation Is Dynamite

MOSCOW, May 23 (AP)—Foreign diplomats here fear the Iranian situation is loaded with dynamite which could blow up world peace.

Some observers are of the opinion there is a growing possibility Iran may turn to Soviet Russia for advice, if not aid, in operating the British-run oil resources she has nationalized. The heart of Russia's oil business is at Baku, near the Iranian border.

If the present confused situation continues in Tehran, some diplomats feel, Britain may be forced to send in armed forces or relinquish completely her Iranian oil interests.

But should she attempt to use troops or warships, these diplomats say they believe Iran would quickly replace Korea as the greatest danger to world peace.

Mercy Killing Opposed

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—The General Council of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. today expressed official opposition to a movement to legalize mercy killing.

Dr. Jesse H. Baird, San Francisco, council chairman, said the general assembly, which meets tomorrow will be asked to take action.

Telegraph Rate Hike Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—An $11,000,000 a year jump in Western Union telegraph rates, scheduled to go into effect June 1, was blocked today by government action.

The Federal Communications Commission raised the stop sign on the increases. It directed the company to make no changes, at least until September 1, so that FCC might have time to investigate.

Public hearings on the matter were ordered to begin here June 25. FCC Examiner Elizabeth S. Smith was assigned to preside over these sessions.

Western Union gave public notice early this month that it proposed to raise its rates on telegrams by approximately 10 per cent and increase telegraph press rates by about 15 per cent, with proportionate hikes in other Western Union services. The plan involved increases in the allowed wordage on straight telegraph messages from 10 to 15 words and on night letters from 25 to 50 words.

Peron Reportedly Arrests Atom Process 'Discoverer'

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 23 (AP)—A front page story in Tribuna Da Imprensa said today that President Juan D. Peron of Argentina had ordered the arrest of Dr. Ronald Richter, the scientist whom Peron had hailed two months ago as discoverer of a new process for releasing atomic energy.

(There was no confirmation of the report from any source in Buenos Aires.)

The newspaper story, with a Buenos Aires dateline, said Peron had issued the order after learning that Richter had discovered nothing but "a spetacular process for obtaining the Peronista medal of merit."

It asserted that the information about Richter's arrest was certain, but it gave no source.

The story said Argentina army technicians had analyzed Richter's "discovery" and found the whole thing only "a colossal bluff."

It reported that Peron was furious and had Richter arrested but had not announced his action and probably would not do so. The matter is being kept secret by circles close to the President, the story said.

Cost-Of-Living Index Halts Its Upward Spiral

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The government's cost-of-living index came to nearly a dead stop in its upward spiral today for the first time since the outbreak of the Korean war last June 25.

Food prices were lower for the first time since February, 1950.

However, the index had already risen enough since January to assure 1,000,000 auto workers a three-cent hourly wage boost. The increase is tied to rise-and-fall "escalator clauses" in the workers' contracts, based on the federal cost-of-living barometer.

The latest index is based on prices as of April 15. The Bureau of Labor Statistics put out two sets of figures—one an "old style" set and the other a new style revised index, based on later buying habits.

Food Prices Drop

The old style index showed that on April 15 Americans were paying 184.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average for their normal living costs—the same figure as on March 15. That is the index followed by the auto industry's contract.

The new-style index edged up to 184.6 or 0.1 per cent above the March 15 level.

Food prices dropped 0.2 per cent, with the food index standing at 225.7 per cent of the 1935-39 average or 11.1 per cent above last June.

Generally speaking, the index bore out predictions of government officials that prices are gradually levelling off.

Meanwhile, the battle over federal anti-inflation controls brought these developments:

Truman Backs Beef Rollback

1. Sen. Moody (D-Mich) said after a White House visit that President Truman is "going to stand firm" behind Price Director Michael V. Disalle on his order for a rollback on beef prices.

2. DiSalle himself went on the griddle before a hostile House Agriculture Committee and roundly defended his beef order.

3. William W. Russell, speaking for the National Apartment Owners Association, Inc., told the Senate Banking Committee that a bill to extend federal rent controls for two more years would give "dictatorial powers" to local rent directors.

Attacking U.N. Tank Columns Pursue Enemy

Within Shelling Distance Of 38th

TOKYO, Thursday, May 24 (AP) — The Reds retreated all across the 125-mile Korean warfront today under hot pursuit of attacking Allied tank columns.

Tanks in the west rumbled up to within shelling distance of Communist North Korea across the 38th parallel.

Bled by losses of 70,000 or more, the Reds ceased attacks everywhere and withdrew from the debacle of their second spring offensive. It had lasted only six days.

A field dispatch today from the U. S. division sector — the point where the Reds had hit hardest — quoted dazed Red prisoners as saying they were amazed at how quickly the Allies struck back.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the Reds showed no sign they would stop at the 38th parallel, the old political boundary for North and South Korea.

Tanks Mile From 38th

"They might go up across the parallel and wait for us to come to them," he said, "but it is impossible to tell what the Chinese are going to do."

North of Seoul, tank-led South Koreans approached Korangpo, one mile south of the 38th parallel. The tanks reached positions where they could shell Reds retreating into North Korea from around Korangpo and across the nearby Imjin River.

The U. S. First Calvalry Division advanced more than five miles in another western sector without finding any Reds.

Allied forces were on the prowl for Reds up the main north highway from Seoul for 16 miles. They dispersed one group five miles north of Uljongbu.

In West-Central Korea, the U. S. 25th Division advanced nearly four miles into strong positions ringing Kapyong. Wednesday, 25th patrols entered the highway hub 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

Reds Salient Contained

"All trails and roads in the vicinity west and southwest of Kapyong were loaded with enemy going north," an Eighth Army spokesman said.

In Central Korea, the U. S. First Marine Division hunted Reds to fight and found few.

The Allies now control both sides of the Hongchon River in the central sector.

In East-Central Korea, the valiant U. S. Second Division rolled north. Less than a week ago, the Second was battling for its life against 96,000 Reds trying vainly to destroy the famed Indianhead division and avenge past defeats at its hands.

Even in the rugged east-central sector, Eighth Army said that a deep Red salient near Soksa "is considered contained." Soksa is 18 miles inland from the east coast.

The Allies advanced over roads strewn with the bodies of dead Chinese and North Koreans.

In most sectors, the mountainous terrain was the chief obstacle to the U. N. advance.

Kefauver, "Dad Of Year," Outlines Ideas Of What Makes Good Father

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D) of Tennessee, retired chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, was named Tuesday as "father of the year" by the National Father's Day Committee. In the following article, Sen. Kefauver outlines for International News Service his ideas on what makes a good father. The Tennessee Senator speaks from experience. He is the father of four children: Eleanor, 9; David, 5; Diane Carey, 3, and Gail Estes, 7 months.)

By SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—My idea of how to be a good father is to be the friend of your children—a person the youngsters do not hesitate to come to with their problems, and with their small talk.

So often in my crime committee work I heard witnesses blame their crimes and troubles on the fact that when they were children no one cared about them or what they did.

Such disinterest on the part of a parent leaves a terrible void in any child's life. The child must have someone to come to, without fear, and in full trust.

My own system—and I do not presume to say that my system is best for all parents—is simply to try to be the kind of a person children naturally turn to, whatever the circumstances.

I do this in many ways. I play with my children whenever I can. For instance, I go bike riding with the older ones—and I guess most everyone has seen that picture of me bouncing on a pogo stick. I have fun with my children and I hope they do with me.

I also regard a child's reading as being very important—reading inside and outside school. All alert youngsters will pick up things to read—magazines, comic books, and the like. This desire to read is fine, I think, and should be encouraged. But what the child reads has to be guided.

Such guidance can, I think, be given without flatly laying down rules. It can be done just by talking it over. When a child is forbidden something, he should be told why—have it explained. Usually the child will understand.

In the field of guidance, too, I naturally feel—since I am in government—that the child must be made aware of the world in which he lives, and the vital need for sound, wise government. Civic responsibility can and should be implanted in children in the home.

I am, I guess, a "spare the rod" father. I don't believe in punishment if reasoning can do the trick.

Nor do I believe that any household should have a "boss." Mother and father should get together on anything that concerns the children and work it out between them. I thing it's very important that there be no friction in a home that may leave its effect on the children.

I think, on certain occasions, that the children—if they are old enough to understand—should be included in family consultations.

Above all, I just think that children are people, to be treated as people—and not left out.

Their problems may be little ones to us, but they are big problems to the children and deserve whatever sympathetic treatment and understanding we are able to give them.

Increased wages and other costs must be met

Latest wage offers emphasize need for higher telephone rates

There is no mystery or magic about telephone rates. The price for service is determined by what it costs us to provide it.

Wages are by far the biggest item in the cost of furnishing telephone service, taking 59c out of every expense dollar.

Since 1939, our wage rates are up 103%, while the cost of telephone service to our customers in Maryland has gone up on the average only 27%. Over the same period, general wage increases total nearly $6,000,000 a year more than the rate increases we have had. This includes wage increases recently granted Traffic employees. Now, in current wage negotiations with the CWA-CIO Unions representing employees in other departments, we have offered these employees a general wage increase. This will further widen the gap.

Despite this, however, this wage increase is necessary to keep telephone wages in line with those paid by other businesses in communities we serve. And we must keep our wages in step, if we are to attract and hold the capable people we need to give you good telephone service.

Telephone costs are up

Compared with 1939, our tax bill has gone up more than 314%. Just in the past year, our taxes have gone up over $3,500,000 . . . and they will go even higher.

The cost of most everything we use in the telephone business is higher than ever. For example, since 1939 the cost of lead is up 246%, zinc 244%, copper 132% and pine poles 112%.

It all adds up to millions of dollars in higher costs to the telephone company. That's why we must ask our customers to pay a little more for their service.

There is no other answer. Higher telephone rates are essential to meet the higher cost of doing business and to assure good telephone service.

We can't keep our rates down when our costs keep rising

For 22 years we avoided any general increase in telephone rates. But, finally, when soaring prices made rate increases necessary, we asked for the minimum needed to maintain good telephone service. That is what we are doing now. All we want is a fair price for telephone service, only enough to enable us to do the telephone job that must be done.

Telephone rates have been regulated for many years

Most businesses have been able to raise prices whenever their costs went up. But the telephone company is different. Our prices always lag behind increased costs.

Telephone rates in Maryland are regulated by the Public Service Commission. When we need higher rates we must present facts and figures to prove the need. In the public interest, the Commission must study these facts and figures carefully. This is a proper procedure, but it takes time. So, when a decision is reached, costs may be even higher.

The result is that telephone earnings are far too low to assure the continuance of good telephone service. They are much lower than the earnings of most other businesses, averaging only about 5% over the past five years, as against more than 15% for outside industry in Maryland.

Average cost of telephone service to our customers up much less than most other prices

Adequate rates are essential to good telephone service

The nation is facing serious times. Good telephone service is vital to fast production and to every phase of national defense.

Our ability to serve these growing needs depends upon a sound financial position. And only adequate telephone rates can give us the financial strength to fully meet our obligations to customers, employees and stockholders, and to do the big telephone job ahead, demanded by these critical times.

My own system—and I do not presume to say that my system is best for all parents—is simply to try to be the kind of a person children naturally turn to, whatever the circumstances.

I do this in many ways. I play with my children whenever I can. For instance, I go bike riding with the older ones—and I guess most everyone has seen that picture of me bouncing on a pogo stick. I have fun with my children and I hope they do with me.

I also regard a child's reading as being very important—reading inside and outside school. All alert youngsters will pick up things to read—magazines, comic books, and the like. This desire to read is fine, I think, and should be encouraged. But what the child reads has to be guided.

Such guidance can, I think, be given without flatly laying down rules. It can be done just by talking it over. When a child is forbidden something, he should be told why—have it explained. Usually the child will understand.

In the field of guidance, too, I naturally feel—since I am in government—that the child must be made aware of the world in which he lives, and the vital need for sound, wise government. Civic responsibility can and should be implanted in children in the home.

I am, I guess, a "spare the rod" father. I don't believe in punishment if reasoning can do the trick.

Nor do I believe that any household should have a "boss." Mother and father should get together on anything that concerns the children and work it out between them. I thing it's very important that there be no friction in a home that may leave its effect on the children.

I think, on certain occasions, that the children—if they are old enough to understand—should be included in family consultations.

Above all, I just think that children are people, to be treated as people—and not left out.

Their problems may be little ones to us, but they are big problems to the children and deserve whatever sympathetic treatment and understanding we are able to give them.

Increased wages and other costs must be met

Latest wage offers emphasize need for higher telephone rates

There is no mystery or magic about telephone rates. The price for service is determined by what it costs us to provide it.

Wages are by far the biggest item in the cost of furnishing telephone service, taking 59c out of every expense dollar.

Since 1939, our wage rates are up 103%, while the cost of telephone service to our customers in Maryland has gone up on the average only 27%. Over the same period, general wage increases total nearly $6,000,000 a year more than the rate increases we have had. This includes wage increases recently granted Traffic employees. Now, in current wage negotiations with the CWA-CIO Unions representing employees in other departments, we have offered these employees a general wage increase. This will further widen the gap.

Despite this, however, this wage increase is necessary to keep telephone wages in line with those paid by other businesses in communities we serve. And we must keep our wages in step, if we are to attract and hold the capable people we need to give you good telephone service.

Telephone costs are up

Compared with 1939, our tax bill has gone up more than 314%. Just in the past year, our taxes have gone up over $3,500,000 . . . and they will go even higher.

The cost of most everything we use in the telephone business is higher than ever. For example, since 1939 the cost of lead is up 246%, zinc 244%, copper 132% and pine poles 112%.

It all adds up to millions of dollars in higher costs to the telephone company. That's why we must ask our customers to pay a little more for their service.

There is no other answer. Higher telephone rates are essential to meet the higher cost of doing business and to assure good telephone service.

We can't keep our rates down when our costs keep rising

For 22 years we avoided any general increase in telephone rates. But, finally, when soaring prices made rate increases necessary, we asked for the minimum needed to maintain good telephone service. That is what we are doing now. All we want is a fair price for telephone service, only enough to enable us to do the telephone job that must be done.

Telephone rates have been regulated for many years

Most businesses have been able to raise prices whenever their costs went up. But the telephone company is different. Our prices always lag behind increased costs.

Telephone rates in Maryland are regulated by the Public Service Commission. When we need higher rates we must present facts and figures to prove the need. In the public interest, the Commission must study these facts and figures carefully. This is a proper procedure, but it takes time. So, when a decision is reached, costs may be even higher.

The result is that telephone earnings are far too low to assure the continuance of good telephone service. They are much lower than the earnings of most other businesses, averaging only about 5% over the past five years, as against more than 15% for outside industry in Maryland.

Average cost of telephone service to our customers up much less than most other prices

Adequate rates are essential to good telephone service

The nation is facing serious times. Good telephone service is vital to fast production and to every phase of national defense.

Our ability to serve these growing needs depends upon a sound financial position. And only adequate telephone rates can give us the financial strength to fully meet our obligations to customers, employees and stockholders, and to do the big telephone job ahead, demanded by these critical times.

A strong nation needs strong telephone service!

Conventions Big Business

Conventions—gatherings of hundreds or thousands of persons to transact specific business or engage in all-out hoopla, that is — have become big business. Each year 17,000 national, state and regional organizations meet, listen to speeches, and do whatever else seems appropriate in the United States. The money those who attend these gatherings spend runs into many billions.

Decision of the Republican National Committee to hold next year's national convention in Chicago has resulted in release of figures by the Windy City's Convention Bureau that if the Democratic fracas can be lassoed too for the shores of Lake Michigan, the two political free-for-alls will bring an estimated $10,000,000 to Chicago.

Housing the television announcers and equipment is the biggest problem to be solved by arrangement makers for the 1952 Republican convention. The corps of TV men will need an estimated 35,000 square feet of floor space.

Chicago, which had 1,014 conventions in 1950, is the nation's leading convention city. At least 1,000,000 persons attended conventions in Chicago last year, and spent an estimated $140 each during an average four and one-half day stay. Chicago's Convention Bureau kept a close tab on them, and found they spent 17 per cent of their money in retail stores, 12 per cent in night clubs or at race tracks and other entertainment devices, 12 per cent for food and 8 per cent for thirst quenchers. The biggest item was 36 per cent for hotel bills.

Largest spenders at conventions in recent years have been automobile dealers, Chicago's convention analysts find. The metropolis of the Midwest organized a citizens' committee to raise $500,000 to use as bait in signing up the Republican and Democratic conventions. It is obvious that this will be a good investment.

UMT The Stumbling Block

The Senate and the House conferees on the draft extension-military service bill will meet again this week. Last week they worked out a compromise on almost all the differences on the draft between the Senate and the House versions of the measure. They may have more trouble in agreeing on the chief remaining difference—universal military training.

Sentiment for UMT is unquestionably weaker in the House than in the Senate. That was why the Administration leaders in the House were willing to accept the almost meaningless UMT provision voted by the House. They were afraid that otherwise the bill wouldn't even go to conference.

Under both the Senate and the House versions, the President would appoint a commission to formulate a military training program whenever one of two situations should occur—(1) The international situation should improve sufficiently to warrant a shorter period of military service under the draft; or (2) a longer period of basic training was needed for draftees.

In the Senate version of the bill, the commission's military training program could then be put into effect at any time by the President. In the House version, he could put it into effect only when men under 19 were not needed for actual military service, and even then only after Congress had given its assent. In other words, the House voted to postpone the real decision on UMT to some time in the future.

In the Senate a motion on March 9 to eliminate UMT was lost by vote of 68 to 20. Thirteen of the votes for elimination came from the Middle West, six from Rocky Mountain states, only one from the East, none from New England, the South, or the Pacific Coast.

WACs In Army Hospitals

Convinced that peace is the time to determine how far women can safely be substituted for men in Army hospitals, Maj. Gen. Reymond W. Bliss, Surgeon General of the Army, instigated an experiment over an 11-month period, the results of which have just been disclosed.

It was found by tests conducted from June 1, 1949, to April 30, 1950, that 247 out of 301 types of hospital jobs can be performed equally well by women. The 54 types from which women were excluded called for physical strength, service in lonely locations, discipline and the care of certain types of male patients.

The experiment was made at the Army's Murphy General Hospital, Waltham, Mass., with 515 beds and a subhospital and out-patient department of 200 beds at Fort Devens, nearby. Though the Army was not employing women doctors at that time, only four medical and surgical posts were labeled "for men only." Furthermore, it was found that women were capable of assuming custodial duties, if need be, in positions now held by men under tenure.

What has evolved from these tests participated in by hundreds of Woman's Army Corps officers and WAC personnel, as well as by 100 civilians, is the competence of the "average" woman to serve efficiently under direction at noncombat Army bases in wartime. Of the women tested 84 per cent were found fit for staffing purposes and 92 per cent for hospital-type activities. The official conclusion is that such a hospital "can accomplish its mission with a staff predominately of women."

In an all-out war the use of women in Army hospitals could release thousands of men for other work. And the realization that there are only a few types of hospital work for which male physicians are essential could free many of them for service in the field. This knowledge is certainly an important element of preparedness.

Deadline For DP's

The Senate will shortly be asked to give displaced persons six months longer in which to be admitted to this country. The Senate Judiciary Committee has now before it a bill to that effect which the House passed by a vote of 312 to 63 on May 9.

Administrative difficulties caused by the McCarran Internal Security Act and diversion of shipping to the Korean War have forestalled the admission of many of the 341,000 DPs authorized to enter the country under existing legislation, at present due to expire on June 30. The pending bill pushes the deadline back to December 31.

The Displaced Persons Act of 1948 was liberalized by a bill signed by the President on June 16, 1950. This authorized the entry of 415,744 refugees over three years instead of 257,377 over two years. An amendment offered in the Senate by Judiciary Committee Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.), suspending admissions whenever U. S. unemployment reached certain levels, was twice defeated.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Uncovered Mental Cases

Some psychopathic men and women escape detection because their behavior for the most part is normal. Their social and personal incompetency is well concealed, yet behind the scenes these individuals are peculiar and maladjusted. They are potentially dangerous but seldom reach the sanitarium because the true nature of their condition is not discovered.

Dr. Hervey M. Cleckley of Georgia Medical college, cites an example of one such ambulatory schizophrenic. For two decades she had been listening attentively to a voice that came from her stomach. The psychiatrist found that "she follows its word faithfully. The advice is nearly always good. It is never irrational or particularly injudicious." During all these years she has supported herself, enjoyed the friendship of others, and lived as a good citizen in the community. She tells of her hallucinations only when examined medically and questioned specifically. Furthermore, she considers this inner voice a special blessing and intends to keep it discreetly to herself. In other words, her disturbance is mild and so well masked that even her best friends don't know. She has never been in a sanitarium although we might speculate as to what would happen should the voice go berserk and give her bad advice.

Many masked Schizophrenics have vague and minor physical discomforts but they do not have delusions and deny hearing voices. Their manner is neither abnormal nor bizarre. Suddenly something happens to make them irrational or perhaps a situation develops to which they react in a most unusual fashion when their lack of insight and mental derangement becomes obvious. Dr. Cleckley describes an intelligent young man who was regarded as spoiled and selfish. At times he was demanding and his arrogant behavior offended many of his acquaintances. Some of his classmates considered him pretty much of a screwball but he did well in his college work and his name appeared from time to time. On one occasion he withdrew from college because of a petty dissatisfaction. But he returned and was tolerated despite his egotistical, ill-tempered, and aloof manner.

The young man lived at home with his widowed mother and an aunt and uncle. His psychopathic nature came to light when a popular girl broke a date with him. He went home and demanded money from his mother to take a weekend trip to New Orleans. She refused because of her limited finincial resources. He became violent, "cuffed his mother up pretty thoroughly, and brandished a poker at his aunt." He retreated at the appearance of his uncle but obtained possession of the latter's loaded revolver and threatened to shoot any one who entered the room. After six hours his relatives gave up trying to reason with him and when the police came they seized the gun without a fuss.

This young man's behavior was entirely unorthodox. There were indications of real anxiety and despair behind his former aloofness. His eccentricity and unpredictable nature, a long history of tantrums, voluntary failures, and ingratitude suggest the psychopathic personality. He admitted finally that he frequently communicated with and controlled imaginary armies of small steel men located underground in the Alps and Rockies.

VAGUE TERM

G. Y. writes: My friend is always talking about his "left heart condition." What is meant by this expression?

REPLY

Your friend will need to be more specific, even for me. There are several abnormalities involving the left side of the heart. Why not ask him to elucidate?

SHAPE OF RINGWORM

F. T. writes: Is ringworm infection always ring shaped?

REPLY

Ringworm of the skin usually is ring shaped but the same cannot be said of related fungous infections of the toes, feet, nails, and hands.

INSIDE POCKETS

Mrs. E. writes: I was told after examination that I have pockets in my intestine. Is this serious?

REPLY

With today's living costs, no doubt these pockets are empty also. You undoubtedly refer to diverticula of the colon, a common condition after the age of 50. These pockets are not serious unless they become infected. When this occurs, a disorder comparable to appendicitis exists, except that a diverticulum is less likely than the appendix to rupture.

ABDOMINAL DISTENTION

G. T. writes: Since gaining five pounds I have an uncomfortable sensation in my abdomen. Could this added weight be responsible, even tho I am not overweight?

REPLY

No. The manifestation is probably coincidental and you should look for other causes.

Oil Lobby Wins First Round In Reversing Supreme Court On Tidelands Oil; Wallace's Garden Neglected; Unrest Grows In Communist China

WASHINGTON — One result of the MacArthur controversy is a field day for the lobbyists. With the country absorbed with the MacArthur dispute, the lobbyists are able to put across all sorts of fancy deals without the public realizing it. One of the latest is a move to reverse the Supreme Court in regard to tidelands oil.

In 1936, when President Roosevelt tried to reverse the Supreme Court by an act of Congress, it made headlines for weeks. But without benefit of headlines, the big oil lobbyists are now trying to reverse the Supreme Court ruling that the submerged oil lands off the coast of the United States belong to all the 48 states, not merely to California, Texas and Louisiana.

Last week the lobbyists quietly won out in their initial move. They finagled the Senate Interior Committee into voting—7 to 4—to return tidelands oil to these three states.

The vote was over the objection of Chairman Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who tried to block the oil lobby with a compromise bill, and who spent two hours privately trying to persuade Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, spokesman for the lobby, to compromise. But Long wouldn't budge.

Closed-Door Vote

In the showdown voting behind closed doors, GOP Senator Hugh Butler from the inland state of Nebraska, with no water boundary other than the Missouri River, showed up with the proxies of two other GOP senators—Ecton from the landlocked state of Montana, and Watkins from the desert state of Utah.

Joined by Senator Cordon of Oregon, this made four Republican votes for the oil companies.

Chairman O'Mahoney had counted on the vote of the Senate Majority Leader, McFarland of Arizona, since the majority leader is supposed to vote with the Administration on all major policies. However, McFarland owes a debt to persuasive, potent Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, the man who really made him majority leader, and McFarland joined two other Democrats — Long of Louisiana and Smathers of Florida —in overruling the Supreme Court. O'Mahoney was able to muster only three votes besides his own—Anderson of New Mexico, Murray of Montana and Lehman of New York, all Democrats.

After the tidelands vote, McFarland rose to leave, sheepishly offered his proxy to O'Mahoney on some minor votes.

"It's too late now," snorted O'Mahoney. "I could have used it a while ago."

Wetback Wallace

For many years the Minister of Switzerland, popular Charles Bruggmann, had the benefit of a vegetable garden cultivated by one of the capital's most famous gardeners—a vice president of the United States.

Bruggmann's brother-in-law happens to be Heury Wallace; and while Wallace was vice president he couldn't resist the urge to get his hands into the soil. So every spring he was a regular 5:30 a.m. visitor at the Swiss Legation grounds.

The other day the Swiss Minister met an old friend at the State Department who asked about the vegetable garden.

"Ah," replied the Minister with a twinkle, "we don't enjoy any of that cheap labor any more."

Chinese Unrest

It's always difficult to know exactly what is happening in such a vast country as China, but intelligence reports, plus news from missionaries, all indicate growing dissatisfaction with the Communist regime. Though General MacArthur testified that the Chinese Reds were consolidating their hold on China, Allied intelligence is pretty much the opposite.

Here are some straws in the Chinese wind:

1. Anti - Communist guerrilla bands are operating in South China. In many sections, the Communists control only the cities, ports and rail centers.

2. The famine this year has been worse than usual. Several million have died, and the Communists get the blame.

3. Mao is torn between his rival, Li Li-san, who is virtually Russian regent of Manchuria, and Chinese moderates on the other hand who claim Mao takes too many orders from Moscow.

4. Chinese armies long have been considered the personal property of their commanders, and these commanders don't like to see their troops decimated by casualties.

When this writer was in China some years ago, there was no central government, but regional rule by the commanders of certain armies. That is why the heavy casualties in Korea are likely to hurt. The Chinese are accustomed to seeing death all around them. But a military commander is jealous of his power and doesn't like to see his personal army dwindle.

Behind the Iron Curtain

Red Army — Russia has nearly completed modernizing its armed forces in East Germany. Nearly all propellor-driven fighters have been replaced by jets, and modern anti-aircraft guns have been rushed into Germany, replacing outmoded guns. Meanwhile, Russia has also expanded its total ground strength from 175 to 225 divisions. Eisenhower doesn't have 17 divisions to defend Western Europe yet.)

Stettin, East Germany [illegible] most serious anti-Russian dem[illegible]tions since the war have broke[illegible] out in East Poland. Angry Poles stoned, beat and manhandled Russian troops, after a Russian major shot and killed six Poles in the center of Stettin for refusing to step aside while he walked by.

Farm Collectivization—Anna Pauker, head of the cominform, has notified Russian satellites to slow down on collectivizing farms. The peasants are getting very anti-Soviet—even in Russia.

Albanian Communism—The Russians have now rushed more than 100 fighter planes to Albania to help Premier Hoxa's government in battling anti-Communist partisans. Pitched battles involving units of several hundred men have broken out in the last three weeks. It looks as if Albanian communism is on the way out.

The Wrong Road

Often we wonder how we got that way. For over 30 years, Americans moved in one general direction and then they lost their way and now we are wondering what happened to us. We read the shameful Kefauver and Fulbright reports; we watch the unbelievable MacArthur investigation; we shudder at the kind of vulgar men who govern us—and we wonder at what turning we went wrong.

I have been re-reading an article by Father John C. Ford on "The Fundamentals of Holmes' Juristic Philosophy."

No man exercised a greater influence on the political thinking of the United States since John Marshall. Most of the young men whom we identify as the disciples of Justice Felix Frankfurter were really pupils of Oliver Wendell Holmes, whose intellectual capacity was not only tremendous but attractive.

Yet, Oliver Wendell Holmes viewed the law more in the German rather than the Anglo-Saxon manner. He believed not in the sovereignty of the individual— who possesses inalienable rights—but rather that sovereignty, vested in the state, gives to the state well-nigh unlimited powers over the individual. If the state can do anything, it can, from a practical standpoint, do no wrong. This is what Holmes said on this point:

"Sovereignty is a form of power, and the will of the sovereign is law because he has power to compel obedience or punish disobedience and for no other reason. The limits within which his will is law then, are those within which he has, or is believed to have power to compel or punish."

As Father Ford says:

"It is clear that in a system in which law and rights are based essentially on physical power the divorce between the legal order and the ethical or moral order is complete. . . ."

And therein lie most of our troubles today, although we have a tendency to seek some tangible reason, such as that Dean Acheson is incompetent or Alger Hiss was a Russian agent. While such explanations may apply to these two men, they do not give us the clue to the general debacle in manners and morals. They do not explain the apathy of the people in the face of outrageous corruption.

We need to probe the problem more deeply and it must be in the realm of ideas, for a people are what they believe and they act as their assumptions permit them to. A people who believe in a moral system based upon natural law—that is, the revealed law of God—will act very differently from a people who believe this statement of Holmes:

". . . The law is full of phraseology drawn from morals, and by the mere force of language continually invites us to pass from one domain to the other without perceiving it, as we are sure to do unless we have the boundary constantly before our minds. The law talks about right, and duties, and malice, and intent, and negligence, and so forth, and nothing is easier, or, I may say, more common in legal reasoning, than to take these words in their moral sense, at some stage of the argument, and so to drop into fallacy. For instance, when we speak of the rights of man in a moral sense, we mean to mark the limits of interference with individual freedom which we think are prescribed by conscience, or by our ideal, however reached . . . Manifestly, therefore, nothing but confusion of thought can result from assuming that the rights of man in a moral sense are equally rights in the sense of the constitution and the law. . . ."

And further he says:

". . . For my own part, I often doubt whether it would not be a gain if every word of moral significance could be banished from the law altogether, and other words adopted which should convey legal ideas uncolored by anything outside the law. . ."

When morality is banished from the law, all sense of right disappears as well. Precisely what difference is there between the concepts of Hitler and Stalin and those of Oliver Wendell Holmes? All three set so temporary an arrangement as the power of the government of the moment above all moral concepts—that is, against the entire experience of the human race.

And in this tone have many of our most important men been educated. The materialism of Karl Marx is not the only kind of materialism from which our generation suffers.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Maybe Senator Tobey, Republican, of New Hampshire, is right when he says he would like to see the senators ring down the curtain on their investigation of the MacArthur episode. It raises a lot of other conjectures, too.

Maybe all the future hearings will not bring out a bit more than past hearings. Maybe the record already shows that nobody really knows why President Truman fired General MacArthur and why his associates did their best to think up the reasons after the dismissal was ordered.

Maybe, since the record now shows that the President decided to resist aggression in the Far East last June without a formal estimate from the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council as to the risks involved, the Korean War—in view of the restrictions subsequently imposed—is a prize example of "the wrong war, at the wrong time and against the wrong enemy." For General Bradley has testified that the military mission no longer is to clear the enemy out of Korea. Maybe Americans should be prepared now for defeat on the military side and for a "negotiated peace."

Of Interest To Families

Maybe, as Senator Tobey says, it's true that the senators ought not to be posing military questions to the top military commanders, but maybe also the families of the 65,000 killed and wounded and of the 300,000 or more American boys who are fighting in Korea today can't think of any other way to get the answers except through their elected representatives.

Maybe it's right that the Senate committee should protect the constitutional rights of a witness who doesn't want to tell what was said in White House conferences, but maybe it is also right to ask why those same senators to this day have taken no action to question whether the whole Korean War is a constitutional operation. For the legislative branch, which alone under the Constitution can declare war, does have the right to assert its constitutional prerogatives, too.

Maybe the senators will some day find out how it happened that, after Secretary Acheson told Congress that American troops could never become involved in a United Nations war except by a specific agreement to be first approved by Congress, there are hundreds of thousands of American troops engaged in Korea, supposedly in a United Nations war.

Maybe, since both Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have now testified that there is no evidence of "insubordination" on the part of General MacArthur, it will be accepted that the violations of policy are pertinent to define. None has yet been given except in the vaguest terms. The President, for instance, has said that General MacArthur approached the Chinese commander with an ultimatum or surrender demand and didn't ask Washington, but the General says publicly that he did it twice before and never was sent any message of disapproval.

Maybe the message sent by General MacArthur to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in which he upheld the strategic importance of Formosa, was not American policy when he sent it last August but nobody has been willing lately to admit it wasn't. The net effect is to find General MacArthur, on the record, merely expressing official policy to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Had Subsequent Instructions

Maybe General MacArthur, after the December 6 instruction, issued some statements without clearing them with Washington, but so did General Ridgway. Likewise, General MacArthur was subsequently told he did not have to clear military statements. All the questions the press directed to him were military questions.

Maybe there isn't anyone in high office here who really knows the difference between a "military consideration" and a "foreign-policy objective." But certainly when there's a critical moment in a war and the problem of when and how you will relieve the military man in command of that war arises, it would appear to be a prime question of military importance and not a foreign-policy question. Yet General Bradley has just admitted on the witness stand that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were not consulted and were not asked for a recommendation and took no part in the all-important decision to remove summarily the man who was commander-in-chief of the Far Eastern Forces of the United States.

Maybe President Truman would concur in Senator Tobey's desire to call a halt. For it was the President who started all the furore — not General MacArthur or the senators who have ever since been trying to find out what it's all about. Maybe nobody will ever find out, anyway, what Mr. Truman meant by his statement that he had been considering dismissing General MacArthur ever since last August but kept on sending him private messages praising his accomplishments. Maybe there are lots of people outside Washington who do not understand official 'gobbledygook," but there are many here in Washington who don't understand it either.

Matter Of Fact

The Grim Choice

LONDON

As these words are written, the betting appears to be about even that the British will move troops to South Persia. At any rate, they are just about up against the grim choice between taking all the heavy risks of this step, or taking the consequence of outright expropriation of their Iranian oil resource.

Furthermore, the British cannot easily move troops without a minimum of American moral support—at least enough to see them through a charge of aggression before the United Nations. The future of the Western alliance, which America leads, also hangs upon the outcome in Persia. Hence this British choice is, at the same time, inescapably an American choice.

Until now, even the hardier spirits in the Foreign Office have only been talking about moving troops to "protect the lives of British nationals" in Persia. Now, however, the veils are dropping. It is almost certain that Sir Oliver Franks has already been instructed to talk with Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson about the more realistic problem of protecting the foundations of the British economy and the strategic balance in the Middle East.

Miracle Needed

Events over the weekend forced this facing of facts, from which London has hitherto shrunk away almost as nervously as Washington. On Saturday, the British Ambassador at Teheran, Sir Francis Shepherd, rather desperately suggested to the Shah that he might form a more rational government. But it was too late for this expedient. On Sunday while the Prime Minister, Dr. Mossadegh, crouched in his barricaded room, his representative, Hussein Makki, told the Persian Parliament that the existing government would never negotiate the oil dispute with the British.

A miracle may of course rescue the British and American policy makers from the dilemma on whose horns they have been wriggling like befuddled tadpoles. But since little short of a miracle can prevent the grim choice from being made this week, it is now wise to examine its real nature.

No one in his senses can find much that is attractive about the first alternative — a movement of British troops to south Persia. Britain does not really have enough airborne forces for the job. Even to secure control of the minimum territory, Abadan island with its vital refinery, will be a dirty business, probably involving heavy losses of life on both sides. Such a crass imperialistic act will make, to say the least, a bad impression elswhere in the Middle and Far East.

It may touch off a Russian invasion of North Persia. It will quite probably give the Communist Tudeh party the desired chance to seize power at Teheran. It will perhaps result in a far more disagreeable repetition of the Korean pattern on Persian soil. It may, just conceivably, lead to a world war. The list of objections is formidable indeed.

But as usual, the choice now is not between bad and good, but between evil and more evil. If American influence or indifference deters the British government from protecting their oil resource, are following consequences will be almost unavoidable.

Partnership May Dissolve

First, the British economy, which depends exclusively upon Middle Eastern oil, will receive a fatal blow. The huge American investment in maintaining the British as a great power ally will be transformed into money down the drain. What has previously been done for Britain will be forgotten because America has not stood by her ally in this hour of need; and the Anglo-American partnership, the core of Western strength, will dissolve in a tempest of mutual recrimination.

Second, the economies of Western Europe and India will also be disrupted. And a cessation of the oil flow from Abadan will make it fantastically costly, and in wartime almost prohibitively difficult, to supply the fleets in the Mediterranean and the vital strategic air-bases there.

Third Persian success in expropriating British oil will set an example that will quickly be imitated in Egypt, in Iraq, and in every other nation in a remotely similar situation. There will be no controlling the chain reaction. Furthermore, the strain imposed on these weak governments by biting off so much more than they can chew, will equally inevitably produce secondary political results of great violence. Dr. Mossadegh and his followers think they are keeping one jump ahead of the Tudeh party by their handling of the oil issue. But it is ever more likely that Tudeh will be the ultimate benficiary if Dr. Mossadegh now succeeds in his plans, than is he is frustrated by forcible measures.

The price of a policy of inaction, in short, is a gigantic change in the world balance of power, altering the whole Middle Eastern pattern, shaking the Western alliance to its foundation, and perhaps destroying it. This is no Mexican oil squabble. This is the terrible game of power politics, being played for the greatest stakes.

Conventions Big Business

Conventions—gatherings of hundreds or thousands of persons to transact specific business or engage in all-out hoopla, that is—have become big business. Each year 17,000 national, state and regional organizations meet, listen to speeches, and do whatever else seems appropriate in the United States. The money those who attend these gatherings spend runs into many billions.

Decision of the Republican National Committee to hold next year's national convention in Chicago has resulted in release of figures by the Windy City's Convention Bureau that if the Democratic fracas can be lassoed too for the shores of Lake Michigan, the two political free-for-alls will bring an estimated $10,000,000 to Chicago.

Housing the television announcers and equipment is the biggest problem to be solved by arrangement makers for the 1952 Republican convention. The corps of TV men will need an estimated 35,000 square feet of floor space.

Chicago, which had 1,014 conventions in 1950, is the nation's leading convention city. At least 1,000,000 persons attended conventions in Chicago last year, and spent an estimated $140 each during an average four and one-half day stay. Chicago's Convention Bureau kept a close tab on them, and found they spent 17 per cent of their money in retail stores, 12 per cent in night clubs or at race tracks and other entertainment devices, 12 per cent for food and 8 per cent for thirst quenchers. The biggest item was 36 per cent for hotel bills.

Largest spenders at conventions in recent years have been automobile dealers, Chicago's convention analysts find. The metropolis of the Midwest organized a citizens' committee to raise $500,000 to use as bait in signing up the Republican and Democratic conventions. It is obvious that this will be a good investment.

UMT The Stumbling Block

The Senate and the House conferees on the draft extension-military service bill will meet again this week. Last week they worked out a compromise on almost all the differences on the draft between the Senate and the House versions of the measure. They may have more trouble in agreeing on the chief remaining difference—universal military training.

Sentiment for UMT is unquestionably weaker in the House than in the Senate. That was why the Administration leaders in the House were willing to accept the almost meaningless UMT provision voted by the House. They were afraid that otherwise the bill wouldn't even go to conference.

Under both the Senate and the House versions, the President would appoint a commission to formulate a military training program whenever one of two situations should occur—(1) The international situation should improve sufficiently to warrant a shorter period of military service under the draft; or (2) a longer period of basic training was needed for draftees.

In the Senate version of the bill, the commission's military training program could then be put into effect at any time by the President. In the House version, he could put it into effect only when men under 19 were not needed for actual military service, and even then only after Congress had given its assent. In other words, the House voted to postpone the real decision on UMT to some time in the future.

In the Senate a motion on March 9 to eliminate UMT was lost by vote of 68 to 20. Thirteen of the votes for elimination came from the Middle West, six from Rocky Mountain states, only one from the East, none from New England, the South, or the Pacific Coast.

WACs In Army Hospitals

Convinced that peace is the time to determine how far women can safely be substituted for men in Army hospitals, Maj. Gen. Reymond W. Bliss, Surgeon General of the Army, instigated an experiment over an 11-month period, the results of which have just been disclosed.

It was found by tests conducted from June 1, 1949, to April 30, 1950, that 247 out of 301 types of hospital jobs can be performed equally well by women. The 54 types from which women were excluded called for physical strength, service in lonely locations, discipline and the care of certain types of male patients.

The experiment was made at the Army's Murphy General Hospital, Waltham, Mass., with 515 beds and a subhospital and out-patient department of 200 beds at Fort Devens, nearby. Though the Army was not employing women doctors at that time, only four medical and surgical posts were labeled "for men only." Furthermore, it was found that women were capable of assuming custodial duties, if need be, in positions now held by men under tenure.

What has evolved from these tests participated in by hundreds of Woman's Army Corps officers and WAC personnel, as well as by 100 civilians, is the competence of the "average" woman to serve efficiently under direction at noncombat Army bases in wartime. Of the women tested 84 per cent were found fit for staffing purposes and 92 per cent for hospital-type activities. The official conclusion is that such a hospital "can accomplish its mission with a staff predominately of women."

In an all-out war the use of women in Army hospitals could release thousands of men for other work. And the realization that there are only a few types of hospital work for which male physicians are essential could free many of them for service in the field. This knowledge is certainly an important element of preparedness.

Deadline For DP's

The Senate will shortly be asked to give displaced persons six months longer in which to be admitted to this country. The Senate Judiciary Committee has now before it a bill to that effect which the House passed by a vote of 312 to 63 on May 9.

Administrative difficulties caused by the McCarran Internal Security Act and diversion of shipping to the Korean War have forestalled the admission of many of the 341,000 DPs authorized to enter the country under existing legislation, at present due to expire on June 30. The pending bill pushes the deadline back to December 31.

The Displaced Persons Act of 1948 was liberalized by a bill signed by the President on June 16, 1950. This authorized the entry of 415,744 refugees over three years instead of 257,377 over two years. An amendment offered in the Senate by Judiciary Committee Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.), suspending admissions whenever U. S. unemployment reached certain levels, was twice defeated.

How To Keep Well

Uncovered Mental Cases

Some psychopathic men and women escape detection because their behavior for the most part is normal. Their social and personal incompetency is well concealed, yet behind the scenes these individuals are peculiar and maladjusted. They are potentially dangerous but seldom reach the sanitarium because the true nature of their condition is not discovered.

Dr. Hervey M. Cleckley of Georgia Medical college, cites an example of one such ambulatory schizophrenic. For two decades she had been listening attentively to a voice that came from her stomach. The psychiatrist found that "she follows its word faithfully. The advice is nearly always good. It is never irrational or particularly injudicious." During all these years she has supported herself, enjoyed the friendship of others, and lived as a good citizen in the community. She tells of her hallucinations only when examined medically and questioned specifically. Furthermore, she considers this inner voice a special blessing and intends to keep it discreetly to herself. In other words, her disturbance is mild and so well masked that even her best friends don't know. She has never been in a sanitarium although we might speculate as to what would happen should the voice go berserk and give her bad advice.

Many masked Schizophrenics have vague and minor physical discomforts but they do not have delusions and deny hearing voices. Their manner is neither abnormal nor bizarre. Suddenly something happens to make them irrational or perhaps a situation develops to which they react in a most unusual fashion when their lack of insight and mental derangement becomes obvious. Dr. Cleckley describes an intelligent young man who was regarded as spoiled and selfish. At times he was demanding and his arrogant behavior offended many of his acquaintances. Some of his classmates considered him pretty much of a screwball but he did well in his college work and his name appeared from time to time. On one occasion he withdrew from college because of a petty dissatisfaction. But he returned and was tolerated despite his egotistical, ill-tempered, and aloof manner.

The young man lived at home with his widowed mother and an aunt and uncle. His psychopathic nature came to light when a popular girl broke a date with him. He went home and demanded money from his mother to take a weekend trip to New Orleans. She refused because of her limited finincial resources. He became violent, "cuffed his mother up pretty thoroughly, and brandished a poker at his aunt." He retreated at the appearance of his uncle but obtained possession of the latter's loaded revolver and threatened to shoot any one who entered the room. After six hours his relatives gave up trying to reason with him and when the police came they seized the gun without a fuss.

This young man's behavior was entirely unorthodox. There were indications of real anxiety and despair behind his former aloofness. His eccentricity and unpredictable nature, a long history of tantrums, voluntary failures, and ingratitude suggest the psychopathic personality. He admitted finally that he frequently communicated with and controlled imaginary armies of small steel men located underground in the Alps and Rockies.

VAGUE TERM

G. Y. writes: My friend is always talking about his "left heart condition." What is meant by this expression?

REPLY

Your friend will need to be more specific, even for me. There are several abnormalities involving the left side of the heart. Why not ask him to elucidate?

SHAPE OF RINGWORM

F. T. writes: Is ringworm infection always ring shaped?

REPLY

Ringworm of the skin usually is ring shaped but the same cannot be said of related fungous infections of the toes, feet, nails, and hands.

INSIDE POCKETS

Mrs. E. writes: I was told after examination that I have pockets in my intestine. Is this serious?

REPLY

With today's living costs, no doubt these pockets are empty also. You undoubtedly refer to diverticula of the colon, a common condition after the age of 50. These pockets are not serious unless they become infected. When this occurs, a disorder comparable to appendicitis exists, except that a diverticulum is less likely than the appendix to rupture.

ABDOMINAL DISTENTION

G. T. writes: Since gaining five pounds I have an uncomfortable sensation in my abdomen. Could this added weight be responsible, even tho I am not overweight?

REPLY

No. The manifestation is probably coincidental and you should look for other causes.

Oil Lobby Wins First Round In Reversing Supreme Court On Tidelands Oil; Wallace's Garden Neglected; Unrest Grows In Communist China

WASHINGTON — One result of the MacArthur controversy is a field day for the lobbyists. With the country absorbed with the MacArthur dispute, the lobbyists are able to put across all sorts of fancy deals without the public realizing it. One of the latest is a move to reverse the Supreme Court in regard to tidelands oil.

In 1936, when President Roosevelt tried to reverse the Supreme Court by an act of Congress, it made headlines for weeks. But without benefit of headlines, the big oil lobbyists are now trying to reverse the Supreme Court ruling that the submerged oil lands off the coast of the United States belong to all the 48 states, not merely to California, Texas and Louisiana.

Last week the lobbyists quietly won out in their initial move. They finagled the Senate Interior Committee into voting—7 to 4—to return tidelands oil to these three states.

The vote was over the objection of Chairman Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who tried to block the oil lobby with a compromise bill, and who spent two hours privately trying to persuade Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, spokesman for the lobby, to compromise. But Long wouldn't budge.

Closed-Door Vote

In the showdown voting behind closed doors, GOP Senator Hugh Butler from the inland state of Nebraska, with no water boundary other than the Missouri River, showed up with the proxies of two other GOP senators—Ecton from the landlocked state of Montana, and Watkins from the desert state of Utah.

Joined by Senator Cordon of Oregon, this made four Republican votes for the oil companies.

Chairman O'Mahoney had counted on the vote of the Senate Majority Leader, McFarland of Arizona, since the majority leader is supposed to vote with the Administration on all major policies. However, McFarland owes a debt to persuasive, potent Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, the man who really made him majority leader, and McFarland joined two other Democrats — Long of Louisiana and Smathers of Florida —in overruling the Supreme Court. O'Mahoney was able to muster only three votes besides his own—Anderson of New Mexico, Murray of Montana and Lehman of New York, all Democrats.

After the tidelands vote, McFarland rose to leave, sheepishly offered his proxy to O'Mahoney on some minor votes.

"It's too late now," snorted O'Mahoney. "I could have used it a while ago."

Wetback Wallace

For many years the Minister of Switzerland, popular Charles Bruggmann, had the benefit of a vegetable garden cultivated by one of the capital's most famous gardeners—a vice president of the United States.

Bruggmann's brother-in-law happens to be Heury Wallace; and while Wallace was vice president he couldn't resist the urge to get his hands into the soil. So every spring he was a regular 5:30 a.m. visitor at the Swiss Legation grounds.

The other day the Swiss Minister met an old friend at the State Department who asked about the vegetable garden.

"Ah," replied the Minister with a twinkle, "we don't enjoy any of that cheap labor any more."

Chinese Unrest

It's always difficult to know exactly what is happening in such a vast country as China, but intelligence reports, plus news from missionaries, all indicate growing dissatisfaction with the Communist regime. Though General MacArthur testified that the Chinese Reds were consolidating their hold on China, Allied intelligence is pretty much the opposite.

4. Chinese armies long have been considered the personal property of their commanders, and these commanders don't like to see their troops decimated by casualties.

When this writer was in China some years ago, there was no central government, but regional rule by the commanders of certain armies. That is why the heavy casualties in Korea are likely to hurt. The Chinese are accustomed to seeing death all around them. But a military commander is jealous of his power and doesn't like to see his personal army dwindle.

The Wrong Road

Often we wonder how we got that way. For over 30 years, Americans moved in one general direction and then they lost their way and now we are wondering what happened to us. We read the shameful Kefauver and Fulbright reports; we watch the unbelievable MacArthur investigation; we shudder at the kind of vulgar men who govern us—and we wonder at what turning we went wrong.

I have been re-reading an article by Father John C. Ford on "The Fundamentals of Holmes' Juristic Philosophy."

No man exercised a greater influence on the political thinking of the United States since John Marshall. Most of the young men whom we identify as the disciples of Justice Felix Frankfurter were really pupils of Oliver Wendell Holmes, whose intellectual capacity was not only tremendous but attractive.

Yet, Oliver Wendell Holmes viewed the law more in the German rather than the Anglo-Saxon manner. He believed not in the sovereignty of the individual— who possesses inalienable rights—but rather that sovereignty, vested in the state, gives to the state well-nigh unlimited powers over the individual. If the state can do anything, it can, from a practical standpoint, do no wrong. This is what Holmes said on this point:

"Sovereignty is a form of power, and the will of the sovereign is law because he has power to compel obedience or punish disobedience and for no other reason. The limits within which his will is law then, are those within which he has, or is believed to have power to compel or punish."

As Father Ford says:

"It is clear that in a system in which law and rights are based essentially on physical power the divorce between the legal order and the ethical or moral order is complete. . . ."

And therein lie most of our troubles today, although we have a tendency to seek some tangible reason, such as that Dean Acheson is incompetent or Alger Hiss was a Russian agent. While such explanations may apply to these two men, they do not give us the clue to the general debacle in manners and morals. They do not explain the apathy of the people in the face of outrageous corruption.

We need to probe the problem more deeply and it must be in the realm of ideas, for a people are what they believe and they act as their assumptions permit them to. A people who believe in a moral system based upon natural law—that is, the revealed law of God—will act very differently from a people who believe this statement of Holmes:

". . . The law is full of phraseology drawn from morals, and by the mere force of language continually invites us to pass from one domain to the other without perceiving it, as we are sure to do unless we have the boundary constantly before our minds. The law talks about right, and duties, and malice, and intent, and negligence, and so forth, and nothing is easier, or, I may say, more common in legal reasoning, than to take these words in their moral sense, at some stage of the argument, and so to drop into fallacy. For instance, when we speak of the rights of man in a moral sense, we mean to mark the limits of interference with individual freedom which we think are prescribed by conscience, or by our ideal, however reached . . . Manifestly, therefore, nothing but confusion of thought can result from assuming that the rights of man in a moral sense are equally rights in the sense of the constitution and the law. . . ."

And further he says:

". . . For my own part, I often doubt whether it would not be a gain if every word of moral significance could be banished from the law altogether, and other words adopted which should convey legal ideas uncolored by anything outside the law. . ."

When morality is banished from the law, all sense of right disappears as well. Precisely what difference is there between the concepts of Hitler and Stalin and those of Oliver Wendell Holmes? All three set so temporary an arrangement as the power of the government of the moment above all moral concepts—that is, against the entire experience of the human race.

And in this tone have many of our most important men been educated. The materialism of Karl Marx is not the only kind of materialism from which our generation suffers.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Maybe Senator Tobey, Republican, of New Hampshire, is right when he says he would like to see the senators ring down the curtain on their investigation of the MacArthur episode. It raises a lot of other conjectures, too.

Maybe all the future hearings will not bring out a bit more than past hearings. Maybe the record already shows that nobody really knows why President Truman fired General MacArthur and why his associates did their best to think up the reasons after the dismissal was ordered.

Maybe, since the record now shows that the President decided to resist aggression in the Far East last June without a formal estimate from the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council as to the risks involved, the Korean War —in view of the restrictions subsequently imposed—is a prize example of "the wrong war, at the wrong time and against the wrong enemy." For General Bradley has testified that the military mission no longer is to clear the enemy out of Korea. Maybe Americans should be prepared now for defeat on the military side and for a "negotiated peace."

Of Interest To Families

Maybe, as Senator Tobey says, it's true that the senators ought not to be posing military questions to the top military commanders, but maybe also the families of the 65,000 killed and wounded and of the 300,000 or more American boys who are fighting in Korea today can't think of any other way to get the answers except through their elected representatives.

Maybe it's right that the Senate committee should protect the constitutional rights of a witness who doesn't want to tell what was said in White House conferences, but maybe it is also right to ask why those same senators to this day have taken no action to question whether the whole Korean War is a constitutional operation. For the legislative branch, which alone under the Constitution can declare war, does have the right to assert its constitutional prerogatives, too.

Maybe the senators will some day find out how it happened that, after Secretary Acheson told Congress that American troops could never become involved in a United Nations war except by a special agreement to be first approved by Congress, there are hundreds of thousands of American troops engaged in Korea, supposedly in a United Nations war.

Maybe, since both Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have now testified that there is no evidence of "insubordination" on the part of General MacArthur, it will be accepted that the violations of policy are pertinent to define. None has yet been given except in the vaguest terms. The President, for instance, has said that General MacArthur approached the Chinese commander with an ultimatum or surrender demand and didn't ask Washington, but the General says publicly that he did it twice before and never was sent any message of disapproval.

Maybe the message sent by General MacArthur to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in which he upheld the strategic importance of Formosa, was not American policy when he sent it last August but nobody has ben willing lately to admit it wasn't. The net effect is to find General MacArthur, on the record, merely expressing official policy to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Had Subsequent Instructions

Maybe General MacArthur, after the December 6 instruction, issued some statements without clearing them with Washington, but so did General Ridgway. Likewise, General MacArthur was subsequently told he did not have to clear military statements. All the questions the press directed to him were military questions.

Maybe there isn't anyone in high office here who really knows the difference between a "military consideration" and a "foreign-policy objective." But certainly when there's a critical moment in a war and the problem of when and how you will relieve the military man in command of that war arises, it would appear to be a prime question of military importance and not a foreign-policy question. Yet General Bradley has just admitted on the witness stand that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were not consulted and were not asked for a recommendation and took no part in the all-important decision to remove summarily the man who was commander - in - chief of the Far Eastern Forces of the United States.

Maybe President Truman would concur in Senator Tobey's desire to call a halt. For it was the President who started all the furore — not General MacArthur or the senators who have ever since been trying to find out what it's all about. Maybe nobody will ever find out, anyway, what Mr. Truman meant by his statement that he had been considering dismissing General MacArthur ever since last August but kept on sending him private messages praising his accomplishments. Maybe there are lots of people outside Washington who do not understand official 'gobbledygook," but there are many here in Washington who don't understand it either.

Matter Of Fact

The Grim Choice

LONDON

As these words are written, the betting appears to be about even that the British will move troops to South Persia. At any rate, they are just about up against the grim choice between taking all the heavy risks of this step, or taking the consequence of outright expropriation of their Iranian oil resource.

Furthermore, the British cannot easily move troops without a minimum of American moral support—at least enough to see them through a charge of aggression before the United Nations. The future of the Western alliance, which America leads, also hangs upon the outcome in Persia. Hence this British choice is, at the same time, inescapably an American choice.

Until now, even the hardier spirits in the Foreign Office have only been talking about moving troops to "protect the lives of British nationals" in Persia. Now, however, the veils are dropping. It is almost certain that Sir Oliver Franks has already been instructed to talk with Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson about the more realistic problem of protecting the foundations of the British economy and the strategic balance in the Middle East.

Miracle Needed

Events over the weekend forced this facing of facts, from which London has hitherto shrunk away almost as nervously as Washington. On Saturday, the British Ambassador at Teheran, Sir Francis Shepherd, rather desperately suggested to the Shah that he might form a more rational government. But it was too late for this expedient. On Sunday while the Prime Minister, Dr. Mossadegh, crouched in his barricaded room, his representative, Hussein Makki, told the Persian Parliament that the existing government would never negotiate the oil dispute with the British.

A miracle may of course rescue the British and American policy makers from the dilemma on whose horns they have been wriggling like befuddled tadpoles. But since little short of a miracle can prevent the grim choice from being made this week, it is now wise to examine its real nature.

No one in his senses can find much that is attractive about the first alternative — a movement of British troops to south Persia. Britain does not really have enough airborne forces for the job. Even to secure control of the minimum territory, Abadan island with its vital refinery, will be a dirty business, probably involving heavy losses of life on both sides. Such a crass imperialist gesture will, to say the least, a bad impression elswhere in the Middle and Far East.

It may touch off a Russian invasion of North Persia. It will quite probably give the Communist Tudeh party the desired chance to seize power at Teheran. It will perhaps result in a far more disagreeable repetition of the Korean pattern on Persian soil. It may, just conceivably, lead to a world war. The list of objections is formidable indeed.

But as usual, the choice now is not between good and bad, but between evil and more evil. If American influence or indifference deters the British government from protecting the British oil resource, are following consequences will be almost unavoidable.

Partnership May Dissolve

First, the British economy, which depends exclusively upon Middle Eastern oil, will receive a fatal blow. The huge American investment in maintaining the British as a great power ally will be transformed into money down the drain. What has previously been done for Britain will be forgotten because America has not stood by her ally in this hour of need; and the Anglo-American partnership, the core of Western strength, will dissolve in a tempest of mutual recrimination.

Second, the economies of Western Europe and India will also be disrupted. And a cessation of the oil flow from Abadan will make it fantastically costly, and in wartime almost prohibitively difficult, to supply the fleets in the Mediterranean and the vital strategic airbases there.

Third Persian success in expropriating British oil will set an example that will quickly be imitated in Egypt, in Iraq, and in every other nation in a remotely similar situation. There will be no controlling the chain reaction. Furthermore, the strain imposed on these weak governments by biting off so much more than they can chew, will equally inevitably produce secondary political crises of great violence. Dr. Mossadegh and his followers think they are keeping one jump ahead of the Tudeh party by their handling of the oil issue. But it is ever more likely that Tudeh will be the ultimate benficiary if Dr. Mossadegh now succeeds in his plans, than if he is frustrated by forcible measures.

The price of a policy of inaction, in short, is a gigantic change in the whole balance of power, altering the whole Middle Eastern pattern, shaking the Western alliance to its foundation, and perhaps destroying it. This is no Mexican oil squabble. This is the terrible game of power politics, being played for the greatest stakes.

Conventions Big Business

Conventions—gatherings of hundreds or thousands of persons to transact specific business or engage in all-out hoopla, that is—have become big business. Each year 17,000 national, state and regional organizations meet, listen to speeches, and do whatever else seems appropriate in the United States. The money those who attend these gatherings spend runs into many billions.

Decision of the Republican National Committee to hold next year's national convention in Chicago has resulted in release of figures by the Windy City's Convention Bureau that if the Democratic fracas can be lassoed too for the shores of Lake Michigan, the two political free-for-alls will bring an estimated $10,000,000 to Chicago.

Housing the television announcers and equipment is the biggest problem to be solved by arrangement makers for the 1952 Republican convention. The corps of TV men will need an estimated 35,000 square feet of floor space.

Chicago, which had 1,014 conventions in 1950, is the nation's leading convention city. At least 1,000,000 persons attended conventions in Chicago last year, and spent an estimated $140 each during an average four and one-half day stay. Chicago's Convention Bureau kept a close tab on them, and found they spent 17 per cent of their money in retail stores, 12 per cent in night clubs or at race tracks and other entertainment devices, 12 per cent for food and 8 per cent for thirst quenchers. The biggest item was 36 per cent for hotel bills.

Largest spenders at conventions in recent years have been automobile dealers, Chicago's convention analysts find. The metropolis of the Midwest organized a citizens' committee to raise $500,000 to use as bait in signing up the Republican and Democratic conventions. It is obvious that this will be a good investment.

UMT The Stumbling Block

The Senate and the House conferees on the draft extension-military service bill will meet again this week. Last week they worked out a compromise on almost all the differences on the draft between the Senate and the House versions of the measure. They may have more trouble in agreeing on the chief remaining difference—universal military training.

Sentiment for UMT is unquestionably weaker in the House than in the Senate. That was why the Administration leaders in the House were willing to accept the almost meaningless UMT provision voted by the House. They were afraid that otherwise the bill wouldn't even go to conference.

Under both the Senate and the House versions, the President would appoint a commission to formulate a military training program whenever one of two situations should occur—(1) The international situation should improve sufficiently to warrant a shorter period of military service under the draft; or (2) a longer period of basic training was needed for draftees.

In the Senate version of the bill, the commission's military training program could then be put into effect at any time by the President. In the House version, he could put it into effect only when men under 19 were not needed for actual military service, and even then only after Congress had given its assent. In other words, the House voted to postpone the real decision on UMT to some time in the future.

In the Senate a motion on March 9 to eliminate UMT was lost by vote of 68 to 20. Thirteen of the votes for elimination came from the Middle West, six from Rocky Mountain states, only one from the East, none from New England, the South, or the Pacific Coast.

WACs In Army Hospitals

Convinced that peace is the time to determine how far women can safely be substituted for men in Army hospitals, Maj. Gen. Reymond W. Bliss, Surgeon General of the Army, instigated an experiment over an 11-month period, the results of which have just been disclosed.

It was found by tests conducted from June 1, 1949, to April 30, 1950, that 247 out of 301 types of hospital jobs can be performed equally well by women. The 54 types from which women were excluded called for physical strength, service in lonely locations, discipline and the care of certain types of male patients.

The experiment was made at the Army's Murphy General Hospital, Waltham, Mass., with 515 beds and a subhospital and out-patient department of 200 beds at Fort Devens, nearby. Though the Army was not employing women doctors at that time, only four medical and surgical posts were labeled "for men only." Furthermore, it was found that women were capable of assuming custodial duties, if need be, in positions now held by men under tenure.

What has evolved from these tests participated in by hundreds of Woman's Army Corps officers and WAC personnel, as well as by 100 civilians, is the competence of the "average" woman to serve efficiently under direction at noncombat Army bases in wartime. Of the women tested 84 per cent were found fit for staffing purposes and 92 per cent for hospital-type activities. The official conclusion is that such a hospital "can accomplish its mission with a staff predominately of women."

In an all-out war the use of women in Army hospitals could release thousands of men for other work. And the realization that there are only a few types of hospital work for which male physicians are essential could free many of them for service in the field. This knowledge is certainly an important element of preparedness.

Deadline For DP's

The Senate will shortly be asked to give displaced persons six months longer in which to be admitted to this country. The Senate Judiciary Committee has now before it a bill to that effect which the House passed by a vote of 312 to 63 on May 9.

Administrative difficulties caused by the McCarran Internal Security Act and diversion of shipping to the Korean War have forestalled the admission of many of the 341,000 DPs authorized to enter the country under existing legislation, at present due to expire on June 30. The pending bill pushes the deadline back to December 31.

The Displaced Persons Act of 1948 was liberalized by a bill signed by the President on June 16, 1950. This authorized the entry of 415,744 refugees over three years instead of 257,377 over two years. An amendment offered in the Senate by Judiciary Committee Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.), suspending admissions whenever U. S. unemployment reached certain levels, was twice defeated.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Uncovered Mental Cases

Some psychopathic men and women escape detection because their behavior for the most part is normal. Their social and personal incompetency is well concealed, yet behind the scenes these individuals are peculiar and maladjusted. They are potentially dangerous but seldom reach the sanitarium because the true nature of their condition is not discovered.

Dr. Hervey M. Cleckley of Georgia Medical college, cites an example of one such ambulatory schizophrenic. For two decades she had been listening attentively to a voice that came from her stomach. The psychiatrist found that "she follows its word faithfully. The advice is nearly always good. It is never irrational or particularly injudicious." During all these years she has supported herself, enjoyed the friendship of others, and lived as a good citizen in the community. She tells of her hallucinations only when examined medically and questioned specifically. Furthermore, she considers this inner voice a special blessing and intends to keep it discreetly to herself. In other words, her disturbance is mild and so well masked that even her best friends don't know. She has never been in a sanitarium although we might speculate as to what would happen should the voice go berserk and give her bad advice.

Many masked Schizophrenics have vague and minor physical discomforts but they do not have delusions and deny hearing voices. Their manner is neither abnormal nor bizarre. Suddenly something happens to make them irrational or perhaps a situation develops to which they react in a most unusual fashion when their lack of insight and mental derangement becomes obvious. Dr. Cleckley describes an intelligent young man who was regarded as spoiled and selfish. At times he was demanding and his arrogant behavior offended many of his acquaintances. Some of his classmates considered him pretty much of a screwball but he did well in his college work and his name appeared from time to time. On one occasion he withdrew from college because of a petty dissatisfaction. But he returned and was tolerated despite his egotistical, ill-tempered, and aloof manner.

The young man lived at home with his widowed mother and an aunt and uncle. His psychopathic nature came to light when a popular girl broke a date with him. He went home and demanded money from his mother to take a weekend trip to New Orleans. She refused because of her limited finincial resources. He became violent, "cuffed his mother up pretty thoroughly, and brandished a poker at his aunt." He retreated at the appearance of his uncle but obtained possession of the latter's loaded revolver and threatened to shoot any one who entered the room. After six hours his relatives gave up trying to reason with him and when the police came they seized the gun without a fuss.

This young man's behavior was entirely unorthodox. There were indications of real anxiety and despair behind his former aloofness. His eccentricity and unpredictable nature, a long history of tantrums, voluntary failures, and ingratitude suggest the psychopathic personality. He admitted finally that he frequently communicated with and controlled imaginary armies of small steel men located underground in the Alps and Rockies.

VAGUE TERM

G. Y. writes: My friend is always talking about his "left heart condition." What is meant by this expression?

REPLY

Your friend will need to be more specific, even for me. There are several abnormalities involving the left side of the heart. Why not ask him to elucidate?

SHAPE OF RINGWORM

F. T. writes: Is ringworm infection always ring shaped?

REPLY

Ringworm of the skin usually is ring shaped but the same cannot be said of related fungous infections of the toes, feet, nails, and hands.

INSIDE POCKETS

Mrs. E. writes: I was told after examination that I have pockets in my intestine. Is this serious?

REPLY

With today's living costs, no doubt these pockets are empty also. You undoubtedly refer to diverticula of the colon, a common condition after the age of 50. These pockets are not serious unless they become infected. When this occurs, a disorder comparable to appendicitis exists, except that a diverticulum is less likely than the appendix to rupture.

ABDOMINAL DISTENTION

G. T. writes: Since gaining five pounds I have an uncomfortable sensation in my abdomen. Could this added weight be responsible, even tho I am not overweight?

REPLY

No. The manifestation is probably coincidental and you should look for other causes.

Oil Lobby Wins First Round In Reversing Supreme Court On Tidelands Oil; Wallace's Garden Neglected; Unrest Grows In Communist China

WASHINGTON — One result of the MacArthur controversy is a field day for the lobbyists. With the country absorbed with the MacArthur dispute, the lobbyists are able to put across all sorts of fancy deals without the public realizing it. One of the latest is a move to reverse the Supreme Court in regard to tidelands oil.

In 1936, when President Roosevelt tried to reverse the Supreme Court by an act of Congress, it made headlines for weeks. But without benefit of headlines, the big oil lobbyists are now trying to reverse the Supreme Court ruling that the submerged oil lands off the coast of the United States belong to all the 48 states, not merely to California, Texas and Louisiana.

Last week the lobbyists quietly won out in their initial move. They finagled the Senate Interior Committee into voting—7 to 4—to return tidelands oil to these three states.

The vote was over the objection of Chairman Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who tried to block the oil lobby with a compromise bill, and who spent two hours privately trying to persuade Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, spokesman for the lobby, to compromise. But Long wouldn't budge.

Closed-Door Vote

In the showdown voting behind closed doors, GOP Senator Hugh Butler from the inland state of Nebraska, with no water boundary other than the Missouri River, showed up with the proxies of two other GOP senators—Ecton from the landlocked state of Montana, and Watkins from the desert state of Utah.

Joined by Senator Cordon of Oregon, this made four Republican votes for the oil companies.

Chairman O'Mahoney had counted on the vote of the Senate Majority Leader, McFarland of Arizona, since the majority leader is supposed to vote with the Administration on all major policies. However, McFarland owes a debt to persuasive, potent Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, the man who really made him majority leader, and McFarland joined two other Democrats — Long of Louisiana and Smathers of Florida —in overruling the Supreme Court. O'Mahoney was able to muster only three votes besides his own—Anderson of New Mexico, Murray of Montana and Lehman of New York, all Democrats.

After the tidelands vote, McFarland rose to leave, sheepishly offered his proxy to O'Mahoney on some minor votes.

"It's too late now," snorted O'Mahoney. "I could have used it a while ago."

Wetback Wallace

For many years the Minister of Switzerland, popular Charles Bruggmann, had the benefit of a vegetable garden cultivated by one of the capital's most famous gardeners—a vice president of the United States.

Bruggmann's brother-in-law happens to be Heury Wallace; and while Wallace was vice president he couldn't resist the urge to get his hands into the soil. So every spring he was a regular 5:30 a.m. visitor at the Swiss Legation grounds.

The other day the Swiss Minister met an old friend at the State Department who asked about the vegetable garden.

"Ah," replied the Minister with a twinkle, "we don't enjoy any of that cheap labor any more."

Chinese Unrest

It's always difficult to know exactly what is happening in such a vast country as China, but intelligence reports, plus news from missionaries, all indicate growing dissatisfaction with the Communist regime. Though General MacArthur testified that the Chinese Reds were consolidating their hold on China, Allied intelligence is pretty much the opposite.

Here are some straws in the Chinese wind:

1. Anti - Communist guerrilla bands are operating in South China. In many sections, the Communists control only the cities, ports and rail centers.

2. The famine this year has been worse than usual. Several million have died, and the Communists get the blame.

3. Mao is torn between his rival, Li Li-san, who is virtually Russian regent of Manchuria, and Chinese moderates on the other hand who claim Mao takes too many orders from Moscow.

4. Chinese armies long have been considered the personal property of their commanders, and these commanders don't like to see their troops decimated by casualties.

When this writer was in China some years ago, there was no central government, but regional rule by the commanders of certain armies. That is why the heavy casualties in Korea are likely to hurt. The Chinese are accustomed to seeing death all around them. But a military commander is jealous of his power and doesn't like to see his personal army dwindle.

Behind the Iron Curtain

Red Army — Russia has nearly completed modernizing its armed forces in East Germany. Nearly all propellor-driven fighters have been replaced by jets, and modern anti-aircraft guns have been rushed into Germany, replacing outmoded guns. Meanwhile, Russia has also expanded its total ground strength from 175 to 225 divisions. Eisenhower doesn't have 17 divisions to defend Western Europe yet.)

Stettin, East Germany [illegible] most serious anti-Russian demonstrations since the war have broken out in East Poland. Angry Poles stoned, beat and manhandled Russian troops, after a Russian major shot and killed six Poles in the center of Stettin for refusing to step aside while he walked by.

Farm Collectivization—Anna Pauker, head of the cominform, has notified Russian satellites to slow down on collectivizing farms. The peasants are getting very anti-Soviet—even in Russia.

Albanian Communism—The Russians have now rushed more than 100 fighter planes to Albania to help Premier Hoxa's government in battling anti-Communist partisans. Pitched battles involving units of several hundred men have broken out in the last three weeks. It looks as if Albanian communism is on the way out.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Wrong Road

Often we wonder how we got that way. For over 30 years, Americans moved in one general direction and then they lost their way and now we are wondering what happened to us. We read the shameful Kefauver and Fulbright reports; we watch the unbelievable MacArthur investigation; we shudder at the kind of vulgar men who govern us—and we wonder at what turning we went wrong.

I have been re-reading an article by Father John C. Ford on "The Fundamentals of Holmes' Juristic Philosophy."

No man exercised a greater influence on the political thinking of the United States since John Marshall. Most of the young men whom we identify as the disciples of Justice Felix Frankfurter were really pupils of Oliver Wendell Holmes, whose intellectual capacity was not only tremendous but attractive.

Yet, Oliver Wendell Holmes viewed the law more in the German rather than the Anglo-Saxon manner. He believed not in the sovereignty of the individual— who possesses inalienable rights—but rather that sovereignty, vested in the state, gives to the state well-nigh unlimited powers over the individual. If the state can do anything, it can, from a practical standpoint, do no wrong. This is what Holmes said on this point:

"Sovereignty is a form of power, and the will of the sovereign is law because he has power to compel obedience or punish disobedience and for no other reason. The limits within which his will is law then, are those within which he has, or is believed to have power to compel or punish."

As Father Ford says:

"It is clear that in a system in which law and rights are based essentially on physical power the divorce between the legal order and the ethical or moral order is complete. . . ."

And therein lie most of our troubles today, although we have a tendency to seek some tangible reason, such as that Dean Acheson is incompetent or Alger Hiss was a Russian agent. While such explanations may apply to these two men, they do not give us the clue to the general debacle in manners and morals. They do not explain the apathy of the people in the face of outrageous corruption.

We need to probe the problem more deeply and it must be in the realm of ideas, for a people are what they believe and they act as their assumptions permit them to. A people who believe in a moral system based upon natural law—that is, the revealed law of God—will act very differently from a people who believe this statement of Holmes:

". . . The law is full of phraseology drawn from morals, and by the mere force of language continually invites us to pass from one domain to the other without perceiving it, as we are sure to do unless we have the boundary constantly before our minds. The law talks about right, and duties, and malice, and intent, and negligence, and so forth, and nothing is easier, or, I may say, more common in legal reasoning, than to take these words in their moral sense, at some stage of the argument, and so to drop into fallacy. For instance, when we speak of the rights of man in a moral sense, we mean to mark the limits of interference with individual freedom which we think are prescribed by conscience, or by our ideal, however reached . . . Manifestly, therefore, nothing but confusion of thought can result from assuming that the rights of man in a moral sense are equally rights in the sense of the constitution and the law. . . ."

And further he says:

". . . For my own part, I often doubt whether it would not be a gain if every word of moral significance could be banished from the law altogether, and other words adopted which should convey legal ideas uncolored by anything outside the law. . ."

When morality is banished from the law, all sense of right disappears as well. Precisely what difference is there between the concepts of Hitler and Stalin and those of Oliver Wendell Holmes? All three set so temporary an arrangement as the power of the government of the moment above all moral concepts—that is, against the entire experience of the human race.

And in this tone have many of our most important men been educated. The materialism of Karl Marx is not the only kind of materialism from which our generation suffers.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Maybe Senator Tobey, Republican, of New Hampshire, is right when he says he would like to see the senators ring down the curtain on their investigation of the MacArthur episode. It raises a lot of other conjectures, too.

Maybe all the future hearings will not bring out a bit more than past hearings. Maybe the record already shows that nobody really knows why President Truman fired General MacArthur and why his associates did their best to think up the reasons after the dismissal was ordered.

Maybe, since the record now shows that the President decided to resist aggression in the Far East last June without a formal estimate from the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council as to the risks involved, the Korean War —in view of the restrictions subsequently imposed—is a prize example of "the wrong war, at the wrong time and against the wrong enemy." For General Bradley has testified that the military mission no longer is to clear the enemy out of Korea. Maybe Americans should be prepared now for defeat on the military side and for a "negotiated peace."

Of Interest To Families

Maybe, as Senator Tobey says, it's true that the senators ought not to be posing military questions to the top military commanders, but maybe also the families of the 65,000 killed and wounded and of the 300,000 or more American boys who are fighting in Korea today can't think of any other way to get the answers except through their elected representatives.

Maybe it's right that the Senate committee should protect the constitutional rights of a witness who doesn't want to tell what was said in White House conferences, but maybe it is also right to ask why those same senators to this day have taken no action to question whether the whole Korean War is a constitutional operation. For the legislative branch, which alone under the Constitution can declare war, does have the right to assert its constitutional prerogatives, too.

Maybe the senators will some day find out how it happened that, after Secretary Acheson told Congress that American troops could never become involved in a United Nations war except by a special agreement to be first approved by Congress, there are hundreds of thousands of American troops engaged in Korea, supposedly in a United Nations war.

Maybe, since both Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have now testified that there is no evidence of "insubordination" on the part of General MacArthur, it will be accepted that the violations of policy are pertinent to define. None has yet been given except in the vaguest terms. The President, for instance, has said that General MacArthur approached the Chinese commander with an ultimatum or surrender demand and didn't ask Washington, but the General says publicly that he did it twice before and never was sent any message of disapproval.

Maybe the message sent by General MacArthur to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in which he upheld the strategic importance of Formosa, was not American policy when he sent it last August but nobody has ben willing lately to admit it wasn't. The net effect is to find General MacArthur, on the record, merely expressing official policy to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Had Subsequent Instructions

Maybe General MacArthur, after the December 6 instruction, issued some statements without clearing them with Washington, but so did General Ridgway. Likewise, General MacArthur was subsequently told he did not have to clear military statements. All the questions the press directed to him were military questions.

Maybe there isn't anyone in high office here who really knows the difference between a "military consideration" and a "foreign-policy objective." But certainly when there's a critical moment in a war and the problem of when and how you will relieve the military man in command of that war arises, it would appear to be a prime question of military importance and not a foreign-policy question. Yet General Bradley has just admitted on the witness stand that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were not consulted and were not asked for a recommendation and took no part in the all-important decision to remove summarily the man who was commander - in - chief of the Far Eastern Forces of the United States.

Maybe President Truman would concur in Senator Tobey's desire to call a halt. For it was the President who started all the furore — not General MacArthur or the senators who have ever since been trying to find out what it's all about. Maybe nobody will ever find out, anyway, what Mr. Truman meant by his statement that he had been considering dismissing General MacArthur ever since last August but kept on sending him private messages praising his accomplishments. Maybe there are lots of people outside Washington who do not understand official 'gobbledygook," but there are many here in Washington who don't understand it either.

Matter Of Fact

The Grim Choice

LONDON

As these words are written, the betting appears to be about even that the British will move troops to South Persia. At any rate, they are just about up against the grim choice between taking all the heavy risks of this step, or taking the consequence of outright expropriation of their Iranian oil resource.

Furthermore, the British cannot easily move troops without a minimum of American moral support—at least enough to see them through a charge of aggression before the United Nations. The future of the Western alliance, which America leads, also hangs upon the outcome in Persia. Hence this British choice is, at the same time, inescapably an American choice.

Until now, even the hardier spirits in the Foreign Office have only been talking about moving troops to "protect the lives of British nationals" in Fersia. Now, however, the veils are dropping. It is almost certain that Sir Oliver Franks has already been instructed to talk with Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson about the more realistic problem of protecting the foundations of the British economy and the strategic balance in the Middle East.

Miracle Needed

Events over the weekend forced this facing of facts, from which London has hitherto shrunk away almost as nervously as Washington. On Saturday, the British Ambassador at Teheran, Sir Francis Shepherd, rather desperately suggested to the Shah that he might form a more rational government. But it was too late for this expedient. On Sunday while the Prime Minister, Dr. Mossadegh, crouched in his barricaded room, his representative, Hussein Makki, told the Persian Parliament that the existing government would never negotiate the oil dispute with the British.

A miracle may of course rescue the British and American policy makers from the dilemma on whose horns they have been wriggling like befuddled tadpoles. But since little short of a miracle can prevent the grim choice from being made this week, it is now wise to examine its real nature.

No one in his senses can find much that is attractive about the first alternative — a movement of British troops to south Persia. Britain does not really have enough airborne forces for the job. Even to secure control of the minimum territory, Abadan island with its vital refinery, will be a dirty business, probably involving heavy losses of life on both sides. Such a crass imperialistic act will make, to say the least, a bad impression elswhere in the Middle and Far East.

It may touch off a Russian invasion of North Persia. It will quite probably give the Communist Tudeh party the desired chance to seize power at Teheran. It will perhaps result in a far more disagreeable repetition of the Korean pattern on Persian soil. It may, just conceivably, lead to a world war. The list of objections is formidable indeed.

But as usual, the choice now is not between bad and good, but between evil and more evil. If American influence or indifference deters the British government from protecting their oil resource, are following consequences will be almost unavoidable.

Partnership May Dissolve

First, the British economy, which depends exclusively upon Middle Eastern oil, will receive a fatal blow. The huge American investment in maintaining the British as a great power ally will be transformed into money down the drain. What has previously been done for Britain will be forgotten because America has not stood by her ally in this hour of need; and the Anglo-American partnership, the core of Western strength, will dissolve in a tempest of mutual recrimination.

Second, the economies of Western Europe and India will also be disrupted. And a cessation of the oil flow from Abadan will make it fantastically costly, and in wartime almost prohibitively difficult, to supply the fleets in the Mediterranean and the vital strategic airbases there.

Third Persian success in expropriating British oil will set an example that will quickly be imitated in Egypt, in Iraq, and in every other nation in a remotely similar situation. There will be no controlling the chain reaction. Furthermore, the strain imposed on these weak governments by biting off so much more than they can chew, will equally inevitably produce secondary political results of great violence. Dr. Mossadegh and his followers think they are keeping one jump ahead of the Tudeh party by their handling of the oil issue. But it is ever more likely that Tudeh will be the ultimate benficiary if Dr. Mossadegh now succeeds in his plans, than is he is frustrated by forcible measures.

The price of a policy of inaction, in short, is a gigantic change in the world balance of power, altering the whole Middle Eastern pattern, shaking the Western alliance to its foundation, and perhaps destroying it. This is no Mexican oil squabble. This is the terrible game of power politics, being played for the greatest stakes.

Philadelphia Specialist Urges More Normal Life For Heart Patients

BOSTON— (AP) —A Philadelphia heart specialist has urged less rigid management of coronary cases and went so far as to say a person suffering from such an attack could smoke, provided he also takes a drink.

Dr. William D. Stroud told the 170th meeting of the Massachusetts eMdical Society "a good slug" of alcohol would offset the constricting effect of nicotine on the coronary blood vessels.

Dr. Stroud, professor of cardiology at the University of Pennsylvania graduate school of medicine, in advocating a more normal life for heart patients, charged that deprivation of too many things leads to frustration.

"Frustration," he added, "raises the blood pressure, which is bad for the heart.

'I think, he said, "that we doctors try to prolong life in these coronary cases by making that life just as miserable as possible.

"We say that they must not smoke, that they must not drink, that they must be celibate, that they cannot take part in sports, that they cannot drive an automobile.

"In 30 years," he went on, "I knew of only one person who died of coronary thrombosis (a blood clot) while at the wheel of a car. All the others were able to drive to the side of the road.

"And they can take exercise, within reason, of course.

"In fact there is no reason at all why coronary cases should not lead a perfectly normal life. They'll be much better off if they do."

Dr. Stroud also described nitroglycerine as the best drug to use for pains in the chest which mark the onset of a coronary attack. It acts more quickly than alcohol, he opined.

About four out of five wildcat oil wells are unsuccessful.

PARIS, FRANCE—Cocktail parties here are the same as at home—except the perfume smells better. . . . I had to cross the Atlantic to discover this earth-shaker. . . . White-moustached, full of pep and vinegar, Sir Charles Mendl, well into his 70's, announced his engagement the other day to a vigorous and charming young lady by lavishing a cocktail party and also launching the social season. . . . The apartment was bubbling with plenty of champagne and celebrities. . . . Lady Diana Manners, who now lives quietly at Chantilly, was there, still looking like the Madonna role she once played. . . . Tall and queenly, she had a black veil drawn tight over her marble face and blonde hair. . . . Hollywood's latest bride Arlene Dahl and "Tarzan" Lex Barker talking about their honeymoon, a trip through France. . . . Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy surrounded by girls—his wife Rose, daughters Pat and Eunice. . . . In a navy blue suit, lined with navy blue moleskin, and navy blue wig, Madame Elsa Schiaparelli rolling her big eyes in warm greeting to balding Christian Dior. . . . In Paris rival dressmakers don't slit each other's throats as is sometimes believed. . . . Besides, Paris women this season are raving about their collections of clothes above all the others—Dior's and Schiap's. . . . Naturally, they're feeling generous and exuberant.

AUSTINE

The Howard Raileys (he represents a U. S. airplane manufacturer) giggling over a glass of champagne with Jane Abell, another of the American women that Paris takes to heart. . . . The George Abell's house at Neuilly (a sort of Paris equivalent of Washington's Georgetown) attracts a nice slice of the Paris pie. . . . Diplomats, journalists, cave-dwelling counts and dukes, American members of military missions, a painter or two, or visiting firemen from Washington are always drawing up to Abell's maison. . . . And no matter how many times they have come before, the guests always get a start when they step in the entrance hall. . . . For sitting there, big as life and twice as nasty, are two, snarling Siberian wolves. . . . They make police dogs look like pups. . . . The huge, grey animals with great toothy jaws open have not yet been known to spring forward and chaw out a hunk of some general's calf. . . . But nobody would be surprised if they did. . . . Though they've been stuffed since they were shot in Russia back in 1909, they look much too live for comfort. . . . However, they are quiet and tame, and do not even make the wolf call heard in the wilds outside U. S. drug stores.

At Sir Charles' party too, no wolves whistled! While the girls are beautiful at cocktail parties, so are the extra men too beautiful! . . . . A he-man's hard to find at a Paris cocktail party. . . . They're all either married or too busy to go.

The girls report the extra man situation has been getting steadily rosier. . . . And what with ECA fellows, the new influx of military men, and the easy trip it is by plane from the U. S., the parties should be burgeoning with bachelors instead of jumping with jerks. . . . In Washington, fall and spring bring the splurges of entertaining. . . . In Paris, spring and summer explode the big season. . . . Five or six cocktail parties and garden fetes a day, dinners and grand balls at night. . . . Luncheons on Sunday (this is an established custom) begin the middle of May, reach a climax through June, and dwindle down by Bastille Day, July 14th.

No matter what time of year you come to Paris your eyes will soak up the beauty, your money will strain at the leash and beg to be spent, your mouth water, your feet ache, you'll want to sing, and, if "you were a bell—to ring!" . . . . And even more so in the spring!

Spring and early summer's the best time to come, and the best way to come is by air.

By flying TWA we eliminated the bother of packing and unpacking for life on the boat, and we saved four or five days each way, which gives us almost two weeks longer in Paris.

The flight is speedy and smooth. . . . Also, because there are fewer passengers, the customs and other official red tape takes much less time and fuss.

We left New York at 6:15, and the next morning we drifted down, down out of the clouds, over a green, Connecticut-looking landscape. . . . The roof tops and sandy twisting roads didn't look like U. S. A. somehow. . . . The roofs were red and of tiles, I soon could see. . . . Lindbergh himself couldn't have done better than the trusty crew. . . . The navigator, Basil Rathbone, Jr., son of the actor, found his way to Orly airport and I first touched toes on the old soil of France at 9:30 or so by our watches.

But it was later than we thought—exactly 2:30 by French time. . . . In a twitter, a daze, a tizzy and a tingle, I entered Paris!

You can double the life of a foundation garment by putting it on correctly and giving it proper care.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Never wear a stretched or misshapen foundation. The loss in figure beauty proves quickly that it is the poorest kind of economy. The place to save is by saving your foundations. Nothing else that you wear does more for your contours, carriage and clothes.

To get the greatest return from your investment in underpinnings, learn how to prolong their life and preserve their elasticity. Here are professional tips on how this can be done:

Don the Right Way

When donning a brassiere, slide the straps over your shoulders; then bend over to adjust the fit before fastening. Lastly, give the band at the back a downward tug so that the base will lie smoothly and comfortably. Your brassiere gives you the greatest support when adjusted in this manner, yet no undue stress is placed on the elastic.

A tug of war with a girdle or all-in-one is sure to shorten the figure-controlling life of the garment. Furthermore, the right way to get into one is the easiest: Roll the top half down over the lower half, and then step into it. Pull the folded foundation gently upward to the proper position with the pads of your finger tips (nails are anathema!) Roll the top half into place. In summer, a dusting of bath powder expedites the operation.

Next to careless donning, careless laundering sags and ages foundations. To get the long service your foundations are designed to give, launder them this way: Never soak for more than ten minutes. Squeeze gently in warm suds with a cupping motion of your hands. Stubborn spots may be removed with a soft, sudsy brush. Rinse several times in clear, tepid water.

Reshape and Dry Flat

Never wring a foundation. Always roll in a Turkish towel to absorb the moisture. Never hang it to dry; instead, place on a fresh towel . . . reshape the garment and dry it flat, away from the direct sunlight.

Never be tempted to wear a brassiere or foundation that is in need of repair. Take care of any mishap as soon as it occurs. Pins take serious toll from both fabric and elastic. Use a zig-zag stitch on elastic sections. Replace straps, garters and fasteners with firm whip stitches.

Expert care means double the wear!

NEW YORK—(INS)—This week marks the 132nd anniversary of the sailing of the "Savannah" on her history-making voyage. She was the first steamship to cross the Atlantic. When the 340-ton ship approached the English coast, a month out of Savannah, Ga., her smoking stack caused the alarmed British to send on fireboats.

Late next month the American merchant marine, a generally overlooked service between wars, will be dramatically strengthened by the addition of the American Export Line's "United States."

The "United States," to be christened at Newport News, Va., is 990 feet long, faster than any liner now afloat, will carry 2,000 peacetime passengers (or almost a full division in time of war) and promises to be the first real challenge we've made to foreign maritime powers in half a century. She will weight in at 51,500 tons.

We have been letting our shipping chances go out the window since the "Savannah's" time. Antagonism toward steam shortened the life of the trail-blazing vessel. Its owners almost sold it to the Russians, after Czar Alexander visited the ship and presented Capt. Moses Rogers with a gold watch.

Thereafter we went in for fast-mail, quick-cargo service, with the romantic clippers. The slender, streamlined, sharp-prowed beauties, flying under a cloud of canvas, were the superb greyhounds of the seven seas — while the broad-bottomed foreign ships, plodding along, ran up profits.

We held all the records, nautically. In 1853 the clipper "Sovereign Of The Seas" logged 421 nautical miles in a day, the equivalent of 17½ knots, a speed not equalled today by a majority of cargo liners.

Donald McKay's fabled "Flying Cloud," built in New York just a century ago, was the best known of the clippers. On her maiden voyage to San Francisco she made the run around the Horn in a speedy 89 days. She carried men and goods to the gold fields; brought from China and India its spices and silks.

The Civil War and settling of the Middle and Far West lost for us our primary interest in the sea. The nation's maritime strength declined with each year. By the eve of World War I, though our industrial expansion had been historic, American ships were carrying less than 10 per cent of our foreign trade. Our entry into the war meant almost complete dependence on foreign shipping for the movement of troops and supplies.

We paid no heed to our lowly position in shipping until the Mer-

Kennedy surrounded by girls—his wife Rose, daughters Pat and Eunice. . . . In a navy blue suit, lined with navy blue moleskin, and navy blue wig, Madame Elsa Schiaparelli rolling her big eyes in warm greeting to balding Christian Dior. . . . In Paris rival dressmakers don't slit each other's throats as is sometimes believed. . . . Besides, Paris women this season are raving about their collections of clothes above all the others—Dior's and Schiap's. . . . Naturally, they're feeling generous and exuberant.

The Howard Raileys (he represents a U. S. airplane manufacturer) giggling over a glass of champagne with Jane Abell, another of the American women that Paris takes to heart. . . . The George Abell's house at Neuilly (a sort of Paris equivalent of Washington's Georgetown) attracts a nice slice of the Paris pie. . . . Diplomats, journalists, cave-dwelling counts and dukes, American members of military missions, a painter or two, or visiting firemen from Washington are always drawing up to Abell's maison. . . . And no matter how many times they have come before, the guests always get a start when they step in the entrance hall. . . . For sitting there, big as life and twice as nasty, are two, snarling Siberian wolves. . . . They make police dogs look like pups. . . . The huge, grey animals with great toothy jaws open have not yet been known to spring forward and chaw out a hunk of some general's calf. . . . But nobody would be surprised if they did. . . . Though they've been stuffed since they were shot in Russia back in 1909, they look much too live for comfort. . . . However, they are quiet and tame, and do not even make the wolf call heard in the wilds outside U. S. drug stores.

At Sir Charles' party too, no wolves whistled! While the girls are beautiful at cocktail parties, so are the extra men too beautiful! . . . . A he-man's hard to find at a Paris cocktail party. . . . They're all either married or too busy to go.

The girls report the extra man situation has been getting steadily rosier. . . . And what with ECA fellows, the new influx of military men, and the easy trip it is by plane from the U. S., the parties should be burgeoning with bachelors instead of jumping with jerks. . . . In Washington, fall and spring bring the splurges of entertaining. . . . In Paris, spring and summer explode the big season. . . . Five or six cocktail parties and garden fetes a day, dinners and grand balls at night. . . . Luncheons on Sunday (this is an established custom) begin the middle of May, reach a climax through June, and dwindle down by Bastille Day, July 14th.

No matter what time of year you come to Paris your eyes will soak up the beauty, your money will strain at the leash and beg to be spent, your mouth water, your feet ache, you'll want to sing, and, if "you were a bell—to ring!" . . . . And even more so in the spring!

Spring and early summer's the best time to come, and the best way to come is by air.

By flying TWA we eliminated the bother of packing and unpacking for life on the boat, and we saved four or five days each way, which gives us almost two weeks longer in Paris.

The flight is speedy and smooth. . . . Also, because there are fewer passengers, the customs and other official red tape takes much less time and fuss.

We left New York at 6:15, and the next morning we drifted down, down out of the clouds, over a green, Connecticut-looking landscape. . . . The roof tops and sandy twisting roads didn't look like U. S. A. somehow. . . . The roofs were red and of tiles, I soon could see. . . . Lindbergh himself couldn't have done better than the trusty crew. . . . The navigator, Basil Rathbone, Jr., son of the actor, found his way to Orly airport and I first touched toes on the old soil of France at 9:30 or so by our watches.

But it was later than we thought—exactly 2:30 by French time. . . . In a twitter, a daze, a tizzy and a tingle, I entered Paris!

You can double the life of a foundation garment by putting it on correctly and giving it proper care.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Never wear a stretched or misshapen foundation. The loss in figure beauty proves quickly that it is the poorest kind of economy. The place to save is by saving your foundations. Nothing else that you wear does more for your contours, carriage and clothes.

To get the greatest return from your investment in underpinnings, learn how to prolong their life and preserve their elasticity. Here are professional tips on how this can be done:

Don the Right Way

When donning a brassiere, slide the straps over your shoulders; then bend over to adjust the fit before fastening. Lastly, give the band at the back a downward tug so that the base will lie smoothly and comfortably. Your brassiere gives you the greatest support when adjusted in this manner, yet no undue stress is placed on the elastic.

A tug of war with a girdle or all-in-one is sure to shorten the figure-controlling life of the garment. Furthermore, the right way to get into one is the easiest: Roll the top half down over the lower half, and then step into it. Pull the folded foundation gently upward to the proper position with the pads of your finger tips (nails are anathema!) Roll the top half into place. In summer, a dusting of bath powder expedites the operation.

Next to careless donning, careless laundering sags and ages foundations. To get the long service your foundations are designed to give, launder them this way: Never soak for more than ten minutes. Squeeze gently in warm suds with a cupping motion of your hands. Stubborn spots may be removed with a soft, sudsy brush. Rinse several times in clear, tepid water.

Reshape and Dry Flat

Never wring a foundation. Always roll in a Turkish towel to absorb the moisture. Never hang it to dry; instead, place on a fresh towel . . . reshape the garment and dry it flat, away from the direct sunlight.

Never be tempted to wear a brassiere or foundation that is in need of repair. Take care of any mishap as soon as it occurs. Pins take serious toll from both fabric and elastic. Use a zig-zag stitch on elastic sections. Replace straps, garters and fasteners with firm whip stitches.

Expert care means double the wear!

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—This week marks the 132nd anniversary of the sailing of the "Savannah" on her history-making voyage. She was the first steamship to cross the Atlantic. When the 340-ton ship approached the English coast, a month out of Savannah, Ga., her smoking stack caused the alarmed British to send on fireboats.

Late next month the American merchant marine, a generally overlooked service between wars, will be dramatically strengthened by the addition of the American Export Line's "United States."

The "United States," to be christened at Newport News, Va., is 990 feet long, faster than any liner now afloat, will carry 2,000 peacetime passengers (or almost a full division in time of war) and promises to be the first real challenge we've made to foreign maritime powers in half a century. She will weight in at 51,500 tons.

We have been letting our shipping chances go out the window since the "Savannah's" time. Antagonism toward steam shortened the life of the trail-blazing vessel. Its owners almost sold it to the Russians, after Czar Alexander visited the ship and presented Capt. Moses Rogers with a gold watch.

Thereafter we went in for fast-mail, quick-cargo service, with the romantic clippers. The slender, streamlined, sharp-prowed beauties, flying under a cloud of canvas, were the superb greyhounds of the seven seas — while the broad-bottomed foreign ships, plodding along, ran up profits.

We held all the records, nautically. In 1853 the clipper "Sovereign Of The Seas" logged 421 nautical miles in a day, the equivalent of 17½ knots, a speed not equalled today by a majority of cargo liners.

Donald McKay's fabled "Flying Cloud," built in New York just a century ago, was the best known of the clippers. On her maiden voyage to San Francisco she made the run around the Horn in a speedy 89 days. She carried men and goods to the gold fields; brought from China and India its spices and silks.

The Civil War and settling of the Middle and Far West lost for us our primary interest in the sea. The nation's maritime strength declined with each year. By the eve of World War I, though our industrial expansion had been historic, American ships were carrying less than 10 per cent of our foreign trade. Our entry into the war meant almost complete dependence on foreign shipping for the movement of troops and supplies.

We paid no heed to our lowly position in shipping until the Mer-

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

In its first veto by the 82nd Congress, the House voted last week 312 to 68 to over-ride the President's veto of a bill to require Congressional committee approval of real estate transactions by the Defense Department and Civil Defense Administration. The veto was the result of the Defense Department's plans to lease two new luxury-type apartments in Washington for use as office space. In calling for a veto, Chairman Carl Vinson (D) of Georgia, of the House Armed Services Committee recalled that President Truman when he was a Senator praised a similar measure. It was felt that this bill would head off any similar plans in the future.

The Commerce Clearing House of Chicago, a private tax and business organization, in a report May 9, stated that the average American will pay $34,743.23 in taxes before he quits working. The estimate was based on the average man now 29 years of age who will work until he is 65. The report said that 22 per cent of his income for the next 36 years will go to local, state and federal taxes. The report added that the average American at 29 "will have the equivalent in income of 28 years for himself, but the other eight years he will work to supply the demands of his government." The only way to reduce taxes is to demand efficiency in government.

Arthur Bliss Lane, for many years an ambassador in the Roosevelt and Truman Adminitsrations, in a speech in Washington May 13, criticized this government's foreign policy and asked: "Is our primary loyalty to the United Nations or is it to the nation which is ours?"

Mr. Lane, who is recognized as an expert on European affairs because of his long service as a diplomat, speaking before a meeting of District of Columbia and federal judges, said: "I have been urged, in the interest of national unity, not to say what I was thinking while in Europe but the time has come when the things I thought must be told." He went on to say a "basic distrust" of America was developed among European nations "by the Teheran and Yalta agreements which, in violation of the Atlantic Charter, sold European peoples into slavery." Mr. Lane said further another cause of this distrust was "the Alger Hiss case, in which an alleged Soviet spy was protected by government sources despite our attempts to persuade European governments to resist Soviet aggression."

Four labor union officials, Robert Noonan, representing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL; J. B. Pate, president of Georgia Federation of Labor and Georgia Electrical Workers Association, AFL; Chester Daniels, vice president of Florida State Workers Association, AFL; and Ross Martin, president of Local 930 of the IBEW and chairman of Southeastern System Council, recently told a House Appropriations Sub-Committee the detailed story of how the rights of workers were being destroyed through socialization of the electric power industry. They appeared in opposition to a proposed appropriation of $4,500,000 for construction of transmission lines and other expansion by the Southeastern Power Administration.

UNDER THE DOME

I was advised by the Department of Defense that the 679th Air Force Band is being assigned to play for the Fourth of July ceremonies at Takoma Park on the evening of July 3 and the morning of July 4. This is an annual event in the Takoma Park community and draws thousands of visitors.

Numerous letters have been received regarding the mail service in Frederick. The delay is not in the local office but in the receipt of mail from other places. The greatest delay is in the receipt of mail from Baltimore and Washington. I have contacted the Postmastes General asking for an investigation.

Many schools in the District are bringing students for tours of Washington. Last week a group of Frederick High School students and their guests, exchange students from the Wyandotte, Michigan, High School were here. A group from the Frostburg Teachers College spent a day here and next week a Hagerstown High School group will meet with me.

The House District Committee continued executive sessions on the Omnibus Crime Bill for the District of Columbia which I attended.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

In its first veto by the 82nd Congress, the House voted last week 312 to 68 to over-ride the President's veto of a bill to require Congressional committee approval of real estate transactions by the Defense Department and Civil Defense Administration. The veto was the result of the Defense Department's plans to lease two new luxury-type apartments in Washington for use as office space. In calling for a veto, Chairman Carl Vinson (D) of Georgia, of the House Armed Services Committee recalled that President Truman when he was a Senator praised a similar measure. It was felt that this bill would head off any similar plans in the future.

The Commerce Clearing House of Chicago, a private tax and business organization, in a report May 9, stated that the average American will pay $34,743.23 in taxes before he quits working. The estimate was based on the average man now 29 years of age who will work until he is 65. The report said that 22 per cent of his income for the next 36 years will go to local, state and federal taxes. The report added that the average American at 29 "will have the equivalent in income of 28 years for himself, but the other eight years he will work to supply the demands of his government." The only way to reduce taxes is to demand efficiency in government.

Arthur Bliss Lane, for many years an ambassador in the Roosevelt and Truman Adminitsrations, in a speech in Washington May 13, criticized this government's foreign policy and asked: "Is our primary loyalty to the United Nations or is it to the nation which is ours?"

Mr. Lane, who is recognized as an expert on European affairs because of his long service as a diplomat, speaking before a meeting of District of Columbia and federal judges, said: "I have been urged, in the interest of national unity, not to say what I was thinking while in Europe but the time has come when the things I thought must be told." He went on to say a "basic distrust" of America was developed among European nations "by the Teheran and Yalta agreements which, in violation of the Atlantic Charter, sold European peoples into slavery." Mr. Lane said further another cause of this distrust was "the Alger Hiss case, in which an alleged Soviet spy was protected by government sources despite our attempts to persuade European governments to resist Soviet aggression."

Four labor union officials, Robert Noonan, representing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL; J. B. Pate, president of Georgia Federation of Labor and Georgia Electrical Workers Association, AFL; Chester Daniels, vice president of Florida State Workers Association, AFL; and Ross Martin, president of Local 930 of the IBEW and chairman of Southeastern System Council, recently told a House Appropriations Sub-Committee the detailed story of how the rights of workefs were being destroyed through socialization of the electric power industry. They appeared in opposition to a proposed appropriation of $4,500,000 for construction of transmission lines and other expansion by the Southeastern Power Administration.

UNDER THE DOME

I was advised by the Department of Defense that the 679th Air Force Band is being assigned to play for the Fourth of July ceremonies at Takoma Park on the evening of July 3 and the morning of July 4. This is an annual event in the Takoma Park community and draws thousands of visitors.

Numerous letters have been received regarding the mail service in Frederick. The delay is not in the local office but in the receipt of mail from other places. The greatest delay is in the receipt of mail from Baltimore and Washington. I have contacted the Postmastes General asking for an investigation.

Many schools in the District are bringing students for tours of Washington. Last week a group of Frederick High School students and their guests, exchange students from the Wyandotte, Michigan, High School were here. A group from the Frostburg Teachers College spent a day here and next week a Hagerstown High School group will meet with me.

The House District Committee continued executive sessions on the Omnibus Crime Bill for the District of Columbia which I attended.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In the Matter of the Adoption of Thomas Myers, Infant, by Melvin M. Miller and Dorothy K. Miller, his wife, Vs. Ex-Parte: No. 22, 173, Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this proceeding is to procure a decree of adoption, declaring Thomas Myers, infant, to be the adopted child of the petitioners.

The petition states that the above petitioners are husband and wife, that they are persons of good repute, that they have lived in Allegany County for a number of years, that the above named child has lived in their home for over a year and they are fond of the child and the child is fond of them, and that it is their desire to adopt the child legally and to give him the care and love of natural parents; that the father of the child, James Marshall Myers, has given his consent to the adoption, but that the mother of said child, namely, Margaret Myers, is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and her present whereabouts are unknown.

It is thereupon this 9th day of May, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the petitioners by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 11th day of June, 1951, giving notice to the said absent Margaret Myers, mother of said child, of the object and substance of this petition and warning her to be and appear in this Court on or before the 28th day of June, 1951, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In the Matter of the Adoption of Thomas Myers, Infant, by Melvin M. Miller and Dorothy K. Miller, his wife, Vs. Ex-Parte: No. 22, 173, Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this proceeding is to procure a decree of adoption, declaring Thomas Myers, infant, to be the adopted child of the petitioners.

The petition states that the above petitioners are husband and wife, that they are persons of good repute, that they have lived in Allegany County for a number of years, that the above named child has lived in their nome for over a year and they are fond of the child and the child is fond of them, and that it is their desire to adopt the child legally and to give him the care and love of natural parents; that the father of the child, James Marshall Myers, has given his consent to the adoption, but that the mother of said child, namely, Margaret Myers, is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and her present whereabouts are unknown.

It is thereupon this 9th day of May, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the petitioners by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 11th day of June, 1951, giving notice to the said absent Margaret Myers, mother of said child, of the object and substance of this petition and warning her to be and appear in this Court on or before the 28th day of June, 1951, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In the Matter of the Adoption of Thomas Myers, Infant, by Melvin M. Miller and Dorothy K. Miller, his wife, Vs. Ex-Parte: No. 22, 173, Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this proceeding is to procure a decree of adoption, declaring Thomas Myers, infant, to be the adopted child of the petitioners.

The petition states that the above petitioners are husband and wife, that they are persons of good repute, that they have lived in Allegany County for a number of years, that the above named child has lived in their home for over a year and they are fond of the child and the child is fond of them, and that it is their desire to adopt the child legally and to give him the care and love of natural parents; that the father of the child, James Marshall Myers, has given his consent to the adoption, but that the mother of said child, namely, Margaret Myers, is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and her present whereabouts are unknown.

It is thereupon this 9th day of May, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the petitioners by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 11th day of June, 1951, giving notice to the said absent Margaret Myers, mother of said child, of the object and substance of this petition and warning her to be and appear in this Court on or before the 28th day of June, 1951, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Author Admits He's Former Red

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Novelist Budd Schulberg testified today he quit the Communist Party 12 years ago when Red leaders in Hollywood tried to "dictate" to him on his literary output.

The 37-year-old author, who wrote the best sellers "What Makes Sammy Run" and "The Disenchanted," told the House Un-American Activities Committee that under the Communist system a writer is regarded much the same as a soldier.

"He is given social commands, and if he fails to carry them out he is subjected to discipline," Schulberg said.

The witness said he got into so much hot water over his decision to write "Sammy" without consulting the Hollywood Communist bosses that he went to Vermont to complete the novel.

Schulberg said he returned to Hollywood in 1940 and fought against continued efforts by Writers Richard Collins, John Howard Lawson and V. J. Jerome when they "tried unsuccessfully to draw me back into the strait jacket of the Communist line mentality."

Collins, Lawson and Jerome have all been described as Communist Party functionaries at the time.

Claude Funk Heads Fort Ashby Lions

FORT ASHBY, W. Va.—Claude Funk was elected as president of the Fort Ashby Lions Club a recent evening.

Other officers elected were Dean Wasson, first vice president; William E. Frase, second vice president; Waldo Speelman, third vice president; Richard Deremer, secretary and treasurer; Jack Ornduff, lion tamer; Gerald Adams, tail twister; Roy Messinger and Owen Hughes, one-year directors.

Plans were also made at the meeting, to hold a "hill billy dance" and social at the high school Friday, June 8.

Lonaconing Club Hears Hobby Talk

LONACONING — Mrs. G. Dewey Burns, home economics teacher at Central High School, discussed hobbies at the most recent meeting of the Lonaconing Young Women's Club.

The club has decided to visit Orts Bakery in Cumberland at 7 p. m. June 18. For the July meeting, the club plans an outdoor session at the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area near here.

A supply of cod liver oil capsules for the next six months will be provided the Lonaconing Health Center from card party proceeds.

Baltimore Mayor Says Reds Plan New "Peace Ballot"

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said today he has reliable information the Communists soon will start a new "peace ballot" in the United States. He asked Baltimore residents not to sign.

His statement came in connection with application by the Maryland Committee for Peace for nine street-corner booths to collect signatures on petitions.

The committee several times has disclaimed any connection with the Communist Party. It is not named on the Attorney General's or Un-American Activities Committee's lists of subversive organizations.

When the application came before the city's Board of Revenue Estimates, Mayor D'Alesandro declared: "According to information I consider reliable, the Communists will distribute 10,000,000 ballots which they will term "America's peace poll" for the purpose of obtaining names and addresses of reputable people.

"The three questions to be asked sound innocent enough and many people will be deluded into signing the petitions.

"These phony polls are not sponsored by any American organization and I strongly urge our people not to sign.

"Without question, America desires peace but we cannot achieve peace by means of these so-called peace ballots issued by Russia. The only disturbing influence in the world is Russia, which is doing everything possible to create tension and strife."

The Board of Estimates decided it has no power to turn down the application for the street corner collection stations.

Symington Dismisses Another RFC Official

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Dismissal of another RFC official came to light today amid Senate hearings on bills to kill the big government lending agency. The man is Frank Prince, who said he quit May 10 at the request of W. Stuart Symington, new one-man RFC boss.

Prince, talking by telephone to a reporter from his home in Baltimore, said he had a part in negotiations about a $750,000 loan to the Mobile Paper Company of Mobile, Ala., now under Senate Investigation, but only as part of his job. He said Symington had assured him he had "done nothing wrong" and had offered a recommendation when he seeks a new job.

Florida Coed Chosen Middies' "Color Girl"

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 23 (AP) — Midshipmen looked to Dixie for beauty again today as the luckiest man in the brigade chose a Florida coed as the Naval Academy's "color girl."

Fredda Coupland, 21-year-old senior at Stetson University, was picked as 75th in a succession of pretty girls who have reigned as queen of June Week at Annapolis.

She didn't know anything about it until Midshipman James A. Winnefeld learned officially his company had been rated best of 24 in the brigade.

Death Of Witness' Wife Is Investigated

LOS ANGELES, May 23 (AP) — An autopsy was ordered today to help solve the mysterious death of the wife of a screen writer who recently testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Frances Ellis Bercovici, 41, was found dead last night in a liquor closet at her home.

Her husband, Leonardo Bercovici, said he didn't think his appearance before the committee had anything to do with her death.

Detectives called it "apparent suicide from cyanide poisoning." Earlier, coroner's deputies listed the death as "apparently natural."

Lightning Kills Man

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—A city employe was killed by a lightning bolt today while working at a city dump.

Police identified him as Harold H. Wolf, 41. Witnesses said Wolf was working near the edge of the dump and was standing near a big crane that may have attracted the bolt.

Proposed 44-Hour Basic Work Week Opposed

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — The Manpower Policy Committee has recommended against a 44-hour basic work week in industry during the emergency. The longer work week would mean no overtime, "premium" pay for workers until after 44 hours instead of 40 as at present.

Chairman Arthur S. Fleming announced the decision by the committee, composed of representatives from various federal agencies.

New Anti-China Moves Studied

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 25 (AP) — Stronger military measures against Red China plus diplomatic sanctionsw ere reported today under active consideration by the American delegation in the in United Nations.

British sources made it clear London would oppose such steps vigorously if the Americans eventually decide to advance them as concrete proposals for the U. N. Sanctions Committee next week.

The British feel that economic sanctions, approved last Friday by the U. N. General Assembly, are enough for the present stage.

The American delegation so far has not received the approval of the State Department for any ideas on the next steps. But the following possibilities are evident:

1. The General Assembly could be asked to issue a new appeal to all members of the U. N. to contribute more troops to the war in Korea.

2. Un N. members could be asked to chip in more ships and planes to help repel the aggression of the Communists in Korea.

3. The 17 U. N. members which so far have recognized Red China should be asked to break of recognition, or at least cut down the diplomatic representation to a few minor officials.

Americans in the U. N. make no secret of the fact they would like for other nations to assigne more soldiers to Korea. They are not pressing hard on this point, but it still is a live subject.

British sources made it clear London would oppose such steps vigorously if the Americans eventually decide to advance them as concrete proposals for the U. N. Sanctions Committee next week.

The British feel that economic sanctions, approved last Friday by the U. N. General Assembly, are enough for the present stage.

The American delegation so far has not received the approval of the State Department for any ideas on the next steps. But the following possibilities are evident:

1. The General Assembly could be asked to issue a new appeal to all members of the U. N. to contribute more troops to the war in Korea.

2. Un N. members could be asked to chip in more ships and planes to help repel the aggression of the Communists in Korea.

3. The 17 U. N. members which so far have recognized Red China should be asked to break of recognition, or at least cut down the diplomatic representation to a few minor officials.

Americans in the U. N. make no secret of the fact they would like for other nations to assigne more soldiers to Korea. They are not pressing hard on this point, but it still is a live subject.

Mt. Savage Group Fetes Mrs. Gunkel

MT. SAVAGE—The Home Room Mothers of Mt. Savage School entertained the teachers and officers of the PTA.

Mrs. Olive Gunkel, retiring president, who will move to Cockeysville June 1, was presented a gift by the association.

Each teacher was given a ceramic pin and the men ash trays made by Mrs. Gunkel. After the entertainment, 500 was played. Mrs. Louise Himmelwright won high prize.

Shakespeare's shortest play is Macbeth.

Author Admits He's Former Red

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Novelist Budd Schulberg testified today he quit the Communist Party 12 years ago when Red leaders in Hollywood tried to "dictate" to him on his literary output.

The 37-year-old author, who wrote the best sellers "What Makes Sammy Run" and "The Disenchanted," told the House Un-American Activities Committee that under the Communist system a writer is regarded much the same as a soldier.

"He is given social commands, and if he fails to carry them out he is subjected to discipline," Schulberg said.

The witness said he got into so much hot water over his decision to write "Sammy" without consulting the Hollywood Communist bosses that he went to Vermont to complete the novel.

Schulberg said he returned to Hollywood in 1940 and fought against continued efforts by Writers Richard Collins, John Howard Lawson and V. J. Jerome when they "tried unsuccessfully to draw me back into the strait jacket of the Communist line mentality."

Collins, Lawson and Jerome have all been described as Communist Party functionaries at the time.

Claude Funk Heads Fort Ashby Lions

FORT ASHBY, W. Va.—Claude Funk was elected as president of the Fort Ashby Lions Club a recent evening.

Other officers elected were Dean Wasson, first vice president; William E. Frase, second vice president; Waldo Speelman, third vice president; Richard Deremer, secretary and treasurer; Jack Ornduff, lion tamer; Gerald Adams, tail twister; Roy Messinger and Owen Hughes, one-year directors.

Plans were also made at the meeting, to hold a "hill billy dance" and social at the high school Friday, June 8.

Lonaconing Club Hears Hobby Talk

LONACONING — Mrs. G. Dewey Burns, home economics teacher at Central High School, discussed hobbies at the most recent meeting of the Lonaconing Young Women's Club.

The club has decided to visit Orts Bakery in Cumberland at 7 p. m. June 18. For the July meeting, the club plans an outdoor session at the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area near here.

A supply of cod liver oil capsules for the next six months will be provided the Lonaconing Health Center from card party proceeds.

News Conference Today

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — President Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 9:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Baltimore Mayor Says Reds Plan New "Peace Ballot"

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said today he has reliable information the Communists soon will start a new "peace ballot" in the United States. He asked Baltimore residents not to sign.

His statement came in connection with application by the Maryland Committee for Peace for nine street-corner booths to collect signatures on petitions.

The committee several times has disclaimed any connection with the Communist Party. It is not named on the Attorney General's or Un-American Activities Committee's lists of subversive organizations.

When the application came before the city's Board of Revenue Estimates, Mayor D'Alesandro declared:

"According to information I consider reliable, the Communists will distribute 10,000,000 ballots which they will term "America's peace poll" for the purpose of obtaining names and addresses of reputable people.

"The three questions to be asked sound innocent enough and many people will be deluded into signing the petitions.

"These phony polls are not sponsored by any American organization and I strongly urge our people not to sign.

"Without question, America desires peace but we cannot achieve peace by means of these so-called peace ballots issued by Russia. The only disturbing influence in the world is Russia, which is doing everything possible to create tension and strife."

The Board of Estimates decided it has no power to turn down the application for the street corner collection stations.

Symington Dismisses Another RFC Official

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Dismissal of another RFC official came to light today amid Senate hearings on bills to kill the big government lending agency. The man is Frank Prince, who said he quit May 10 at the request of W. Stuart Symington, new one-man RFC boss.

Prince, talking by telephone to a reporter from his home in Baltimore, said he had a part in negotiations about a $750,000 loan to the Mobile Paper Company of Mobile, Ala., now under Senate Investigation, but only as part of his job. He said Symington had assured him he had "done nothing wrong" and had offered a recommendation when he seeks a new job.

Florida Coed Chosen Middies' "Color Girl"

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 23 (AP) — Midshipmen looked to Dixie for beauty again today as the luckiest man in the brigade chose a Florida coed as the Naval Academy's "color girl."

Fredda Coupland, 21-year-old senior at Stetson University, was picked as 75th in a succession of pretty girls who have reigned as queen of June Week at Annapolis.

She didn't know anything about it until Midshipman James A. Winnefeld learned officially his company had been rated best of 24 in the brigade.

Death Of Witness' Wife Is Investigated

LOS ANGELES, May 23 (AP) — An autopsy was ordered today to help solve the mysterious death of the wife of a screen writer who recently testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Frances Ellis Bercovici, 41, was found dead last night in a liquor closet at her home.

Her husband, Leonardo Bercovici, said he didn't think his appearance before the committee had anything to do with her death.

Detectives called it "apparent suicide from cyanide poisoning." Earlier, coroner's deputies listed the death as "apparently natural."

Lightning Kills Man

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—A city employe was killed by a lightning bolt today while working at a city dump.

Police identified him as Harold H. Wolf, 41. Witnesses said Wolf was working near the edge of the dump and was standing near a big crane that may have attracted the bolt.

Proposed 44-Hour Basic Work Week Opposed

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — The Manpower Policy Committee has recommended against a 44-hour basic work week in industry during the emergency. The longer work week would mean no overtime, "premium" pay for workers until after 44 hours instead of 40 as at present.

Chairman Arthur S. Fleming announced the decision by the committee, composed of representatives from various federal agencies.

Turkey-Gobbling GI Kills Twelve Reds In Korea

A Cumberland man has been dubbed the "Sergeant York of Korea" by the Army newspaper, "Stars and Stripes."

He is Sgt. First Class Raymond E. Pryor, 19, son of Mrs. Virginia Pryor, 1603 Ford Avenue.

Here is what Stars and Stripes had to say:

"With 3rd Division—A turkey-gobbling Sergeant York has turned up in Korea and the Tennessee mountain method of killing Germans works just as well on Chinese.

"SFC Raymond Pryor, Cumberland, Md., was on top of a hill with a machine gun when the Chinese tried a banzai attack up the side of the hill.

"We kept shooting them down until they started hiding behind a large rock," said Pryor. "They sounded like a bunch of chickens so I started making noises like a turkey. Everytime I gobbled, some of them stuck their heads over the rocks and I was able to pick them off."

"After the attack, the men of I Company, 7th Infantry Regiment, counted 12 dead Chinese in the rocks."

Sgt. Pryor was wounded in Korea December 9 and was awarded the Purple Heart. He has been in the Far East since last September. Prior to that he had served 29 months in Panama.

Before entering service he attended Fort Hill High School and was employed at the B. and O. YMCA.

Forester Training Course In Progress

A training session for 80 members of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks began yesterday at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

H. C. Buckingham, state forester, said classes will be held in first aid; fire fighting methods, maintenance of roads; court procedure, public speaking and other related subjects to the forestry department.

The foresters will be housed at Herrington Manor during the session.

It requires 5,000 tons of steel yearly to manufacture razor blades for the world.

County Judges To Attend Meet

Governor McKeldin's two-day traffic court conference next month at the University of Maryland, College Park, will be attended by judges and prosecutors of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Former Attorney General of Maryland, William C. Walsh, this city, has been named to assist in handling the "welcome and opening remarks" June 15 at 10 a. m. He is state delegate of the American Bar Association.

Registration will get underway at 9 a. m. in Central auditorium of the Educational Building.

The conference will be presented by the University of Maryland, Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Maryland State Bar Association and Maryland Trial Magistrates Association in cooperation with the American Bar Association and Traffic Institute.

Scheduled for discussion are principles of traffic control, enforcement, proper penalty in traffic cases, court administration, uniform traffic tickets for state-wide use and laws of arrest and obtaining warrants.

Governor McKeldin will address the group June 16 at 10 a. m. A luncheon in his honor will be held the previous day.

Certificates will be presented participants before the session closes.

District Legion Plans Sunday Meeting Here

Junior baseball will head a list of items for discussion at a meeting of Mountain District, American Legion, called for Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 at 206 Harrison Street.

Russell C. Paupe, department vice-commander in calling the meeting, asked that all posts sponsoring junior baseball have their chairmen and managers in attendance. All post commanders and adjutants are also urged to attend. Edward Wegman, district baseball chairman, will issue instructions.

Paupe has asked for reports Sunday on graves' registration and the number of cemeteries cared for by each post in preparation for Memorial Day.

Thomas B. Finan, district Americanism chairman, will make a report, and Paul C. Weisenmiller, district child welfare chairman, will distribute report forms.

Temperature is responsible for the size and form of snowflakes.

Condemnation Suit Settled

A condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission against the owners of the Clary Club was settled yesterday morning before it was scheduled to go before a jury yesterday afternoon in Allegany Council Circuit Court.

Attorneys did not divulge the amount of the settlement. The State Roads Commission had on deposit with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany Circuit Court, a check for $3,150.

This represented the amount that the SRC was willing to pay for the parcel of ground adjacent to the Clary Club.

This property is needed in the relocation and widening of Route 55, the Vale Summit Road, which is under construction.

A jury was drawn yesterday morning, but shortly before noon Associate Judge George Henderson announced the settlement and excused the jurors.

Representing the Clary Club were Edward J. Ryan, and William L. Wilson, Jr., while counsel for the State Roads Commission were Joseph Buscher, assistant attorney general, and William C. Walsh.

At the height of her fame, Rome had about 2,000,000 inhabitants.

Garrett Group Informed On Liquor Sales

A federal tax certificate does not permit the sale of liquor in Garrett County where sale of whiskey is illegal.

The Garrett County Licensed Beverage Dealers Association met recently to discuss the action of Sheriff Paul W. Fisher in removing federal tax certificates from the possession of 14 persons.

Fisher charged liquor cannot be sold in Garrett County under existing laws and any person having a federal certificate or engaged in selling liquor is breaking local laws. They face prosecution and suspension of beer license if apprehended.

Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland attorney, outlined the law to the association. It developed that some members had misunderstood the federal certificate to be a license.

Ryan said those who had given up the certificates had no recourse under the law. To sell liquor without a federal tax certificate leaves the seller open to federal prosecution. To possess one is in violation of Garrett County laws, he pointed out.

Those who had the federal certificates lifted were:

American Legion, Oakland; American Legion, Grantsville; Amvets, Oakland; John J. Braskey, Hill Top Inn; Louise Fry, Cabin Lodge; Dave Gunter, Frostburg; Loyal Order of Moose, Oakland; Arthur Lowry, Grantsville; Faye L. Miller, Faye's Tavern, Grantsville; Clarence M. Savage, Red Run Lodge; Earl W. Railey and Charles G. Railey, Deep Creek Lake; V. F. W., Friendsville; Gladys Vanucci, Point View Inn; Roy Zehner, Arlington, Grantsville.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ADDING UP THE FACTS

"I SUPPOSE you fellows know just what the other hands contain as soon as you see the opening lead and the dummy." That kind of remark is frequently made to advanced performers by players who are relatively new to the game. The true answer is: "No indeed. Sometimes we have a certain amount of information from the bidding and the lead, and keep adding to it as the play proceeds, until at some point we have accumulated knowledge of the factors which are most important." The answer also could include: "Sometimes we have a bunch of misinformation, worse than none at all."

South paid no attention to East's spade bid, not caring whether it was flukey or not, when he felt the side had a club game within reach. He had plenty of confidence in his partner's cardsmanship if the hand happened to be hard to play, and his faith proved not to be misplaced.

East's lead of the spade K enabled the A to bring a diamond discard. Next North led the heart 5 from dummy. After West's play of the J he did a lot of card-reading. First, West would surely have played the A if he had it, with that singleton in view, so East held that card. Since this showed East with both the spade K-Q and the heart A, West must have every other outstanding high card for his overcall.

North therefore let the heart J win. West returned the club 4, trying to make North think East had the K. But this was transparent to North, who put in the 8, which won. The heart 7 was now ruffed, the A being eliminated to establish the K. The club 10 was finessed, heart 10 ruffed by the club Q, a spade ruffed, the club A scored to consume the K, the heart K scored, also the two diamond tops and then the second trick for the defense was given up in diamonds. The club J then took the final trick.

Exchange Bits Of Territory

MOSCOW—(AP)—Poland and Russia have exchanged bits of territory along their common frontier by an agreement concluded recently, it was announced today.

The agreement marked the return to duty of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, who was taken ill late in the winter. He signed the agreement for Russia.

(The controlled Warsaw press presented the territorial exchange as a good deal for Poland. The two territories total about 260 square miles. Informants in Warsaw said Poland gained a rich industrial area of oil and gas wells in the neighborhood of Drogobych (Drohobycz) in the Carpathian foothills while Russia gained a tip of farming territory east of Lublin that juts into the Soviet Ukraine across a secondary north-south railway linking Lwow (Lemberg) and Kovel (Kowel). Russia thus gains full control of the section of railroad.)

Both territories involved in the exchange were Polish between the two world wars. Russia occupied the eastern part of Poland in 1939, when Polish resistance to Germany was in its dying stage.

Drogobych is in the southeastern corner of Poland close to the former territory of Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenia) which Czechoslovakia ceded to Russia in June, 1945.

The city is the center of a small but fairly important oil and natural gas area. The population is predominantly Ukrainian. The Lublin region is a highly fertile agricultural area.

The announcement said the trade was made at the request of Poland and that Maj. Gen. Alexander Zawadski, first vice-premier, signed the accord for the Warsaw government.

It was stated here that the exchange was made for economic reasons and that both regions would be better off.

The agreement provides for resettlement of the Polish and Ukrainian populations of the two territories. The residents may take their portable property with them, but leave real estate, farming equipment and communication facilities intact.

Garrett Group Informed On Liquor Sales

A federal tax certificate does not permit the sale of liquor in Garrett County where sale of whiskey is illegal.

The Garrett County Licensed Beverage Dealers Association met recently to discuss the action of Sheriff Paul W. Fisher in removing federal tax certificates from the possession of 14 persons.

Fisher charged liquor cannot be sold in Garrett County under existing laws and any person having a federal certificate or engaged in selling liquor is breaking local laws. They face prosecution and suspension of beer license if apprehended.

Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland attorney, outlined the law to the association. It developed that some members had misunderstood the federal certificate to be a license.

Ryan said those who had given up the certificates had no recourse under the law. To sell liquor without a federal tax certificate leaves the seller open to federal prosecution. To possess one is in violation of Garrett County laws, he pointed out.

Those who had the federal certificates lifted were:

American Legion, Oakland; American Legion, Grantsville; Amvets, Oakland; John J. Braskey, Hill Top Inn; Louise Fry, Cabin Lodge; Dave Gunter, Frostburg; Loyal Order of Moose, Oakland; Arthur Lowry, Grantsville; Faye L. Miller, Faye's Tavern, Grantsville; Clarence M. Savage, Red Run Lodge; Earl W. Railey and Charles G. Railey, Deep Creek Lake; V. F. W., Friendsville; Gladys Vanucci, Point View Inn; Roy Zehner, Arlington, Grantsville.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ADDING UP THE FACTS

"I SUPPOSE you fellows know just what the other hands contain as soon as you see the opening lead and the dummy." That kind of remark is frequently made to advanced performers by players who are relatively new to the game. The true answer is: "No indeed. Sometimes we have a certain amount of information from the bidding and the lead, and keep adding to it as the play proceeds, until at some point we have accumulated knowledge of the factors which are most important." The answer also could include: "Sometimes we have a bunch of misinformation, worse than none at all."

South paid no attention to East's spade bid, not caring whether it was flukey or not, when he felt the side had a club game within reach. He had plenty of confidence in his partner's cardsmanship if the hand happened to be hard to play, and his faith proved not to be misplaced.

East's lead of the spade K enabled the A to bring a diamond discard. Next North led the heart 5 from dummy. After West's play of the J he did a lot of card-reading. First, West would surely have played the A if he had it, with that singleton in view, so East held that card. Since this showed East with both the spade K-Q and the heart A, West must have every other outstanding high card for his overcall.

North therefore let the heart J win. West returned the club 4, trying to make North think East had the K. But this was transparent to North, who put in the 8, which won. The heart 7 was now ruffed, the A being eliminated to establish the K. The club 10 was finessed, heart 10 ruffed by the club Q, a spade ruffed, the club A scored to consume the K, the heart K scored, also the two diamond tops and then the second trick for the defense was given up in diamonds. The club J then took the final trick.

Baseball Broadcast Probe Begins; CCC Golfers Win Match

FBI Checks Restraints By Ball Clubs

Bills Are Introduced To Keep Sports Out Of Anti-Trust Laws

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The FBI is looking into restrictions placed upon broadcasting of professional and amateur games, it was announced today. But at almost the same time, bills were introduced in Congress to make sports exempt from anti-trust laws.

Attorney General McGrath announced the FBI investigation.

He said the justice department is receiving a "substantial number of complaints" about "alleged restraints imposed by professional baseball upon the broadcasting and televising of games."

But, he said, the investigation will cover all sports, including college football.

Four Bills Introduced

The bills were introduced by four members of Congress long interested in baseball.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo), president of the Western League; Rep. Herlong, (D-Fla), former president of the Florida State Baseball League; Rep. Price (D-Ill), a reformed sports writer, and Rep. Hills (D-rk), who described himself as just a fan.

Although all four apparently had baseball chiefly in mind, their similar bills did not mention baseball by name, but said that organized sports should be exempt from the anti-trust laws.

These laws long have frightened leaders of organized baseball.

When a player signs a professional contract, he becomes the property of the team with which he signs. He remains its property until the team decides to get rid of him.

Cannot Peddle Services

He cannot peddle his services to another club if he doesn't like the terms he's getting from the team which signed him. "Chattel" has been the word used by some critics to describe such an athlete.

Does the perpetual ownership of this player—which is provided for under what is known as baseball's reserve clause—violate anti-trust or anti-monopoly laws? If it does, the entire baseball structure, as it is now known, could come toppling down.

Each baseball team controls the rights to baseball broadcasts within a radius of 50 miles from its park.

Here in Washington, for example, major league games from other cities are broadcast here regularly during the day. That's because the Washington Senators normally play at night. Any rival broadcast must be over 30 minutes before the game is to start here.

A justice department official said that two private suits reecntly were filed by radio stations, alleging restraints on broadcasting rights.

Suits Are Filed

Station WFIN-FM, at Finley, Ohio, has brought a private anti-trust suit against the Cleveland Indians and the Lima, Ohio baseball club. It contends that WFIN is not permitted to broadcast any Cleveland games in Finley if the Lima club, which has a park only 35 miles away, is playing at the same time.

A similar suit has been filed by Station KFSB, at Joplin, Mo., against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Joplin baseball team, a brewing company and an advertising agency. This suit asks $15,000 damages.

Ten-Pin Players Feted At Banquet

The City Ten-Pin League of Frostburg entertained its members with a banquet Tuesday evening at Workman's Restaurant. During the program a motion picture on outdoor life was shown to the 32 members in attendance.

Graziano To Meet Robinson For Title

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — Rocky Graziano, one-time world middleweight champion, said today he would meet Ray (Sugar) Robinson in a middleweight title bout in Chicago during September.

Graziano returned from Montreal today. He knocked out Johnny Greco in the third round there Monday night.

Hodges Blasts 14th

PITTSBURGH, May 23 (AP) — Gil Hodges hit his 14th home run of the season to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers in a 15-hit attack which swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11 to 4 tonight at Forbes Field.

Hodges' circuit blow in the first inning with two aboard gave pitcher Don Newcombe a three-run bulge and enabled him to coast to his fourth victory against two losses.

Pirate Wally Westlake homered in the fourth for his 13th of the year, one behind Hodges. Score:

BROOKLYN	300 060 002	11	15	3
PITTSBURGH	000 200 002	4	8	1

Newcombe and Campanella; Queen, Werle (5), Koski (9) and McCullough, Fitzgerald (9). HR-Bkn-Hodges, Cox. Pgh-Westlake. LP—Queen.

Games Postponed

All local softball and baseball games scheduled yesterday were washed out by rain. The Little League Baseball tilts at Penn Avenue were called off as were the opening games of the Queen's Softball League.

Today's PITCHERS

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — Probable pitchers in tomorrow's major league games (won and lost records in parentheses):

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Detroit at New York — Cain (2-2) vs Ostrowski (1-1).

St. Louis at Boston — Widmar (2-3) vs Taylor (2-3).

Cleveland at Washington — Lemon (3-4) vs Marrero (5-0).

Chicago at Philadelphia — Gumpert (1-0) vs Kellner (3-1).

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cincinnati at St. Louis (night) — Blackwell (5-3) or Raffensberger (1-4) vs Presko (2-2).

(Only games scheduled).

Redlegs Jump Konstanty To Top Phils, 4-3

Kluszewski's Hit Wins Game In 10th

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—Cincinnati hopped all over Jim Konstanty in the tenth inning today to defeat Philadelphia, 4 to 3.

The victory, behind the somewhat spotty pitching of Willard Ramsdell, ended a four-game losing streak for the Reds.

Philadelphia held a 2-0 lead going into the sixth, when Cincinnati tied it up.

Dick Sisler, hitting safely in his 13th consecutive game, rifled the ball over the left field fence in the tenth with two out to put his club in front again.

Fireman Konsanty then took over for the veteran Ken Heintzelman, who gave way to a pinch batter in the ninth.

Bobby Adams, batting for Ramsdell, singled to start the Reds' half of the tenth. Hatton bunted, but Adams was out at second. Then Connie Ryan singled, and Johnny Wyrostek followed with a one-baser, scoring Hatton. Robin Roberts replaced Konstanty. Joe Adcock was an easy out, but Ted Kluszewski drove Ryan home on a safety to center to win the game. Box:

Stephens Equals Record As Bosox Win, 12-0

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Lefty Mel Parnell had a perfect day at bat, three singles and a double, while pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 12-0 shutout over the lowly St. Louis Browns today with a four-hit performance.

During the slaughter of the American League cellarites, whose sixth straight loss was held up for 50 minutes by rain, Red Socker Vern Stephens equalled Luke Appling's three-year-old American League third base fielding record by totaling 10 assists.

Johnny Pesky set up the 10th such play by fielding Ken Wood's hard-hit grounder and tossing to Stephens, who rifled the ball to First Baseman Walt Dropo for the final putout. Box:

PETERSBURG, W. Va., May 23 — Petersburg retained its slim lead in the Alleghany Baseball League by defeating Elkins in a 10-inning game on the Randolph countians' home field Sunday. The score was 14-12.

Elkins tied up the game at 12-all in the 9th, then Petersburg sewed it up in the top of the tenth when Gerald Dahmer and Norris Dolly slammed home runs over the centerfield wall.

Six circuit clouts featured the slugfest in which the teams gathered 38 hits. Ray Hill connected with two aboard in the 6th and Henry Denault socked a four-bagger in the 8th. Chenoweth and Scott knocked round-trippers for Elkins.

Marshall Combs and Stalnaker went the route on the rubber and fanned six batsmen apiece.

Ray Eldridge fanned 12 as the Medium Security Prison team of Huttonsville won over Parsons by the score of 9-7. W. Jones and Meadows hit home runs for the winning team.

At Franklin, Manager Leo Skidmore's Pendleton county team hung it on Bartow to the tune of 8-2.

Bartow plays at Petersburg, M. S. P. at Franklin and Elkins at Parsons in games scheduled for Sunday.

Jethroe's Misplay Costs Braves Tilt

ST. LOUIS, May 23 (AP)—Outfielder Sam Jethroe of Boston lost a costly fly in the sun today and the St. Louis Cardinals took it from there to score a 6-5 victory over the Braves.

The Redbirds break came in the fourth inning, with St. Louis trailing 3-0. There were two out and runners on first and third when Nippy Jones lifted an easy fly to center.

Jethroe had his hands up as if he were ready for a routine catch. But he lost the ball and it struck him in the stomach and dropped to the ground.

The play was ruled a double under the circumstances and it gave St. Louis two runs. Then Joe Garagiola doubled Jones home and Bill Johnson singled Garagiola across, giving the Cardinals a 4-3 lead. Box:

Turnesa Loses To Scotsman In Amateur

Six Other Americans Cop British Matches'

PORTHCAWL, South Wales, May 23 (INS) — Frank Stranahan, Sam Urzetta and five fellow Walker Cuppers drove a winning Yankee wedge through today's third round of the British Amateur Golf championship, but they left behind little Willie Turnesa, upset overtime loser to a sensational 19-year-old Scot.

Five other Americans besides Turnesa fell by the wayside during today's play on the famous old Porthcawl links, with one of them, Walker Cupper Bob Knowles of Boston, bowing to the defending champion Stranahan, 4 and 2.

Urzetta, the U. S. amateur champ from Rochester, N. Y. slapped down John Mill of Scotland, 5 and 4, while victory went, too, to Jim McHale of Philadelphia, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Walker Cup alternate Francis Wininger of Pleasantville, N. J.

But for former champion Turnesa, one of seven golfing brothers from White Plains, N. Y., there was no surviving the former Scottish boys' champion, a fuzzy-cheeked coal shipper named David Reid who won by laying Willie a dead stymie on the 20th hole.

Two down at the turn, Turnesa put on a vivid spurt that saw him one up after the 16th, just two short holes away from victory.

On the 510-yard 17th, however, Willie's third shot failed to make the green. He chipped on, but the eight-foot putt that would have given him a par 5 rimmed the cup and stayed out.

They halved the 18th and 19th holes with even fours. On the 20th, Turnesa's second shot carried wide of the green. He chipped to within a yard of home, but Reid calmly rolled his putt to the lip of the cup dead in Willie's line.

Turnea's final gamble — an attempt to hop his ball over the Scotsman's ball and into the hole — went awry.

Ace In The Hole Turns Out A Deuce

STERLING, Ill., May 23 (AP) —Cliff John, 55, a Sterling insurance agent, carried an insurance policy with him for good luck when he played golf.

If John scored a hole-in-one the Lloyd's Of London policy would pay $400.

John was golfing yesterday at the Rock River Country Club near Sterling. As three companions watched he made a 128 yard hole-in-one on the seventh hole.

John grabbed for the policy. It had lapsed eight days ago.

West Virginia Nines To Play In Moorefield

Regional Baseball Tourney Will Open At 1:30 EST Today

Martinsburg will play Wardensville at 1:30 o'clock and Romney will battle Moorefield at 3:30 o'clock in the opening round games of the West Virginia Region No. 4 baseball tournament today at Moorefield.

The games will start on standard time not daylight time.

Today's winners will clash Friday at 2 o'clock for the right to represent the region in the state championship tournament set for May 30 31 and June at Parkersburg.

Fans of nearby West Virginia are particularly interested in the outcome of the Romney-Moorefield game which brings together the teams that finished first and second in the Potomac Valley Conference. Romney's over-all record is 13-1 while Moorefield has bagged nine decisions in 10 starts. These schools broke even during the conference campaign, Moorefield grabbing the opener 4-3 while Romney bagged the second contest 7-3. Kenny Vance and Joe Ely were the winners while Grant Cunningham and Gordon Raines were the losers.

The two-day tournament will be directed by John Mathias principal of Moorefield High School.

Arbiters will be provided by the Tri-State Umpires Association.

Corriganville Blasts LaVale Tossers, 15-2

Corriganville copped its sixth victory in seven starts yesterday in the County Softball League by blasting LaVale's defending champions, 15 to 2 behind the three-hit pitching of Kaufman.

The visitors chipped in seven costly miscues to aid their own downfall. The loss was the third in seven games this season for LaVale.

Walter Basilio's triple was the only extra base blow garnered by LaVale while Bill Clites chipped in with a double and two singles and Lloyd Kline had a triple and three singles for Corriganville.

Games today include Stringtown at Corriganville, Potomac Valley at Wellersburg and LaVale at Ellerslie. The score:

LaVale	000 000 2	2	3	7
Corriganville	515 022 x	15	13	2

Brelsford and Lewis. Kaufman and Schad.

New Pen-Mar Little League ToOpen May 26 In Hyndman

36-Game Schedule Is Planned For Loop

The Pen-Mar Little Baseball League, newly formed, will open its season with a double bill planned at Hyndman, Pa., ball park, Saturday, May 26, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

A gala program is scheduled for the opening with Hyndman host to Barrelville and Corriganville playing Ellerslie in the opening tilts for the four-team circuit.

The Hyndman High School band will lead the parade slated for the occasion and Edmund F. Hoey, Cumberland recreation director, Ralph Hampson, president of the new league and Lloyd G. Keller, principal of the school, will speak briefly in pre-game ceremonies. Mayor C. E. Bush of Hyndman, is scheduled to toss out the first ball.

The games are scheduled bi-weekly on Tuesday's, Friday's and Saturday's. The 36-game schedule will close August 4 with Hyndman at Corriganville that day.

The four teams are the Barrelville Merchants, Hyndman Firemen, Ellerslie Firemen and Corriganville Firemen.

Colonial Open Begins Today

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 23 (AP) —Golf's summer tour opens here tomorrow with the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation. There will be a field of 42 but around the clubhouse they say you can take your choice among Jim Ferrier, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum for first money.

Hogan has won two of the four Colonial tournaments, Snead was champion last year and Mangrum always has finished high and is the hottest winner along the tour this year. Ferrier, second leading money-grabber of 1951, has played the best of the tune-up rounds.

Big Jim, who has put $11,254.16 in the sock this year—just $159.67 less than Kingpin Mangrum—toured the 7,035-yard par 35-35—70 Colonial course in 67 yesterday.

The railbirds are talking about the Hogan-Snead rivalry which over the years has been a thing to see. This year Hogan triumpher in the Masters against Snead and 62 others while Snead beat Hogan and 27 others in the Greenbrier, W. Va., tournament. And the record shows that when the two are in a tournament it's seven chances in ten that one or the other will win first money.

Top Somerset Linksmen By 19-9½ Score

Locals Take Seven Foursomes Over Rain-Soaked Course

Despite the fact that Pro Carroll Boggs and Partner Bill Catherman lost 3 and 0 to Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, the Cumberland Country Club men's golf team defeated the Somerset (Pa.) Country Club linksmen here yesterday 19 to 9½ on a rain-drenched course.

Winning their second match of the season the Cumberlanders took seven foursomes while losing two. The locals also lost the only twosome played in the match.

Cumberland's previous victory was over Hagerstown's Fountain Head Country Club golf team by a 45-18 score. The locals will play their next match at the Country Club here Sunday with Blairmont Country Club of Holidaysburg, Pa., providing the opposition. The match will get underway at 1 p.m. Yesterday's results:

Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, Somerset, defeated Carroll Boggs and Bill Catherman, 3 and 0.

George Garlitz and Dr. P. E. Berry, Cumberland, defeated J. Brant and J. Morrin, 3 and 0.

James Beacham and Henry Dempsey, Cumberland, defeated Bob Boose and Dr. W. Hart, 3 and 0.

John Topper and Dr. K. P. Heintz, Cumberland, defeated B. Barkman and B. Walter, 2 and 1.

Clifton Van Roby and Dr. John Rozum, Cumberland, defeated B. Shumaker and D. Critchfield, 3 and 0.

Ed Statler and Charles Zembower, Cumberland, defeated K. Hare and Pete Shumaker, 2 and 1.

Dr. Frank McCagh and Dr. Frank Cawley, Cumberland, defeated B. Houser and Dr. H. Prugh, 2 and 1.

Cy Bowers and Dick Leonard, Cumberland, defeated A. Graham and J. Welsh, 3 and 0.

H. Younkin and H. E. Wright, Somerset, defeated Loraine Eisenberg and R. E. Guard, 2 and 1.

Sam Evans, Somerset, defeated James Truka, 1½ and 0.

Rain Washes Out Big Tiger Lead

NEW YORW, May 23 (INS) The weatherman stepped in and saved the New York Yankees today. The Detroit Tigers had the Bombers on the ropes, 7 to 3, at the end of three innings, when rain caused postponement of the game.

Erased were homers by Detroit's Steve Souchock, a three-run smack and New York's Joe DiMaggio, a two-run blast.

Turkey-Gobbling GI Kills Twelve Reds In Korea

A Cumberland man has been dubbed the "Sergeant York of Korea" by the Army newspaper, "Stars and Stripes."

He is Sgt. First Class Raymond E. Pryor, 19, son of Mrs. Virginia Pryor, 1603 Ford Avenue.

Here is what Stars and Stripes had to say:

"With 3rd Division—A turkey-gobbling Sergeant York has turned up in Korea and the Tennessee mountain method of killing Germans works just as well on Chinese.

"SFC Raymond Pryor, Cumberland, Md., was on top of a hill with a machine gun when the Chinese tried a banzai attack up the side of the hill.

"We kept shooting them down until they started hiding behind a large rock," said Pryor. "They sounded like a bunch of chickens so I started making noises like a turkey. Everytime I gobbled, some of them stuck their heads over the rocks and I was able to pick them off."

"After the attack, the men of I Company, 7th Infantry Regiment, counted 12 dead Chinese in the rocks."

Sgt. Pryor was wounded in Korea December 9 and was awarded the Purple Heart. He has been in the Far East since last September. Prior to that he had served 29 months in Panama.

Before entering service he attended Fort Hill High School and was employed at the B. and O. YMCA.

Forester Training Course In Progress

A training session for 80 members of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks began yesterday at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

H. C. Buckingham, state forester, said classes will be held in first aid; fire fighting methods, maintenance of roads; court procedure, public speaking and other related subjects to the forestry department.

The foresters will be housed at Herrington Manor during the session.

It requires 5,000 tons of steel yearly to manufacture razor blades for the world.

County Judges To Attend Meet

Governor McKeldin's two-day traffic court conference next month at the University of Maryland, College Park, will be attended by judges and prosecutors of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Former Attorney General of Maryland, William C. Walsh, this city, has been named to assist in handling the "welcome and opening remarks" June 15 at 10 a. m. He is state delegate of the American Bar Association.

Registration will get underway at 9 a. m. in Central auditorium of the Educational Building.

The conference will be presented by the University of Maryland, Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Maryland State Bar Association and Maryland Trial Magistrates Association in cooperation with the American Bar Association and Traffic Institute.

Scheduled for discussion are principles of traffic control, enforcement, proper penalty in traffic cases, court administration, uniform traffic tickets for state-wide use and laws of arrest and obtaining warrants.

Governor McKeldin will address the group June 16 at 10 a. m. A luncheon in his honor will be held the previous day.

Certificates will be presented participants before the session closes.

District Legion Plans Sunday Meeting Here

Junior baseball will head a list of items for discussion at a meeting of Mountain District, American Legion, called for Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 at 206 Harrison Street.

Russell C. Paupe, department vice-commander in calling the meeting, asked that all posts sponsoring junior baseball have their chairmen and managers in attendance. All post commanders and adjutants are also urged to attend. Edward Wegman, district baseball chairman, will issue instructions.

Paupe has asked for reports Sunday on graves' registration and the number of cemeteries cared for by each post in preparation for Memorial Day.

Thomas B. Finan, district Americanism chairman, will make a report, and Paul C. Weisenmiller, district child welfare chairman, will distribute report forms.

Temperature is responsible for the size and form of snowflakes.

Condemnation Suit Settled

A condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission against the owners of the Clary Club was settled yesterday morning before it was scheduled to go before a jury yesterday afternoon in Allegany Council Circuit Court.

Attorneys did not divulge the amount of the settlement. The State Roads Commission had on deposit with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany Circuit Court, a check for $3,150.

This represented the amount that the SRC was willing to pay for the parcel of ground adjacent to the Clary Club.

This property is needed in the relocation and widening of Route 55, the Vale Summit Road, which is under construction.

A jury was drawn yesterday morning, but shortly before noon Associate Judge George Henderson announced the settlement and excused the jurors.

Representing the Clary Club were Edward J. Ryan, and William L. Wilson, Jr., while counsel for the State Roads Commission were Joseph Buscher, assistant attorney general, and William C. Walsh.

At the height of her fame, Rome had about 2,000,000 inhabitants.

He is Sgt. First Class Raymond E. Pryor, 19, son of Mrs. Virginia Pryor, 1603 Ford Avenue.

Here is what Stars and Stripes had to say:

"With 3rd Division — A turkey-gobbling Sergeant York has turned up in Korea and the Tennessee mountain method of killing Germans works just as well on Chinese.

"SFC Raymond Pryor, Cumberland, Md., was on top of a hill with a machine gun when the Chinese tried a banzai attack up the side of the hill.

"We kept shooting them down until they started hiding behind a large rock," said Pryor. "They sounded like a bunch of chickens so I started making noises like a turkey. Everytime I gobbled, some of them stuck their heads over the rocks and I was able to pick them off."

"After the attack, the men of I Company, 7th Infantry Regiment, counted 12 dead Chinese in the rocks."

Sgt. Pryor was wounded in Korea December 9 and was awarded the Purple Heart. He has been in the Far East since last September. Prior to that he had served 29 months in Panama.

Before entering service he attended Fort Hill High School and was employed at the B. and O. YMCA.

Forester Training Course In Progress

A training session for 80 members of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks began yesterday at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

H. C. Buckingham, state forester, said classes will be held in first aid; fire fighting methods, maintenance of roads; court procedure, public speaking and other related subjects to the forestry department.

The foresters will be housed at Herrington Manor during the session.

It requires 5,000 tons of steel yearly to manufacture razor blades for the world.

County Judges To Attend Meet

Governor McKeldin's two-day traffic court conference next month at the University of Maryland, College Park, will be attended by judges and prosecutors of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Former Attorney General of Maryland, William C. Walsh, this city, has been named to assist in handling the "welcome and opening remarks" June 15 at 10 a. m. He is state delegate of the American Bar Association.

Registration will get underway at 9 a. m. in Central auditorium of the Educational Building.

The conference will be presented by the University of Maryland, Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Maryland State Bar Association and Maryland Trial Magistrates Association in cooperation with the American Bar Association and Traffic Institute.

Scheduled for discussion are principles of traffic control, enforcement, proper penalty in traffic cases, court administration, uniform traffic tickets for state-wide use and laws of arrest and obtaining warrants.

Governor McKeldin will address the group June 16 at 10 a. m. A luncheon in his honor will be held the previous day.

Certificates will be presented participants before the session closes.

District Legion Plans Sunday Meeting Here

Junior baseball will head a list of items for discussion at a meeting of Mountain District, American Legion, called for Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 at 206 Harrison Street.

Russell C. Paupe, department vice-commander in calling the meeting, asked that all posts sponsoring junior baseball have their chairmen and managers in attendance. All post commanders and adjutants are also urged to attend. Edward Wegman, district baseball chairman, will issue instructions.

Paupe has asked for reports Sunday on graves' registration and the number of cemeteries cared for by each post in preparation for Memorial Day.

Thomas B. Finan, district Americanism chairman, will make a report, and Paul C. Weisenmiller, district child welfare chairman, will distribute report forms.

Temperature is responsible for the size and form of snowflakes.

Condemnation Suit Settled

A condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission against the owners of the Clary Club was settled yesterday morning before it was scheduled to go before a jury yesterday afternoon in Allegany Council Circuit Court.

Attorneys did not divulge the amount of the settlement. The State Roads Commission had on deposit with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany Circuit Court, a check for $3,150.

This represented the amount that the SRC was willing to pay for the parcel of ground adjacent to the Clary Club.

This property is needed in the relocation and widening of Route 55, the Vale Summit Road, which is under construction.

A jury was drawn yesterday morning, but shortly before noon Associate Judge George Henderson announced the settlement and excused the jurors.

Representing the Clary Club were Edward J. Ryan, and William L. Wilson, Jr., while counsel for the State Roads Commission were Joseph Buscher, assistant attorney general, and William C. Walsh.

At the height of her fame, Rome had about 2,000,000 inhabitants.

In Taste Scores Easy Victory At Suffolk Downs

Three Jockeys Ride Triples At Tracks

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Moving quickly to the front after the first quarter mile In Taste scored a clean cut five length victory in today's featured Newburyport Purse at Suffolk Downs.

A throng of 9,981 racing enthusiasts saw the aptly named daughter of Condiment-In The Night turn the six furlongs in 1:12 1/5. War Token finished second just a neck ahead of favored Daughter C.

Ralph Borgemenke, the country's leading apprentice rider, scored a consecutive triple, guiding home the first three winners.

He rode Rudy's Star and Tintina to triumphs for a $14.40 daily double, smallest of the local season. His third victory was aboard Easy Paddy. Borgemenke was the fourth rider to register both ends of a daily double in New England this year.

Jockeys Ride Triples

GARDEN STATE PARK, Camden, N. J., May 23 (AP)—Jockeys Jimmy Stout and Fernando Ferandez scored triples at Garden State Park today to share in its racing honors.

Stout, who presently leads at this meeting, scored his third victory astride Bedford Stable's Call Over, who defeated J. L. O. McKnight's Mr. Buster by a head in the Reciprocity feature. Call Over, a chestnut colt out of Devil-Diver-Duchess Anita, went the six furlongs over sloppy going in a creditable 1:12 3/5 before 13,768 rain-soaked spectators.

Acorn Stakes Split

ELMONT, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—Walter M. Jeffords' Kiss Me Kate and Isidor Bieber's Nothirdchance were the heroines today in the Acorn Stakes dividing the first split ever in the 21 years of the $20,000 added mile race for 3-year-old fillies.

Kiss Me Kate, a daughter of Count Fleet-Irish Nora, splashed home by 12 lengths in the excellent time of 1:36 2/5, best time ever in the stake, in the first division.

Jockey Warren Mehrtens had her up close to the front runners and took over at the top of the stretch to win galloping. Llangollen Farm's Wisteria won second money by three quarters of a length from Apheim Stable's Jacodema.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS) —All too often the $100,000 Belmont Stakes — third gem in the turf's triple crown—has only a few starters.

This is because so many prospective stake horses have proved themselves only platers in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

But this time—June 16—The Belmont may have its biggest field in history, because none of the three year olds shown to date is a standout.

No one has been able to scare off the others. And so Alex Robb, master of beautiful Belmont, hopes to see about 20 parading to the post for the mile and a half which, he insists, is the real test of a champion.

This also may be the richest of Belmont for it costs $100 merely to nominate a horse and $1,000 to start him. Thus this year's renewal might gross in excess of $120,000.

Robb declares the Derby and Preakness are not always true indications of events to come because a horse seldom hits his real stride before June.

Alex says:

"The turf situation is something like baseball. A normal tail-ender may get off in front for a week or two but when the hot weather comes the tail-ender finds his true level.

"Of course, a team like the Yanks may get off in front and stay there just like Assault, for instance, won the Derby, then went on to win the Preakness and Belmont.

"But under normal conditions neither a ball club nor a race horse shows his true class before June.

Baseball Broadcast Probe Begins; CCC Golfers Win Match

FBI Checks Restraints By Ball Clubs

Bills Are Introduced To Keep Sports Out Of Anti-Trust Laws

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The FBI is looking into restrictions placed upon broadcasting of professional and amateur games, it was announced today. But at almost the same time, bills were introduced in Congress to make sports exempt from anti-trust laws.

Attorney General McGrath announced the FBI investigation.

He said the justice department is receiving a "substantial number of complaints" about "alleged restraints imposed by professional baseball upon the broadcasting and televising of games."

But, he said, the investigation will cover all sports, including college football.

Four Bills Introduced

The bills were introduced by four members of Congress long interested in baseball.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo), president of the Western League; Rep. Herlong, (D-Fla), former president of the Florida State Baseball League; Rep. Price (D-Ill), a reformed sports writer, and Rep. Hills (D-rk), who described himself as just a fan.

Although all four apparently had baseball chiefly in mind, their similar bills did not mention baseball by name, but said that organized sports should be exempt from the anti-trust laws.

These laws long have frightened leaders of organized baseball.

When a player signs a professional contract, he becomes the property of the team with which he signs. He remains its property until the team decides to get rid of him.

Cannot Peddle Services

He cannot peddle his services to another club if he doesn't like the terms he's getting from the team which signed him. "Chattel" has been the word used by some critics to describe such an athlete.

Does the perpetual ownership of this player—which is provided for under what is known as baseball's reserve clause—violate anti-trust or anti-monopoly laws? If it does, the entire baseball structure, as it is now known, could come toppling down.

Each baseball team controls the rights to baseball broadcasts within a radius of 50 miles from its park.

Here in Washington, for example, major league games from other cities are broadcast here regularly during the day. That's because the Washington Senators normally play at night. Any rival broadcast must be over 30 minutes before the game is to start here.

A justice department official said that two private suits reecntly were filed by radio stations, alleging restraints on broadcasting rights.

Suits Are Filed

Station WFIN-FM, at Finley, Ohio, has brought a private anti-trust suit against the Cleveland Indians and the Lima, Ohio baseball club. It contends that WFIN is not permitted to broadcast any Cleveland games in Finley if the Lima club, which has a park only 35 miles away, is playing at the same time.

A similar suit has been filed by Station KFSB, at Joplin, Mo., against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Joplin baseball team, a brewing company and an advertising agency. This suit asks $15,000 damages.

Graziano To Meet Robinson For Title

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — Rocky Graziano, one-time world middleweight champion, said today he would meet Ray (Sugar) Robinson in a middleweight title bout in Chicago during September.

Graziano returned from Montreal today. He knocked out Johnny Greco in the third round there Monday night.

Hodges Blasts 14th

PITTSBURGH, May 23 (AP) — Gil Hodges hit his 14th home run of the season to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers in a 15-hit attack which swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11 to 4 tonight at Forbes Field.

Hodges' circuit blow in the first inning with two aboard gave pitcher Don Newcombe a three-run bulge and enabled him to coast to his fourth victory against two losses.

Pirate Wally Westlake homered in the fourth for his 13th of the year, one behind Hodges. Score:

Redlegs Jump Konstanty To Top Phils, 4-3

Kluszewski's Hit Wins Game In 10th

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—Cincinnati hopped all over Jim Konstanty in the tenth inning today to defeat Philadelphia, 4 to 3.

The victory, behind the somewhat spotty pitching of Willard Ramsdell, ended a four-game losing streak for the Reds.

Philadelphia held a 2-0 lead going into the sixth, when Cincinnati tied it up.

Dick Sisler, hitting safely in his 13th consecutive game, rifled the ball over the left field fence in the tenth with two out to put his club in front again.

Fireman Konsanty then took over for the veteran Ken Heintzelman, who gave way to a pinch batter in the ninth.

Bobby Adams, batting for Ramsdell, singled to start the Reds' half of the tenth. Hatton bunted, but Adams was out at second. Then Connie Ryan singled, and Johnny Wyrostek followed with a one-baser, scoring Hatton. Robin Roberts replaced Konstanty. Joe Adcock was an easy out, but Ted Kluszewski drove Ryan home on a safety to center to win the game. Box:

Stephens Equals Record As Bosox Win, 12-0

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Lefty Mel Parnell had a perfect day at bat, three singles and a double, while pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 12-0 shutout over the lowly St. Louis Browns today with a four-hit performance.

During the slaughter of the American League cellarites, whose sixth straight loss was held up for 50 minutes by rain, Red Socker Vern Stephens equalled Luke Appling's three-year-old American League third base fielding record by totaling 10 assists.

Johnny Pesky set up the 10th such play by fielding Ken Wood's hard-hit grounder and tossing to Stephens, who rifled the ball to First Baseman Walt Dropo for the final putout. Box:

PETERSBURG, W. Va., May 23 — Petersburg retained its slim lead in the Alleghany Baseball League by defeating Elkins in a 10-inning game on the Randolph countians' home field Sunday. The score was 14-12.

Elkins tied up the game at 12-all in the 9th, then Petersburg sewed it up in the top of the tenth when Gerald Dahmer and Norris Dolly slammed home runs over the centerfield wall.

Six circuit clouts featured the slugfest in which the teams gathered 38 hits. Ray Hill connected with two aboard in the 6th and Henry Denault socked a four-bagger in the 8th. Chenoweth and Scott knocked round-trippers for Elkins.

Marshall Combs and Stalnaker went the route on the rubber and fanned six batsmen apiece.

Ray Eldridge fanned 12 as the Medium Security Prison team of Huttonsville won over Parsons by the score of 9-7. W. Jones and Meadows hit home runs for the winning team.

At Franklin, Manager Leo Skidmore's Pendleton county team hung it on Bartow to the tune of 8-2.

Bartow plays at Petersburg, M. S. P. at Franklin and Elkins at Parsons in games scheduled for Sunday.

Jethroe's Misplay Costs Braves Tilt

ST. LOUIS, May 23 (AP)—Outfielder Sam Jethroe of Boston lost a costly fly in the sun today and the St. Louis Cardinals took it from there to score a 6-5 victory over the Braves.

The Redbirds break came in the fourth inning, with St. Louis trailing 3-0. There were two out and runners on first and third when Nippy Jones lifted an easy fly to center.

Jethroe had his hands up as if he were ready for a routine catch. But he lost the ball and it struck him in the stomach and dropped to the ground.

The play was ruled a double under the circumstances and it gave St. Louis two runs. Then Joe Garagiola doubled Jones home and Bill Johnson singled Garagiola across, giving the Cardinals a 4-3 lead. Box:

Turnesa Loses To Scotsman In Amateur

Six Other Americans Cop British Matches'

PORTHCAWL, South Wales, May 23 (INS) — Frank Stranahan, Sam Urzetta and five fellow Walker Cuppers drove a winning Yankee wedge through today's third round of the British Amateur Golf championship, but they left behind little Willie Turnesa, upset overtime loser to a sensational 19-year-old Scot.

Five other Americans besides Turnesa fell by the wayside during today's play on the famous old Porthcawl links, with one of them, Walker Cupper Bob Knowles of Boston, bowing to the defending champion Stranahan, 4 and 2.

Urzetta, the U. S. amateur champ from Rochester, N. Y. slapped down John Mill of Scotland, 5 and 4, while victory went, too, to Jim McHale of Philadelphia, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Walker Cup alternate Francis Wininger of Pleasantville, N. J.

But for former champion Turnesa, one of seven golfing brothers from White Plains, N. Y., there was no surviving the former Scottish boys' champion, a fuzzy-cheeked coal shipper named David Reid who won by laying Willie a dead stymie on the 20th hole.

Two down at the turn, Turnesa put on a vivid spurt that saw him one up after the 16th, just two short holes away from victory.

On the 510-yard 17th, however, Willie's third shot failed to make the green. He chipped on, but the eight-foot putt that would have given him a par 5 rimmed the cup and stayed out.

They halved the 18th and 19th holes with even fours. On the 20th, Turnesa's second shot carried wide of the green. He chipped to within a yard of home, but Reid calmly rolled his putt to the lip of the cup dead in Willie's line.

Turnea's final gamble — an attempt to hop his ball over the Scotsman's ball and into the hole — went awry.

Ace In The Hole Turns Out A Deuce

STERLING, Ill., May 23 (AP) —Cliff John, 55, a Sterling insurance agent, carried an insurance policy with him for good luck when he played golf.

If John scored a hole-in-one the Lloyd's Of London policy would pay $400.

John was golfing yesterday at the Rock River Country Club near Sterling. As three companions watched he made a 128 yard hole-in-one on the seventh hole.

John grabbed for the policy. It had lapsed eight days ago.

West Virginia Nines To Play In Moorefield

Regional Baseball Tourney Will Open At 1:30 EST Today

Martinsburg will play Wardensville at 1:30 o'clock and Romney will battle Moorefield at 3:30 o'clock in the opening round games of the West Virginia Region No. 4 baseball tournament today at Moorefield.

The games will start on standard time not daylight time.

Today's winners will clash Friday at 2 o'clock for the right to represent the region in the state championship tournament set for May 30 31 and June at Parkersburg.

Fans of nearby West Virginia are particularly interested in the outcome of the Romney-Moorefield game which brings together the teams that finished first and second in the Potomac Valley Conference. Romney's over-all record is 13-1 while Moorefield has bagged nine decisions in 10 starts. These schools broke even during the conference campaign, Moorefield grabbing the opener 4-3 while Romney bagged the second contest 7-3. Kenny Vance and Joe Ely were the winners while Grant Cunningham and Gordon Raines were the losers.

The two-day tournament will be directed by John Mathias principal of Moorefield High School.

Arbiters will be provided by the Tri-State Umpires Association.

Corriganville Blasts LaVale Tossers, 15-2

Corriganville copped its sixth victory in seven starts yesterday in the County Softball League by blasting LaVale's defending champions, 15 to 2 behind the three-hit pitching of Kaufman.

The visitors chipped in seven costly miscues to aid their own downfall. The loss was the third in seven games this season for LaVale.

Walter Basilio's triple was the only extra base blow garnered by LaVale while Bill Clites chipped in with a double and two singles and Lloyd Kline had a triple and three singles for Corriganville.

Games today include Stringtown at Corriganville, Potomac Valley at Wellersburg and LaVale at Ellerslie. The score:

LaVale ....000 000 2— 2 3 7
Corriganville ....515 022 x—15 13 2

36-Game Schedule Is Planned For Loop

The Pen-Mar Little Baseball League, newly formed, will open its season with a double bill planned at Hyndman, Pa., ball park, Saturday, May 26, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

A gala program is scheduled for the opening with Hyndman host to Barrelville and Corriganville playing Ellerslie in the opening tilts for the four-team circuit.

The Hyndman High School band will lead the parade slated for the occasion and Edmund F. Hoey, Cumberland recreation director, Ralph Hampson, president of the new league and Lloyd G. Keller, principal of the school, will speak briefly in pre-game ceremonies. Mayor C. E. Bush of Hyndman, is scheduled to toss out the first ball.

The games are scheduled bi-weekly on Tuesday's, Friday's and Saturday's. The 36-game schedule will close August 4 with Hyndman at Corriganville that day.

The four teams are the Barrelville Merchants, Hyndman Firemen, Ellerslie Firemen and Corriganville Firemen.

Colonial Open Begins Today

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 23 (AP) —Golf's summer tour opens here tomorrow with the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation. There will be a field of 42 but around the clubhouse they say you can take your choice among Jim Ferrier, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum for first money.

Hogan has won two of the four Colonial tournaments, Snead was champion last year and Mangrum always has finished high and is the hottest winner along the tour this year. Ferrier, second leading money-grabber of 1951, has played the best of the tune-up rounds.

Big Jim, who has put $11,254.16 in the sock this year—just $159.67 less than Kingpin Mangrum—toured the 7,035-yard par 35-35—70 Colonial course in 67 yesterday.

The railbirds are talking about the Hogan-Snead rivalry which over the years has been a thing to see. This year Hogan triumpher in the Masters against Snead and 62 others while Snead beat Hogan and 27 others in the Greenbrier, W. Va., tournament. And the record shows that when the two are in a tournament it's seven chances in ten that one or the other will win first money.

Locals Take Seven Foursomes Over Rain-Soaked Course

Despite the fact that Pro Carroll Boggs and Partner Bill Catherman lost 3 and 0 to Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, the Cumberland Country Club men's golf team defeated the Somerset (Pa.) Country Club linksmen here yesterday 19 to 9½ on a rain-drenched course.

Winning their second match of the season the Cumberlanders took seven foursomes while losing two. The locals also lost the only twosome played in the match.

Cumberland's previous victory was over Hagerstown's Fountain Head Country Club golf team by a 45-18 score. The locals will play their next match at the Country Club here Sunday with Blairmont Country Club of Holidaysburg, Pa., providing the opposition. The match will get underway at 1 p.m. Yesterday's results:

Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, Somerset, defeated Carroll Boggs and Bill Catherman, 3 and 0.

George Garlitz and Dr. P. E. Berry, Cumberland, defeated J. Brant and J. Morrin, 3 and 0.

James Beacham and Henry Dempsey, Cumberland, defeated Bob Boose and Dr. W. Hart, 3 and 0.

John Topper and Dr. K. P. Heintz, Cumberland, defeated B. Barkman and B. Walter, 2 and 1.

Clifton Van Roby and Dr. John Rozum, Cumberland, defeated B. Shumaker and D. Critchfield, 3 and 0.

Ed Statler and Charles Zembower, Cumberland, defeated K. Hare and Pete Shumaker, 2 and 1.

Dr. Frank McCagh and Dr. Frank Cawley, Cumberland, defeated B. Houser and Dr. H. Prugh, 2 and 1.

Cy Bowers and Dick Leonard, Cumberland, defeated A. Graham and J. Welsh, 3 and 0.

H. Younkin and H. E. Wright, Somerset, defeated Loraine Eisenberg and R. E. Guard, 2 and 1.

Sam Evans, Somerset, defeated James Truka, 1½ and 0.

Rain Washes Out Big Tiger Lead

NEW YORW, May 23 (INS) The weatherman stepped in and saved the New York Yankees today. The Detroit Tigers had the Bombers on the ropes, 7 to 3, at the end of three innings, when rain caused postponement of the game.

Erased were homers by Detroit's Steve Souchock, a three-run smack and New York's Joe DiMaggio, a two-run blast.

FBI Checks Restraints By Ball Clubs

Bills Are Introduced To Keep Sports Out Of Anti-Trust Laws

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The FBI is looking into restrictions placed upon broadcasting of professional and amateur games, it was announced today. But at almost the same time, bills were introduced in Congress to make sports exempt from anti-trust laws.

Attorney General McGrath announced the FBI investigation.

He said the justice department is receiving a "substantial number of complaints" about "alleged restraints imposed by professional baseball upon the broadcasting and televising of games."

But, he said, the investigation will cover all sports, including college football.

Four Bills Introduced

The bills were introduced by four members of Congress long interested in baseball.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo), president of the Western League; Rep. Herlong, (D-Fla), former president of the Florida State Baseball League; Rep. Price (D-Ill), a reformed sports writer, and Rep. Hills (D-rk), who described himself as just a fan.

Although all four apparently had baseball chiefly in mind, their similar bills did not mention baseball by name, but said that organized sports should be exempt from the anti-trust laws.

These laws long have frightened leaders of organized baseball.

When a player signs a professional contract, he becomes the property of the team with which he signs. He remains its property until the team decides to get rid of him.

Cannot Peddle Services

He cannot peddle his services to another club if he doesn't like the terms he's getting from the team which signed him. "Chattel" has been the word used by some critics to describe such an athlete.

Does the perpetual ownership of this player—which is provided for under what is known as baseball's reserve clause—violate anti-trust or anti-monopoly laws? If it does, the entire baseball structure, as it is now known, could come toppling down.

Each baseball team controls the rights to baseball broadcasts within a radius of 50 miles from its park.

Here in Washington, for example, major league games from other cities are broadcast here regularly during the day. That's because the Washington Senators normally play at night. Any rival broadcast must be over 30 minutes before the game is to start here.

A justice department official said that two private suits reecntly were filed by radio stations, alleging restraints on broadcasting rights.

Suits Are Filed

Station WFIN-FM, at Finley, Ohio, has brought a private anti-trust suit against the Cleveland Indians and the Lima, Ohio baseball club. It contends that WFIN is not permitted to broadcast any Cleveland games in Finley if the Lima club, which has a park only 35 miles away, is playing at the same time.

A similar suit has been filed by Station KFSB, at Joplin, Mo., against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Joplin baseball team, a brewing company and an advertising agency. This suit asks $15,000 damages.

Graziano To Meet Robinson For Title

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — Rocky Graziano, one-time world middleweight champion, said today he would meet Ray (Sugar) Robinson in a middleweight title bout in Chicago during September.

Graziano returned from Montreal today. He knocked out Johnny Greco in the third round there Monday night.

Hodges Blasts 14th

PITTSBURGH, May 23 (AP) — Gil Hodges hit his 14th home run of the season to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers in a 15-hit attack which swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11 to 4 tonight at Forbes Field.

Hodges' circuit blow in the first inning with two aboard gave pitcher Don Newcombe a three-run bulge and enabled him to coast to his fourth victory against two losses.

Pirate Wally Westlake homered in the fourth for his 13th of the year, one behind Hodges. Score:

Kluszewski's Hit Wins Game In 10th

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—Cincinnati hopped all over Jim Konstanty in the tenth inning today to defeat Philadelphia, 4 to 3.

The victory, behind the somewhat spotty pitching of Willard Ramsdell, ended a four-game losing streak for the Reds.

Philadelphia held a 2-0 lead going into the sixth, when Cincinnati tied it up.

Dick Sisler, hitting safely in his 13th consecutive game, rifled the ball over the left field fence in the tenth with two out to put his club in front again.

Fireman Konsanty then took over for the veteran Ken Heintzelman, who gave way to a pinch batter in the ninth.

Bobby Adams, batting for Ramsdell, singled to start the Reds' half of the tenth. Hatton bunted, but Adams was out at second. Then Connie Ryan singled, and Johnny Wyrostek followed with a one-baser, scoring Hatton. Robin Roberts replaced Konstanty. Joe Adcock was an easy out, but Ted Kluszewski drove Ryan home on a safety to center to win the game. Box:

Stephens Equals Record As Bosox Win, 12-0

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Lefty Mel Parnell had a perfect day at bat, three singles and a double, while pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 12-0 shutout over the lowly St. Louis Browns today with a four-hit performance.

During the slaughter of the American League cellarites, whose sixth straight loss was held up for 50 minutes by rain, Red Socker Vern Stephens equalled Luke Appling's three-year-old American League third base fielding record by totaling 10 assists.

Johnny Pesky set up the 10th such play by fielding Ken Wood's hard-hit grounder and tossing to Stephens, who rifled the ball to First Baseman Walt Dropo for the final putout. Box:

PETERSBURG, W. Va., May 23 — Petersburg retained its slim lead in the Alleghany Baseball League by defeating Elkins in a 10-inning game on the Randolph countians' home field Sunday. The score was 14-12.

Elkins tied up the game at 12-all in the 9th, then Petersburg sewed it up in the top of the tenth when Gerald Dahmer and Norris Dolly slammed home runs over the centerfield wall.

Six circuit clouts featured the slugfest in which the teams gathered 38 hits. Ray Hill connected with two aboard in the 6th and Henry Denault socked a four-bagger in the 8th. Chenoweth and Scott knocked round-trippers for Elkins.

Marshall Combs and Stalnaker went the route on the rubber and fanned six batsmen apiece.

Ray Eldridge fanned 12 as the Medium Security Prison team of Huttonsville won over Parsons by the score of 9-7. W. Jones and Meadows hit home runs for the winning team.

At Franklin, Manager Leo Skidmore's Pendleton county team hung it on Bartow to the tune of 8-2.

Jethroe's Misplay Costs Braves Tilt

ST. LOUIS, May 23 (AP)—Outfielder Sam Jethroe of Boston lost a costly fly in the sun today and the St. Louis Cardinals took it from there to score a 6-5 victory over the Braves.

The Redbirds break came in the fourth inning, with St. Louis trailing 3-0. There were two out and runners on first and third when Nippy Jones lifted an easy fly to center.

Jethroe had his hands up as if he were ready for a routine catch. But he lost the ball and it struck him in the stomach and dropped to the ground.

The play was ruled a double under the circumstances and it gave St. Louis two runs. Then Joe Garagiola doubled Jones home and Bill Johnson singled Garagiola across, giving the Cardinals a 4-3 lead. Box:

Turnesa Loses To Scotsman In Amateur

Six Other Americans Cop British Matches'

PORTHCAWL, South Wales, May 23 (INS) — Frank Stranahan, Sam Urzetta and five fellow Walker Cuppers drove a winning Yankee wedge through today's third round of the British Amateur Golf championship, but they left behind little Willie Turnesa, upset overtime loser to a sensational 19-year-old Scot.

Five other Americans besides Turnesa fell by the wayside during today's play on the famous old Porthcawl links, with one of them, Walker Cupper Bob Knowles of Boston, bowing to the defending champion Stranahan, 4 and 2.

Urzetta, the U. S. amateur champ from Rochester, N. Y. slapped down John Mill of Scotland, 5 and 4, while victory went, too, to Jim McHale of Philadelphia, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Walker Cup alternate Francis Wininger of Pleasantville, N. J.

But for former champion Turnesa, one of seven golfing brothers from White Plains, N. Y., there was no surviving the former Scottish boys' champion, a fuzzy-cheeked coal shipper named David Reid who won by laying Willie a dead stymie on the 20th hole.

Two down at the turn, Turnesa put on a vivid spurt that saw him one up after the 16th, just two short holes away from victory.

On the 510-yard 17th, however, Willie's third shot failed to make the green. He chipped on, but the eight-foot putt that would have given him a par 5 rimmed the cup and stayed out.

They halved the 18th and 19th holes with even fours. On the 20th, Turnesa's second shot carried wide of the green. He chipped to within a yard of home, but Reid calmly rolled his putt to the lip of the cup dead in Willie's line.

Turnea's final gamble — an attempt to hop his ball over the Scotsman's ball and into the hole — went awry.

Ace In The Hole Turns Out A Deuce

STERLING, Ill., May 23 (AP) —Cliff John, 55, a Sterling insurance agent, carried an insurance policy with him for good luck when he played golf.

If John scored a hole-in-one the Lloyd's Of London policy would pay $400.

John was golfing yesterday at the Rock River Country Club near Sterling. As three companions watched he made a 128 yard hole-in-one on the seventh hole.

John grabbed for the policy.

It had lapsed eight days ago.

Seek Practice Tilts

Ridgeley Junior American Legion baseball team would like to schedule practice games with other junior teams in area. Interested teams asked to call James McFarland, Ridgeley Post No. 136, American Legion.

Zihlman Team Fined

Zihlman baseball team of the Pen Mar League was fined $2.50 by Secretary Kenneth Robertson for failure to attend a league meeting at Mt. Savage Veterans home Tuesday night.

Players To Meet

All players and interested boys of the Mt. Savage Little Baseball League are requested to report at Moss Cottage field at 10 a. m. Saturday for the purpose of forming a farm team for the league. Jerseys and caps will be furnished the team if sufficient interest is shown.

Play Tonight

Ridgeley Legion will be host to Short Gap in a Mineral-Hampshire County Softball League tilt tonight at 6 p. m. at Carpenter's field, Ridgeley, W. Va.

West Virginia Nines To Play In Moorefield

Regional Baseball Tourney Will Open At 1:30 EST Today

Martinsburg will play Wardensville at 1:30 o'clock and Romney will battle Moorefield at 3:30 o'clock in the opening round games of the West Virginia Region No. 4 baseball tournament today at Moorefield.

The games will start on standard time not daylight time.

Today's winners will clash Friday at 2 o'clock for the right to represent the region in the state championship tournament set for May 30 31 and June at Parkersburg.

Fans of nearby West Virginia are particularly interested in the outcome of the Romney-Moorefield game which brings together the teams that finished first and second in the Potomac Valley Conference. Romney's over-all record is 13-1 while Moorefield has bagged nine decisions in 10 starts. These schools broke even during the conference campaign, Moorefield grabbing the opener 4-3 while Romney bagged the second contest 7-3. Kenny Vance and Joe Ely were the winners while Grant Cunningham and Gordon Raines were the losers.

The two-day tournament will be directed by John Mathias principal of Moorefield High School.

Arbiters will be provided by the Tri-State Umpires Association.

Corriganville Blasts LaVale Tossers, 15-2

Corriganville copped its sixth victory in seven starts yesterday in the County Softball League by blasting LaVale's defending champions, 15 to 2 behind the three-hit pitching of Kaufman.

The visitors chipped in seven costly miscues to aid their own downfall. The loss was the third in seven games this season for LaVale.

Walter Basilio's triple was the only extra base blow garnered by LaVale while Bill Clites chipped in with a double and two singles and Lloyd Kline had a triple and three singles for Corriganville.

Games today include Stringtown at Corriganville, Potomac Valley at Wellersburg and LaVale at Ellerslie. The score:

LaVale .... 000 000 2— 2 3 7
Corriganville .... 515 022 x—15 13 2

New Pen-Mar Little League To Open May 26 In Hyndman

36-Game Schedule Is Planned For Loop

The Pen-Mar Little Baseball League, newly formed, will open its season with a double bill planned at Hyndman, Pa., ball park, Saturday, May 26, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

A gala program is scheduled for the opening with Hyndman host to Barrelville and Corriganville playing Ellerslie in the opening tilts for the four-team circuit.

The Hyndman High School band will lead the parade slated for the occasion and Edmund F. Hoey, Cumberland recreation director, Ralph Hampson, president of the new league and Lloyd G. Keller, principal of the school, will speak briefly in pre-game ceremonies. Mayor C. E. Bush of Hyndman, is scheduled to toss out the first ball.

The games are scheduled bi-weekly on Tuesday's, Friday's and Saturday's. The 36-game schedule will close August 4 with Hyndman at Corriganville that day.

The four teams are the Barrelville Merchants, Hyndman Firemen, Ellerslie Firemen and Corriganville Firemen.

Colonial Open Begins Today

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 23 (AP) —Golf's summer tour opens here tomorrow with the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation. There will be a field of 42 but around the clubhouse they say you can take your choice among Jim Ferrier, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum for first money.

Hogan has won two of the four Colonial tournaments. Snead was champion last year and Mangrum always has finished high and is the hottest winner along the tour this year. Ferrier, second leading money-grabber of 1951, has played the best of the tune-up rounds.

Big Jim, who has put $11,254.16 in the sock this year—just $159.67 less than Kingpin Mangrum—toured the 7,035-yard par 35-35—70 Colonial course in 67 yesterday.

The railbirds are talking about the Hogan-Snead rivalry which over the years has been a thing to see. This year Hogan triumpher in the Masters against Snead and 62 others while Snead beat Hogan and 27 others in the Greenbrier, W. Va., tournament. And the record shows that when the two are in a tournament it's seven chances in ten that one or the other will win first money.

Top Somerset Linksmen By 19-9½ Score

Locals Take Seven Foursomes Over Rain-Soaked Course

Despite the fact that Pro Carroll Boggs and Partner Bill Catherman lost 3 and 0 to Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, the Cumberland Country Club men's golf team defeated the Somerset (Pa.) Country Club linksmen here yesterday 19 to 9½ on a rain-drenched course.

Winning their second match of the season the Cumberlanders took seven foursomes while losing two. The locals also lost the only twosome played in the match.

Cumberland's previous victory was over Hagerstown's Fountain Head Country Club golf team by a 45-18 score. The locals will play their next match at the Country Club here Sunday with Blairmont Country Club of Holidaysburg, Pa., providing the opposition. The match will get underway at 1 p.m. Yesterday's results:

Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, Somerset, defeated Carroll Boggs and Bill Catherman, 3 and 0.

George Garlitz and Dr. P. E. Berry, Cumberland, defeated J. Brant and J. Morrin, 3 and 0.

James Beacham and Henry Dempsey, Cumberland, defeated Bob Boose and Dr. W. Hart, 3 and 0.

John Topper and Dr. K. P. Heintz, Cumberland, defeated B. Barkman and B. Walter, 2 and 1.

Clifton Van Roby and Dr. John Rozum, Cumberland, defeated B. Shumaker and D. Critchfield, 3 and 0.

Ed Statler and Charles Zembower, Cumberland, defeated K. Hare and Pete Shumaker, 2 and 1.

Dr. Frank McCagh and Dr. Frank Cawley, Cumberland, defeated B. Houser and Dr. H. Prugh, 2 and 1.

Cy Bowers and Dick Leonard, Cumberland, defeated A. Graham and J. Welsh, 3 and 0.

H. Younkin and H. E. Wright, Somerset, defeated Loraine Eisenberg and R. E. Guard, 2 and 1.

Sam Evans, Somerset, defeated James Truka, 1½ and 0.

Rain Washes Out Big Tiger Lead

NEW YORW, May 23 (INS) The weatherman stepped in and saved the New York Yankees today. The Detroit Tigers had the Bombers on the ropes, 7 to 3, at the end of three innings, when rain caused postponement of the game.

Erased were homers by Detroit's Steve Souchock, a three-run smack and New York's Joe DiMaggio, a two-run blast.

The Pincher Wins

BALTIMORE, Md., May 23 (AP)—Henry H. Hecht's The Pincher returned to action today at Pimlico after more than a month's layoff and proceeded to take a handy decision over Laran in the featured Govans Purse.

The crowd of 8,749 fans backed the 5-year-old son of Helioplis into $3.40 for $2 favoritism, and the George Mohr-trained sprinter gave the crowd no cause for concern, turning the six furlongs over a sloppy track in 1:12 2/5.

"Some rather poor horses have won the Derby and Preakness but no poor horse ever won the Belmont, and don't forget that the Belmont was old when the Derby was young."

The last statement is surely correct for the Belmont was run for the first time in 1867 while the first Derby was in 1875.

But we questioned his belief that no poor horse ever won the Belmont. What about Bounding Home in 1944 and Hurry Off in 1933?

Alex answered quickly:

"Those two were not quite up to the Belmont standard, I admit, but they were far from being poor horses. As a matter of fact, I would call them high class but not great.

"You can fault those two only in comparison with the truly great horses that have won the Belmont. I mean such winners as Citation, Assault, Count Fleet, Whirlaway, Johnstown, War Admiral, Twenty Grand, Gallant Fox, Crusader, American Flag, Grey Lag, Man O'War and Sir Barton."

Alex disagrees with many of the old clockers who insist the current three year olds are at best only high grade platers.

He declared vehemently: "That's all wrong. Bad weather has delayed the training of this crop. We have many good ones around who were not ready for either the Derby or Preakness.

"And it would not surprise me in the least if both Count Turf, the Derby winner, and Bold, the Preakness winner, met their master in the Belmont.

In Taste Scores Easy Victory At Suffolk Downs

Three Jockeys Ride Triples At Tracks

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Moving quickly to the front after the first quarter mile In Taste scored a clean cut five length victory in today's featured Newburyport Purse at Suffolk Downs.

A throng of 9,981 racing enthusiasts saw the aptly named daughter of Condiment-In The Night turn the six furlongs in 1:12 1/5. War Token finished second just a neck ahead of favored Daughter C.

Ralph Borgemenke, the country's leading apprentice rider, scored a consecutive triple, guiding home the first three winners.

He rode Rudy's Star and Tintina to triumphs for a $14.40 daily double, smallest of the local season. His third victory was aboard Easy Paddy. Borgemenke was the fourth rider to register both ends of a daily double in New England this year.

Jockeys Ride Triples

GARDEN STATE PARK, Camden, N. J., May 23 (AP)—Jockeys Jimmy Stout and Fernando Ferandez scored triples at Garden State Park today to share in its racing honors.

Stout, who presently leads at this meeting, scored his third victory astride Bedford Stable's Call Over, who defeated J. L. O. McKnight's Mr. Buster by a head in the Reciprocity feature. Call Over, a chestnut colt out of Devil-Diver-Duchess Anita, went the six furlongs over sloppy going in a creditable 1:12 3/5 before 13,768 rain-soaked spectators.

Acorn Stakes Split

ELMONT, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—Walter M. Jeffords' Kiss Me Kate and Isidor Bieber's Nothirdchance were the heroines today in the Acorn Stakes dividing the first split ever in the 21 years of the $20,000 added mile race for 3-year-old fillies.

Kiss Me Kate, a daughter of Count Fleet-Irish Nora, splashed home by 12 lengths in the excellent time of 1:36 2/5, best time ever in the stake, in the first division.

Jockey Warren Mehrtens had her up close to the front runners and took over at the top of the stretch to win galloping. Llangollen Farm's Wisteria won second money by three quarters of a length from Apheim Stable's Jacodema.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS) —All too often the $100,000 Belmont Stakes — third gem in the turf's triple crown—has only a few starters.

This is because so many prospective stake horses have proved themselves only platers in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

But this time—June 16—The Belmont may have its biggest field in history, because none of the three year olds shown to date is a standout.

No one has been able to scare off the others. And so Alex Robb, master of beautiful Belmont, hopes to see about 20 parading to the post for the mile and a half which, he insists, is the real test of a champion.

This also may be the richest of Belmont for it costs $100 merely to nominate a horse and $1,000 to start him. Thus this year's renewal might gross in excess of $120,000.

Robb declares the Derby and Preakness are not always true indications of events to come because a horse seldom hits his real stride before June.

Alex says:

"The turf situation is something like baseball. A normal tail-ender may get off in front for a week or two but when the hot weather comes the tail-ender finds his true level.

"Of course, a team like the Yanks may get off in front and stay there just like Assault, for instance, won the Derby, then went on to win the Preakness and Belmont.

"But under normal conditions neither a ball club nor a race horse shows his true class before June.

In Taste Scores Easy Victory At Suffolk Downs

Three Jockeys Ride Triples At Tracks

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Moving quickly to the front after the first quarter mile In Taste scored a clean cut five length victory in today's featured Newburyport Purse at Suffolk Downs.

A throng of 9,981 racing enthusiasts saw the aptly named daughter of Condiment-In The Night turn the six furlongs in 1:12 1/5. War Token finished second just a neck ahead of favored Daughter C.

Ralph Borgemenke, the country's leading apprentice rider, scored a consecutive triple, guiding home the first three winners.

He rode Rudy's Star and Tintina to triumphs for a $14.40 daily double, smallest of the local season. His third victory was aboard Easy Paddy. Borgemenke was the fourth rider to register both ends of a daily double in New England this year.

Jockeys Ride Triples

GARDEN STATE PARK, Camden, N. J., May 23 (AP)—Jockeys Jimmy Stout and Fernando Ferandez scored triples at Garden State Park today to share in its racing honors.

Stout, who presently leads at this meeting, scored his third victory astride Bedford Stable's Call Over, who defeated J. L. O. McKnight's Mr. Buster by a head in the Reciprocity feature. Call Over, a chestnut colt out of Devil-Diver-Duchess Anita, went the six furlongs over sloppy going in a creditable 1:12 3/5 before 13,768 rain-soaked spectators.

Acorn Stakes Split

ELMONT, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—Walter M. Jeffords' Kiss Me Kate and Isidor Bieber's Nothirdchance were the heroines today in the Acorn Stakes dividing the first split ever in the 21 years of the $20,000 added mile race for 3-year-old fillies.

Kiss Me Kate, a daughter of Count Fleet-Irish Nora, splashed home by 12 lengths in the excellent time of 1:36 2/5, best time ever in the stake, in the first division.

Jockey Warren Mehrtens had her up close to the front runners and took over at the top of the stretch to win galloping. Llangollen Farm's Wisteria won second money by three quarters of a length from Apheim Stable's Jacodema.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS) —All too often the $100,000 Belmont Stakes — third gem in the turf's triple crown—has only a few starters.

This is because so many prospective stake horses have proved themselves only platers in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

But this time—June 16—The Belmont may have its biggest field in history, because none of the three year olds shown to date is a standout.

No one has been able to scare off the others. And so Alex Robb, master of beautiful Belmont, hopes to see about 20 parading to the post for the mile and a half which, he insists, is the real test of a champion.

This also may be the richest of Belmont for it costs $100 merely to nominate a horse and $1,000 to start him. Thus this year's renewal might gross in excess of $120,000.

Robb declares the Derby and Preakness are not always true indications of events to come because a horse seldom hits his real stride before June.

Alex says:

"The turf situation is something like baseball. A normal tail-ender may get off in front for a week or two but when the hot weather comes the tail-ender finds his true level.

"Of course, a team like the Yanks may get off in front and stay there just like Assault, for instance, won the Derby, then went on to win the Preakness and Belmont.

"But under normal conditions neither a ball club nor a race horse shows his true class before June.

Plan Health Day At Cresaptown

The king and queen of Cresaptown's 17th annual May Health Day Festival, will be crowned at ceremonies Friday at 1:30 p. m. at the junior high school.

Doris Clayton and James Moore, Jr., will receive their crowns from Miss Margaret Morrissey, public health nurse for the school, at the coronation ceremonies during which time the Maid of Honor, Patricia Baird, and her Escort, Keith Robertson, will also be presented.

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of Allegany County Schools and former principal at the Cresaptown school will officiate at the ceremony and deliver the principal address.

A history of the school, prepared by Miss Helen Parker, Mrs. Katherine Stevens, Mrs. Ruth Johnson and Miss Ruth Hanson will be presented during the coronation and the Cresaptown school band will present several selections under the direction of S. Lua Syckes. The Junior High Glee Club under the leadership of Miss Lois Stine and a pageant by the first grade will also feature the program.

Mrs. Annetta Gerson is general chairman of the program and is being assisted by Mrs. Mary Alderton, Virginia Mignot, Lydia Reeves, Novella Crowe, Madeline Michael, Miss Helen Hayden, John Sharpe, James D. Preaskorn and Oberlin Chaney.

Properties Sold

Sale of property at 602 Greene Street by Robert H. Rosamond and Thelma G. Rosamond to Joseph A. Rohman and Edna P. Rohman for about $9,000 was recorded in a deed filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court.

Another deed listed the sale by the Bedford Milling Company to H. Carl Deibert, Bedford, Pa., of property on the northeast side of Decatur Street for about $7,000.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles C. King vs. Nannie V. King, in the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland. The Object of this suit is to secure the passage of a DECREE divorcing Charles C. King A VINCULO MATRIMONII from Nannie V. King, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married at McConnellsburgh, Pennsylvania on June 28th, 1933, and separated in the same month ten years later; that four children were born of this marriage namely, Viola Mae, Harry C., Dale L., and Alma B., and that when the Defendant abandoned the complainant the four children went with their Mother; and that shortly after the abandonment occurred the complainant came to the State of Maryland and has lived here ever since; but that the Defendant is a non-resident of this state, and when last heard of was residing near Connellsville, Pennsylvania.

It is thereupon this 9th day of May, 1951, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that a copy of this order be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in Allegany County, once each week, for four successive weeks before the 11th day of June, 1951, giving notification to the absentee Defendant, of the object and substance of this suit, and warning here to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of June, 1951, to show cause, if any she may have, why a Decree ought not be past as prayed.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk.

NOTICE TO PAVING CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals addressed to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, and endorsed, "Proposal for Flood Control street repaving in the City of Cumberland" will be received at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, on or before twelve o'clock noon, E. D. S. T., June 4, 1951, on which date they will be publicly opened and read.

The work consists of certain items of street pavement, sidewalks, curbs and appurtenances, including macadam base course, concrete pavement and bituminous plant mixed pavement incident to the restoration of street surfaces at various locations throughout the City of Cumberland in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project, as directed by the Flood Control Liaison Engineer. Bids shall be submitted on standard forms which will be available at the office of Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Commissioner of Streets & Public Property, City Hall, and which forms will list all necessary information for bidding.

The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract with the City, and a bond in the amount of Twenty Thousand ($20,000.00) Dollars will be required for the faithful performance thereof.

Each Proposal must be accompanied by a certified check drawn to the order of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, in the sum of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars, which check will be forfeited as liquidated damages in case an award is made and the contract and bond are not promptly and properly executed. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned after the contract is awarded.

The Mayor and City Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

LUCILE ROEDER,
Commissioner of Streets & Public Property.

Judge Warns Against Making Rest Of State "Colonial Baltimore"

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough said today if Baltimore city gained proportional representation in the state legislature it could virtually dictate to Maryland's 23 counties.

The veteran jurist warned that if Baltimore's representatives in Annapolis were in proportion to the city's large population, the rest of the state would eventually become "colonial Baltimore."

Goldsborough spoke at a meeting of the Baltimore Advertising Club.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, May 23 (AP)—Wheat could not continue today with the brisk advance it started yesterday. The bread cereal climbed during the early trading, but gave up all its gains later in line with easiness in other ocmmodities. Closing prices:

Education Will

Traffic lights on Baltimore Street, Johnson and Greene Streets and Greene and Lee Streets will be affected.

Technically, the change will involve substituting amber caution lights for the present white "walk" signals.

Officers Will Aid

This would provide a green light, a three second amber caution light to warn drivers and pedestrians that the light will change, followed by a red light.

During the amber light, any cars which have reached the intersection can proceed with caution.

Police said full explanations of the change and its advantages will be compiled before the plan is placed into effect.

Chief of Police R. E. Flynn said traffic officers will be on duty at the intersections to aid drivers and pedestrians.

All agreed that close supervision by the police officers will be needed for at least the first month to give the new plan a chance to succeed.

Girl Escapes From County Home

A 15-year-old girl identified as Margaret Gordon, of Rawlings, escaped Tuesday night from detention quarters at the Allegany County Home where she was held as a runaway.

She is five feet, four inches tall, weighs 105 pounds and has black curly hair.

License Issued

A beer license was issued yesterday to Andrew McIntyre for premises at 768 Greene Street by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board.

BEAUTIFY

Each jar of H-33 Cream contains 30,000 international units of NATURAL estrogenic hormones which you have read about in leading magazines and newspapers. These hormones may be absorbed into the skin of BREASTS, FACE, NECK, and HANDS, to aid in achieving a younger, firmer, smoother appearance. No claims made for this product in individual cases, but you receive this POSITIVE PERSONAL guarantee. If you are not THRILLINGLY satisfied, return the empty jar and receive all your money back. The hormone strength of H-33 Cream is as much as cream being sold at much higher prices to develop a younger, firmer, smoother looking skin. H-33 is delightful to use. Mail orders filled. $2.50 plus 50c tax.

Maryland Theatre Advertising on WCUM Reverses Trend of Local Movie Going

Back in 1948, when WCUM started operating in Cumberland, the Maryland Theatre, local movie house, faced a nation-wide slump in attendance. They began sponsoring programs on WCUM at once. Here's what they say about the results:

"We are pleased to advise you that WCUM has been instrumental in helping us maintain a steady volume of business despite a nation-wide drop in movie attendance.

"WCUM's aggressive promotion and merchandising has been instrumental in bringing in people from all parts of Western Maryland.

"We unhesitatingly recommend WCUM to any sponsor who is desirous of capturing the market in Western Maryland".

How do you like that for action? All kinds of merchants in Cumberland get this kind of fast, profitable results from advertising on WCUM. You can too. A phone call will bring a representative to tell you how.

The Pincher Wins

BALTIMORE, Md., May 23 (AP)—Henry H. Hecht's The Pincher returned to action today at Pimlico after more than a month's layoff and proceeded to take a handy decision over Laran in the featured Govans Purse.

The crowd of 8,749 fans backed the 5-year-old son of Helioplis into $3.40 for $2 favoritism, and the George Mohr-trained sprinter gave the crowd no cause for concern, turning the six furlongs over a sloppy track in 1:12 2/5.

"Some rather poor horses have won the Derby and Preakness but no poor horse ever won the Belmont, and don't forget that the Belmont was old when the Derby was young."

The last statement is surely correct for the Belmont was run for the first time in 1867 while the first Derby was in 1875.

But we questioned his belief that no poor horse ever won the Belmont. What about Bounding Home in 1944 and Hurry Off in 1933?

Alex answered quickly:

"Those two were not quite up to the Belmont standard, I admit, but they were far from being poor horses. As a matter of fact, I would call them high class but not great.

"You can fault those two only in comparison with the truly great horses that have won the Belmont. I mean such winners as Citation, Assault, Count Fleet, Whirlaway, Johnstown, War Admiral, Twenty Grand, Gallant Fox, Crusader, American Flag, Grey Lag, Man O'War and Sir Barton."

Alex disagrees with many of the old clockers who insist the current three year olds are at best only high grade platers.

He declared vehemently: "That's all wrong. Bad weather has delayed the training of this crop. We have many good ones around who were not ready for either the Derby or Preakness.

"And it would not surprise me in the least if both Count Turf, the Derby winner, and Bold, the Preakness winner, met their master in the Belmont.

The Pincher Wins

BALTIMORE, Md., May 23 (AP)—Henry H. Hecht's The Pincher returned to action today at Pimlico after more than a month's layoff and proceeded to take a handy decision over Laran in the featured Govans Purse.

The crowd of 8,749 fans backed the 5-year-old son of Helioplis into $3.40 for $2 favoritism, and the George Mohr-trained sprinter gave the crowd no cause for concern, turning the six furlongs over a sloppy track in 1:12 2/5.

"Some rather poor horses have won the Derby and Preakness but no poor horse ever won the Belmont, and don't forget that the Belmont was old when the Derby was young."

The last statement is surely correct for the Belmont was run for the first time in 1867 while the first Derby was in 1875.

But we questioned his belief that no poor horse ever won the Belmont. What about Bounding Home in 1944 and Hurry Off in 1933?

Alex answered quickly:

"Those two were not quite up to the Belmont standard, I admit, but they were far from being poor horses. As a matter of fact, I would call them high class but not great.

"You can fault those two only in comparison with the truly great horses that have won the Belmont. I mean such winners as Citation, Assault, Count Fleet, Whirlaway, Johnstown, War Admiral, Twenty Grand, Gallant Fox, Crusader, American Flag, Grey Lag, Man O'War and Sir Barton."

Alex disagrees with many of the old clockers who insist the current three year olds are at best only high grade platers.

He declared vehemently: "That's all wrong. Bad weather has delayed the training of this crop. We have many good ones around who were not ready for either the Derby or Preakness.

"And it would not surprise me in the least if both Count Turf, the Derby winner, and Bold, the Preakness winner, met their master in the Belmont.

Frostburg Organizations To Unite For Memorial Day Rites

Betty Wilson Will Sing At Services

FROSTBURG — A joint committee representing the American Legion, Disabled Americans Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Company "D," Maryland National Guard, the Arion Band and the Maryland Singers of State Teachers' College at Frostburg, has arranged for the annual Memorial Day observance at Frostburg.

This year, in addition, the Board of Governors have joined actively in the arrangements by inviting Walter V. Simon, a former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, to be principal speaker at the 3 p. m. service in Frostburg Memorial Park and bringing Miss Betty Wilson, well-known lyric soprano, from New York to sing at the services.

The community service will begin with a short concert by the Arion Band at the Post Office Plaza at 2 p. m. The speaker will be Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Frostburg.

At the close of the observances, a parade will form on the Post Office grounds and march to Frostburg Memorial Park, where the second service will be conducted.

Color Guards of the various organizations will be led by the Drum Corps of Farrady Post, American Legion, and followed by Company "D", Maryland National Guard, under command of Capt. Gerald Reeves.

Programs Planned

The program at the Post Office Plaza will include selections by The Arion Band, Darrell Zellers, director; invocation, Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, administrator, St. Michael's Catholic Church; address, Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, First Presbyterian Church; selection, The Arion Band; placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D", MNG., Capt. Gerald Reeves; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler, echo bugler not assigned; benediction, Rev. D. B. Eveland, acting chaplain, Farrady Post.

Program at Frostburg Memorial Park, selections, Arion Band; invocation, Father Montgomery; selections, The Maryland Singers, State Teachers College, Dr. Maurice Matteson, directing; Miss Betty Wilson, lyric soprano; "The Gettysburg Address", Joseph L. Evans; selections, The Maryland Singers, and Miss Betty Wilson; address, Walter V. Simon, Petersburg, Va.; The Star Spangled Banner, Arion Band; Placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D"; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler; benediction, Rev. Eveland.

To Visit Cemeteries

During the morning hours of Memorial Day, the firing squad of Farrady Post, American Legion, will follow the long established custom of visiting all cemeteries of the area and paying military tribute to the fallen buried there. The Arion Band will play for several of these services as well, concluding at the Eckhart Cemetery about noon.

In the event of rain, the afternoon services at 2 p. m. will be held in the American Legion Memorial Home.

Two Poppy Days Barton Schedules

BARTON—Friday and Saturday will be Poppy Days in Barton, according to American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 189.

These poppies were made by disabled war veterans at the Perry Point Hospital. Most of the money received from the sale will remain here to be used to assist veterans and their families.

Midland Church Starts Adult Bible Class

MIDLAND—An Adult Bible Class has just been organized in Grace Methodist Church by Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor.

Officers are Mrs. Alvin Green, president; Mrs. James Blair, vice-president; Alvin Green, treasurer; Eva O. Beeman, librarian; Mrs. Hugh McGann, teacher, and Mrs. Clarence George, secretary. The class will meet the first Friday of each month.

Dr. McClellan Leaves College Book Collection

FROSTBURG — Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has been notified that Dr. George H. McClellan, a former member of the college faculty who died recently, has donated his entire book collection to the college.

Notification was made by a letter from Mrs. L. D. Creviston, Columbus, Ohio, an aunt of Dr. McCellan's. According to the letter, the collection consists mainly of current fiction.

Dr. McCellan was a member of the college faculty from September, 1937, to January, 1944. He was an instructor in English and advisor to Student Publications and the student yearbook. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Dartmouth College and a Doctor of Philosophy degree at Ohio State University.

Dr. McCellan was employed by the USO during World War II and was a member of the faculty of the Los Angeles College for Teachers at the time of his death.

Midlothian Homemakers Entertained

MIDLOTHIAN — Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, was guest speaker at the May meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Robert Lancaster, with Mrs. Anthony Ritchie, Sr., co-hostess.

In addition to members of the club, the meeting was attended by two guests, Mrs. Charles Folk and Mrs. Janet Broadbeck.

Members of the club elected to attend the Rural Women's Short Course, College Park, were Mesdames Blaine Willetts, Thomas Simmons, Anthony Ritchie, Sr. and Mason Diehl.

Mrs. William Cutter, Jr., exhibited two hooked rugs, and a song book bound by Mr. William Cutter, Sr., 52 years ago.

Mrs. Matthew Willetts had charge of the clothing readings for the evening, and exhibited a book titled "Sewing is Easy."

The History of the bird "Baltimore Oriole" was told by Mrs. Mason Diehl, she also displayed two pictures, and gave a receipe for cooking rhubarb.

Miss Sylvia Simmons read the history of the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers."

Mesdames Ursula Robertson Henry Barnes and Matthew Willetts, gave reports on clothing.

The meeting closed with the group singing "Faith of Our Fathers," and "The More We Get Together."

The club will have an extra meeting this month, May 24, 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Herman Winters, honoring Mrs. Mason Diehl.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Simmons, with Miss Sylvia Simmons, co-hostess.

Miss Olive Cook Gets MA Degree

FROSTBURG—Miss Olive Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvan O. Cook, has received the degree of Master of Arts from the Hartford School of Religious Education at graduation exercises of the Hartford Seminary Foundation.

Miss Cook is a graduate of Beall High School and holds a B. A. degree from Western Maryland College. She was formerly director of Christian education of First Methodist Church, Elyria, Ohio. She plans to return to work as a director of Christian education after spending a vacation period with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook attended the graduation exercises and were accompanied home by their daughter.

BRIDGE DISPLAY—This is part of the display of bridge models that have been used on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad system. The models will be displayed in Keyser, W. Va., during the Keyser-B & O Exposition all next week. These are models of bridge types now in use and formerly used by the railroad. Included is one of the historic wooden bridges used during the company's early days.

Borden Shaft Native Given Silver Star

Lt.-Col. Layman Cited For Gallantry

FROSTBURG — Lt. Col. Ernest M. Layman, Jr., a native of Borden Shaft, and a son of Mrs. Mary Layman and the late Ernest Layman, has been awarded the Silver Star and a citation for gallantry in action in Korea.

The citation read:

"On February 12, 1951, near Chom Chon, Korea, Colonel Layman received word by radio that a reconnaissance patrol was engaged in a fire fight with an enemy force. He immediately proceeded to the scene of the encounter moving by a direct route to an exposed observation post under mortar fire.

"Constantly exposing himself to increasing semi-automatic and machine gun fire, Colonel Layman, with complete disregard for his own personal safety moved from position to position checking and encouraging the men. He stayed in his exposed position until the patrol had probed the enemy positions and pinpointed his machine guns. During the withdrawal, he assisted in the evacuation of the wounded who lay in an exposed fire lane.

"The gallantry, devotion to duty, and concern for his men's welfare displayed by Colonel Layman reflect great credit upon himself and exemplify the high traditions of the military service."

Frostburg Briefs

The Philathea Class of First English Baptist Church will meet Friday at the home of Mrs. Perry Myers, East Main Street. Mrs. Chester Stewart and Mrs. Nellie Stewart will assist the hostess.

The Women's Work Group of Frostburg Church of the Brethren will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Harvey Miller and Miss Anna Baker. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Victor Wilson and Mrs. Connell Chaney.

Mrs. Mollie Casey and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Casey returned to Baltimore after attending the funeral of Mrs. John L. Casey.

Mr. and Mrs. Addis Casey and family returned to Norfolk, Va., after atending the funeral of the former's mother, Mrs. John L. Casey.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eichhorn, Jr., announce the birth of a son, Dale Richard, in Miners Hospital, May 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Thomas, 110 East College Avenue, announce the birth of a son Monday in Miners Hospital.

The Progressive Pals of the Church of the Brethren will hold a bake sale in the store window of the G. H. Coleman Grocery Store, corner Bowery and College Avenue, Saturday at 9 a. m.

College Laboratory School Students To Present Revue

FROSTBURG—The Dixon Dance Studio will present a dance revue tonight at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of Frostburg State Teachers College, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of the College Laboratory School. The review will feature talent from the College Elementary School and children of the community.

The ways and means committee, Walter Mackay, chairman, Mrs. Mackay and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Minnick, are in charge of the project. Tickets may be obtained from students or purchased at the door. PTA mothers will sell candy during the revue.

Proceeds realized will be used for purchasing books for the lab school library. The PTA has pledged $100 toward this project.

The association is also honoring Miss Lillian Compton, president of the college, by purchasing a brick in her honor for the national PTA building in Chicago. William W. Sluss, president-elect, and Mrs. Sluss will attend the summer conference at College Park July 8 to 12. This will be the last PTA activity of the year.

There will be a cast of 75 children in the revue. Miss Janice Lee Bradley and Miss Patsy Henry will be featured dancers.

Tucker County Seniors Will Receive Diplomas Tonight

PARSONS, W. Va. — Tonight will be graduation night for the seniors of Thomas and Parsons High Schools.

A new-type commencement, featuring a candlelighting ceremony, will be presented in the Thomas High School gymnasium.

'From This Day Forward," a pageant, will feature addresses by Valedictorian Mary Alice Lambert and Salutatorian Carol Ann Cooper. Connie Barnes, third ranking senior, will be the voice for the pageant. Other speakers will include Miss Peggy Pase, representing the faculty; Miss Norma Jean Carbaugh, representing the alumni, and Agnes Ann Ferruso and James Pase, other high-ranking graduates. Principal Stelman Harper will present awards.

As each graduate receives his diploma, he will light a candle. The flame that is kept burning then will be turned over to the juniors, represented by Janis Fout, Regina Jeran, Mary Sedmock and Joan Snyder.

At Parsons High School, the commencement will be held in the auditorium. Miss Sally Ann English will play the processional and recessional. Rev. Harold D. Shiftlet, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation.

"Youth Contributes To America's Future" will be the subject of Salutatorian Elton Dodd's address. Valedictorian Helen Louise Felton will give a farewell address.

Special awards will be made by Principal M. M. Freeman. Class President Deets Floyd will present the seniors for their diplomas, which will be awarded by County School Superintendent Jason Wolford. Rev. W. A. O'Dell, pastor of First Methodist Church, will give the benediction.

Recognition Day Held At PSS

KEYSER, W. Va.—Edward Welsh, president of the Honor Society, who officiated at yesterday's 11th annual Recognition Day at Potomac State School, was cited by Dean K. S. McKee for having maintained a perfect straight "A" average through his two years at the Keyser school.

Others honored for high scholastic rankings were Joan Bowers, highest average among sophomore women; Louis Green, highest average among freshmen women.

The program in the college auditorium began at 10:15 a. m. Representatives of all campus organizations spoke during a review of organizations.

Besides citing those with outstanding scholastic records, Dean McKee singled out all students who had received special honors during the year now ending.

Charles C. King vs. Nannie V. King. No. 22,182 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles C. King vs. Nannie V. King, in the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland. The Object of this suit is to secure the passage of a DECREE divorcing Charles C. King A VINCULO MATRIMONII from Nannie V. King, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married at McConnellsburgh, Pennsylvania on June 28th, 1933, and separated in the same month ten years later; that four children were born of this marriage namely, Viola Mae, Harry C., Dale L., and Alma B., and that when the Defendant abandoned the complainant the four children went with their Mother; and that shortly after the abandonment occurred the complainant came to the State of Maryland and has lived here ever since; but that the Defendant is a non-resident of this state, and when last heard of was residing near Connellsville, Pennsylvania.

It is thereupon this 9th day of May, 1951, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that a copy of this order be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in Allegany County, once each week, for four successive weeks before the 11th day of June, 1951, giving notification to the absentee Defendant, of the object and substance of this suit, and warning here to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of June, 1951, to show cause, if any she may have, why a Decree ought not be past as prayed.

NOTICE TO PAVING CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals addressed to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, and endorsed, "Proposal for Flood Control street repaving in the City of Cumberland" will be received at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, on or before twelve o'clock noon, E. D. S. T., June 4, 1951, on which date they will be publicly opened and read.

The work consists of certain items of street pavement, sidewalks, curbs and appurtenances, including macadam base course, concrete pavement and bituminous plant mixed pavement incident to the restoration of street surfaces at various locations throughout the City of Cumberland in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project, as directed by the Flood Control Liaison Engineer. Bids shall be submitted on standard forms which will be available at the office of Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Commissioner of Streets & Public Property, City Hall, and which forms will list all necessary information for bidding.

The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract with the City, and a bond in the amount of Twenty Thousand ($20,000.00) Dollars will be required for the faithful performance thereof.

Each Proposal must be accompanied by a certified check drawn to the order of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, in the sum of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars, which check will be forfeited as liquidated damages in case an award is made and the contract and bond are not promptly and properly executed. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned after the contract is awarded.

The Mayor and City Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

LUCILE ROEDER,
Commissioner of Streets & Public Property.

Judge Warns Against Making Rest Of State "Colonial Baltimore"

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough said today if Baltimore city gained proportional representation in the state legislature it could virtually dictate to Maryland's 23 counties.

The veteran jurist warned that if Baltimore's representatives in Annapolis were in proportion to the city's large population, the rest of the state would eventually become "colonial Baltimore."

Goldsborough spoke at a meeting of the Baltimore Advertising Club.

Education Will

Traffic lights on Baltimore Street, Johnson and Greene Streets and Greene and Lee Streets will be affected.

Technically, the change will involve substituting amber caution lights for the present white "walk" signals.

Officers Will Aid

This would provide a green light, a three second amber caution light to warn drivers and pedestrians that the light will change, followed by a red light.

During the amber light, any cars which have reached the intersection can proceed with caution.

Police said full explanations of the change and its advantages will be compiled before the plan is placed into effect.

Chief of Police R. E. Flynn said traffic officers will be on duty at the intersections to aid drivers and pedestrians.

All agreed that close supervision by the police officers will be needed for at least the first month to give the new plan a chance to succeed.

Girl Escapes From County Home

A 15-year-old girl identified as Margaret Gordon, of Rawlings, escaped Tuesday night from detention quarters at the Allegany County Home where she was held as a runaway.

She is five feet, four inches tall, weighs 105 pounds and has black curly hair.

License Issued

A beer license was issued yesterday to Andrew McIntyre for premises at 768 Greene Street by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board.

Maryland Theatre Advertising on WCUM
Reverses Trend of Local Movie Going

Back in 1948, when WCUM started operating in Cumberland, the Maryland Theatre, local movie house, faced a nation-wide slump in attendance. They began sponsoring programs on WCUM at once. Here's what they say about the results:

"We are pleased to advise you that WCUM has been instrumental in helping us maintain a steady volume of business despite a nation-wide drop in movie attendance.

"WCUM's aggressive promotion and merchandising has been instrumental in bringing in people from all parts of Western Maryland.

"We unhesitatingly recommend WCUM to any sponsor who is desirous of capturing the market in Western Maryland".

How do you like that for action? All kinds of merchants in Cumberland get this kind of fast, profitable results from advertising on WCUM. You can too. A phone call will bring a representative to tell you how.

NOTICE TO PAVING CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals addressed to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, and endorsed, "Proposal for Flood Control street repaving in the City of Cumberland" will be received at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, on or before twelve o'clock noon, E. D. S. T., June 4, 1951, on which date they will be publicly opened and read.

The work consists of certain items of street pavement, sidewalks, curbs and appurtenances, including macadam base course, concrete pavement and bituminous plant mixed pavement incident to the restoration of street surfaces at various locations throughout the City of Cumberland in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project, as directed by the Flood Control Liaison Engineer. Bids shall be submitted on standard forms which will be available at the office of Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Commissioner of Streets & Public Property, City Hall, and which forms will list all necessary information for bidding.

The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract with the City, and a bond in the amount of Twenty Thousand ($20,000.00) Dollars will be required for the faithful performance thereof.

Each Proposal must be accompanied by a certified check drawn to the order of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Maryland, in the sum of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars, which check will be forfeited as liquidated damages in case an award is made and the contract and bond are not promptly and properly executed. The checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned after the contract is awarded.

The Mayor and City Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

LUCILE ROEDER,
Commissioner of Streets & Public Property.

Judge Warns Against Making Rest Of State "Colonial Baltimore"

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough said today if Baltimore city gained proportional representation in the state legislature it could virtually dictate to Maryland's 23 counties.

The veteran jurist warned that if Baltimore's representatives in Annapolis were in proportion to the city's large population, the rest of the state would eventually become "colonial Baltimore."

Goldsborough spoke at a meeting of the Baltimore Advertising Club.

William Beck, zone chairman, and Norris Bruce.

The Tri-State Past Grand Association will be entertained by the Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 16, Westernport, at 8 o'clock tonight. Entertainment will be directed by Mrs. Anna Hawk.

A moving picture, "The Conquest of the Air," was shown by Ervin Berry, Bruce High School student, at the luncheon meeting of the Tri-Towns Rotary Club yesterday.

The Unemployment Security Board will meet next Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the St. James Parish House, Westernport, and not on Wednesday as usual, because of the Memorial Day holiday.

Education Will

Traffic lights on Baltimore Street, Johnson and Greene Streets and Greene and Lee Streets will be affected.

Technically, the change will involve substituting amber caution lights for the present white "walk" signals.

Officers Will Aid

This would provide a green light, a three second amber caution light to warn drivers and pedestrians that the light will change, followed by a red light.

During the amber light, any cars which have reached the intersection can proceed with caution.

Police said full explanations of the change and its advantages will be compiled before the plan is placed into effect.

Chief of Police R. E. Flynn said traffic officers will be on duty at the intersections to aid drivers and pedestrians.

All agreed that close supervision by the police officers will be needed for at least the first month to give the new plan a chance to succeed.

Girl Escapes From County Home

Maryland Theatre Advertising on WCUM
Reverses Trend of Local Movie Going

Back in 1948, when WCUM started operating in Cumberland, the Maryland Theatre, local movie house, faced a nation-wide slump in attendance. They began sponsoring programs on WCUM at once. Here's what they say about the results:

"We are pleased to advise you that WCUM has been instrumental in helping us maintain a steady volume of business despite a nation-wide drop in movie attendance.

"WCUM's aggressive promotion and merchandising has been instrumental in bringing in people from all parts of Western Maryland.

"We unhesitatingly recommend WCUM to any sponsor who is desirous of capturing the market in Western Maryland".

How do you like that for action? All kinds of merchants in Cumberland get this kind of fast, profitable results from advertising on WCUM. You can too. A phone call will bring a representative to tell you how.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—(INS)—Charles Brackett asked for and got Jeanne Crain for the romantic lead in his first 20th picture "The Marriage Broker." Jeanne plays a beautiful young model with Thelma Ritter in another top role. Thelma's a picture stealer if I ever saw one, but Jeanne is pretty well able to hold her own with any competition.

Jeanne Crain

If Charlie—Brackett I mean—finishes "The Marriage Broker" in time, he'll return to his old alma mater, Paramount to produce "Famous" which he had started for Bing Crosby when he left.

I saw Jeanne Crain in a few scenes from "Take Care Of My Little Girl." Although she's the mother of three children, she's certainly able to play a school girl with conviction. Now, in "The Marriage Broker," as in "Dr. Praetorius," Jeanne plays a sophisticated young woman.

Norman Siegel is back from New York with Paramount's eleven Golden Circle youngsters—some of whom will be stars of tomorrow.

"I was amazed the way these kids, some of whom had never been to New York, handled themselves both on the stage and in the interviews," said Norman, "We hadn't intended to take them to New York until June. They actually had no rehearsal but they were so good that a musical by Brett Morgan, called 'The Golden Circle,' is being prepared for them."

Joan Taylor, who already has herself a lead in "War Bonnett," has one of the top roles and the others will all be cast in roles most suited to their talents. Here they are alphabetically: Judith Ames, Pierre Cressoy, Laura Eliot, Nancy Gates, Peter Hanson, Virginia Hall, Nancy Hale, Mary Murphy, Michael Moore and Barbara Rush.

Talked over the telephone with Frank Sinatra, who flew to Hollywood for a few days. He was up to his neck in consultations with Leonard Goldstein on his movie, "Meet Danny Wilson."

"Who's your leading lady?" I asked.

"Why you printed it," said Frankie. "Shelley Winters."

So that would seem to indicate that Shelley won't be free to go to Europe. Alex Nicol, and possibly Lyle Bettger are to be in the cast.

Frankie said he closes his TV show June 9 and starts his picture immediately. While he didn't tell me, I know that he's asked Nancy for a divorce.

Dixie Crosby, who has had a wonderful time in Europe, writes Bing from Paris that she'll be home before June 4 in time for the graduation of their eldest son, Gary, from the San Jose School. Gary will go to Stanford this fall and what a football player he will make with those broad shoulders—and what a singer for the glee club, too.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

In July Writer Marty Rackin is marrying Helen Lazich, pretty blonde RKO secretary. Marty authored "Three Secrets" and "The Enforcer," as well as some of Hal Wallis' top screen plays.

Helen and Peter Rathvon sold their home and leave this week for Europe. I hope they won't be gone too long—we'll miss them.

Clark Gable is certainly not planning to leave his Encino ranch. He is planting an orange grove on adjoining property. Syvia? I don't know when she is coming back.

Mrs. Jimmy Stewart's mother and sister left tonight for home. Gloria is that much better. Jimmy gets back tomorrow from Philadelphia. His "big blonde," Judy (the larger twin), is getting just as pretty as Kelly.

Judy Garland has dropped so many pounds from sheer hard work, that she flew to Paris from London to get a new wardrobe.

Both the north and the south of Ireland will get to meet Mr. Robert Hope. Bob goes both to Belfast and Dublin to play in golf matches. Then he takes himself to the Riviera for a rest. Rest did I say? Robert Welch is sending him the script of "Son of Paleface" to read in his "free" moments.

Poor Carmen Miranda. She just got her house in Palm Springs all furnished when a fire destroyed $2,000 worth of drapes and the entire kitchen.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

On The Line

chant Marine Act of 1936. The act ignited a modest building program which was climaxed with the launching of the "America," about a year before she had to be pressed into action as the troop-carrying "West Point."

But the program was in action, and it was stepped up to dizzy levels. During World War II we built 4,500 carriers, 2,700 of them of the Liberty type, and carried 90 per cent of our troops and supplies to every theatre of war. Without that program and its expansion, we could not have waged a global war. But we still had to pay plenty (about a million dollars a trip) for the use of Queens Mary and Elizabeth.

The shipping picture clouded again after V-J Day. We had about enough cargo ships, tankers and the like to make a serious bid for supremacy, even though our crew costs were considerably greater than those of competitors.

Our weakness was, and to an extent, remains, top-flight passenger liners. The British, French and Dutch moved back into contention to take the cream off the fast transatlantic crossings. But a year ago we began to punch back. The American President Line had three 'round-the-worlders building at Camden, and American Export's "Independence" and "Constitution" were well along the ways.

When war broke in Korea, the Joint Chiefs of Staff grabbed the three President ships and completed them as transports. But the American Export passenger jobs (quickly convertible to troops and gear) have been born, and it looks like we're almost back to the eminence the "Savannah" tried to give us in 1819.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Do war hardships make heroes?

Answer: I believe so, to an extent few civilians realize. From my observation and experience in World War I, I know that the physical and mental wretchedness of combat duty may make life seem so much less worth cherishing than it does in normal circumstances that the risk of losing it becomes proportionately easy to face. Consciously, at least, a man's readiness to face death depends on how much he feels at the moment that he has to live for. The unconscious "instinct of self-preservation" is more likely to express itself in "battle fatigue" than in cowardice in action.

May "grandma" have a place in your home?

Answer: How painful a problem her living with you will create, depends more on you than on her. If you are mature enough to see her as a person instead of a "mother" in the childish sense, you will be able to go on feeling that your home is yours, and to regard her as a welcome guest, not a usurper of your rights and privileges. You will treat her feelings—and even her prejudices—with consideration, but will live and rear your children on the basis of what you think is right, not what she does. In the end she will probably be glad to have the responsibility for your life off her shoulders.

May fear of suicide be an obsession?

Answer: Yes. The person who is "afraid he will kill himself" has the same type of obsession as the one who is afraid that he may injure or kill someone else—like the woman who "can't get it out of her head" that she may somehow hurt her children. In both cases the fear has its source in repressed (unconscious) anger and "aggression." The obsessions generally provide enough "imaginary" outlet for this so that it is most unlikely to be carried out in action. But this is not an invariable rule and it is wiser for the victim of either obsession to seek psychiatric treatment.

Frostburg Organizations To Unite For Memorial Day Rites

Betty Wilson Will Sing At Services

FROSTBURG — A joint committee representing the American Legion, Disabled Americans Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Company "D," Maryland National Guard, the Arion Band and the Maryland Singers of State Teachers' College at Frostburg, has arranged for the annual Memorial Day observance at Frostburg.

This year, in addition, the Board of Governors have joined actively in the arrangements by inviting Walter V. Simon, a former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, to be principal speaker at the 3 p. m. service in Frostburg Memorial Park and bringing Miss Betty Wilson, well-known lyric soprano, from New York to sing at the services.

The community service will begin with a short concert by the Arion Band at the Post Office Plaza at 2 p. m. The speaker will be Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Frostburg.

At the close of the observances, a parade will form on the Post Office grounds and march to Frostburg Memorial Park, where the second service will be conducted.

Color Guards of the various organizations will be led by the Drum Corps of Farrady Post, American Legion, and followed by Company "D", Maryland National Guard, under command of Capt. Gerald Reeves.

Programs Planned

The program at the Post Office Plaza will include selections by The Arion Band, Darrell Zellers, director; invocation, Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, administrator, St. Michael's Catholic Church; address, Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, First Presbyterian Church; selection, The Arion Band; placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D", MNG., Capt. Gerald Reeves; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler, echo bugler not assigned; benediction, Rev. D. B. Eveland, acting chaplain, Farrady Post.

Program at Frostburg Memorial Park, selections, Arion Band; invocation, Father Montgomery; selections, The Maryland Singers, State Teachers College, Dr. Maurice Matteson, directing; Miss Betty Wilson, lyric soprano; "The Gettysburg Address", Joseph L. Evans; selections, The Maryland Singers, and Miss Betty Wilson; address, Walter V. Simon, Petersburg, Va.; The Star Spangled Banner, Arion Band; Placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D"; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler; benediction, Rev. Eveland.

To Visit Cemeteries

During the morning hours of Memorial Day, the firing squad of Farrady Post, American Legion, will follow the long established custom of visiting all cemeteries of the area and paying military tribute to the fallen buried there. The Arion Band will play for several of these services as well, concluding at the Eckhart Cemetery about noon.

In the event of rain, the afternoon services at 2 p. m. will be held in the American Legion Memorial Home.

Two Poppy Days Barton Schedules

BARTON—Friday and Saturday will be Poppy Days in Barton, according to American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 189.

These poppies were made by disabled war veterans at the Perry Point Hospital. Most of the money received from the sale will remain here to be used to assist veterans and their families.

Midland Church Starts Adult Bible Class

MIDLAND—An Adult Bible Class has just been organized in Grace Methodist Church by Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor.

Officers are Mrs. Alvin Green, president; Mrs. James Blair, vice-president; Alvin Green, treasurer; Eva O. Beeman, librarian; Mrs. Hugh McGann, teacher, and Mrs. Clarence George, secretary. The class will meet the first Friday of each month.

Dr. McClellan Leaves College Book Collection

FROSTBURG — Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has been notified that Dr. George H. McClellan, a former member of the college faculty who died recently, has donated his entire book collection to the college.

Notification was made by a letter from Mrs. L. D. Creviston, Columbus, Ohio, an aunt of Dr. McCellan's. According to the letter, the collection consists mainly of current fiction.

Dr. McCellan was a member of the college faculty from September, 1937, to January, 1944. He was an instructor in English and advisor to Student Publications and the student yearbook. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Dartmouth College and a Doctor of Philosophy degree at Ohio State University.

Dr. McCellan was employed by the USO during World War II and was a member of the faculty of the Los Angeles College for Teachers at the time of his death.

Midlothian Homemakers Entertained

MIDLOTHIAN—Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, was guest speaker at the May meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Robert Lancaster, with Mrs. Anthony Ritchie, Sr., co-hostess.

In addition to members of the club, the meeting was attended by two guests, Mrs. Charles Folk and Mrs. Janet Broadbeck.

Members of the club elected to attend the Rural Women's Short Course, College Park, were Mesdames Blaine Willetts, Thomas Simmons, Anthony Ritchie, Sr. and Mason Diehl.

Mrs. William Cutter, Jr., exhibited two hooked rugs, and a song book bound by Mr. William Cutter, Sr., 52 years ago.

Mrs. Matthew Willetts had charge of the clothing readings for the evening, and exhibited a book titled "Sewing is Easy."

The History of the bird "Baltimore Oriole" was told by Mrs. Mason Diehl, she also displayed two pictures, and gave a receipe for cooking rhubarb.

Miss Sylvia Simmons read the history of the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers."

Mesdames Ursula Robertson Henry Barnes and Matthew Willetts, gave reports on clothing.

The meeting closed with the group singing "Faith of Our Fathers," and "The More We Get Together."

The club will have an extra meeting this month, May 24, 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Herman Winters, honoring Mrs. Mason Diehl.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Simmons, with Miss Sylvia Simmons, co-hostess.

Miss Olive Cook Gets MA Degree

Borden Shaft Native Given Silver Star

Lt.-Col. Layman Cited For Gallantry

FROSTBURG — Lt. Col. Ernest M. Layman, Jr., a native of Borden Shaft, and a son of Mrs. Mary Layman and the late Ernest Layman, has been awarded the Silver Star and a citation for gallantry in action in Korea.

The citation read:

"On February 12, 1951, near Chom Chon, Korea, Colonel Layman received word by radio that a reconnaissance patrol was engaged in a fire fight with an enemy force. He immediately proceeded to the scene of the encounter moving by a direct route to an exposed observation post under mortar fire.

"Constantly exposing himself to increasing semi-automatic and machine gun fire, Colonel Layman, with complete disregard for his own personal safety moved from position to position checking and encouraging the men. He stayed in his exposed position until the patrol had probed the enemy positions and pinpointed his machine guns. During the withdrawal, he assisted in the evacuation of the wounded who lay in an exposed fire lane.

"The gallantry, devotion to duty, and concern for his men's welfare displayed by Colonel Layman reflect great credit upon himself and exemplify the high traditions of the military service."

Tucker County Seniors Will Receive Diplomas Tonight

PARSONS, W. Va. — Tonight will be graduation night for the seniors of Thomas and Parsons High Schools.

A new-type commencement, featuring a candlelighting ceremony, will be presented in the Thomas High School gymnasium.

'From This Day Forward," a pageant, will feature addresses by Valedictorian Mary Alice Lambert and Salutatorian Carol Ann Cooper. Connie Barnes, third ranking senior, will be the voice for the pageant. Other speakers will include Miss Peggy Pase, representing the faculty; Miss Norma Jean Carbaugh, representing the alumni, and Agnes Ann Ferruso and James Pase, other high-ranking graduates. Principal Stelman Harper will present awards.

As each graduate receives his diploma, he will light a candle. The flame that is kept burning then will be turned over to the juniors, represented by Janis Fout, Regina Jeran, Mary Sedmock and Joan Snyder.

At Parsons High School, the commencement will be held in the auditorium. Miss Sally Ann English will play the processional and recessional. Rev. Harold D. Shiftlet, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation.

"Youth Contributes To America's Future" will be the subject of Salutatorian Elton Dodd's address. Valedictorian Helen Louise Felton will give a farewell address.

Special awards will be made by Principal M. M. Freeman. Class President Deets Floyd will present the seniors for their diplomas, which will be awarded by County School Superintendent Jason Wolford. Rev. W. A. O'Dell, pastor of First Methodist Church, will give the benediction.

Recognition Day Held At PSS

KEYSER, W. Va.—Edward Welsh, president of the Honor Society, who officiated at yesterday's 11th annual Recognition Day at Potomac State School, was cited by Dean K. S. McKee for having maintained a perfect straight "A" average through his two years at the Keyser school.

Others honored for high scholastic rankings were Joan Bowers, highest average among sophomore women; Louis Green, highest average among freshmen women.

The program in the college auditorium began at 10:15 a. m. Representatives of all campus organizations spoke during a review of organizations.

Besides citing those with outstanding scholastic records, Dean McKee singled out all students who had received special honors during the year now ending.

Frostburg Organizations To Unite For Memorial Day Rites

Betty Wilson Will Sing At Services

FROSTBURG — A joint committee representing the American Legion, Disabled Americans Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Company "D," Maryland National Guard, the Arion Band and the Maryland Singers of State Teachers' College at Frostburg, has arranged for the annual Memorial Day observance at Frostburg.

This year, in addition, the Board of Governors have joined actively in the arrangements by inviting Walter V. Simon, a former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, to be principal speaker at the 3 p. m. service in Frostburg Memorial Park and bringing Miss Betty Wilson, well-known lyric soprano, from New York to sing at the services.

The community service will begin with a short concert by the Arion Band at the Post Office Plaza at 2 p. m. The speaker will be Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Frostburg.

At the close of the observances, a parade will form on the Post Office grounds and march to Frostburg Memorial Park, where the second service will be conducted.

Color Guards of the various organizations will be led by the Drum Corps of Farrady Post, American Legion, and followed by Company "D", Maryland National Guard, under command of Capt. Gerald Reeves.

Programs Planned

The program at the Post Office Plaza will include selections by The Arion Band, Darrell Zellers, director; invocation, Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, administrator, St. Michael's Catholic Church; address, Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, First Presbyterian Church; selection, The Arion Band; placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D", MNG., Capt. Gerald Reeves; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler, echo bugler not assigned; benediction, Rev. D. B. Eveland, acting chaplain, Farrady Post.

Program at Frostburg Memorial Park, selections, Arion Band; invocation, Father Montgomery; selections, The Maryland Singers, State Teachers College, Dr. Maurice Matteson, directing; Miss Betty Wilson, lyric soprano; "The Gettysburg Address", Joseph L. Evans; selections, The Maryland Singers, and Miss Betty Wilson; address, Walter V. Simon, Petersburg, Va.; The Star Spangled Banner, Arion Band; Placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D"; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler; benediction, Rev. Eveland.

To Visit Cemeteries

During the morning hours of Memorial Day, the firing squad of Farrady Post, American Legion, will follow the long established custom of visiting all cemeteries of the area and paying military tribute to the fallen buried there. The Arion Band will play for several of these services as well, concluding at the Eckhart Cemetery about noon.

In the event of rain, the afternoon services at 2 p. m. will be held in the American Legion Memorial Home.

Two Poppy Days Barton Schedules

BARTON—Friday and Saturday will be Poppy Days in Barton, according to American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 189.

These poppies were made by disabled war veterans at the Perry Point Hospital. Most of the money received from the sale will remain here to be used to assist veterans and their families.

Midland Church Starts Adult Bible Class

MIDLAND—An Adult Bible Class has just been organized in Grace Methodist Church by Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor.

Officers are Mrs. Alvin Green, president; Mrs. James Blair, vice-president; Alvin Green, treasurer; Eva O. Beeman, librarian; Mrs. Hugh McGann, teacher, and Mrs. Clarence George, secretary. The class will meet the first Friday of each month.

Dr. McClellan Leaves College Book Collection

FROSTBURG — Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has been notified that Dr. George H. McClellan, a former member of the college faculty who died recently, has donated his entire book collection to the college.

Notification was made by a letter from Mrs. L. D. Creviston, Columbus, Ohio, an aunt of Dr. McCellan's. According to the letter, the collection consists mainly of current fiction.

Dr. McCellan was a member of the college faculty from September, 1937, to January, 1944. He was an instructor in English and advisor to Student Publications and the student yearbook. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Dartmouth College and a Doctor of Philosophy degree at Ohio State University.

Dr. McCellan was employed by the USO during World War II and was a member of the faculty of the Los Angeles College for Teachers at the time of his death.

Midlothian Homemakers Entertained

MIDLOTHIAN — Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, was guest speaker at the May meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Robert Lancaster, with Mrs. Anthony Ritchie, Sr., co-hostess.

In addition to members of the club, the meeting was attended by two guests, Mrs. Charles Folk and Mrs. Janet Broadbeck.

Members of the club elected to attend the Rural Women's Short Course, College Park, were Mesdames Blaine Willetts, Thomas Simmons, Anthony Ritchie, Sr. and Mason Diehl.

Mrs. William Cutter, Jr., exhibited two hooked rugs, and a song book bound by Mr. William Cutter, Sr., 52 years ago.

Mrs. Matthew Willetts had charge of the clothing readings for the evening, and exhibited a book titled "Sewing is Easy."

The History of the bird "Baltimore Oriole" was told by Mrs. Mason Diehl, she also displayed two pictures, and gave a receipe for cooking rhubarb.

Miss Sylvia Simmons read the history of the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers."

Mesdames Ursula Robertson Henry Barnes and Matthew Willetts, gave reports on clothing.

The meeting closed with the group singing "Faith of Our Fathers," and "The More We Get Together."

The club will have an extra meeting this month, May 24, 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Herman Winters, honoring Mrs. Mason Diehl.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Simmons, with Miss Sylvia Simmons, co-hostess.

Tucker County Seniors Will Receive Diplomas Tonight

PARSONS, W. Va. — Tonight will be graduation night for the seniors of Thomas and Parsons High Schools.

A new-type commencement, featuring a candlelighting ceremony, will be presented in the Thomas High School gymnasium.

'From This Day Forward," a pageant, will feature addresses by Valedictorian Mary Alice Lambert and Salutatorian Carol Ann Cooper. Connie Barnes, third ranking senior, will be the voice for the pageant. Other speakers will include Miss Peggy Pase, representing the faculty; Miss Norma Jean Carbaugh, representing the alumni, and Agnes Ann Ferruso and James Pase, other high-ranking graduates. Principal Stelman Harper will present awards.

As each graduate receives his diploma, he will light a candle. The flame that is kept burning then will be turned over to the juniors, represented by Janis Fout, Regina Jeran, Mary Sedmock and Joan Snyder.

At Parsons High School, the commencement will be held in the auditorium. Miss Sally Ann English will play the processional and recessional. Rev. Harold D. Shiftlet, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation.

"Youth Contributes To America's Future" will be the subject of Salutatorian Elton Dodd's address. Valedictorian Helen Louise Felton will give a farewell address.

Special awards will be made by Principal M. M. Freeman. Class President Deets Floyd will present the seniors for their diplomas, which will be awarded by County School Superintendent Jason Wolford. Rev. W. A. O'Dell, pastor of First Methodist Church, will give the benediction.

Recognition Day Held At PSS

KEYSER, W. Va.—Edward Welsh, president of the Honor Society, who officiated at yesterday's 11th annual Recognition Day at Potomac State School, was cited by Dean K. S. McKee for having maintained a perfect straight "A" average through his two years at the Keyser school.

Others honored for high scholastic rankings were Joan Bowers, highest average among sophomore women; Louis Green, highest average among freshmen women.

The program in the college auditorium began at 10:15 a. m. Representatives of all campus organizations spoke during a review of organizations.

Besides citing those with outstanding scholastic records, Dean McKee singled out all students who had received special honors during the year now ending.

Dressed for the Ring

Ring Robes

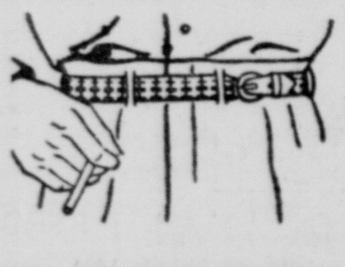
FASHION: TV has dressed up our boxers and the lads are setting a sartorial example, in robes, for the millions who watch them. Pictured here is middleweight Jimmy Herring in a handsome and reasonably priced rayon lounge or beach robe.

Gadgets: A plastic Pocket Saver that fits securely in shirt or jacket pocket and keeps pens and pencils from marring garments. . . . Filterette Disposable Cigarette Holders that capture the nicotine. Use one for a week, then throw away.

Dress Tips: Don't wait 'til the humid weather catches up with you. Have detachable underarm shields tacked in your suits now. . . . If you use a leather golf glove, don't stuff it into the pocket of your golf bag. Air it between games and make sure it's dry before putting away.

Health Items: Many sacroiliac sufferers get fine relief from a regular polo belt sold in most sporting goods stores. . . . Bill (NBC) Stern advises, "Don't wear run-down, beat-up shoes while working in garden or around the house. It's tough enough without putting an extra burden on your feet."

Motor Notes: Americans had approximately 40,000,000 flat tires in '50 (and that doesn't mean "blind dates"!). . . . In the Frankfurt military zone, 25,000 cars are owned by GI's. PX's sell 'em—and gas costs 12½c. a gallon.



The Off-Center Buckle

Belt and Buckle: Your belt will feel more comfortable if you move the buckle to the flatter part of the anatomy, as shown at right—allows the jacket to fit better. You'll find it's easier to take a hitch in your belt when the buckle is in that position.

Odd Items: There have been plenty of efforts by poets to challenge my recent statement that you can't rhyme a word with "orange." Now try—"purple." . . . A good idea was the "Drunkard's Match" (invented in 1872), a wooden match that wouldn't burn past mid-point. . . . "Pass the Cigars" to—Columnist Walter Lippmann who, day after day and year after year, does a magnificently consistent job of reporting the national and international scene.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—(INS)—Charles Brackett asked for and got Jeanne Crain for the romantic lead in his first 20th picture "The Marriage Broker." Jeanne plays a beautiful young model with Thelma Ritter in another top role. Thelma's a picture stealer if I ever saw one, but Jeanne is pretty well able to hold her own with any competition.

Jeanne Crain

If Charlie—Brackett I mean—finishes "The Marriage Broker" in time, he'll return to his old alma mater, Paramount to produce "Famous" which he had started for Bing Crosby when he left.

I saw Jeanne Crain in a few scenes from "Take Care Of My Little Girl." Although she's the mother of three children, she's certainly able to play a school girl with conviction. Now, in "The Marriage Broker," as in "Dr. Praetorius," Jeanne plays a sophisticated young woman.

Norman Siegel is back from New York with Paramount's eleven Golden Circle youngsters—some of whom will be stars of tomorrow.

"I was amazed the way these kids, some of whom had never been to New York, handled themselves both on the stage and in the interviews," said Norman, "We hadn't intended to take them to New York until June. They actually had no rehearsal but they were so good that a musical by Brett Morgan, called 'The Golden Circle,' is being prepared for them."

Joan Taylor, who already has herself a lead in "War Bonnett," has one of the top roles and the others will all be cast in roles most suited to their talents. Here they are alphabetically: Judith Ames, Pierre Cressoy, Laura Eliot, Nancy Gates, Peter Hanson, Virginia Hall, Nancy Hale, Mary Murphy, Michael Moore and Barbara Rush.

•—•—•

Talked over the telephone with Frank Sinatra, who flew to Hollywood for a few days. He was up to his neck in consultations with Leonard Goldstein on his movie, "Meet Danny Wilson."

"Who's your leading lady?" I asked.

"Why you printed it," said Frankie. "Shelley Winters."

So that would seem to indicate that Shelley won't be free to go to Europe. Alex Nicol, and possibly Lyle Bettger are to be in the cast.

Frankie said he closes his TV show June 9 and starts his picture immediately. While he didn't tell me, I know that he's asked Nancy for a divorce.

Dixie Crosby, who has had a wonderful time in Europe, writes Bing from Paris that she'll be home before June 4 in time for the graduation of their eldest son, Gary, from the San Jose School. Gary will go to Stanford this fall and what a football player he will make with those broad shoulders—and what a singer for the glee club, too.

For the next ten days Bing is getting fresh air fishing at Hayden Lake with Bill Morrow. They motored from Elko with Bing at the wheel.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

In July Writer Marty Rackin is marrying Helen Lazich, pretty blonde RKO secretary. Marty authored "Three Secrets" and "The Enforcer," as well as some of Hal Wallis' top screen plays.

Helen and Peter Rathvon sold their home and leave this week for Europe. I hope they won't be gone too long—we'll miss them.

Clark Gable is certainly not planning to leave his Encino ranch. He is planting an orange grove on adjoining property. Syvia? I don't know when she is coming back.

Mrs. Jimmy Stewart's mother and sister left tonight for home. Gloria is that much better. Jimmy gets back tomorrow from Philadelphia. His "big blonde," Judy (the larger twin), is getting just as pretty as Kelly.

Judy Garland has dropped so many pounds from sheer hard work, that she flew to Paris from London to get a new wardrobe.

Both the north and the south of Ireland will get to meet Mr. Robert Hope. Bob goes both to Belfast and Dublin to play in golf matches. Then he takes himself to the Riviera for a rest. Rest did I say? Robert Welch is sending him the script of "Son of Paleface" to read in his "free" moments.

Poor Carmen Miranda. She just got her house in Palm Springs all furnished when a fire destroyed $2,000 worth of drapes and the entire kitchen.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

chant Marine Act of 1936. The act ignited a modest building program which was climaxed with the launching of the "America," about a year before she had to be pressed into action as the troop-carrying "West Point."

But the program was in action, and it was stepped up to dizzy levels. During World War II we built 4,500 carriers, 2,700 of them of the Liberty type, and carried 90 per cent of our troops and supplies to every theatre of war. Without that program and its expansion, we could not have waged a global war. But we still had to pay plenty (about a million dollars a trip) for the use of Queens Mary and Elizabeth.

The shipping picture clouded again after V-J Day. We had about enough cargo ships, tankers and the like to make a serious bid for supremacy, even though our crew costs were considerably greater than those of competitors.

Our weakness was, and to an extent, remains, top-flight passenger liners. The British, French and Dutch moved back into contention to take the cream off the fast transatlantic crossings. But a year ago we began to punch back. The American President Line had three 'round-the-worlders building at Camden, and American Export's "Independence" and "Constitution" were well along the ways.

When war broke in Korea, the Joint Chiefs of Staff grabbed the three President ships and completed them as transports. But the American Export passenger jobs (quickly convertible to troops and gear) have been born, and it looks like we're almost back to the eminence the "Savannah" tried to give us in 1819.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Do war hardships make heroes?

Answer: I believe so, to an extent few civilians realize. From my observation and experience in World War I, I know that the physical and mental wretchedness of combat duty may make life seem so much less worth cherishing than it does in normal circumstances that the risk of losing it becomes proportionately easy to face. Consciously, at least, a man's readiness to face death depends on how much he feels at the moment that he has to live for. The unconscious "instinct of self-preservation" is more likely to express itself in "battle fatigue" than in cowardice in action.

May "grandma" have a place in your home?

Answer: How painful a problem her living with you will create, depends more on you than on her. If you are mature enough to see her as a person instead of a "mother" in the childish sense, you will be able to go on feeling that your home is yours, and to regard her as a welcome guest, not a usurper of your rights and privileges. You will treat her feelings—and even her prejudices—with consideration, but will live and rear your children on the basis of what you think is right, not what she does. In the end she will probably be glad to have the responsibility for your life off her shoulders.

May fear of suicide be an obsession?

Answer: Yes. The person who is "afraid he will kill himself" has the same type of obsession as the one who is afraid that he may injure or kill someone else—like the woman who "can't get it out of her head" that she may somehow hurt her children. In both cases the fear has its source in repressed (unconscious) anger and "aggression." The obsessions generally provide enough "imaginary" outlet for this so that it is most unlikely to be carried out in action. But this is not an invariable rule and it is wiser for the victim of either obsession to seek psychiatric treatment.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—(INS)—Charles Brackett asked for and got Jeanne Crain for the romantic lead in his first 20th picture "The Marriage Broker." Jeanne plays a beautiful young model with Thelma Ritter in another top role. Thelma's a picture stealer if I ever saw one, but Jeanne is pretty well able to hold her own with any competition.

Jeanne Crain

If Charlie—Brackett I mean—finishes "The Marriage Broker" in time, he'll return to his old alma mater, Paramount to produce "Famous" which he had started for Bing Crosby when he left.

I saw Jeanne Crain in a few scenes from "Take Care Of My Little Girl." Although she's the mother of three children, she's certainly able to play a school girl with conviction. Now, in "The Marriage Broker," as in "Dr. Praetorius," Jeanne plays a sophisticated young woman.

Norman Siegel is back from New York with Paramount's eleven Golden Circle youngsters—some of whom will be stars of tomorrow.

"I was amazed the way these kids, some of whom had never been to New York, handled themselves both on the stage and in the interviews," said Norman, "We hadn't intended to take them to New York until June. They actually had no rehearsal but they were so good that a musical by Brett Morgan, called 'The Golden Circle,' is being prepared for them."

Joan Taylor, who already has herself a lead in "War Bonnett," has one of the top roles and the others will all be cast in roles most suited to their talents. Here they are alphabetically: Judith Ames, Pierre Cressoy, Laura Eliot, Nancy Gates, Peter Hanson, Virginia Hall, Nancy Hale, Mary Murphy, Michael Moore and Barbara Rush.

•—•—•

Talked over the telephone with Frank Sinatra, who flew to Hollywood for a few days. He was up to his neck in consultations with Leonard Goldstein on his movie, "Meet Danny Wilson."

"Who's your leading lady?" I asked.

"Why you printed it," said Frankie. "Shelley Winters."

So that would seem to indicate that Shelley won't be free to go to Europe. Alex Nicol, and possibly Lyle Bettger are to be in the cast.

Frankie said he closes his TV show June 9 and starts his picture immediately. While he didn't tell me, I know that he's asked Nancy for a divorce.

Dixie Crosby, who has had a wonderful time in Europe, writes Bing from Paris that she'll be home before June 4 in time for the graduation of their eldest son, Gary, from the San Jose School. Gary will go to Stanford this fall and what a football player he will make with those broad shoulders—and what a singer for the glee club, too.

For the next ten days Bing is getting fresh air fishing at Hayden Lake with Bill Morrow. They motored from Elko with Bing at the wheel.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

In July Writer Marty Rackin is marrying Helen Lazich, pretty blonde RKO secretary. Marty authored "Three Secrets" and "The Enforcer," as well as some of Hal Wallis' top screen plays.

Helen and Peter Rathvon sold their home and leave this week for Europe. I hope they won't be gone too long—we'll miss them.

Clark Gable is certainly not planning to leave his Encino ranch. He is planting an orange grove on adjoining property. Syvia? I don't know when she is coming back.

Mrs. Jimmy Stewart's mother and sister left tonight for home. Gloria is that much better. Jimmy gets back tomorrow from Philadelphia. His "big blonde," Judy (the larger twin), is getting just as pretty as Kelly.

In Memoriam

CLARK — In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, George E. Clark, who passed away 2 years ago today, May 24th, 1949.

The years go by and life moves on,
The world is changing ever;
But in your family's hearts, dear Dad,
We cherish all the precious thoughts
of many a happy day;
For in our hearts you're still our Dad,
And will never fade away.

Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN and GRANDCHILDREN

Ring Robes

Dressed for the Ring

FASHION: TV has dressed up our boxers and the lads are setting a sartorial example, in robes, for the millions who watch them. Pictured here is middleweight Jimmy Herring in a handsome and reasonably priced rayon lounge or beach robe.

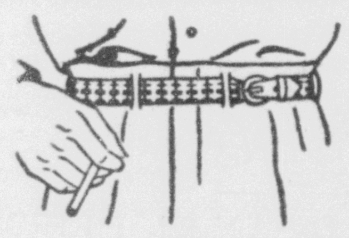
Gadgets: A plastic Pocket Saver that fits securely in shirt or jacket pocket and keeps pens and pencils from marring garments. . . . Filterette Disposable Cigarette Holders that capture the nicotine. Use one for a week, then throw away.

Dress Tips: Don't wait 'til the humid weather catches up with you. Have detachable underarm shields tacked in your suits now. . . . If you use a leather golf glove, don't stuff it into the pocket of your golf bag. Air it between games and make sure it's dry before putting away.

Health Items: Many sacroiliac sufferers get fine relief from a regular polo belt sold in most sporting goods stores. . . . Bill (NBC) Stern advises, "Don't wear run-down, beat-up shoes while working in garden or around the house. It's tough enough without putting an extra burden on your feet."

Motor Notes: Americans had approximately 40,000,000 flat tires in '50 (and that doesn't mean "blind dates"!). . . . In the Frankfurt military zone, 25,000 cars are owned by GI's. PX's sell 'em—and gas costs 12½c. a gallon.

Belt and Buckle: Your belt will feel more comfortable if you move the buckle to the flatter part of the anatomy, as shown at right—allows the jacket to fit better. You'll find it's easier to take a hitch in your belt when the buckle is in that position.



The Off-Center Buckle

Odd Items: There have been plenty of efforts by poets to challenge my recent statement that you can't rhyme a word with "orange." Now try—"purple." . . . A good idea was the "Drunkard's Match" (invented in 1872), a wooden match that wouldn't burn past mid-point. . . . "Pass the Cigars" to—Columnist Walter Lippmann who, day after day and year after year, does a magnificently consistent job of reporting the national and international scene.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

SIOHZL GITSOD ORL YLDO GIZO UK ORL GTNOHZL, NIZMLD ORL YLDO GIZO UK ORL DOIOHL—LALZDUS.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: AND HE WAS COMPETENT WHOSE PURSE WAS SO—COWPER.

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Dressed for the Ring

Ring Robes

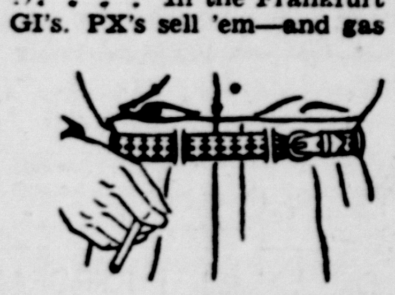
FASHION: TV has dressed up our boxers and the lads are setting a sartorial example, in robes, for the millions who watch them. Pictured here is middleweight Jimmy Herring in a handsome and reasonably priced rayon lounge or beach robe.

Gadgets: A plastic Pocket Saver that fits securely in shirt or jacket pocket and keeps pens and pencils from marring garments. . . . Filterette Disposable Cigarette Holders that capture the nicotine. Use one for a week, then throw away.

Dress Tips: Don't wait 'til the humid weather catches up with you. Have detachable underarm shields tacked in your suits now. . . . If you use a leather golf glove, don't stuff it into the pocket of your golf bag. Air it between games and make sure it's dry before putting away.

Health Items: Many sacroiliac sufferers get fine relief from a regular polo belt sold in most sporting goods stores. . . . Bill (NBC) Stern advises, "Don't wear run-down, beat-up shoes while working in garden or around the house. It's tough enough without putting an extra burden on your feet."

Motor Notes: Americans had approximately 40,000,000 flat tires in '50 (and that doesn't mean "blind dates"!). . . . In the Frankfurt military zone, 25,000 cars are owned by GI's. PX's sell 'em—and gas costs 12½c. a gallon.



The Off-Center Buckle

Belt and Buckle: Your belt will feel more comfortable if you move the buckle to the flatter part of the anatomy, as shown at right—allows the jacket to fit better. You'll find it's easier to take a hitch in your belt when the buckle is in that position.

Odd Items: There have been plenty of efforts by poets to challenge my recent statement that you can't rhyme a word with "orange." Now try—"purple." . . . A good idea was the "Drunkard's Match" (invented in 1872), a wooden match that wouldn't burn past mid-point. . . . "Pass the Cigars" to—Columnist Walter Lippmann who, day after day and year after year, does a magnificently consistent job of reporting the national and international scene.

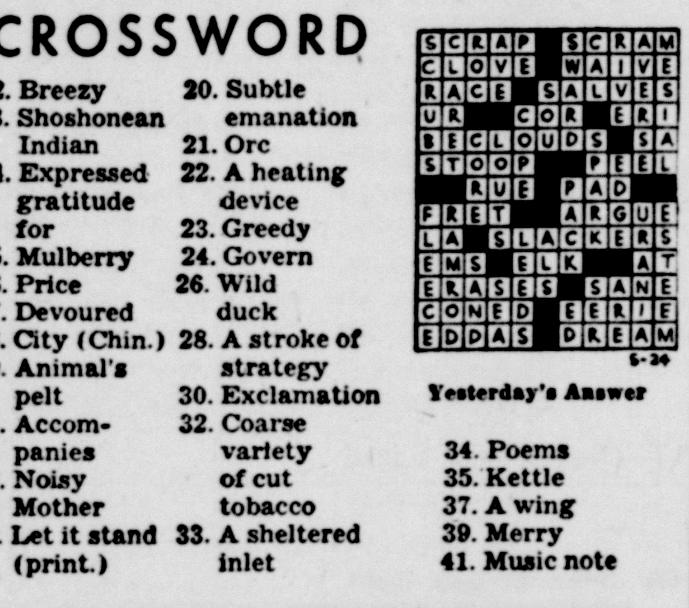
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

SIOHZL GITSOD ORL YLDO GIZO UK ORL GTNOHZL, NIZMLD ORL YLDO GIZO UK ORL DOIOHL—LALZDUS.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: AND HE WAS COMPETENT WHOSE PURSE WAS SO—COWPER.

Stock Prices Pulled Down For Third Straight Session

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—A sinking spell that turned into an acute setback pulled the stock market down today for the third straight session.

Rail issues, steels, motors and oils were active and lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 80 cents at $91.10. The low for the year is $89.40 reached Jan. 3.

The rail component of the average was off 60 cents at $62.40, the lowest level for that component this year. Industrials were down $1.30 and utilities 20 cents.

Volume came to 1,540,000 shares as compared with $1,440,000 shares yesterday.

New lows for the year expanded sharply to 127 issues. There was one new high reached—Thomas Steel.

The market broadened out to 1,135 issues traded as against 1,094 yesterday. Of the total, 232 advanced and 624 declined.

General Motors stood at the head of the most active list off ⅝ at 48⅝. Others following were New York Central off ¼ at 17¾, National Power & Light up 3/16, at 15/16, Northern Pacific (which has considerable potential oil interests) up ½ at 38, Socony Vacuum off ½ at 28¾, and Baltimore & Ohio off ⅝ at 19¼.

Cards of Thanks

The family of the late Elizabeth Rebecca Bergman acknowledge with grateful appreciation the kindness shown them during their recent bereavement. They also wish to thank those who sent flowers, spiritual bouquets and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

CLARK — In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, George E. Clark, who passed away 2 years ago today, May 24th, 1949.

The years go by and life moves on,
The world is changing ever;
But in your family's hearts, dear Dad,
We cherish all the precious thoughts
of many a happy day;
For in our hearts you're still our Dad,
And will never fade away.

Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN and GRANDCHILDREN

In Memoriam

CLARK — In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, George E. Clark, who passed away 2 years ago today, May 24th, 1949.

The years go by and life moves on,
The world is changing ever;
But in your family's hearts, dear Dad,
We cherish all the precious thoughts
of many a happy day;
For in our hearts you're still our Dad,
And will never fade away.

Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN and GRANDCHILDREN

C&P Telephone Company Asks Rate Increase

Would Also Double Cost Of Local Calls

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore petitioned the public Service Commission today for higher rates throughout the state.

It did not say how much of an increase, beyond the fact that it wants a dime instead of a nickel for local calls from a pay telephone.

The company announced at the same time it had offered wage increases to about 3,700 of its union employes.

It did not go into details on this, either, saying it still is negotiating with the CIO unions representing its plant workers and commercial and accounting employes. One group already has turned the offer down as insufficient.

The PSC did not take any immediate action on the petition. If the previous pattern is followed, a hearing may be set to start about six weeks from now. It may drag on weeks or months and there might not be a decision until next year.

Got Increase In 1949

The telephone company got its last increase two years ago in March —A $4,000,000 (M) addition to its annual gross revenues It asked at the same time for new permanent schedules that would have piled another $2,500,000 on top of this $4,000,000. A year ago in March, the PSC denied this but made the temporary $4,000,000 permanent.

In the spring of 1947, the telephone company got a boost of about $5,000,000 in its gross revenues. This was the first increase it had gotten since 1924.

The C&P of Baltimore is the Bell System's subsidiary for the whole of Maryland Its rates also apply to the Maryland suburbs of Washington, although telephones in that area are tied into the C&P of Washington for operating purposes. Similarly named affiliates serve Virginia and West Virginia.

Wage Costs Higher

W. Griffin Morrel, vice-president and general manager of the Baltimore company, said it needs rate increases because it must pay higher wages, higher taxes, and higher prices for materails, supplies, and new facilities.

"The employers are entitled to more money," he declared. "An increase is justified if we are to keep telephone wages in line with community wage levels so that we can attract and retain the employes responsible for furnishing good service."

The petition to the PSC pointed out that 3,600 traffic department employes — mostly operators — got increases in January after negotiations with their union.

Information on how much more revenue the company wants and how it would increase rates to get this revenue will be presented when hearings start, assuming that the PSC calls hearings.

Seek New Valuation

The formal petition asked only that the commission determine the fair value of the company equipment utilized in its Maryland service and establish a fair return on that valuation.

In March of 1950, the PSC valued the property at $111,594,909 but the company said this was too low.

The company's arguments for higher rates included these points:

General wage increases alone have been granted at the rate of $15,200,000 annually since 1939 and this is $6,000,000 more than the gain in rates.

Since 1945, the company has spent $14,000,000 for new facilities in the state and will spend another $20,000,000 in 1951.

The present rates are based on the company's operation in the year ended Sept. 30, 1949, and conditions have changed vastly since then.

Federal taxes will take $2,700,000 more this year than last.

Prices for the main materials it needs have increased from 33 per cent, for copper, to 308 per cent, for natural rubber.

The company's return on its investment averaged less than 6 per cent from 1947 through 1950.

Industrial Teachers Discuss Inventories

Industrial arts and vocational agriculture instructors in Allegany County public schools held a departmental meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of the County Board of Education with Julius D. Lonnholm, supervisor of industrial education.

Lonnholm said that these sessions are held every two or three months during the school year. Yesterday's meeting emphasized the importance of inventories for the teachers who soon will be "closing shop" for the school year.

About 20 teachers, from Fort Hill, Allegany, Carver, Pennsylvania Avenue, Cresaptown, Bruce, Barton, Central, Beall, Flintstone and Oldtown attended the session. They included general shop, machine shop and farm shop teachers as well as others specializing in drafting, woodwork, electricity, printing, and bench metal.

Celanese Head Will Address Chamber Tonight

Dinner To Honor Harold Blancke

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will honor the president of the Celanese Corporation of America tonight at a dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club beginning at 6:30 p.m.

A capacity crowd is expected to hear Harold Blancke address the local chamber on industry and the community. Arrangements for the prominent businessman's visit here have been made by the local group as part of the chamber's program to create better understanding between big industry and the city.

Other Officials Invited

This visit will mark the first time Blancke has spoken at a public event in Cumberland and also will be the first time he has spoken in a city where a Celanese plant is located.

Fred T. Small, former manager of the Amcelle plant here, and E. N. Cleves, both vice-presidents of the Celanese Corporation, will accompany Blancke here. City and county officials and other officials of the local plant have been invited to attend the affair.

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, will be toastmaster.

Blancke was born in New York City in 1904 and was educated there. He rose rapidly within the Celanese organization and received his first managerial post with the company in 1930 as assistant treasurer. He subsequently held posts of assistant secretary, treasurer and secretary and was named vice-president in July, 1942.

President In 1945

In August, 1945, Blancke was named president of the corporation. He was first elected to the board of directors in 1937 and became a member of the executive committee in 1938.

Local chamber members noted that July 1, 1918 Cumberland made the first tentative proposal to offer land to the Celanese which at that time was the American Cellulose and Chemical Company.

Former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, Tasker G. Lowndes, George E. Smith and W. Wallace McKaig were members of the original committee in charge of the negotiations. The contract with the company finally was drawn up by Sloan.

Settlement Relieves Jury

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court, which listened to all the testimony in a technical civil suit removed from Washington County, was relieved of the responsibility of deciding the case late yesterday afternoon when Associate Judge George Henderson announced that an out-of-court settlement had been reached.

Judge Henderson was preparing to give the jury its instructions when rival attorneys informed him they had reached a settlement. The amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

The suit was brought by Lloyd R. Hoover, Waynesboro, Pa., father of a Hagerstown auto dealer, against the son's estranged wife, Ruth L. Hoover, for payment of a $6,000 note.

Church Teacher Course Planned

Trinity Lutheran Sunday School Teachers Association held a preliminary session at the church on North Centre Street last night for the purpose of introducing a teacher training course for Sunday School teachers.

The first course to be studied will deal with methods in teaching. It will show how new methods are applied to teaching of religious as well as secular subjects.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, church pastor, will be in charge of the class, which will open to anyone who wishes to enroll. The first meeting will be held Wednesday, June 6. Between 15 and 25 teachers are expected to enroll.

18,908 Corporations Operate In State

In 1950 there were 18,908 corporations operating in Maryland, an increase over the 17,946 in 1949, according to the 18th Biennial Report of the Maryland State Tax Commission.

The commission, reporting to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, listed taxes collected by it at $388,612 in 1949 and $410,745 in 1950 on Maryland corporations.

Fees collected from foreign corporations for 1949 totaled $60,458 and for 1950, $61,072.

VFW District No. 3 Will Elect Sunday

District No. 3, Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. at Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW home, Union Street to elect officers for the new fiscal year.

A district commander, senior and junior vice commanders, quartermaster, judge advocate and chaplain will be chosen to represent posts in Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served according to District Commander Edward J. Murray, Mt. Savage.

Two Appeals Granted By Zoning Board

Used Auto Parts Lot Gets Approval

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night granted appeals involving a used auto parts business on Ford Avenue and for a three-family residence on Cecil Street.

Charles C. Sullivan was granted permission to occupy 1800 Ford Avenue for selling used cars, used accessories and dismantling used cars to secure the parts.

The board pointed out there was no objections to using the property for the sale of the used cars and parts but that the dismantling operations could create an unsightly condition.

It was specified that Sullivan must build a fence, behind which the dismantling operations must take place, within 30 days after the business is started.

Sullivan stated he had no intentions of starting a junk yard and that the only purpose of dismantling would be to secure the parts.

Also granted was an appeal filed by Clyde Slider to occupy 807 Cecil Street as a three-family residence.

The board, after questioning Slider, reported facilities for a basement apartment were adequate, including six full sized windows and bath facilities.

In question was the fact that the basement apartment wuold make the house a three-family residence in a Residential B Zoning district.

Maryland Farm Output, Size Show Growth

Preliminary figures of the 1950 Census of Agriculture show Maryland farms have increased in size, mechanization, and output over the last five years.

The census reports that of Maryland's 6,323,840 acres of land area, 64.1 percent is in farms. The size of the average farm is 112.3 acres compared to 101.8 in 1945.

Modernization of farms moved again in the five-year period, with 19,457 farms having telephones against 17,137 in 1945 and 30,302 farms having electricity compared to 25,256 in the previous period.

More than 16,000 farms had trucks and 20,547 had tractors, while the number of horses and mules decreased again, a trend which has been constant in Maryland farming.

The total value of farm crops sold was $172,157,408 compared to $137,095,409 in 1944. The chief money product was livestock and livestock products which had a value of $116,685,765 in 1949.

The value of the average farm including land and buildings is $14,212. This latter figure is not exactly comparable with the 1945 figure because of changed definition.

Of the 36,107 farms 25,671 were operated by their owners. Only 18.6 percent of the farms were of the tenant type.

The U. S. Census Bureau observed that the figures were subject to revision. Figues of the census on a county basis will be issued later.

Retired Welder Honored

Fire Damages Residence At Vale Summit

Wilkins Home Gutted In Costly Blaze

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilkins, Vale Summit Road, was gutted by fire last night. No one was injured in the blaze which broke out in the six-room frame house at about 8 o'clock. Volunteer firemen from Frostburg and Clarysville fought the stubborn flames for an hour and a half before bringing it under control. The cause was unknown.

Firemen were hampered through lack of water and a dam had to be built in a stream about 400 feet away in order to accumulate sufficient water to extinguish the flames.

The father of seven children, Wilkins, has gone to Miners Hospital Frostburg to see his wife and seventh child which was born Saturday night. The oldest daughter about 14 years of age, reported the other children were playing at home and suddenly the back kitchen burst into flames. She led the children to safety as fire spread rapidly through another back room, up to the roof and through the wall into the upstairs bedrooms.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze was undetermined last night and full amount of damage not known. The furnishings were almost a complete loss and only a few household items were saved.

Wilkins, who lost a leg in World War I is a cook by profession.

Traffic Death Toll Mounts

Twenty-nine persons met death on Maryland highways during the month of April and 1,015 persons received injuries in a total of 2,263 accidents. These figures show a sharp increase over the same period of last year.

In Allegany County last month one person was killed on the open highway. According to the April traffic accident report of the Maryland State Police one person was killed every 25 hours during the past month.

Thirty-four persons per day was the average number injured during the month and police report 12 of the fatal accidents throughout the state occurred during daylight hours and 15 after dark.

The following counties were free of traffic fatalities in rural areas during the month: Anne Arundel, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, St. Mary's, Somerset and Talbot.

Joseph P. Dickel Completes 42 Years Service As Welder

In recognition of 42 years service at his chosen trade, Joseph P. Dickel, Mt. Savage, was recipient of a fraternity ring Tuesday evening at a meeting of Local 1035, International Association of Machinists. The presentation was made by L. A. McKenzie, president of the Local.

An electric welder by trade, Dickel, was employed by the Western Maryland Railway Shops at Maryland Junction, Ridgeley, up until his retirement April 27 this year. Prior to moving to Ridgeley, he worked at the old Cumberland and Pennsylvania Shops in Mt. Savage until 1942.

Dickel was born in the Dutch Hollow section of Mt. Savage, March 25, 1886 and is a son of the late Nicholas and Bridget Collins Dickel. He attended Dutch Hollow School and later went to St. Patrick's Catholic School, Mt. Savage. At the age of 12 he left the classroom and went to work in the "brickyard". Later, he was employed in a fire clay mine, where he worked until he was 21.

Two important events happened in his life in 1909. During that year he married Miss Nora Moran and also began working at his trade as an electric welder at the C & P Shops.

Dickel has one son, Francis N. Dickel, 202 Spring Street, who is employed as a fireman on the Western Maryland Railway; five grandchildren and one great grandchild. He is a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Mt. Savage, the Holy Name Society, and has held membership in the IAM for the past 30 years.

Receivers Named For Lonaconing Firm

Attorneys C. William Gilchrist and Gorman E. Getty yesterday were appointed receivers of the goods, wares, merchandise, books and papers of Raymond F. Eichhorn, who formerly operated Quality Tire Service, Main Street, Lonaconing, according to a decree signed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Harris' decree instructed the receivers to collect outstanding debts owed Eichhorn and to appoint two disinterested persons to return a schedule of Eichhorn's property to court as soon as possible.

The court action came on an equity suit which Gilchrist filed in Circuit Court March 12 for Auto Accessories Corporation, 139 Frederick Street against Eichhorn. The bill of complaint contended that Auto Accessories Corporation had sold automotive parts to the defendant on open account for several years prior to December 5, 1950; that Eichhorn owed a balance of $590.23 as of that date and on December 5 left Lonaconing. Getty filed an answer for Eichhorn in the suit.

Education Will Precede End Of Walk Lights

Commissioner Long Discusses Plan

Plans for an intensive educational program to prepare for the elimination of walk lights in the city's traffic system early in June were discussed last night.

In an informal conference, Police Commissioner John J. Long and top police administrators discussed tentative plans with representatives of the radio and press.

Change June 3

Commissioner Long stressed that an intensive educational program must precede the change which has been tentatively planned about June 3.

The commissioner said the new system has been discussed thoroughly with the supervisory staff of the department, the Krause-Hinds Company, which specializes in traffic signal lights, and the Potomac-Edison Company.

He added the Potomac-Edison Company has ordered supplies of amber lens to replace the present white walk lens.

Traffic lights will be synchronized at about 21 miles an hour on Baltimore Street and will be operated on automatic except when crossings are blocked.

Long said officials feel traffic will move more smoothly under automatic operation than when controls are operated by traffic officers.

Will Speed Flow

The proposed plan to eliminate walk lights and allow pedestrians to walk with vehicular traffic, officials said, will speed up traffic by at least one third.

Police warned, however, that all diagonal crossing by pedestrians must be eliminated.

Also stressed was the fact that vehicles making left or right turns at any intersection must yield the right of way to pedestrians" as required by Maryland law.

Pedestrians, however, would have to yield the right of way to vehicles during the red and amber signal intervals.

Police said lines will be painted at all intersections on Baltimore Street in connection with the plan to allow pedestrians to cross intersections with the flow of traffic.

The Western Maryland Safety Council, Western Maryland Motor Club and the Junior Association of Commerce will be asked to co-operate in explaining the new plan to school children.

Harry Cohen Again Named Head Of AFL

Stutzman Elected Area Vice President

Harry Cohen, veteran Baltimore union leader, was reelected yesterday to his fifth term as president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor.

The 60-year-old president and business agent of Baltimore Local No. 355 of the Truck Drivers Union was named unanimously by the 300 delegates attending the 45th annual convention of the federation in Baltimore.

The delegates passed scores of resolutions and pledged their cooperation to President Truman, endorsing his action in resisting communist aggression in Korea.

Other officers elected were vice presidents Glen A. Snyder and Carl Scholtz, for Baltimore; Clem F. Preller, and James C. Turner, for Washington; Jefferson Davis, Baltimore, vice president at large; Charles E. Stutzman, for Cumberland; and E. W. Butler, for Hagerstown; Frank J. Coleman of Washington, secretary; and Robert C. Lester, Washington, treasurer.

Oppose Bar Maids

Also winning approval was a resolution, introduced by Local 569, Bartenders Union, this city, condemning use of women bartenders in taverns where liquor is served.

Printed copies of Cohen's annual report were distributed to the delegates.

As president, he was the AFL's legislative representative, or chief lobbyist, at the 1951 Maryland General Assembly session.

"In all my years of experience, I can truthfully say," he declared, "I have never seen a legislative session like the 1951 session.

"Confusion reigned supreme.

Lacking In Leadership

"Lack of leadership was clearly evident. It seemed as if the political party welfare was the order of the day.

"Democrats vied with Republicans; Republicans vied with Democrats in seeking supremacy, with each side sorely lacking in competent leadership. . . .

"The Governor, himself (Theodore R. McKeldin), seemed more concerned about passage of his budget and the approval of his appointments to office than he was about legislation introduced in the interests of the respective counties and the state as a whole."

The situation, he said, reacted against chances of passage of the AFL's labor legislation program.

And labor lobbyists also were partly responsible for the many defeats the unions took in Annapolis, he indicated.

"I have never seen so many representatives from so many different parts of labor in attendance at a legislative session," he said.

Approximately 350 delegates are attending the convention at the Southern Hotel.

The Federation also went on record as favoring higher pay for Post Office and other federal employes, government recognition of federal employes' unions and restoration of "Labor's Magna Carta", the Wagner Act, without amendments.

Fire Chiefs Plan Full Scale Drill

Final plans for the second in a series of "distress drills" by area firemen were completed last night at a meeting held at City Hall Auditorium. Virgil A. Parker, liasion officer for the firemen branch of the Civil Defense Program, said last night that the next drill will be "full scale".

The element of surprise will again be used and the drill will occur sometime within the next two weeks. Area volunteer companies as far as Bedford, Pa., will participate and most companies will move at the signal. Parker said the signals has been simplified and will be uniform.

During last night's meeting maps and charts were distributed and comments made on the recent drill held at the B&O Bolt and Forge. Fifteen chiefs attended with representatives from Wiley Ford, Ridgeley, Bowling Green, Bowman's Addition, LaVale, Bedford Road, Baltimore Pike, Cresaptown, Corriganville, Short Gap, Frostburg, Shaft, District 16, Ellerslie and Bloomington.

AWOL Soldier Lodged In County Jail

Bernard A. Bailey, a soldier allegedly absent without leave from Fort Knox, Ky., for more than two months was arrested by State Trooper John Browning at Oldtown and lodged in the county jail.

The soldier, an Oldtown resident, was being held at the jail pending the arrival here of military police from Baltimore. Police reported that Bailey had been away from Fort Knox, without leave, ever since March 5.

Trooper Browning reportedly had been on the lookout for him for some time.

Fire Alarm Answered

Central Fire Company answered a call yesterday at 6:54 p. m. at the home of B. L. Bennett, 322 North Mechanic Street. Firemen reported grease ignited on a stove but the blaze was out on arrival. No damage resulted.

Gets Occupancy Permit

Nick Catania was granted a permit yesterday to occupy 6 Queen City Pavement as a cleaning and pressing shop. He is moving from 22 Queen City Pavement.

Rubber Workers Will Vote On Proposed Pact

Special Meeting Is Planned Sunday

A tentative contract agreement reached between negotiators of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO), and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be submitted for approval of the local Sunday.

The action will be taken at a special meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. in the union hall, South Mechanic Street.

In a joint statement, the company and union said the negotiating committees of the company and union had reached an agreement on a proposed contract to replace the present pact.

It added that the proposed contract will be presented to members of the union for approval at the special membership meeting.

It is understood that the chief provisions of the pact, which will be effective until March 1, 1953, are a union shop and a change in the vacation clause.

At a NLRB election early this year, the workers of the tire plant voted ten-to-one to authorize the committee to negotiate for a union shop.

Actually, only a handful of the some 1,800 hourly paid workers will be affected by the provision, which requires that workers must join the union within a stipulated time in order to continue employment. They do not, however, have to be union members before they are employed.

The new vacation clause, it is reported, allows workers to schedule vacations two or three weeks at a time, based on a seniority preference, if they so desire. Previously, one week of the vacation had to be taken during a plant shutdown, when vacation shutdowns were scheduled.

Wage issues were not discussed during the current contract talks.

County Needy Program Now Above Average

Allegany County's old age assistance program was higher than the average individual grant provided by other counties but was less than the state average once again, the monthly statistical report of the State Department of Public Welfare for April noted.

The report showed Allegany County paid an average of $34.65 to each individual as compared to the total average of all counties of $33.63. This total was less than the state grant of $37.77 per persons. Altogether Allegany County aided 701 individuals at a cost of $24,290.59. Garrett County helped 298 persons at a cost of $10,354.91 or an average grant of $34.75.

Aid to dependent children amounted to $27,463.14 in Allegany County in April. This amount was given 359 families which contained 943 children, an average of $76.50 per family. The overall county total was $153,819.22 or an average of $75.77 per family. The state average was $80.22 and Garrett County's average $72.57.

Of a total of 486 needy blind assisted in April in the state, 26 were in Allegany County, five in Garrett and 183 in all the counties combined. Allegany spent $950.62 for an average grant of $36.56 per individual. Garrett's total was $40.73 per individual and the state's $41.86. The overall county total was $36.40 per person.

General Public Assistance totaled $4,768.32 in Allegany County. This amount was given to 129 persons, an average of $36.96. Garrett aided 76 persons at a cost of $2,624.51, an average of $34.53. The state average was $41.73 and the overall county average $35.31.

Altogether payment of $2,114.74 was made for boarding home care for children in Allegany County from the General Public Assistance fund. This amount was granted for 55 children, $38.45 per child. Garrett had 46 children cared for at boarding houses at a cost of $819.10 or an average grant of $34.13. The counties totaled $47,934.15 for 1,198 children, $40.01 per child. This compared to $123,632.62 in the state, a $43.66 average.

Allegany County had three committments to state training schools for boys and girls. All were sent to Maryland Training School for Boys in April. The county had 33 boys and girls still detained in training schools at the close of the month. Of these 19 were in Maryland Training School for Boys and 13 in Montrose School for Girls. One was in Boys' Village of Maryland.

WEATHER

Steady showers were in Cumberland most all day yesterday and raincoats and umbrellas were in order. The weather station at Constitution Park recorded a high of 63, a low of 53 and at 8:15 o'clock last night the temperature stood at 54. Precipitation was .24, dewpoint 45.6 and humidity 71 percent. Forecast for today is fair and less humid.

Stock Prices Pulled Down For Third Straight Session

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—A sinking spell that turned into an acute setback pulled the stock market down today for the third straight session.

Rail issues, steels, motors and oils were active and lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 80 cents at $91.10. The low for the year is $89.40 reached Jan. 3.

The rail component of the average was off 60 cents at $62.40, the lowest level for that component this year. Industrials were down $1.30 and utilities 20 cents.

Volume came to 1,540,000 shares as compared with $1,440,000 shares yesterday.

New lows for the year expanded sharply to 127 issues. There was one new high reached—Thomas Steel.

The market broadened out to 1,135 issues traded as against 1,094 yesterday. Of the total, 232 advanced and 624 declined.

General Motors stood at the head of the most active list off ⅝ at 48⅝. Others following were New York Central off ¼ at 17¾, National Power & Light up 3/16, at 15/16, Northern Pacific (which has considerable potential oil interests) up ½ at 38, Socony Vacuum off ½ at 28¾, and Baltimore & Ohio off ¾ at 19¼.

Atlantic Coast Line was off 1¾ at 66¼, and others moving down included Santa Fe off 2 at 150¼, Texas Co. 1¾ at 90⅜, United Air Lines 1⅛ at 26⅛, Union Carbide 1 at 57½, American Can 1½ at 107, U. S. Steel ½ at 41⅜, Goodyear 2⅛ at 78⅛, Freeport Sulphur 2½ at 82, Merck & Co. 2¾ at 75⅞, and Reynolds Metals 2¼ at 46¾.

Stock Prices Pulled Down For Third Straight Session

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—A sinking spell that turned into an acute setback pulled the stock market down today for the third straight session.

Rail issues, steels, motors and oils were active and lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 80 cents at $91.10. The low for the year is $89.40 reached Jan. 3.

The rail component of the average was off 60 cents at $62.40, the lowest level for that component this year. Industrials were down $1.30 and utilities 20 cents.

Volume came to 1,540,000 shares as compared with $1,440,000 shares yesterday.

New lows for the year expanded sharply to 127 issues. There was one new high reached—Thomas Steel.

The market broadened out to 1,135 issues traded as against 1,094 yesterday. Of the total, 232 advanced and 624 declined.

General Motors stood at the head of the most active list off ⅝ at 48⅝. Others following were New York Central off ¼ at 17¾, National Power & Light up 3/16, at 15/16, Northern Pacific (which has considerable potential oil interests) up ½ at 38, Socony Vacuum off ½ at 28¾, and Baltimore & Ohio off ⅜ at 19¼.

C&P Telephone Company Asks Rate Increase

Would Also Double Cost Of Local Calls

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore petitioned the public Service Commission today for higher rates throughout the state.

It did not say how much of an increase, beyond the fact that it wants a dime instead of a nickel for local calls from a pay telephone.

The company announced at the same time it had offered wage increases to about 3,700 of its union employes.

It did not go into details on this, either, saying it still is negotiating with the CIO unions representing its plant workers and commercial and accounting employes. One group already has turned the offer down as insufficient.

The PSC did not take any immediate action on the petition. If the previous pattern is followed, a hearing may be set to start about six weeks from now. It may drag on weeks or months and there might not be a decision until next year.

Got Increase In 1949

The telephone company got its last increase two years ago in March —A $4,000,000 (M) addition to its annual gross revenues It asked at the same time for new permanent schedules that would have piled another $2,500,000 on top of this $4,000,000. A year ago in March, the PSC denied this but made the temporary $4,000,000 permanent.

In the spring of 1947, the telephone company got a boost of about $5,000,000 in its gross revenues. This was the first increase it had gotten since 1924.

The C&P of Baltimore is the Bell System's subsidiary for the whole of Maryland Its rates also apply to the Maryland suburbs of Washington, although telephones in that area are tied into the C&P of Washington for operating purposes. Similarly named affiliates serve Virginia and West Virginia.

Wage Costs Higher

W. Griffin Morrel, vice-president and general manager of the Baltimore company, said it needs rate increases because it must pay higher wages, higher taxes, and higher prices for materails, supplies, and new facilities.

"The employers are entitled to more money," he declared. "An increase is justified if we are to keep telephone wages in line with community wage levels so that we can attract and retain the employes responsible for furnishing good service."

The petition to the PSC pointed out that 3,600 traffic department employes — mostly operators — got increases in January after negotiations with their union.

Information on how much more revenue the company wants and how it would increase rates to get this revenue will be presented when hearings start, assuming that the PSC calls hearings.

Seek New Valuation

The formal petition asked only that the commission determine the fair value of the company equipment utilized in its Maryland service and establish a fair return on that valuation.

In March of 1950, the PSC valued the property at $111,594,909 but the company said this was too low.

The company's arguments for higher rates included these points:

General wage increases alone have been granted at the rate of $15,200,000 annually since 1939 and this is $6,000,000 more than the gain in rates.

Since 1945, the company has spent $14,000,000 for new facilities in the state and will spend another $20,000,000 in 1951.

The present rates are based on the company's operation in the year ended Sept. 30, 1949, and conditions have changed vastly since then.

Federal taxes will take $2,700,000 more this year than last.

Prices for the main materials it needs have increased from 33 per cent, for copper, to 308 per cent, for natural rubber.

The company's return on its investment averaged less than 6 per cent from 1947 through 1950.

Industrial Teachers Discuss Inventories

Industrial arts and vocational agriculture instructors in Allegany County public schools held a departmental meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of the County Board of Education with Julius D. Lonnholm, supervisor of industrial education.

Lonnholm said that these sessions are held every two or three months during the school year. Yesterday's meeting emphasized the importance of inventories for the teachers who soon will be "closing shop" for the school year.

About 20 teachers, from Fort Hill, Allegany, Carver, Pennsylvania Avenue, Cresaptown, Bruce, Barton, Central, Beall, Flintstone and Oldtown attended the session. They included general shop, machine shop and farm shop teachers as well as others specializing in drafting, woodwork, electricity, printing, and bench metal.

Celanese Head Will Address Chamber Tonight

Dinner To Honor Harold Blancke

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will honor the president of the Celanese Corporation of America tonight at a dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club beginning at 6:30 p.m.

A capacity crowd is expected to hear Harold Blancke address the local chamber on industry and the community. Arrangements for the prominent businessman's visit here have been made by the local group as part of the chamber's program to create better understanding between big industry and the city.

Other Officials Invited

This visit will mark the first time Blancke has spoken at a public event in Cumberland and also will be the first time he has spoken in a city where a Celanese plant is located.

Fred T. Small, former manager of the Amcelle plant here, and E. N. Cleves, both vice-presidents of the Celanese Corporation, will accompany Blancke here. City and county officials and other officials of the local plant have been invited to attend the affair.

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, will be toastmaster.

Blancke was born in New York City in 1904 and was educated there. He rose rapidly within the Celanese organization and received his first managerial post with the company in 1930 as assistant treasurer. He subsequently held posts of assistant secretary, treasurer and secretary and was named vice-president in July, 1942.

President In 1945

In August, 1945, Blancke was named president of the corporation. He was first elected to the board of directors in 1937 and became a member of the executive committee in 1938.

Local chamber members noted that July 1, 1918 Cumberland made the first tentative proposal to offer land to the Celanese which at that time was the American Cellulose and Chemical Company.

Former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, Tasker G. Lowndes, George E. Smith and W. Wallace McKaig were members of the original committee in charge of the negotiations. The contract with the company finally was drawn up by Sloan.

Settlement Relieves Jury

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court, which listened to all the testimony in a technical civil suit removed from Washington County, was relieved of the responsibility of deciding the case late yesterday afternoon when Associate Judge George Henderson announced that an out-of-court settlement had been reached.

Judge Henderson was preparing to give the jury its instructions when rival attorneys informed him they had reached a settlement. The amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

The suit was brought by Lloyd R. Hoover, Waynesboro, Pa., father of a Hagerstown auto dealer, against the son's estranged wife, Ruth L. Hoover, for payment of a $6,000 note.

Church Teacher Course Planned

Trinity Lutheran Sunday School Teachers Association held a preliminary session at the church on North Centre Street last night for the purpose of introducing a teacher training course for Sunday School teachers.

The first course to be studied will deal with methods in teaching. It will show how new methods are applied to teaching of religious as well as secular subjects.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, church pastor, will be in charge of the class, which will open to anyone who wishes to enroll. The first meeting will be held Wednesday, June 6. Between 15 and 25 teachers are expected to enroll.

18,908 Corporations Operate In State

In 1950 there were 18,908 corporations operating in Maryland, an increase over the 17,946 in 1949, according to the 18th Biennial Report of the Maryland State Tax Commission.

The commission, reporting to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, listed taxes collected by it at $388,612 in 1949 and $410,745 in 1950 on Maryland corporations.

Fees collected from foreign corporations for 1949 totaled $60,458 and for 1950, $61,072.

VFW District No. 3 Will Elect Sunday

District No. 3, Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. at Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW home, Union Street to elect officers for the new fiscal year.

A district commander, senior and junior vice commanders, quartermaster, judge advocate and chaplain will be chosen to represent posts in Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served according to District Commander Edward J. Murray, Mt. Savage.

Two Appeals Granted By Zoning Board

Used Auto Parts Lot Gets Approval

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night granted appeals involving a used auto parts business on Ford Avenue and for a three-family residence on Cecil Street.

Charles C. Sullivan was granted permission to occupy 1800 Ford Avenue for selling used cars, used accessories and dismantling used cars to secure the parts.

The board pointed out there was no objections to using the property for the sale of the used cars and parts but that the dismantling operations could create an unsightly condition.

It was specified that Sullivan must build a fence, behind which the dismantling operations must take place, within 30 days after the business is started.

Sullivan stated he had no intentions of starting a junk yard and that the only purpose of dismantling would be to secure the parts.

Also granted was an appeal filed by Clyde Slider to occupy 807 Cecil Street as a three-family residence.

The board, after questioning Slider, reported facilities for a basement apartment were adequate, including six full sized windows and bath facilities.

In question was the fact that the basement apartment wuold make the house a three-family residence in a Residential B Zoning district.

Maryland Farm Output, Size Show Growth

Preliminary figures of the 1950 Census of Agriculture show Maryland farms have increased in size, mechanization, and output over the last five years.

The census reports that of Maryland's 6,323,840 acres of land area, 64.1 percent is in farms. The size of the average farm is 112.3 acres compared to 101.8 in 1945.

Modernization of farms moved again in the five-year period, with 19,457 farms having telephones against 17,137 in 1945 and 30,302 farms having electricity compared to 25,256 in the previous period.

More than 16,000 farms had trucks and 20,547 had tractors, while the number of horses and mules decreased again, a trend which has been constant in Maryland farming.

The total value of farm crops sold was $172,157,408 compared to $137,095,409 in 1944. The chief money product was livestock and livestock products which had a value of $116,685,765 in 1949.

The value of the average farm including land and buildings is $14,212. This latter figure is not exactly comparable with the 1945 figure because of changed definition.

Of the 36,107 farms 25,671 were operated by their owners. Only 18.6 percent of the farms were of the tenant type.

The U. S. Census Bureau observed that the figures were subject to revision. Figues of the census on a county basis will be issued later.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Charles R. Hixenbaugh, 410 Columbia Street, enlisted for four years in the U. S. Air Force and will report to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, for basic training.

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company will hold a public dance tomorrow from 9 p. m. to midnight in Circle Inn.

Members of the Future Farmers of America chapters in Allegany county will hold a poultry and egg judging contest today at 8 p. m. in the Steinla Garage, 218 South Mechanic Street.

A 1942 four door Oldsmobile sedan belonging to Fred C. Davis, Cresaptown, was reported stolen yesterday about 4:25 a. m. from Harrison Street.

Members of Fulton-Meyers Post No. 153, American Legion, will meet at the post home this evening at 8:15 o'clock.

Retired Welder Honored

Fire Damages Residence At Vale Summit

Wilkins Home Gutted In Costly Blaze

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilkins, Vale Summit Road, was gutted by fire last night. No one was injured in the blaze which broke out in the six-room frame house at about 8 o'clock. Volunteer firemen from Frostburg and Clarysville fought the stubborn flames for an hour and a half before bringing it under control. The cause was unknown.

Firemen were hampered through lack of water and a dam had to be built in a stream about 400 feet away in order to accumulate sufficient water to extinguish the flames.

The father of seven children, Wilkins, has gone to Miners Hospital Frostburg to see his wife and seventh child which was born Saturday night. The oldest daughter about 14 years of age, reported the other children were playing at home and suddenly the back kitchen burst into flames. She led the children to safety as fire spread rapidly through another back room, up to the roof and through the wall into the upstairs bedrooms.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze was undetermined last night and full amount of damage not known. The furnishings were almost a complete loss and only a few household items were saved.

Wilkins, who lost a leg in World War I is a cook by profession.

Traffic Death Toll Mounts

Twenty-nine persons met death on Maryland highways during the month of April and 1,015 persons received injuries in a total of 2,263 accidents. These figures show a sharp increase over the same period of last year.

In Allegany County last month one person was killed on the open highway. According to the April traffic accident report of the Maryland State Police one person was killed every 25 hours during the past month.

Thirty-four persons per day was the average number injured during the month and police report 12 of the fatal accidents throughout the state occurred during daylight hours and 15 after dark.

The following counties were free of traffic fatalities in rural areas during the month: Anne Arundel, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, St. Mary's, Somerset and Talbot.

Joseph P. Dickel Completes 42 Years Service As Welder

In recognition of 42 years service at his chosen trade, Joseph P. Dickel, Mt. Savage, was recipient of a fraternity ring Tuesday evening at a meeting of Local 1035, International Association of Machinists. The presentation was made by L. A. McKenzie, president of the Local.

An electric welder by trade, Dickel, was employed by the Western Maryland Railway Shops at Maryland Junction, Ridgeley, up until his retirement April 27 this year. Prior to moving to Ridgeley, he worked at the old Cumberland and Pennsylvania Shops in Mt. Savage until 1942.

Dickel was born in the Dutch Hollow section of Mt. Savage, March 25, 1886 and is a son of the late Nicholas and Bridget Collins Dickel. He attended Dutch Hollow School and later went to St. Patrick's Catholic School, Mt. Savage. At the age of 12 he left the classroom and went to work in the "brickyard". Later, he was employed in a fire clay mine, where he worked until he was 21.

Two important events happened in his life in 1909. During that year he married Miss Nora Moran and also began working at his trade as an electric welder at the C & P Shops.

Dickel has one son, Francis N. Dickel, 202 Spring Street, who is employed as a fireman on the Western Maryland Railway; five grandchildren and one great grandchild. He is a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Mt. Savage, the Holy Name Society, and has held membership in the IAM for the past 30 years.

Receivers Named For Lonaconing Firm

Attorneys C. William Gilchrist and Gorman E. Getty yesterday were appointed receivers of the goods, wares, merchandise, books and papers of Raymond F. Eichhorn, who formerly operated Quality Tire Service, Main Street, Lonaconing, according to a decree signed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Harris' decree instructed the receivers to collect outstanding debts owed Eichhorn and to appoint two disinterested persons to return a schedule of Eichhorn's property to court as soon as possible.

The court action came on an equity suit which Gilchrist filed in Circuit Court March 12 for Auto Accessories Corporation, 139 Frederick Street against Eichhorn. The bill of complaint contended that Auto Accessories Corporation had sold automotive parts to the defendant on open account for several years prior to December 5, 1950; that Eichhorn owed a balance of $590.23 as of that date and on December 5 left Lonaconing. Getty filed an answer for Eichhorn in the suit.

Education Will Precede End Of Walk Lights

Commissioner Long Discusses Plan

Plans for an intensive educational program to prepare for the elimination of walk lights in the city's traffic system early in June were discussed last night.

In an informal conference, Police Commissioner John J. Long and top police administrators discussed tentative plans with representatives of the radio and press.

Change June 3

Commissioner Long stressed that an intensive educational program must precede the change which has been tentatively planned about June 3.

The commissioner said the new system has been discussed thoroughly with the supervisory staff of the department, the Krause-Hinds Company, which specializes in traffic signal lights, and the Potomac-Edison Company.

He added the Potomac-Edison Company has ordered supplies of amber lens to replace the present white walk lens.

Traffic lights will be synchronized at about 21 miles an hour on Baltimore Street and will be operated on automatic except when crossings are blocked.

Long said officials feel traffic will move more smoothly under automatic operation than when controls are operated by traffic officers.

Will Speed Flow

The proposed plan to eliminate walk lights and allow pedestrians to walk with vehicular traffic, officials said, will speed up traffic by at least one third.

Police warned, however, that all diagonal crossing by pedestrians must be eliminated.

Also stressed was the fact that vehicles making left or right turns at any intersection must yield the right of way to pedestrians" as required by Maryland law.

Pedestrians, however, would have to yield the right of way to vehicles during the red and amber signal intervals.

Police said lines will be painted at all intersections on Baltimore Street in connection with the plan to allow pedestrians to cross intersections with the flow of traffic.

The Western Maryland Safety Council, Western Maryland Motor Club and the Junior Association of Commerce will be asked to co-operate in explaining the new plan to school children.

They are Dolores Shank, George Fitzer, Bill Powell, Shirley Clontz, Helen Crawford, Donna Nield, Carol Parker, Barbara Priddy, Darrell Henry, Paula Butts, Carol Torbett, Thomas Arnold, Sterley Van Pelt and Robert Wilson. Over 100 students will take part in the colorful operetta. The production is directed by William Kroll with Mrs. Rhea Gibbs directing dancers.

Harry Cohen Again Named Head Of AFL

Stutzman Elected Area Vice President

Harry Cohen, veteran Baltimore union leader, was reelected yesterday to his fifth term as president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor.

The 60-year-old president and business agent of Baltimore Local No. 355 of the Truck Drivers Union was named unanimously by the 300 delegates attending the 45th annual convention of the federation in Baltimore.

The delegates passed scores of resolutions and pledged their cooperation to President Truman, endorsing his action in resisting communist aggression in Korea.

Other officers elected were vice presidents Glen A. Snyder and Carl Scholtz, for Baltimore; Clem F. Preller, and James C. Turner, for Washington; Jefferson Davis, Baltimore, vice president at large; Charles E. Stutzman, for Cumberland; and E. W. Butler, for Hagerstown; Frank J. Coleman of Washington, secretary; and Robert C. Lester, Washington, treasurer.

Oppose Bar Maids

Also winning approval was a resolution, introduced by Local 569, Bartenders Union, this city, condemning use of women bartenders in taverns where liquor is served.

Printed copies of Cohen's annual report were distributed to the delegates.

As president, he was the AFL's legislative representative, or chief lobbyist, at the 1951 Maryland General Assembly session.

"In all my years of experience, I can truthfully say," he declared, "I have never seen a legislative session like the 1951 session.

"Confusion reigned supreme.

Lacking In Leadership

"Lack of leadership was clearly evident. It seemed as if the political party welfare was the order of the day.

"Democrats vied with Republicans; Republicans vied with Democrats in seeking supremacy, with each side sorely lacking in competent leadership. . . .

"The Governor, himself (Theodore R. McKeldin), seemed more concerned about passage of his budget and the approval of his appointments to office than he was about legislation introduced in the interests of the respective counties and the state as a whole."

The situation, he said, reacted against chances of passage of the AFL's labor legislation program.

And labor lobbyists also were partly responsible for the many defeats the unions took in Annapolis, he indicated.

"I have never seen so many representatives from so many different parts of labor in attendance at a legislative session," he said.

Approximately 350 delegates are attending the convention at the Southern Hotel.

The Federation also went on record as favoring higher pay for Post Office and other federal employes, government recognition of federal employes' unions and restoration of "Labor's Magna Carta", the Wagner Act, without amendments.

Fire Chiefs Plan Full Scale Drill

Final plans for the second in a series of "distress drills" by area firemen were completed last night at a meeting held at City Hall Auditorium. Virgil A. Parker, liasion officer for the firemen branch of the Civil Defense Program, said last night that the next drill will be "full scale".

The element of surprise will again be used and the drill will occur sometime within the next two weeks. Area volunteer companies as far as Bedford, Pa., will participate and most companies will move at the signal. Parker said the signals has been simplified and will be uniform.

During last night's meeting maps and charts were distributed and comments made on the recent drill held at the B&O Bolt and Forge. Fifteen chiefs attended with representatives from Wiley Ford, Ridgeley, Bowling Green, Bowman's Addition, LaVale, Bedford Road, Baltimore Pike, Cresaptown, Corriganville, Short Gap, Frostburg, Shaft, District 16, Ellerslie and Bloomington.

AWOL Soldier Lodged In County Jail

Bernard A. Bailey, a soldier allegedly absent without leave from Fort Knox, Ky., for more than two months was arrested by State Trooper John Browning at Oldtown and lodged in the county jail.

The soldier, an Oldtown resident, was being held at the jail pending the arrival here of military police from Baltimore. Police reported that Bailey had been away from Fort Knox, without leave, ever since March 5.

Trooper Browning reportedly had been on the lookout for him for some time.

Fire Alarm Answered

Central Fire Company answered a call yesterday at 6:54 p. m. at the home of B. L. Bennett, 322 North Mechanic Street. Firemen reported grease ignited on a stove but the blaze was out on arrival. No damage resulted.

Gets Occupancy Permit

Nick Catania was granted a permit yesterday to occupy 6 Queen City Pavement as a cleaning and pressing shop. He is moving from 22 Queen City Pavement.

Rubber Workers Will Vote On Proposed Pact

Special Meeting Is Planned Sunday

A tentative contract agreement reached between negotiators of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO), and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be submitted for approval of the local Sunday.

The action will be taken at a special meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. in the union hall, South Mechanic Street.

In a joint statement, the company and union said the negotiating committees of the company and union had reached an agreement on a proposed contract to replace the present pact.

It added that the proposed contract will be presented to members of the union for approval at the special membership meeting.

It is understood that the chief provisions of the pact, which will be effective until March 1, 1953, are a union shop and a change in the vacation clause.

At a NLRB election early this year, the workers of the tire plant voted ten-to-one to authorize the committee to negotiate for a union shop.

Actually, only a handful of the some 1,800 hourly paid workers will be affected by the provision, which requires that workers must join the union within a stipulated time in order to continue employment. They do not, however, have to be union members before they are employed.

The new vacation clause, it is reported, allows workers to schedule vacations two or three weeks at a time, based on a seniority preference, if they so desire. Previously, one week of the vacation had to be taken during a plant shutdown, when vacation shutdowns were scheduled.

Wage issues were not discussed during the current contract talks.

County Needy Program Now Above Average

Allegany County's old age assistance program was higher than the average individual grant provided by other counties but was less than the state average once again, the monthly statistical report of the State Department of Public Welfare for April noted.

The report showed Allegany County paid an average of $34.65 to each individual as compared to the total average of all counties of $33.63. This total was less than the state grant of $37.77 per persons. Altogether Allegany County aided 701 individuals at a cost of $24,290.59. Garrett County helped 298 persons at a cost of $10,354.91 or an average grant of $34.75.

Aid to dependent children amounted to $27,463.14 in Allegany County in April. This amount was given 359 families which contained 943 children, an average of $76.50 per family. The overall county total was $153,819.22 or an average of $75.77 per family. The state average was $80.22 and Garrett County's average $72.57.

Of a total of 486 needy blind assisted in April in the state, 26 were in Allegany County, five in Garrett and 183 in all the counties combined. Allegany spent $950.62 for an average grant of $36.56 per individual. Garrett's total was $40.73 per individual and the state's $41.86. The overall county total was $36.40 per person.

General Public Assistance totaled $4,768.32 in Allegany County. This amount was given to 129 persons, an average of $36.96. Garrett aided 76 persons at a cost of $2,624.51, an average of $34.53. The state average was $41.73 and the overall county average $35.31.

Altogether payment of $2,114.74 was made for boarding home care for children in Allegany County from the General Public Assistance fund. This amount was granted for 55 children, $38.45 per child. Garrett had 46 children cared for at boarding houses at a cost of $819.10 or an average grant of $34.13. The counties totaled $47,934.15 for 1,198 children, $40.01 per child. This compared to $123,632.62 in the state, a $43.66 average.

Allegany County had three committments to state training schools for boys and girls. All were sent to Maryland Training School for Boys in April. The county had 33 boys and girls still detained in training schools at the close of the month. Of these 19 were in Maryland Training School for Boys and 13 in Montrose School for Girls. One was in Boys' Village of Maryland.

WEATHER

Steady showers were in Cumberland most all day yesterday and raincoats and umbrellas were in order. The weather station at Constitution Park recorded a high of 63, a low of 53 and at 8:15 o'clock last night the temperature stood at 54. Precipitation was .24, dewpoint 45.6 and humidity 71 percent. Forecast for today is fair and less humid.

C&P Telephone Company Asks Rate Increase

Would Also Double Cost Of Local Calls

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore petitioned the public Service Commission today for higher rates throughout the state.

It did not say how much of an increase, beyond the fact that it wants a dime instead of a nickel for local calls from a pay telephone.

The company announced at the same time it had offered wage increases to about 3,700 of its union employes.

It did not go into details on this, either, saying it still is negotiating with the CIO unions representing its plant workers and commercial and accounting employes. One group already has turned the offer down as insufficient.

The PSC did not take any immediate action on the petition. If the previous pattern is followed, a hearing may be set to start about six weeks from now. It may drag on weeks or months and there might not be a decision until next year.

Got Increase In 1949

The telephone company got its last increase two years ago in March —A $4,000,000 (M) addition to its annual gross revenues It asked at the same time for new permanent schedules that would have piled another $2,500,000 on top of this $4,000,000. A year ago in March, the PSC denied this but made the temporary $4,000,000 permanent.

In the spring of 1947, the telephone company got a boost of about $5,000,000 in its gross revenues. This was the first increase it had gotten since 1924.

The C&P of Baltimore is the Bell System's subsidiary for the whole of Maryland Its rates also apply to the Maryland suburbs of Washington, although telephones in that area are tied into the C&P of Washington for operating purposes. Similarly named affiliates serve Virginia and West Virginia.

Wage Costs Higher

W. Griffin Morrel, vice-president and general manager of the Baltimore company, said it needs rate increases because it must pay higher wages, higher taxes, and higher prices for materails, supplies, and new facilities.

"The employers are entitled to more money," he declared. "An increase is justified if we are to keep telephone wages in line with community wage levels so that we can attract and retain the employes responsible for furnishing good service."

The petition to the PSC pointed out that 3,600 traffic department employes — mostly operators — got increases in January after negotiations with their union.

Information on how much more revenue the company wants and how it would increase rates to get this revenue will be presented when hearings start, assuming that the PSC calls hearings.

Seek New Valuation

The formal petition asked only that the commission determine the fair value of the company equipment utilized in its Maryland service and establish a fair return on that valuation.

In March of 1950, the PSC valued the property at $111,594,909 but the company said this was too low.

The company's arguments for higher rates included these points:

General wage increases alone have been granted at the rate of $15,200,000 annually since 1939 and this is $6,000,000 more than the gain in rates.

Since 1945, the company has spent $14,000,000 for new facilities in the state and will spend another $20,000,000 in 1951.

The present rates are based on the company's operation in the year ended Sept. 30, 1949, and conditions have changed vastly since then.

Federal taxes will take $2,700,000 more this year than last.

Prices for the main materials it needs have increased from 33 per cent, for copper, to 308 per cent, for natural rubber.

The company's return on its investment averaged less than 6 per cent from 1947 through 1950.

Industrial Teachers Discuss Inventories

Industrial arts and vocational agriculture instructors in Allegany County public schools held a departmental meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of the County Board of Education with Julius D. Lonnholm, supervisor of industrial education.

Lonnholm said that these sessions are held every two or three months during the school year. Yesterday's meeting emphasized the importance of inventories for the teachers who soon will be "closing shop" for the school year.

About 20 teachers, from Fort Hill, Allegany, Carver, Pennsylvania Avenue, Cresaptown, Bruce, Barton, Central, Beall, Flintstone and Oldtown attended the session. They included general shop, machine shop and farm shop teachers as well as others specializing in drafting, woodwork, electricity, printing, and bench metal.

Celanese Head Will Address Chamber Tonight

Dinner To Honor Harold Blancke

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will honor the president of the Celanese Corporation of America tonight at a dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club beginning at 6:30 p.m.

A capacity crowd is expected to hear Harold Blancke address the local chamber on industry and the community. Arrangements for the prominent businessman's visit here have been made by the local group as part of the chamber's program to create better understanding between big industry and the city.

Other Officials Invited

This visit will mark the first time Blancke has spoken at a public event in Cumberland and also will be the first time he has spoken in a city where a Celanese plant is located.

Fred T. Small, former manager of the Amcelle plant here, and E. N. Cleves, both vice-presidents of the Celanese Corporation, will accompany Blancke here. City and county officials and other officials of the local plant have been invited to attend the affair.

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, will be toastmaster.

Blancke was born in New York City in 1904 and was educated there. He rose rapidly within the Celanese organization and received his first managerial post with the company in 1930 as assistant treasurer. He subsequently held posts of assistant secretary, treasurer and secretary and was named vice-president in July, 1942.

President In 1945

In August, 1945, Blancke was named president of the corporation. He was first elected to the board of directors in 1937 and became a member of the executive committee in 1938.

Local chamber members noted that July 1, 1918 Cumberland made the first tentative proposal to offer land to the Celanese which at that time was the American Cellulose and Chemical Company.

Former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, Tasker G. Lowndes, George E. Smith and W. Wallace McKaig were members of the original committee in charge of the negotiations. The contract with the company finally was drawn up by Sloan.

Settlement Relieves Jury

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court, which listened to all the testimony in a technical civil suit removed from Washington County, was relieved of the responsibility of deciding the case late yesterday afternoon when Associate Judge George Henderson announced that an out-of-court settlement had been reached.

Judge Henderson was preparing to give the jury its instructions when rival attorneys informed him they had reached a settlement. The amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

The suit was brought by Lloyd R. Hoover, Waynesboro, Pa., father of a Hagerstown auto dealer, against the son's estranged wife, Ruth L. Hoover, for payment of a $6,000 note.

Church Teacher Course Planned

Trinity Lutheran Sunday School Teachers Association held a preliminary session at the church on North Centre Street last night for the purpose of introducing a teacher training course for Sunday School teachers.

The first course to be studied will deal with methods in teaching. It will show how new methods are applied to teaching of religious as well as secular subjects.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, church pastor, will be in charge of the class, which will open to anyone who wishes to enroll. The first meeting will be held Wednesday, June 6. Between 15 and 25 teachers are expected to enroll.

18,908 Corporations Operate In State

In 1950 there were 18,908 corporations operating in Maryland, an increase over the 17,946 in 1949, according to the 18th Biennial Report of the Maryland State Tax Commission.

The commission, reporting to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, listed taxes collected by it at $388,612 in 1949 and $410,745 in 1950 on Maryland corporations.

Fees collected from foreign corporations for 1949 totaled $60,458 and for 1950, $61,072.

VFW District No. 3 Will Elect Sunday

District No. 3, Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. at Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW home, Union Street to elect officers for the new fiscal year.

A district commander, senior and junior vice commanders, quartermaster, judge advocate and chaplain will be chosen to represent posts in Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served according to District Commander Edward J. Murray, Mt. Savage.

Two Appeals Granted By Zoning Board

Used Auto Parts Lot Gets Approval

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night granted appeals involving a used auto parts business on Ford Avenue and for a three-family residence on Cecil Street.

Charles C. Sullivan was granted permission to occupy 1800 Ford Avenue for selling used cars, used accessories and dismantling used cars to secure the parts.

The board pointed out there was no objections to using the property for the sale of the used cars and parts but that the dismantling operations could create an unsightly condition.

It was specified that Sullivan must build a fence, behind which the dismantling operations must take place, within 30 days after the business is started.

Sullivan stated he had no intentions of starting a junk yard and that the only purpose of dismantling would be to secure the parts.

Also granted was an appeal filed by Clyde Slider to occupy 807 Cecil Street as a three-family residence.

The board, after questioning Slider, reported facilities for a basement apartment were adequate, including six full sized windows and bath facilities.

In question was the fact that the basement apartment wuold make the house a three-family residence in a Residential B Zoning district.

Maryland Farm Output, Size Show Growth

Preliminary figures of the 1950 Census of Agriculture show Maryland farms have increased in size, mechanization, and output over the last five years.

The census reports that of Maryland's 6,323,840 acres of land area, 64.1 percent is in farms. The size of the average farm is 112.3 acres compared to 101.8 in 1945.

Modernization of farms moved again in the five-year period, with 19,457 farms having telephones against 17,137 in 1945 and 30,302 farms having electricity compared to 25,256 in the previous period.

More than 16,000 farms had trucks and 20,547 had tractors, while the number of horses and mules decreased again, a trend which has been constant in Maryland farming.

The total value of farm crops sold was $172,157,408 compared to $137,095,409 in 1944. The chief money product was livestock and livestock products which had a value of $116,685,765 in 1949.

The value of the average farm including land and buildings is $14,212. This latter figure is not exactly comparable with the 1945 figure because of changed definition.

Of the 36,107 farms 25,671 were operated by their owners. Only 18.6 percent of the farms were of the tenant type.

The U. S. Census Bureau observed that the figures were subject to revision. Figues of the census on a county basis will be issued later.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Charles R. Hixenbaugh, 410 Columbia Street, enlisted for four years in the U. S. Air Force and will report to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, for basic training.

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company will hold a public dance tomorrow from 9 p. m. to midnight in Circle Inn.

Members of the Future Farmers of America chapters in Allegany county will hold a poultry and egg judging contest today at 8 p. m. in the Steinla Garage, 218 South Mechanic Street.

A 1942 four door Oldsmobile sedan belonging to Fred C. Davis, Cresaptown, was reported stolen yesterday about 4:25 a. m. from Harrison Street.

Retired Welder Honored

Fire Damages Residence At Vale Summit

Wilkins Home Gutted In Costly Blaze

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilkins, Vale Summit Road, was gutted by fire last night. No one was injured in the blaze which broke out in the six-room frame house at about 8 o'clock. Volunteer firemen from Frostburg and Clarysville fought the stubborn flames for an hour and a half before bringing it under control. The cause was unknown.

Firemen were hampered through lack of water and a dam had to be built in a stream about 400 feet away in order to accumulate sufficient water to extinguish the flames.

The father of seven children, Wilkins, has gone to Miners Hospital Frostburg to see his wife and seventh child which was born Saturday night. The oldest daughter about 14 years of age, reported the other children were playing at home and suddenly the back kitchen burst into flames. She led the children to safety as fire spread rapidly through another back room, up to the roof and through the wall into the upstairs bedrooms.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze was undetermined last night and full amount of damage not known. The furnishings were almost a complete loss and only a few household items were saved.

Wilkins, who lost a leg in World War I is a cook by profession.

Traffic Death Toll Mounts

Twenty-nine persons met death on Maryland highways during the month of April and 1,015 persons received injuries in a total of 2,263 accidents. These figures show a sharp increase over the same period of last year.

In Allegany County last month one person was killed on the open highway. According to the April traffic accident report of the Maryland State Police one person was killed every 25 hours during the past month.

Thirty-four persons per day was the average number injured during the month and police report 12 of the fatal accidents throughout the state occurred during daylight hours and 15 after dark.

The following counties were free of traffic fatalities in rural areas during the month: Anne Arundel, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, St. Mary's, Somerset and Talbot.

Joseph P. Dickel Completes 42 Years Service As Welder

In recognition of 42 years service at his chosen trade, Joseph P. Dickel, Mt. Savage, was recipient of a fraternity ring Tuesday evening at a meeting of Local 1035, International Association of Machinists. The presentation was made by L. A. McKenzie, president of the Local.

An electric welder by trade, Dickel, was employed by the Western Maryland Railway Shops at Maryland Junction, Ridgeley, up until his retirement April 27 this year. Prior to moving to Ridgeley, he worked at the old Cumberland and Pennsylvania Shops in Mt. Savage until 1942.

Dickel was born in the Dutch Hollow section of Mt. Savage, March 25, 1886 and is a son of the late Nicholas and Bridget Collins Dickel. He attended Dutch Hollow School and later went to St. Patrick's Catholic School, Mt. Savage. At the age of 12 he left the classroom and went to work in the "brickyard". Later, he was employed in a fire clay mine, where he worked until he was 21.

Two important events happened in his life in 1909. During that year he married Miss Nora Moran and also began working at his trade as an electric welder at the C & P Shops.

Dickel has one son, Francis N. Dickel, 202 Spring Street, who is employed as a fireman on the Western Maryland Railway; five grandchildren and one great grandchild. He is a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Mt. Savage, the Holy Name Society, and has held membership in the IAM for the past 30 years.

Receivers Named For Lonaconing Firm

Attorneys C. William Gilchrist and Gorman E. Getty yesterday were appointed receivers of the goods, wares, merchandise, books and papers of Raymond F. Eichhorn, who formerly operated Quality Tire Service, Main Street, Lonaconing, according to a decree signed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Harris' decree instructed the receivers to collect outstanding debts owed Eichhorn and to appoint two disinterested persons to return a schedule of Eichhorn's property to court as soon as possible.

The court action came on an equity suit which Gilchrist filed in Circuit Court March 12 for Auto Accessories Corporation, 139 Frederick Street against Eichhorn. The bill of complaint contended that Auto Accessories Corporation had sold automotive parts to the defendant on open account for several years prior to December 5, 1950; that Eichhorn owed a balance of $590.23 as of that date and on December 5 left Lonaconing. Getty filed an answer for Eichhorn in the suit.

Education Will Precede End Of Walk Lights

Commissioner Long Discusses Plan

Plans for an intensive educational program to prepare for the elimination of walk lights in the city's traffic system early in June were discussed last night.

In an informal conference, Police Commissioner John J. Long and top police administrators discussed tentative plans with representatives of the radio and press.

Change June 3

Commissioner Long stressed that an intensive educational program must precede the change which has been tentatively planned about June 3.

The commissioner said the new system has been discussed thoroughly with the supervisory staff of the department, the Krause-Hinds Company, which specializes in traffic signal lights, and the Potomac-Edison Company.

He added the Potomac-Edison Company has ordered supplies of amber lens to replace the present white walk lens.

Traffic lights will be synchronized at about 21 miles an hour on Baltimore Street and will be operated on automatic except when crossings are blocked.

Long said officials feel traffic will move more smoothly under automatic operation than when controls are operated by traffic officers.

Will Speed Flow

The proposed plan to eliminate walk lights and allow pedestrians to walk with vehicular traffic, officials said, will speed up traffic by at least one third.

Police warned, however, that all diagonal crossing by pedestrians must be eliminated.

Also stressed was the fact that vehicles making left or right turns at any intersection must yield the right of way to pedestrians" as required by Maryland law.

Pedestrians, however, would have to yield the right of way to vehicles during the red and amber signal intervals.

Police said lines will be painted at all intersections on Baltimore Street in connection with the plan to allow pedestrians to cross intersections with the flow of traffic.

The Western Maryland Safety Council, Western Maryland Motor Club and the Junior Association of Commerce will be asked to co-operate in explaining the new plan to school children.

Harry Cohen Again Named Head Of AFL

Stutzman Elected Area Vice President

Harry Cohen, veteran Baltimore union leader, was reelected yesterday to his fifth term as president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor.

The 60-year-old president and business agent of Baltimore Local No. 355 of the Truck Drivers Union was named unanimously by the 300 delegates attending the 45th annual convention of the federation in Baltimore.

The delegates passed scores of resolutions and pledged their cooperation to President Truman, endorsing his action in resisting communist aggression in Korea.

Other officers elected were vice presidents Glen A. Snyder and Carl Scholtz, for Baltimore; Clem F. Preller, and James C. Turner, for Washington; Jefferson Davis, Baltimore, vice president at large; Charles E. Stutzman, for Cumberland; and E. W. Butler, for Hagerstown; Frank J. Coleman of Washington, secretary; and Robert C. Lester, Washington, treasurer.

Oppose Bar Maids

Also winning approval was a resolution, introduced by Local 569, Bartenders Union, this city, condemning use of women bartenders in taverns where liquor is served.

Printed copies of Cohen's annual report were distributed to the delegates.

As president, he was the AFL's legislative representative, or chief lobbyist, at the 1951 Maryland General Assembly session.

"In all my years of experience, I can truthfully say," he declared, "I have never seen a legislative session like the 1951 session.

Lacking In Leadership

"Lack of leadership was clearly evident. It seemed as if the political party welfare was the order of the day.

"The Governor, himself (Theodore R. McKeldin), seemed more concerned about passage of his budget and the approval of his appointments to office than he was about legislation introduced in the interests of the respective counties and the state as a whole."

The situation, he said, reacted against chances of passage of the AFL's labor legislation program.

And labor lobbyists also were partly responsible for the many defeats the unions took in Annapolis, he indicated.

"I have never seen so many representatives from so many different parts of labor in attendance at a legislative session," he said.

Approximately 350 delegates are attending the convention at the Southern Hotel.

The Federation also went on record as favoring higher pay for Post Office and other federal employes, government recognition of federal employes' unions and restoration of "Labor's Magna Carta", the Wagner Act, without amendments.

Fire Chiefs Plan Full Scale Drill

Final plans for the second in a series of "distress drills" by area firemen were completed last night at a meeting held at City Hall Auditorium. Virgil A. Parker, liasion officer for the firemen branch of the Civil Defense Program, said last night that the next drill will be "full scale".

The element of surprise will again be used and the drill will occur sometime within the next two weeks. Area volunteer companies as far as Bedford, Pa., will participate and most companies will move at the signal. Parker said the signals has been simplified and will be uniform.

AWOL Soldier Lodged In County Jail

Bernard A. Bailey, a soldier allegedly absent without leave from Fort Knox, Ky., for more than two months was arrested by State Trooper John Browning at Oldtown and lodged in the county jail.

The soldier, an Oldtown resident, was being held at the jail pending the arrival here of military police from Baltimore. Police reported that Bailey had been away from Fort Knox, without leave, ever since March 5.

Trooper Browning reportedly had been on the lookout for him for some time.

Central Fire Company answered a call yesterday at 6:54 p. m. at the home of B. L. Bennett, 322 North Mechanic Street. Firemen reported grease ignited on a stove but the blaze was out on arrival. No damage resulted.

Gets Occupancy Permit

Nick Catania was granted a permit yesterday to occupy 6 Queen City Pavement as a cleaning and pressing shop. He is moving from 22 Queen City Pavement.

Rubber Workers Will Vote On Proposed Pact

Special Meeting Is Planned Sunday

A tentative contract agreement reached between negotiators of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO), and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be submitted for approval of the local Sunday.

The action will be taken at a special meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. in the union hall, South Mechanic Street.

In a joint statement, the company and union said the negotiating committees of the company and union had reached an agreement on a proposed contract to replace the present pact.

It added that the proposed contract will be presented to members of the union for approval at the special membership meeting.

It is understood that the chief provisions of the pact, which will be effective until March 1, 1953, are a union shop and a change in the vacation clause.

At a NLRB election early this year, the workers of the tire plant voted ten-to-one to authorize the committee to negotiate for a union shop.

Actually, only a handful of the some 1,800 hourly paid workers will be affected by the provision, which requires that workers must join the union within a stipulated time in order to continue employment. They do not, however, have to be union members before they are employed.

The new vacation clause, it is reported, allows workers to schedule vacations two or three weeks at a time, based on a seniority preference, if they so desire. Previously, one week of the vacation had to be taken during a plant shutdown, when vacation shutdowns were scheduled.

Wage issues were not discussed during the current contract talks.

County Needy Program Now Above Average

Allegany County's old age assistance program was higher than the average individual grant provided by other counties but was less than the state average once again, the monthly statistical report of the State Department of Public Welfare for April noted.

The report showed Allegany County paid an average of $34.65 to each individual as compared to the total average of all counties of $33.63. This total was less than the state grant of $37.77 per persons. Altogether Allegany County aided 701 individuals at a cost of $24,290.59. Garrett County helped 298 persons at a cost of $10,354.91 or an average grant of $34.75.

Aid to dependent children amounted to $27,463.14 in Allegany County in April. This amount was given 359 families which contained 943 children, an average of $76.50 per family. The overall county total was $153,819.22 or an average of $75.77 per family. The state average was $80.22 and Garrett County's average $72.57.

Of a total of 486 needy blind assisted in April in the state, 26 were in Allegany County, five in Garrett and 183 in all the counties combined. Allegany spent $950.62 for an average grant of $36.56 per individual. Garrett's total was $40.73 per individual and the state's $41.86. The overall county total was $36.40 per person.

General Public Assistance totaled $4,768.32 in Allegany County. This amount was given to 129 persons, an average of $36.96. Garrett aided 76 persons at a cost of $2,624.51, an average of $34.53. The state average was $41.73 and the overall county average $35.31.

Altogether payment of $2,114.74 was made for boarding home care for children in Allegany County from the General Public Assistance fund. This amount was granted for 55 children, $38.45 per child. Garrett had 46 children cared for at boarding houses at a cost of $819.10 or an average grant of $34.13. The counties totaled $47,934.15 for 1,198 children, $40.01 per child. This compared to $123,632.62 in the state, a $43.66 average.

Allegany County had three committments to state training schools for boys and girls. All were sent to Maryland Training School for Boys in April. The county had 33 boys and girls still detained in training schools at the close of the month. Of these 19 were in Maryland Training School for Boys and 13 in Montrose School for Girls. One was in Boys' Village of Maryland.

REDS RETREAT ALL ALONG FRONT

Far East Air Force Chiefs Are Replaced

Weyland Succeeds Gen. Stratemeyer

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Air Force tonight announced the replacement of its two top commanders in the Far East.

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, who was stricken with a heart attack in Tokyo last week, will be succeeded by Lt. Gen. O. P. Weyland as commander of the Far East Air Forces.

Maj. Gen. Frank F. Everest, assistant chief of staff for operations at Air Force headquarters, was named to succeed Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge as Fifth Air Force commander in Japan.

Gen. Stratemeyer

Announcing the reassignments, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, said he and the whole Air Force "deeply regret the illness which has made it impossible for Gen. Stratemeyer to continue in command of the Far East Air Forces.

"We are fortunate to have a man of the caliber of Gen. Weyland to succeed him."

Stratemeyer has held the key Far East command since April, 1949. Partridge has been in command of the Fifth Air Force in Japan since 1948.

The two new commanders will leave for Japan this weekend.

Stratemeyer has appeared to side with some of the views advocated by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for stronger measures against Communist China, notably on bombing Red China.

However, an Air Force spokesman declared tonight this had "absolutely nothing at all to do" with the shift. He said the sole reason for sending a replacement for Stratemeyer was that he was too ill to carry on.

Secretary of Defense Marshall told senators at the outset of his testimony on Capitol Hill that "we didn't particularly appreciate" a recent interview Gen. Stratemeyer gave to a magazine.

Asked if Stratemeyer would be fired for airing his views publicly, Marshall replied:

"That issue has not been brought up with the President."

Marshall went on to say: "We had enough of excitement in air at the moment, and he was not a person in the prominent position of Gen. MacArthur."

Stratemeyer had told the U. S. News and World Report that he was convinced the Reds were biulding up their air power in Manchuria, and declared:

"You can't stop a determined air offensive unless you can get at the facility from which it originates. As you know, going north of the Yalu River, the boundary between Korea and Manuchuria) is not permissible, and as a consequence our stopping of air attacks can't be air right. He can hit me where I am based, but I can't hit him."

The Air Force did not mention any reassignment for Gen Stratemeyer.

No Red Feelers, Acheson Says

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today declared American readiness to negotiate with the Chinese Communists for a settlement of the war in Korea. But he said he knew of no overtures from the other side.

His declaration was made at his news conference in response to questions about a speech made by his chief subordinate for Far Eastern affairs, Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk had called the Red regime "a colonial Russian government." In a speech in New York Friday he also said the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa represents the views of the Chinese people "more authentically" than does the Communist administration.

Rusk's speech has been widely interpreted as a change in United States policy toward China, barring Korean peace negotiations with the Reds and firmly attaching the United States to Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek on Formosa .

Acheson denied in detail that Rusk had declared any new policy, but when it came to the words Rusk used Acheson refrained from endorsing them and left the impression that he did not consider them in all cases well chosen.

Republicans Have "MacArthuritis," Sen. Kerr Declares

DENVER, May 23 (AP) —Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) said tonight the Republicans are suffering from "MacArthuritis" and want to mire America down in a bloody, all-out war with Red China.

Kerr, first of the congressional criticis of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, spoke at a western Democratic conference at which Secretary of Agriculture Brannan led a party chorus of hopeful expressions that President Truman will run again in 1952.

The Democratic National Committee, meeting Friday, is scheduled to pick Chicago for next year's nominating convention site despite a $250,000 cash bid by Philadelphia. Leaders said the Democrats probably will hold their meeting the week of July 21, two weeks after the Republicans have picked a nominee.

House Committee Votes 12.5% Hike In Income Taxes

Republican Members Charge 'Railroading'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—A bitterly divided House Ways and Means Committee voted today to increase everybody's income tax 12½ per cent and to slap $730,000,000 additional excess profits tax on corporations.

The committee's 10 Republican members, overridden in the voting by the 15 Democrats, angrily charged that the changes were "railroaded through" after the majority members reached an agreement at a secret caucus.

Easier On Small Taxpayer

The flat 12½ per cent boost in individual income tax liabilities would be somewhat easier on smaller taxpayers than the committee's original plan, and correspondingly tougher on those with bigger incomes.

The original plan, adoped May 9 but now discarded, called for an increase of three percentage points in each income tax bracket. This figured out a 15 per cent increase for those in the lowest bracket and 3.4 per cent at the top.

The 3.4 per cent in the top income range, however, was on a much bigger proportion of total income than the 15 per cent in the bottom pay group.

For instance Capitol tax experts figured that present law provides an $120 tax bill for a married taxpayer with two dependents who has $3,000 left after allowable deductions but before personal exemption. That is an even four per cent of his net income. Under the May 9 plan the bill would go to $138 and under today's change $135.

Break For Single Persons

At $100,000 a year the experts figured the tax bill for the same man to be $51,912 under present law. That is more than half of the whole net income. The discarded three per centage point rise would carry that tax bill up to $54,840. Under today's change the increase would be to $58,401.

The new formula, in general, gives a better break than the percentage point system to single persons with incomes below about $8,000 a year. It takes more from single persons above that level. For a married pershon the break point comes at about $15,000.

War Heroes Near U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP) — Heroes who died in Korea, and many more who lived to return to their homeland, will arrive in San Francisco Bay tomorrow and Friday.

There will be 420 flag-draped caskets aboard the Bartlesville Victory when she makes port tomorrow.

The vessel will be followed by the transport Gen. E. D. Patrick, with 414 U. S. airmen aboard — the first fliers to return under the rotation program.

Gen. Bradley Tells Probe Any Korean Peace Terms Must Have Safeguards

General Asserts More Is Involved Than Withdrawal

JCS Chairman Says Iran Is Danger Spot

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley told senators today South Korea would remain under constant threat of new Communist attacks if a peace settlement called for the withdrawal of United Nations forces without any safeguards.

The five-star General said ceasefire terms will have to contain "certain safeguards" against a renewal of Red aggression — and will involve more than just the withdrawal of Chinese and U. N. forces from Korea.

"The question of decision that is going to have to be reached," he said, x x x is whether or not that (withdrawal) is acceptable from all angles — political, military and so forth — and it is going to involve more than just the simple things, that we both withdraw.

"I think it is going to have to have certain other safeguards x x x but it may boil down to a question of whether or not you accept that or nothing."

Mac's Argument Challenged

Bradley said from a military viewpoint a withdrawal by the Chinese-U. N. forces would leave the Communists "in a more advantageous position to renew the conflict."

Bradley gave these views to the Senate inquiry group studying the reasons behind the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Earlier, he declared that MacArthur's own field intelligence should have spotted the big Chinese Red build-up in North Korea last fall before it drove his army into retreat.

With this testimony, Bradley openly challenged the MacArthur argument that this information was beyond the limits of his command and was the responsibility of higher intelligence in Washington.

But Bradley added that MacArthur could not be blamed if his field commanders did not give him the information "which could have been obtained or should have been obtained by air reconnaissance and ground reconnaissance."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff strongly suggested that MacArthur should have resigned his Far Eastern commands before he began taking public issue with the Truman administration over Far East policy.

Iran Is Danger Spot

The five-star General declared the MacArthur plan to bomb Red China's supply bases could not be done effectively without attacking points in Russia — and such attacks would mean another big-scale war.

He also told the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in their study of the MacArthur ouster that:

1. There is danger the Russians might move into oil rich Iran and start another war. He named Yugoslavia and Indo-China as other danger points. He acknowledged that the fighting in Korea limits American ability to checkmate aggression at these danger spots, but he insisted that the MacArthur plan would not end the Korean war.

2. It was Gen. MacArthur who first proposed sending American troops into Korea to check the North Korean invasion last July.

PRESTON, Eng., May 23 (AP) — Supply Minister George Strauss declared today Britain may have to draft workers to meet the needs of her booming defense program.

Allergic To Meat

Mike DiSalle Rejects Offer Of Steak Dinner In Advance

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Mike DiSalle got an offer of an $8 steak dinner today. All he has to do is find one registered Republican working for the Office of Price Stabilization in Colorado.

However, DiSalle had in effect turned down the offer even before it was made. He said he's getting allergic to meat.

All this came up at a meeting of the House Agriculture Committee. DiSalle, the nation's price boss, was there to explain a rollback he has ordered on meat prices.

Rep. August H. Andresen (R-Minn) at one point said, "now you take the meat you buy—."

"I don't buy it generally," DiSalle said sadly. "I've developed an allergy to it lately."

But Rep. Hill (R-Colo) apparently wasn't convinced.

DiSalle furnished the committee with some figures his regional officers had supplied on the cost of raising cattle.

Here Hill burst in with:

"If you used the political hacks, the ones you put in Colorado, why those figures are no good. They're all Democrats who have been beaten for office. I'll buy you an $8 steak dinner if you can find me one registered Republican."

Seven Killed In Crash Of Air Force Cargo Plane

A new type C-124 Globemaster II, trying to make an emergency landing in a newly-planted cornfield near New Lisbon, Ind., yesterday, flicked the top of a tree, smashed into another large tree, flopped on its belly and burst into flames. Seven of the 12 men aboard the giant Air Force cargo plane were killed. The four-engine ship was on a operational flight from Wright Field, Ohio. The Globemaster can carry 200 fully equipped troops or a payload of 50,000 pounds.

Senate Passes Trade Program Extension Bill

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed a bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements program for two years until June 12, 1953.

The vote was 72 to 2, with only Sens. Malone (R-Nev) and Dworshak (R-Idaho) voting no.

The bill carries an economic weapon aimed at Russia and all other Communist countries. It directs the President to withdraw or suspend all tariff concessions which go to Communist nations under the trade pacts.

Bill Goes To Conference

The measure now goes to conference with the House which passed a three-year extension bill.

Under the reciprocal trade legislation, first out on the statute books back in 1934, the President can cut tariffs in return for concessions from foreign nations. These cuts are embodied in trade agreements.

The program was started under the leadership of then Secretary of State Cordell Hull in an effort to build up world trade.

The bill passed by the Senate tonight ,like the House bill, contains restrictions on the power of the President to negotiate the pacts.

"Peril Point" Provision

These are contained in a "peril point" provision and an escape clause section. The former says that if the President reduces a tariff to a point which the U. S. Tariff Commission considers dangerous to the American economy he must explain to Congress.

Under the escape clause, this country could withdraw a tariff cut if it were found that the reduction seriously affected a domestic industry.

Brunette's Nude Body Found At Trysting Spot

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS)—The nude body of an attractive, dark-eyed brunette, strangled wtih her own stocking, was found today atop a wooded hill in a Staten Island trysting spot overlooking New York harbor.

Police said the slender victim, about 30 years of age, had been dead about two days.

The body was found by John McSorley, West New Brighton, while horseback riding in the fashionable Dongan Hills section.

Detectives said the victim wore only one shoe and a stocking. The rest of her clothes were found about a quarter of a mile away from the scene.

McAuliffe To Become Army Personnel Chief

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe will become chief of Army personnel, the Army announced today.

McAuliffe, who in World War Two became famous for his "nuts" reply to a German surrender demand at Bastogne, now is chief of the Chemical Corps.

He will succeed Lt. Gen. E. H. Brooks, who is taking command of the Second Army at Fort Meade.

American Broadcasting Co., United Paramount Theatres Merger Deal Is Announced

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — A merger agreement was reached today between the American Broadcasting Co., big radio-television network, and United Paramount Theatres, Inc., which operates some 600 motion picture theaters throughout the nation.

The merger will be achieved by an exchange of stock. The new company will be known as "American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc." ABC stockholders will receive approximately $25,000,000 worth of stock in the merged firm.

United Paramount's television station WBKB in Chicago, said the announcement, will be sold to the Columbia Broadcasting System which itself late last month had sought a merger with ABC to obtain more television stations. The merged company will retain ABC's Chicago video station, WENR-TV.

The agreement today came quickly on a resumption of negotiations after the collapse of discussions some 10 days ago on an ABC-United Paramount merger.

It still is subject to approval by the boards of directors and stockholders of the two companies and also by the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates radio and television broadcasting.

While the merger brings together television and motion picture interests, it does not necessarily presage a supply of late films for ABC since United Paramount does not produce motion pictures. However, as a major film exhibitor and also employer of entertainment talent for the stages of its theaters, it is in a position to strengthen ABC programming.

In their joint statement, Leonard H. Goldenson, president of United Paramount, and Edward J. Noble, board chairman of ABC, said:

"Complete daytime and nighttime programs on a scale and of a quality not previously practicable nor attainable is in prospect through the new company. New personalities and programs will be introduced to both radio and television."

U. S. Casualties Rise To 66,816

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Announced U. S. casualties in Korea reached 66,816 today, an increase of 1,293 since last week.

The total covers casualties whose families were notified through May 18. It includes 10,038 killed, 45,567 wounded and 11,211 missing.

Of the wounded, 1,174 have since died, and of the missing 101 are known dead, making the combat death toll 11,313.

The missing total included 1,199 who have since returned to U. S. military control and 115 known prisoners of war leaving 9,796 currently missing.

Diplomats Fear Iran Situation Is Dynamite

MOSCOW, May 23 (AP)—Foreign diplomats here fear the Iranian situation is loaded with dynamite which could blow up world peace.

Some observers are of the opinion there is a growing possibility Iran may turn to Soviet Russia for advice, if not aid, in operating the British-run oil resources she has nationalized. The heart of Russia's oil business is at Baku, near the Iranian border.

If the present confused situation continues in Tehran, some diplomats feel, Britain may be forced to send in armed forces or relinquish completely her Iranian oil interests.

But should she attempt to use troops or warships, these diplomats say they believe Iran would quickly replace Korea as the greatest danger to world peace.

Mercy Killing Opposed

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—The General Council of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. today expressed official opposition to a movement to legalize mercy killing.

Dr. Jesse H. Baird, San Francisco, council chairman, said the general assembly, which meets tomorrow will be asked to take action.

Telegraph Rate Hike Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—An $11,000,000 a year jump in Western Union telegraph rates, scheduled to go into effect June 1, was blocked today by government action.

The Federal Communications Commission raised the stop sign on the increases. It directed the company to make no changes, at least until September 1, so that FCC might have time to investigate.

Public hearings on the matter were ordered to begin here June 25. FCC Examiner Elizabeth S. Smith was assigned to preside over these sessions.

Western Union gave public notice early this month that it proposed to raise its rates on telegrams by approximately 10 per cent and increase telegraph press rates by about 15 per cent, with proportionate hikes in other Western Union services. The plan involved increases in the allowed wordage on straight telegraph messages from 10 to 15 words and on night letters from 25 to 50 words.

Cost-Of-Living Index Halts Its Upward Spiral

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The government's cost-of-living index came to nearly a dead stop in its upward spiral today for the first time since the outbreak of the Korean war last June 25.

Food prices were lower for the first time since February, 1950.

However, the index had already risen enough since January to assure 1,000,000 auto workers a three-cent hourly wage boost. The increase is tied to rise-and-fall "escalator clauses" in the workers' contracts, based on the federal cost-of-living barometer.

The latest index is based on prices as of April 15. The Bureau of Labor Statistics put out two sets of figures—one an "old style" set and the other a new style revised index, based on later buying habits.

Food Prices Drop

The old style index showed that on April 15 Americans were paying 184.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average for their normal living costs—the same figure as on March 15. That is the index followed by the auto industry's contract.

The new-style index edged up to 184.6 or 0.1 per cent above the March 15 level.

Food prices dropped 0.2 per cent, with the food index standing at 225.7 per cent of the 1935-39 average or 11.1 per cent above last June.

Generally speaking, the index bore out predictions of government officials that prices are gradually levelling off.

Meanwhile, the battle over federal anti-inflation controls brought these developments:

Truman Backs Beef Rollback

1. Sen. Moody (D-Mich) said after a White House visit that President Truman is "going to stand firm" behind Price Director Michael V. DiSalle on his order for a rollback on beef prices.

2. DiSalle himself went on the griddle before a hostile House Agriculture Committee and roundly defended his beef order.

3. William W. Russell, speaking for the National Apartment Owners Association, Inc., told the Senate Banking Committee that a bill to extend federal rent controls for two more years would give "dictatorial powers" to local rent directors.

Peron Reportedly Arrests Atom Process 'Discoverer'

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 23 (AP)—A front page story in Tribuna Da Imprensa said today that President Juan D. Peron of Argentina had ordered the arrest of Dr. Ronald Richter, the scientist whom Peron had hailed two months ago as discoverer of a new process for releasing atomic energy.

(There was no confirmation of the report from any source in Buenos Aires.)

The newspaper story, with a Bue-, Aires dateline, said Peron had issued the order after learning that Richter had discovered nothing but "a spetacular process for obtaining the Peronista medal of merit."

It asserted that the information about Richter's arrest was certain, but it gave no source.

The story said Argentina army technicians had analyzed Richter's "discovery" and found the whole thing only "a colossal bluff."

It reported that Peron was furious and had Richter arrested but had not announced his action and probably would not do so. The matter is being kept secret by circles close to the President, the story said.

Attacking U.N. Tank Columns Pursue Enemy

Within Shelling Distance Of 38th

TOKYO, Thursday, May 24 (AP) — The Reds retreated all across the 125-mile Korean warfront today under hot pursuit of attacking Allied tank columns.

Tanks in the west rumbled up to within shelling distance of Communist North Korea across the 38th parallel.

Bled by losses of 70,000 or more, the Reds ceased attacks everywhere and withdrew from the debacle of their second spring offensive. It had lasted only six days.

A field dispatch today from the U. S. division sector — the point where the Reds had hit hardest — quoted dazed Red prisoners as saying they were amazed at how quickly the Allies struck back.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the Reds showed no sign they would stop at the 38th parallel, the old political boundary for North and South Korea.

Tanks Mile From 38th

"They might go up across the parallel and wait for us to come to them," he said, "but it is impossible to tell what the Chinese are going to do."

North of Seoul, tank-led South Koreans approached Korangpo, one mile south of the 38th parallel. The tanks reached positions where they could shell Reds retreating into North Korea from around Korangpo and across the nearby Imjin River.

The U. S. First Calvalry Division advanced more than five miles in another western sector without finding any Reds.

Allied forces were on the prowl for Reds up the main north highway from Seoul for 16 miles. They dispersed one group five miles north of Uljongbu.

In West-Central Korea, the U. S. 25th Division advanced nearly four miles into strong positions ringing Kapyong. Wednesday, 25th patrols entered the highway hub 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

Reds Salient Contained

"All trails and roads in the vicinity west and southwest of Kapyong were loaded with enemy going north," an Eighth Army spokesman said.

In Central Korea, the U. S. First Marine Division hunted Reds to fight and found few.

The Allies now control both sides of the Hongchon River in the central sector.

In East-Central Korea, the valiant U. S. Second Division rolled north. Less than a week ago, the Second was battling for its life against 96,000 Reds trying vainly to destroy the famed Indianhead division and avenge past defeats at its hands.

Even in the rugged east-central sector, Eighth Army said that a deep Red salient near Soksa "is considered contained." Soksa is 18 miles inland from the east coast.

The Allies advanced over roads strewn with the bodies of dead Chinese and North Koreans.

In most sectors, the mountainous terrain was the chief obstacle to the U. N. advance.

Kefauver, "Dad Of Year," Outlines Ideas Of What Makes Good Father

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D) of Tennessee, retired chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, was named Tuesday as "father of the year" by the National Father's Day Committee. In the following article, Sen. Kefauver outlines for International News Service his ideas on what makes a good father. The Tennessee Senator speaks from experience. He is the father of four children: Eleanor, 9; David, 5; Diane Carey, 3, and Gail Estes, 7 months.)

By SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—My idea of how to be a good father is to be the friend of your children—a person the youngsters do not hesitate to come to with their problems, and with their small talk.

So often in my crime committee work I heard witnesses blame their crimes and troubles on the fact that when they were children no one cared about them or what they did.

Such disinterest on the part of a parent leaves a terrible void in any child's life. The child must have someone to come to, without fear, and in full trust.

My own system—and I do not presume to say that my system is best for all parents—is simply to try to be the kind of a person children naturally turn to, whatever the circumstances.

I do this in many ways. I play with my children whenever I can. For instance, I go bike riding with the older ones—and I guess most everyone has seen that picture of me bouncing on a pogo stick. I have fun with my children and I hope they do with me.

I also regard a child's reading as being very important—reading inside and outside school. All alert youngsters will pick up things to read—magazines, comic books, and the like. This desire to read is fine, I think, and should be encouraged. But what the child reads has to be guided.

Such guidance can, I think, be given without flatly laying down rules. It can be done just by talking it over. When a child is forbidden something, he should be told why—have it explained. Usually the child will understand.

In the field of guidance, too, I naturally feel—since I am in government—that the child must be made aware of the world in which he lives, and the vital need for sound, wise government. Civic responsibility can and should be implanted in children in the home.

I am, I guess, a "spare the rod" father. I don't believe in punishment if reasoning can do the trick.

Nor do I believe that any household should have a "boss." Mother and father should get together on anything that concerns the children and work it out between them. I thing it's very important that there be no friction in a home that may leave its effect on the children.

I think, on certain occasions, that the children—if they are old enough to understand—should be included in family consultations.

Above all, I just think that children are people, to be treated as people—and not left out.

Their problems may be little ones to us, but they are big problems to the children and deserve whatever sympathetic treatment and understanding we are able to give them.

Increased wages and other costs must be met

Latest wage offers emphasize need for higher telephone rates

There is no mystery or magic about telephone rates. The price for service is determined by what it costs us to provide it.

Wages are by far the biggest item in the cost of furnishing telephone service, taking 59c out of every expense dollar.

Since 1939, our wage rates are up 103%, while the cost of telephone service to our customers in Maryland has gone up on the average only 27%. Over the same period, general wage increases total nearly $6,000,000 a year more than the rate increases we have had. This includes wage increases recently granted Traffic employees. Now, in current wage negotiations with the CWA-CIO Unions representing employees in other departments, we have offered these employees a general wage increase. This will further widen the gap.

Despite this, however, this wage increase is necessary to keep telephone wages in line with those paid by other businesses in communities we serve. And we must keep our wages in step, if we are to attract and hold the capable people we need to give you good telephone service.

Telephone costs are up

Compared with 1939, our tax bill has gone up more than 314%. Just in the past year, our taxes have gone up over $3,500,000 . . . and they will go even higher.

The cost of most everything we use in the telephone business is higher than ever. For example, since 1939 the cost of lead is up 246%, zinc 244%, copper 132% and pine poles 112%.

It all adds up to millions of dollars in higher costs to the telephone company. That's why we must ask our customers to pay a little more for their service.

There is no other answer. Higher telephone rates are essential to meet the higher cost of doing business and to assure good telephone service.

We can't keep our rates down when our costs keep rising

For 22 years we avoided any general increase in telephone rates. But, finally, when soaring prices made rate increases necessary, we asked for the minimum needed to maintain good telephone service. That is what we are doing now. All we want is a fair price for telephone service, only enough to enable us to do the telephone job that must be done.

Telephone rates have been regulated for many years

Most businesses have been able to raise prices whenever their costs went up. But the telephone company is different. Our prices always lag behind increased costs.

Telephone rates in Maryland are regulated by the Public Service Commission. When we need higher rates we must present facts and figures to prove the need. In the public interest, the Commission must study these facts and figures carefully. This is a proper procedure, but it takes time. So, when a decision is reached, costs may be even higher.

The result is that telephone earnings are far too low to assure the continuance of good telephone service. They are much lower than the earnings of most other businesses, averaging only about 5% over the past five years, as against more than 15% for outside industry in Maryland.

Average cost of telephone service to our customers up much less than most other prices

Adequate rates are essential to good telephone service

The nation is facing serious times. Good telephone service is vital to fast production and to every phase of national defense.

Our ability to serve these growing needs depends upon a sound financial position. And only adequate telephone rates can give us the financial strength to fully meet our obligations to customers, employees and stockholders, and to do the big telephone job ahead, demanded by these critical times.

Conventions Big Business

Conventions—gatherings of hundreds or thousands of persons to transact specific business or engage in all-out hoopla, that is — have become big business. Each year 17,000 national, state and regional organizations meet, listen to speeches, and do whatever else seems appropriate in the United States. The money those who attend these gatherings spend runs into many billions.

Decision of the Republican National Committee to hold next year's national convention in Chicago has resulted in release of figures by the Windy City's Convention Bureau that if the Democratic fracas can be lassoed too for the shores of Lake Michigan, the two political free-for-alls will bring an estimated $10,000,000 to Chicago.

Housing the television announcers and equipment is the biggest problem to be solved by arrangement makers for the 1952 Republican convention. The corps of TV men will need an estimated 35,000 square feet of floor space.

Chicago, which had 1,014 conventions in 1950, is the nation's leading convention city. At least 1,000,000 persons attended conventions in Chicago last year, and spent an estimated $140 each during an average four and one-half day stay. Chicago's Convention Bureau kept a close tab on them, and found they spent 17 per cent of their money in retail stores, 12 per cent in night clubs or at race tracks and other entertainment devices, 12 per cent for food and 8 per cent for thirst quenchers. The biggest item was 36 per cent for hotel bills.

Largest spenders at conventions in recent years have been automobile dealers, Chicago's convention analysts find. The metropolis of the Midwest organized a citizens' committee to raise $500,000 to use as bait in signing up the Republican and Democratic conventions. It is obvious that this will be a good investment.

UMT The Stumbling Block

The Senate and the House conferees on the draft extension-military service bill will meet again this week. Last week they worked out a compromise on almost all the differences on the draft between the Senate and the House versions of the measure. They may have more trouble in agreeing on the chief remaining difference—universal military training.

Sentiment for UMT is unquestionably weaker in the House than in the Senate. That was why the Administration leaders in the House were willing to accept the almost meaningless UMT provision voted by the House. They were afraid that otherwise the bill wouldn't even go to conference.

Under both the Senate and the House versions, the President would appoint a commission to formulate a military training program whenever one of two situations should occur—(1) The international situation should improve sufficiently to warrant a shorter period of military service under the draft; or (2) a longer period of basic training was needed for draftees.

In the Senate version of the bill, the commission's military training program could then be put into effect at any time by the President. In the House version, he could put it into effect only when men under 19 were not needed for actual military service, and even then only after Congress had given its assent. In other words, the House voted to postpone the real decision on UMT to some time in the future.

In the Senate a motion on March 9 to eliminate UMT was lost by vote of 68 to 20. Thirteen of the votes for elimination came from the Middle West, six from Rocky Mountain states, only one from the East, none from New England, the South, or the Pacific Coast.

WACs In Army Hospitals

Convinced that peace is the time to determine how far women can safely be substituted for men in Army hospitals, Maj. Gen. Reymond W. Bliss, Surgeon General of the Army, instigated an experiment over an 11-month period, the results of which have just been disclosed.

It was found by tests conducted from June 1, 1949, to April 30, 1950, that 247 out of 301 types of hospital jobs can be performed equally well by women. The 54 types from which women were excluded called for physical strength, service in lonely locations, discipline and the care of certain types of male patients.

The experiment was made at the Army's Murphy General Hospital, Waltham, Mass., with 515 beds and a subhospital and out-patient department of 200 beds at Fort Devens, nearby. Though the Army was not employing women doctors at that time, only four medical and surgical posts were labeled "for men only." Furthermore, it was found that women were capable of assuming custodial duties, if need be, in positions now held by men under tenure.

What has evolved from these tests participated in by hundreds of Woman's Army Corps officers and WAC personnel, as well as by 100 civilians, is the competence of the "average" woman to serve efficiently under direction at noncombat Army bases in wartime. Of the women tested 84 per cent were found fit for staffing purposes and 92 per cent for hospital-type activities. The official conclusion is that such a hospital "can accomplish its mission with a staff predominately of women."

In an all-out war the use of women in Army hospitals could release thousands of men for other work. And the realization that there are only a few types of hospital work for which male physicians are essential could free many of them for service in the field. This knowledge is certainly an important element of preparedness.

Deadline For DP's

The Senate will shortly be asked to give displaced persons six months longer in which to be admitted to this country. The Senate Judiciary Committee has now before it a bill to that effect which the House passed by a vote of 312 to 63 on May 9.

Administrative difficulties caused by the McCarran Internal Security Act and diversion of shipping to the Korean War have forestalled the admission of many of the 341,000 DPs authorized to enter the country under existing legislation, at present due to expire on June 30. The pending bill pushes the deadline back to December 31.

The Displaced Persons Act of 1948 was liberalized by a bill signed by the President on June 16, 1950. This authorized the entry of 415,744 refugees over three years instead of 257,377 over two years. An amendment offered in the Senate by Judiciary Committee Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.), suspending admissions whenever U. S. unemployment reached certain levels, was twice defeated.

How To Keep Well

Uncovered Mental Cases

Some psychopathic men and women escape detection because their behavior for the most part is normal. Their social and personal incompetency is well concealed, yet behind the scenes these individuals are peculiar and maladjusted. They are potentially dangerous but seldom reach the sanitarium because the true nature of their condition is not discovered.

Dr. Hervey M. Cleckley of Georgia Medical college, cites an example of one such ambulatory schizophrenic. For two decades she had been listening attentively to a voice that came from her stomach. The psychiatrist found that "she follows its word faithfully. The advice is nearly always good. It is never irrational or particularly injudicious." During all these years she has supported herself, enjoyed the friendship of others, and lived as a good citizen in the community. She tells of her hallucinations only when examined medically and questioned specifically. Furthermore, she considers this inner voice a special blessing and intends to keep it discreetly to herself. In other words, her disturbance is mild and so well masked that even her best friends don't know. She has never been in a sanitarium although we might speculate as to what would happen should the voice go berserk and give her bad advice.

Many masked Schizophrenics have vague and minor physical discomforts but they do not have delusions and deny hearing voices. Their manner is neither abnormal nor bizarre. Suddenly something happens to make them irrational or perhaps a situation develops to which they react in a most unusual fashion when their lack of insight and mental derangement becomes obvious. Dr. Cleckley describes an intelligent young man who was regarded as spoiled and selfish. At times he was demanding and his arrogant behavior offended many of his acquaintances. Some of his classmates considered him pretty much of a screwball but he did well in his college work and his name appeared from time to time. On one occasion he withdrew from college because of a petty dissatisfaction. But he returned and was tolerated despite his egotistical, ill-tempered, and aloof manner.

The young man lived at home with his widowed mother and an aunt and uncle. His psychopathic nature came to light when a popular girl broke a date with him. He went home and demanded money from his mother to take a weekend trip to New Orleans. She refused because of her limited finincial resources. He became violent, "cuffed his mother up pretty thoroughly, and brandished a poker at his aunt." He retreated at the appearance of his uncle but obtained possession of the latter's loaded revolver and threatened to shoot any one who entered the room. After six hours his relatives gave up trying to reason with him and when the police came they seized the gun without a fuss.

This young man's behavior was entirely unorthodox. There were indications of real anxiety and despair behind his former aloofness. His eccentricity and unpredictable nature, a long history of tantrums, voluntary failures, and ingratitude suggest the psychopathic personality. He admitted finally that he frequently communicated with and controlled imaginary armies of small steel men located underground in the Alps and Rockies.

VAGUE TERM

G. Y. writes: My friend is always talking about his "left heart condition." What is meant by this expression?

REPLY

Your friend will need to be more specific, even for me. There are several abnormalities involving the left side of the heart. Why not ask him to elucidate?

SHAPE OF RINGWORM

F. T. writes: Is ringworm infection always ring shaped?

REPLY

Ringworm of the skin usually is ring shaped but the same cannot be said of related fungous infections of the toes, feet, nails, and hands.

INSIDE POCKETS

Mrs. E. writes: I was told after examination that I have pockets in my intestine. Is this serious?

REPLY

With today's living costs, no doubt these pockets are empty also. You undoubtedly refer to diverticula of the colon, a common condition after the age of 50. These pockets are not serious unless they become infected. When this occurs, a disorder comparable to appendicitis exists, except that a diverticulum is less likely than the appendix to rupture.

ABDOMINAL DISTENTION

G. T. writes: Since gaining five pounds I have an uncomfortable sensation in my abdomen. Could this added weight be responsible, even tho I am not overweight?

REPLY

No. The manifestation is probably coincidental and you should look for other causes.

Oil Lobby Wins First Round In Reversing Supreme Court On Tidelands Oil; Wallace's Garden Neglected; Unrest Grows In Communist China

WASHINGTON — One result of the MacArthur controversy is a field day for the lobbyists. With the country absorbed with the MacArthur dispute, the lobbyists are able to put across all sorts of fancy deals without the public realizing it. One of the latest is a move to reverse the Supreme Court in regard to tidelands oil.

In 1936, when President Roosevelt tried to reverse the Supreme Court by an act of Congress, it made headlines for weeks. But without benefit of headlines, the big oil lobbyists are now trying to reverse the Supreme Court ruling that the submerged oil lands off the coast of the United States belong to all the 48 states, not merely to California, Texas and Louisiana.

Last week the lobbyists quietly won out in their initial move. They finagled the Senate Interior Committee into voting—7 to 4—to return tidelands oil to these three states.

The vote was over the objection of Chairman Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who tried to block the oil lobby with a compromise bill, and who spent two hours privately trying to persuade Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, spokesman for the lobby, to compromise. But Long wouldn't budge.

Closed-Door Vote

In the showdown voting behind closed doors, GOP Senator Hugh Butler from the inland state of Nebraska, with no water boundary other than the Missouri River, showed up with the proxies of two other GOP senators—Ecton from the landlocked state of Montana, and Watkins from the desert state of Utah.

Joined by Senator Cordon of Oregon, this made four Republican votes for the oil companies.

Chairman O'Mahoney had counted on the vote of the Senate Majority Leader, McFarland of Arizona, since the majority leader is supposed to vote with the Administration on all major policies. However, McFarland owes a debt to persuasive, potent Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, the man who really made him majority leader, and McFarland joined two other Democrats — Long of Louisiana and Smathers of Florida —in overruling the Supreme Court. O'Mahoney was able to muster only three votes besides his own—Anderson of New Mexico, Murray of Montana and Lehman of New York, all Democrats.

After the tidelands vote, McFarland rose to leave, sheepishly offered his proxy to O'Mahoney on some minor votes.

"It's too late now," snorted O'Mahoney. "I could have used it a while ago."

Wetback Wallace

For many years the Minister of Switzerland, popular Charles Bruggmann, had the benefit of a vegetable garden cultivated by one of the capital's most famous gardeners—a vice president of the United States.

Bruggmann's brother-in-law happens to be Heury Wallace; and while Wallace was vice president he couldn't resist the urge to get his hands into the soil. So every spring he was a regular 5:30 a.m. visitor at the Swiss Legation grounds.

The other day the Swiss Minister met an old friend at the State Department who asked about the vegetable garden.

"Ah," replied the Minister with a twinkle, "we don't enjoy any of that cheap labor any more."

Chinese Unrest

It's always difficult to know exactly what is happening in such a vast country as China, but intelligence reports, plus news from missionaries, all indicate growing dissatisfaction with the Communist regime. Though General MacArthur testified that the Chinese Reds were consolidating their hold on China, Allied intelligence is pretty much the opposite.

Here are some straws in the Chinese wind:

1. Anti - Communist guerrilla bands are operating in South China. In many sections, the Communists control only the cities, ports and rail centers.

2. The famine this year has been worse than usual. Several million have died, and the Communists get the blame.

3. Mao is torn between his rival, Li Li-san, who is virtually Russian regent of Manchuria, and Chinese moderates on the other hand who claim Mao takes too many orders from Moscow.

4. Chinese armies long have been considered the personal property of their commanders, and these commanders don't like to see their troops decimated by casualties.

When this writer was in China some years ago, there was no central government, but regional rule by the commanders of certain armies. That is why the heavy casualties in Korea are likely to hurt. The Chinese are accustomed to seeing death all around them. But a military commander is jealous of his power and doesn't like to see his personal army dwindle.

Behind the Iron Curtain

Red Army — Russia has nearly completed modernizing its armed forces in East Germany. Nearly all propellor-driven fighters have been replaced by jets, and modern anti-aircraft guns have been rushed into Germany, replacing outmoded guns. Meanwhile, Russia has also expanded its total ground strength from 175 to 225 divisions. Eisenhower doesn't have 17 divisions to defend Western Europe yet.)

Stettin, East Germany [illegible] most serious anti-Russian den[illegible]tions since the war have brok[illegible] out in East Poland. Angry Poles stoned, beat and manhandled Russian troops, after a Russian major shot and killed six Poles in the center of Stettin for refusing to step aside while he walked by.

Farm Collectivization—Anna Pauker, head of the cominform, has notified Russian satellites to slow down on collectivizing farms. The peasants are getting very anti-Soviet—even in Russia.

Albanian Communism—The Russians have now rushed more than 100 fighter planes to Albania to help Premier Hoxa's government in battling anti-Communist partisans. Pitched battles involving units of several hundred men have broken out in the last three weeks. It looks as if Albanian communism is on the way out.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Wrong Road

Often we wonder how we got that way. For over 30 years, Americans moved in one general direction and then they lost their way and now we are wondering what happened to us. We read the shameful Kefauver and Fulbright reports; we watch the unbelievable MacArthur investigation; we shudder at the kind of vulgar men who govern us—and we wonder at what turning we went wrong.

I have been re-reading an article by Father John C. Ford on "The Fundamentals of Holmes' Juristic Philosophy."

No man exercised a greater influence on the political thinking of the United States since John Marshall. Most of the young men whom we identify as the disciples of Justice Felix Frankfurter were really pupils of Oliver Wendell Holmes, whose intellectual capacity was not only tremendous but attractive.

Yet, Oliver Wendell Holmes viewed the law more in the German rather than the Anglo-Saxon manner. He believed not in the sovereignty of the individual— who possesses inalienable rights—but rather that sovereignty, vested in the state, gives to the state well-nigh unlimited powers over the individual. If the state can do anything, it can, from a practical standpoint, do no wrong. This is what Holmes said on this point:

"Sovereignty is a form of power, and the will of the sovereign is law because he has power to compel obedience or punish disobedience and for no other reason. The limits within which his will is law then, are those within which he has, or is believed to have power to compel or punish."

As Father Ford says:

"It is clear that in a system in which law and rights are based essentially on physical power the divorce between the legal order and the ethical or moral order is complete. . . ."

And therein lie most of our troubles today, although we have a tendency to seek some tangible reason, such as that Dean Acheson is incompetent or Alger Hiss was a Russian agent. While such explanations may apply to these two men, they do not give us the clue to the general debacle in manners and morals. They do not explain the apathy of the people in the face of outrageous corruption.

We need to probe the problem more deeply and it must be in the realm of ideas, for a people are what they believe and they act as their assumptions permit them to. A people who believe in a moral system based upon natural law—that is, the revealed law of God—will act very differently from a people who believe this statement of Holmes:

". . . The law is full of phraseology drawn from morals, and by the mere force of language continually invites us to pass from one domain to the other without perceiving it, as we are sure to do unless we have the boundary constantly before our minds. The law talks about right, and duties, and malice, and intent, and negligence, and so forth, and nothing is easier, or, I may say, more common in legal reasoning, than to take these words in their moral sense, at some stage of the argument, and so to drop into fallacy. For instance, when we speak of the rights of man in a moral sense, we mean to mark the limits of interference with individual freedom which we think are prescribed by conscience, or by our ideal, however reached . . . Manifestly, therefore, nothing but confusion of thought can result from assuming that the rights of man in a moral sense are equally rights in the sense of the constitution and the law. . . ."

And further he says:

". . . For my own part, I often doubt whether it would not be a gain if every word of moral significance could be banished from the law altogether, and other words adopted which should convey legal ideas uncolored by anything outside the law. . ."

When morality is banished from the law, all sense of right disappears as well. Precisely what difference is there between the concepts of Hitler and Stalin and those of Oliver Wendell Holmes? All three set so temporary an arrangement as the power of the government of the moment above all moral concepts—that is, against the entire experience of the human race.

And in this tone have many of our most important men been educated. The materialism of Karl Marx is not the only kind of materialism from which our generation suffers.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Maybe Senator Tobey, Republican, of New Hampshire, is right when he says he would like to see the senators ring down the curtain on their investigation of the MacArthur episode. It raises a lot of other conjectures, too.

Maybe all the future hearings will not bring out a bit more than past hearings. Maybe the record already shows that nobody really knows why President Truman fired General MacArthur and why his associates did their best to think up the reasons after the dismissal was ordered.

Maybe, since the record now shows that the President decided to resist aggression in the Far East last June without a formal estimate from the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council as to the risks involved, the Korean War —in view of the restrictions subsequently imposed—is a prize example of "the wrong war, at the wrong time and against the wrong enemy." For General Bradley has testified that the military mission no longer is to clear the enemy out of Korea. Maybe Americans should be prepared now for defeat on the military side and for a "negotiated peace."

Of Interest To Families

Maybe, as Senator Tobey says, it's true that the senators ought not to be posing military questions to the top military commanders, but maybe also the families of the 65,000 killed and wounded and of the 300,000 or more American boys who are fighting in Korea today can't think of any other way to get the answers except through their elected representatives.

Maybe it's right that the Senate committee should protect the constitutional rights of a witness who doesn't want to tell what was said in White House conferences, but maybe it is also right to ask why those same senators to this day have taken no action to question whether the whole Korean War is a constitutional operation. For the legislative branch, which alone under the Constitution can declare war, does have the right to assert its constitutional prerogatives, too.

Maybe the senators will some day find out how it happened that, after Secretary Acheson told Congress that American troops could never become involved in a United Nations war except by a special agreement to be first approved by Congress, there are hundreds of thousands of American troops engaged in Korea, supposedly in a United Nations war.

Maybe, since both Secretary Marshall and General Bradley have now testified that there is no evidence of "insubordination" on the part of General MacArthur, it will be accepted that the violations of policy are pertinent to define. None has yet been given except in the vaguest terms. The President, for instance, has said that General MacArthur approached the Chinese commander with an ultimatum or surrender demand and didn't ask Washington, but the General says publicly that he did it twice before and never was sent any message of disapproval.

Maybe the message sent by General MacArthur to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in which he upheld the strategic importance of Formosa, was not American policy when he sent it last August but nobody has ben willing lately to admit it wasn't. The net effect is to find General MacArthur, on the record, merely expressing official policy to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Had Subsequent Instructions

Maybe General MacArthur, after the December 6 instruction, issued some statements without clearing them with Washington, but so did General Ridgway. Likewise, General MacArthur was subsequently told he did not have to clear military statements. All the questions the press directed to him were military questions.

Maybe there isn't anyone in high office here who really knows the difference between a "military consideration" and a "foreign-policy objective." But certainly when there's a critical moment in a war and the problem of when and how you will relieve the military man in command of that war arises, it would appear to be a prime question of military importance and not a foreign-policy question. Yet General Bradley has just admitted on the witness stand that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were not consulted and were not asked for a recommendation and took no part in the all-important decision to remove summarily the man who was commander - in - chief of the Far Eastern Forces of the United States.

Maybe President Truman would concur in Senator Tobey's desire to call a halt. For it was the President who started all the furore — not General MacArthur or the senators who have ever since been trying to find out what it's all about. Maybe nobody will ever find out, anyway, what Mr. Truman meant by his statement that he had been considering dismissing General MacArthur ever since last August but kept on sending him private messages praising his accomplishments. Maybe there are lots of people outside Washington who do not understand official 'gobbledygook," but there are many here in Washington who don't understand it either.

Matter Of Fact

The Grim Choice

LONDON

As these words are written, the betting appears to be about even that the British will move troops to South Persia. At any rate, they are just about up against the grim choice between taking all the heavy risks of this step, or taking the consequence of outright expropriation of their Iranian oil resource.

Furthermore, the British cannot easily move troops without a minimum of American moral support—at least enough to see them through a charge of aggression before the United Nations. The future of the Western alliance, which America leads, also hangs upon the outcome in Persia. Hence this British choice is, at the same time, inescapably an American choice.

Until now, even the hardier spirits in the Foreign Office have only been talking about moving troops to "protect the lives of British nationals" in Persia. Now, however, the veils are dropping. It is almost certain that Sir Oliver Franks has already been instructed to talk with Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson about the more realistic problem of protecting the foundations of the British economy and the strategic balance in the Middle East.

Miracle Needed

Events over the weekend forced this facing of facts, from which London has hitherto shrunk away almost as nervously as Washington. On Saturday, the British Ambassador at Teheran, Sir Francis Shepherd, rather desperately suggested to the Shah that he might form a more rational government. But it was too late for this expedient. On Sunday while the Prime Minister, Dr. Mossadegh, crouched in his barricaded room, his representative, Hussein Makki, told the Persian Parliament that the existing government would never negotiate the oil dispute with the British.

A miracle may of course rescue the British and American policy makers from the dilemma on whose horns they have been wriggling like befuddled tadpoles. But since little short of a miracle can prevent the grim choice from being made this week, it is now wise to examine its real nature.

No one in his senses can find much that is attractive about the first alternative — a movement of British troops to south Persia. Britain does not really have enough airborne forces for the job. Even to secure control of the minimum territory, Abadan island with its vital refinery, will be a dirty business, probably involving heavy losses of life on both sides. Such a crass imperialistic act will make, to say the least, a bad impression elswhere in the Middle and Far East.

It may touch off a Russian invasion of North Persia. It will quite probably give the Communist Tudeh party the desired chance to seize power at Teheran. It will perhaps result in a far more disagreeable repetition of the Korean pattern on Persian soil. It may, just conceivably, lead to a world war. The list of objections is formidable indeed.

But as usual, the choice now is not between bad and good, but between evil and more evil. If American influence or indifference deters the British government from protecting their oil resource, are following consequences will be almost unavoidable.

Partnership May Dissolve

First, the British economy, which depends exclusively upon Middle Eastern oil, will receive a fatal blow. The huge American investment in maintaining the British as a great power ally will be transformed into money down the drain. What has previously been done for Britain will be forgotten because America has not stood by her ally in this hour of need; and the Anglo-American partnership, the core of Western strength, will dissolve in a tempest of mutual recrimination.

Second, the economies of Western Europe and India will also be disrupted. And a cessation of the oil flow from Abadan will make it fantastically costly, and in wartime almost prohibitively difficult, to supply the fleets in the Mediterranean and the vital strategic airbases there.

Third Persian success in expropriating British oil will set an example that will quickly be imitated in Egypt, in Iraq, and in every other nation in a remotely similar situation. There will be no controlling the chain reaction. Furthermore, the strain imposed on these weak governments by biting off so much more than they can chew, will equally inevitably produce secondary political results of great violence. Dr. Mossadegh and his followers think they are keeping one jump ahead of the Tudeh party by their handling of the oil issue. But it is ever more likely that Tudeh will be the ultimate benficiary if Dr. Mossadegh now succeeds in his plans, than is he is frustrated by forcible measures.

The price of a policy of inaction, in short, is a gigantic change in the world balance of power, altering the whole Middle Eastern pattern, shaking the Western alliance to its foundation, and perhaps destroying it. This is no Mexican oil squabble. This is the terrible game of power politics, being played for the greatest stakes.

Philadelphia Specialist Urges More Normal Life For Heart Patients

BOSTON— (AP) —A Philadelphia rigid management of coronary cases and went so far as to say a person heart specialist has urged less suffering from such an attack could smoke, provided he also takes a drink.

Dr. William D. Stroud told the 170th meeting of the Massachusetts eMdical Society "a good slug" of alcohol would offset the constricting effect of nicotine on the coronary blood vessels.

Dr. Stroud, professor of cardiology at the University of Pennsylvania graduate school of medicine, in advocating a more normal life for heart patients, charged that deprivation of too many things leads to frustration.

"Frustration," he added, "raises the blood pressure, which is bad for the heart.

'I think, he said, "that we doctors try to prolong life in these coronary cases by making that life just as miserable as possible.

"We say that they must not smoke, that they must not drink, that they must be celibate, that they cannot take part in sports, that they cannot drive an automobile.

"In 30 years," he went on, "I knew of only one person who died of coronary thrombosis (a blood clot) while at the wheel of a car. All the others were able to drive to the side of the road.

"And they can take exercise, within reason, of course.

"In fact there is no reason at all why coronary cases should not lead a perfectly normal life. They'll be much better off if they do."

Dr. Stroud also described nitroglycerine as the best drug to use for pains in the chest which mark the onset of a coronary attack. It acts more quickly than alcohol, he opined.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

PARIS, FRANCE—Cocktail parties here are the same as at home—except the perfume smells better. . . . I had to cross the Atlantic to discover this earth-shaker. . . . White-moustached, full of pep and vinegar, Sir Charles Mendl, well into his 70's, announced his engagement the other day to a vigorous and charming young lady by lavishing a cocktail party and also launching the social season. . . . The apartment was bubbling with plenty of champagne and celebrities. . . . Lady Diana Manners, who now lives quietly at Chantilly, was there, still looking like the Madonna role she once played. . . . Tall and queenly, she had a black veil drawn tight over her marble face and blonde hair. . . . Hollywood's latest bride Arlene Dahl and "Tarzan" Lex Barker talking about their honeymoon, a trip through France. . . . Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy surrounded by girls—his wife Rose, daughters Pat and Eunice. . . . In a navy blue suit, lined with navy blue moleskin, and navy blue wig, Madame Elsa Schiaparelli rolling her big eyes in warm greeting to balding Christian Dior. . . . In Paris rival dressmakers don't slit each other's throats as is sometimes believed. . . . Besides, Paris women this season are raving about their collections of clothes above all the others—Dior's and Schiap's. . . . Naturally, they're feeling generous and exuberant.

The Howard Raileys (he represents a U. S. airplane manufacturer) giggling over a glass of champagne with Jane Abell, another of the American women that Paris takes to heart. . . . The George Abell's house at Neuilly (a sort of Paris equivalent of Washington's Georgetown) attracts a nice slice of the Paris pie. . . . Diplomats, journalists, cave-dwelling counts and dukes, American members of military missions, a painter or two, or visiting firemen from Washington are always drawing up to Abell's maison. . . . And no matter how many times they have come before, the guests always get a start when they step in the entrance hall. . . . For sitting there, big as life and twice as nasty, are two, snarling Siberian wolves. . . . They make police dogs look like pups. . . . The huge, grey animals with great toothy jaws open have not yet been known to spring forward and chaw out a hunk of some general's calf. . . . But nobody would be surprised if they did. . . . Though they've been stuffed since they were shot in Russia back in 1909, they look much too live for comfort. . . . However, they are quiet and tame, and do not even make the wolf call heard in the wilds outside U. S. drug stores.

At Sir Charles' party too, no wolves whistled! While the girls are beautiful at cocktail parties, so are the extra men too beautiful! . . . . A he-man's hard to find at a Paris cocktail party. . . . They're all either married or too busy to go.

The girls report the extra man situation has been getting steadily rosier. . . . And what with ECA fellows, the new influx of military men, and the easy trip it is by plane from the U. S., the parties should be burgeoning with bachelors instead of jumping with jerks. . . . In Washington, fall and spring bring the splurges of entertaining. . . . In Paris, spring and summer explode the big season. . . . Five or six cocktail parties and garden fetes a day, dinners and grand balls at night. . . . Luncheons on Sunday (this is an established custom) begin the middle of May, reach a climax through June, and dwindle down by Bastille Day, July 14th.

No matter what time of year you come to Paris your eyes will soak up the beauty, your money will strain at the leash and beg to be spent, your mouth water, your feet ache, you'll want to sing, and, if "you were a bell—to ring!" . . . . And even more so in the spring!

Spring and early summer's the best time to come, and the best way to come is by air.

By flying TWA we eliminated the bother of packing and unpacking for life on the boat, and we saved four or five days each way, which gives us almost two weeks longer in Paris.

The flight is speedy and smooth. . . . Also, because there are fewer passengers, the customs and other official red tape takes much less time and fuss.

We left New York at 6:15, and the next morning we drifted down, down out of the clouds, over a green, Connecticut-looking landscape. . . . The roof tops and sandy twisting roads didn't look like U. S. A. somehow. . . . The roofs were red and of tiles, I soon could see. . . . Lindbergh himself couldn't have done better than the trusty crew. . . . The navigator, Basil Rathbone, Jr., son of the actor, found his way to Orly airport and I first touched toes on the old soil of France at 9:30 or so by our watches.

But it was later than we thought—exactly 2:30 by French time. . . . In a twitter, a daze, a tizzy and a tingle, I entered Paris!

You can double the life of a foundation garment by putting it on correctly and giving it proper care.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Never wear a stretched or misshapen foundation. The loss in figure beauty proves quickly that it is the poorest kind of economy. The place to save is by saving your foundations. Nothing else that you wear does more for your contours, carriage and clothes.

To get the greatest return from your investment in underpinnings, learn how to prolong their life and preserve their elasticity. Here are professional tips on how this can be done:

Don the Right Way

When donning a brassiere, slide the straps over your shoulders; then bend over to adjust the fit before fastening. Lastly, give the band at the back a downward tug so that the base will lie smoothly and comfortably. Your brassiere gives you the greatest support when adjusted in this manner, yet no undue stress is placed on the elastic.

A tug of war with a girdle or all-in-one is sure to shorten the figure-controlling life of the garment. Furthermore, the right way to get into one is the easiest: Roll the top half down over the lower half, and then step into it. Pull the folded foundation gently upward to the proper position with the pads of your finger tips (nails are anathema!) Roll the top half into place. In summer, a dusting of bath powder expedites the operation.

Next to careless donning, careless laundering sags and ages foundations. To get the long service your foundations are designed to give, launder them this way: Never soak for more than ten minutes. Squeeze gently in warm suds with a cupping motion of your hands. Stubborn spots may be removed with a soft, sudsy brush. Rinse several times in clear, tepid water.

Reshape and Dry Flat

Never wring a foundation. Always roll in a Turkish towel to absorb the moisture. Never hang it to dry; instead, place on a fresh towel . . . reshape the garment and dry it flat, away from the direct sunlight.

Never be tempted to wear a brassiere or foundation that is in need of repair. Take care of any mishap as soon as it occurs. Pins take serious toll from both fabric and elastic. Use a zig-zag stitch on elastic sections. Replace straps, garters and fasteners with firm whip stitches.

Expert care means double the wear!

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—This week marks the 132nd anniversary of the sailing of the "Savannah" on her history-making voyage. She was the first steamship to cross the Atlantic. When the 340-ton ship approached the English coast, a month out of Savannah, Ga., her smoking stack caused the alarmed British to send on fireboats.

Late next month the American merchant marine, a generally overlooked service between wars, will be dramatically strengthened by the addition of the American Export Line's "United States."

The "United States," to be christened at Newport News, Va., is 990 feet long, faster than any liner now afloat, will carry 2,000 peacetime passengers (or almost a full division in time of war) and promises to be the first real challenge we've made to foreign maritime powers in half a century. She will weight in at 51,500 tons.

We have been letting our shipping chances go out the window since the "Savannah's" time. Antagonism toward steam shortened the life of the trail-blazing vessel. Its owners almost sold it to the Russians, after Czar Alexander visited the ship and presented Capt. Moses Rogers with a gold watch.

Thereafter we went in for fast-mail, quick-cargo service, with the romantic clippers. The slender, streamlined, sharp-prowed beauties, flying under a cloud of canvas, were the superb greyhounds of the seven seas — while the broad-bottomed foreign ships, plodding along, ran up profits.

We held all the records, nautically. In 1853 the clipper "Sovereign Of The Seas" logged 421 nautical miles in a day, the equivalent of 17½ knots, a speed not equalled today by a majority of cargo liners.

Donald McKay's fabled "Flying Cloud," built in New York just a century ago, was the best known of the clippers. On her maiden voyage to San Francisco she made the run around the Horn in a speedy 89 days. She carried men and goods to the gold fields; brought from China and India its spices and silks.

The Civil War and settling of the Middle and Far West lost for us our primary interest in the sea. The nation's maritime strength declined with each year. By the eve of World War I, though our industrial expansion had been historic, American ships were carrying less than 10 per cent of our foreign trade. Our entry into the war meant almost complete dependence on foreign shipping for the movement of troops and supplies.

We paid no heed to our lowly position in shipping until the Mer-

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

In its first veto by the 82nd Congress, the House voted last week 312 to 68 to over-ride the President's veto of a bill to require Congressional committee approval of real estate transactions by the Defense Department and Civil Defense Administration. The veto was the result of the Defense Department's plans to lease two new luxury-type apartments in Washington for use as office space. In calling for a veto, Chairman Carl Vinson (D) of Georgia, of the House Armed Services Committee recalled that President Truman when he was a Senator praised a similar measure. It was felt that this bill would head off any similar plans in the future.

The Commerce Clearing House of Chicago, a private tax and business organization, in a report May 9, stated that the average American will pay $34,743.23 in taxes before he quits working. The estimate was based on the average man now 29 years of age who will work until he is 65. The report said that 22 per cent of his income for the next 36 years will go to local, state and federal taxes. The report added that the average American at 29 "will have the equivalent in income of 28 years for himself, but the other eight years he will work to supply the demands of his government." The only way to reduce taxes is to demand efficiency in government.

Arthur Bliss Lane, for many years an ambassador in the Roosevelt and Truman Adminitsrations, in a speech in Washington May 13, criticized this government's foreign policy and asked: "Is our primary loyalty to the United Nations or is it to the nation which is ours?"

Mr. Lane, who is recognized as an expert on European affairs because of his long service as a diplomat, speaking before a meeting of District of Columbia and federal judges, said: "I have been urged, in the interest of national unity, not to say what I was thinking while in Europe but the time has come when the things I thought must be told." He went on to say a "basic distrust" of America was developed among European nations "by the Teheran and Yalta agreements which, in violation of the Atlantic Charter, sold European peoples into slavery." Mr. Lane said further another cause of this distrust was "the Alger Hiss case, in which an alleged Soviet spy was protected by government sources despite our attempts to persuade European governments to resist Soviet aggression."

Four labor union officials, Robert Noonan, representing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL; J. B. Pate, president of Georgia Federation of Labor and Georgia Electrical Workers Association, AFL; Chester Daniels, vice president of Florida State Workers Association, AFL; and Ross Martin, president of Local 930 of the IBEW and chairman of Southeastern System Council, recently told a House Appropriations Sub-Committee the detailed story of how the rights of workers were being destroyed through socialization of the electric power industry. They appeared in opposition to a proposed appropriation of $4,500,000 for construction of transmission lines and other expansion by the Southeastern Power Administration.

UNDER THE DOME

I was advised by the Department of Defense that the 679th Air Force Band is being assigned to play for the Fourth of July ceremonies at Takoma Park on the evening of July 3 and the morning of July 4. This is an annual event in the Takoma Park community and draws thousands of visitors.

Numerous letters have been received regarding the mail service in Frederick. The delay is not in the local office but in the receipt of mail from other places. The greatest delay is in the receipt of mail from Baltimore and Washington. I have contacted the Postmastes General asking for an investigation.

Many schools in the District are bringing students for tours of Washington. Last week a group of Frederick High School students and their guests, exchange students from the Wyandotte, Michigan, High School were here. A group from the Frostburg Teachers College spent a day here and next week a Hagerstown High School group will meet with me.

The House District Committee continued executive sessions on the Omnibus Crime Bill for the District of Columbia which I attended.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In the Matter of the Adoption of Thomas Myers, Infant, by Melvin M. Miller and Dorothy K. Miller, his wife, Vs. Ex-Parte: No. 22, 173, Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this proceeding is to procure a decree of adoption, declaring Thomas Myers, infant, to be the adopted child of the petitioners.

The petition states that the above petitioners are husband and wife, that they are persons of good repute, that they have lived in Allegany County for a number of years, that the above named child has lived in their home for over a year and they are fond of the child and the child is fond of them, and that it is their desire to adopt the child legally and to give him the care and love of natural parents; that the father of the child, James Marshall Myers, has given his consent to the adoption, but that the mother of said child, namely, Margaret Myers, is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and her present whereabouts are unknown.

It is thereupon this 9th day of May, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the petitioners by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 11th day of June, 1951, giving notice to the said absent Margaret Myers, mother of said child, of the object and substance of this petition and warning her to be and appear in this Court on or before the 28th day of June, 1951, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk.

Author Admits He's Former Red

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Novelist Budd Schulberg testified today he quit the Communist Party 12 years ago when Red leaders in Hollywood tried to "dictate" to him on his literary output.

The 37-year-old author, who wrote the best sellers "What Makes Sammy Run" and "The Disenchanted," told the House Un-American Activities Committee that under the Communist system a writer is regarded much the same as a soldier.

"He is given social commands, and if he fails to carry them out he is subjected to discipline," Schulberg said.

The witness said he got into so much hot water over his decision to write "Sammy" without consulting the Hollywood Communist bosses that he went to Vermont to complete the novel.

Schulberg said he returned to Hollywood in 1940 and fought against continued efforts by Writers Richard Collins, John Howard Lawson and V. J. Jerome when they "tried unsuccessfully to draw me back into the strait jacket of the Communist line mentality."

Collins, Lawson and Jerome have all been described as Communist Party functionaries at the time.

Claude Funk Heads Fort Ashby Lions

FORT ASHBY, W. Va.—Claude Funk was elected as president of the Fort Ashby Lions Club a recent evening.

Other officers elected were Dean Wasson, first vice president; William E. Frase, second vice president; Waldo Speelman, third vice president; Richard Deremer, secretary and treasurer; Jack Ornduff, lion tamer; Gerald Adams, tail twister; Roy Messinger and Owen Hughes, one-year directors.

Plans were also made at the meeting, to hold a "hill billy dance" and social at the high school Friday, June 8.

Lonaconing Club Hears Hobby Talk

LONACONING — Mrs. G. Dewey Burns, home economics teacher at Central High School, discussed hobbies at the most recent meeting of the Lonaconing Young Women's Club.

The club has decided to visit Orts Bakery in Cumberland at 7 p. m. June 18. For the July meeting, the club plans an outdoor session at the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area near here.

A supply of cod liver oil capsules for the next six months will be provided the Lonaconing Health Center from card party proceeds.

News Conference Today

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — President Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 9:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Baltimore Mayor Says Reds Plan New "Peace Ballot"

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said today he has reliable information the Communists soon will start a new "peace ballot" in the United States. He asked Baltimore residents not to sign.

His statement came in connection with application by the Maryland Committee for Peace for nine street-corner booths to collect signatures on petitions.

The committee several times has disclaimed any connection with the Communist Party. It is not named on the Attorney General's or Un-American Activities Committee's lists of subversive organizations.

When the application came before the city's Board of Revenue Estimates, Mayor D'Alesandro declared:

"According to information I consider reliable, the Communists will distribute 10,000,000 ballots which they will term "America's peace poll" for the purpose of obtaining names and addresses of reputable people.

"The three questions to be asked sound innocent enough and many people will be deluded into signing the petitions.

"These phony polls are not sponsored by any American organization and I strongly urge our people not to sign.

"Without question, America desires peace but we cannot achieve peace by means of these so-called peace ballots issued by Russia. The only disturbing influence in the world is Russia, which is doing everything possible to create tension and strife."

The Board of Estimates decided it has no power to turn down the application for the street corner collection stations.

Symington Dismisses Another RFC Official

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — Dismissal of another RFC official came to light today amid Senate hearings on bills to kill the big government lending agency. The man is Frank Prince, who said he quit May 10 at the request of W. Stuart Symington, new one-man RFC boss.

Prince, talking by telephone to a reporter from his home in Baltimore, said he had a part in negotiations about a $750,000 loan to the Mobile Paper Company of Mobile, Ala., now under Senate Investigation, but only as part of his job. He said Symington had assured him he had "done nothing wrong" and had offered a recommendation when he seeks a new job.

Florida Coed Chosen Middies' "Color Girl"

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 23 (AP) — Midshipmen looked to Dixie for beauty again today as the luckiest man in the brigade chose a Florida coed as the Naval Academy's "color girl."

Fredda Coupland, 21-year-old senior at Stetson University, was picked as 75th in a succession of pretty girls who have reigned as queen of June Week at Annapolis.

She didn't know anything about it until Midshipman James A. Winnefeld learned officially his company had been rated best of 24 in the brigade.

Death Of Witness' Wife Is Investigated

LOS ANGELES, May 23 (AP) — An autopsy was ordered today to help solve the mysterious death of the wife of a screen writer who recently testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Frances Ellis Bercovici, 41, was found dead last night in a liquor closet at her home.

Her husband, Leonardo Bercovici, said he didn't think his appearance before the committee had anything to do with her death.

Detectives called it "apparent suicide from cyanide poisoning." Earlier, coroner's deputies listed the death as "apparently natural."

Lightning Kills Man

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—A city employe was killed by a lightning bolt today while working at a city dump.

Police identified him as Harold H. Wolf, 41. Witnesses said Wolf was working near the edge of the dump and was standing near a big crane that may have attracted the bolt.

Proposed 44-Hour Basic Work Week Opposed

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — The Manpower Policy Committee has recommended against a 44-hour basic work week in industry during the emergency. The longer work week would mean no overtime, "premium" pay for workers until after 44 hours instead of 40 as at present.

Chairman Arthur S. Fleming announced the decision by the committee, composed of representatives from various federal agencies.

New Anti-China Moves Studied

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 25 (AP) — Stronger military measures against Red China plus diplomatic sanctionsw ere reported today under active consideration by the American delegation in the in United Nations.

British sources made it clear London would oppose such steps vigorously if the Americans eventually decide to advance them as concrete proposals for the U. N. Sanctions Committee next week.

The British feel that economic sanctions, approved last Friday by the U. N. General Assembly, are enough for the present stage.

The American delegation so far has not received the approval of the State Department for any ideas on the next steps. But the following possibilities are evident:

1. The General Assembly could be asked to issue a new appeal to all members of the U. N. to contribute more troops to the war in Korea.

2. Un N. members could be asked to chip in more ships and planes to help repel the aggression of the Communists in Korea.

3. The 17 U. N. members which so far have recognized Red China should be asked to break of recognition, or at least cut down the diplomatic representation to a few minor officials.

Americans in the U. N. make no secret of the fact they would like for other nations to assigne more soldiers to Korea. They are not pressing hard on this point, but it still is a live subject.

Mt. Savage Group Fetes Mrs. Gunkel

MT. SAVAGE—The Home Room Mothers of Mt. Savage School entertained the teachers and officers of the PTA.

Mrs. Olive Gunkel, retiring president, who will move to Cockeysville June 1, was presented a gift by the association.

Each teacher was given a ceramic pin and the men ash trays made by Mrs. Gunkel. After the entertainment, 500 was played. Mrs. Louise Himmelwright won high prize.

Garrett Group Informed On Liquor Sales

A federal tax certificate does not permit the sale of liquor in Garrett County where sale of whiskey is illegal.

The Garrett County Licensed Beverage Dealers Association met recently to discuss the action of Sheriff Paul W. Fisher in removing federal tax certificates from the possession of 14 persons.

Fisher charged liquor cannot be sold in Garrett County under existing laws and any person having a federal certificate or engaged in selling liquor is breaking local laws. They face prosecution and suspension of beer license if apprehended.

Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland attorney, outlined the law to the association. It developed that some members had misunderstood the federal certificate to be a license.

Ryan said those who had given up the certificates had no recourse under the law. To sell liquor without a federal tax certificate leaves the seller open to federal prosecution. To possess one is in violation of Garrett County laws, he pointed out.

Those who had the federal certificates lifted were:

American Legion, Oakland; American Legion, Grantsville; Amvets, Oakland; John J. Braskey, Hill Top Inn; Louise Fry, Cabin Lodge; Dave Gunter, Frostburg; Loyal Order of Moose, Oakland; Arthur Lowry, Grantsville; Faye L. Miller, Faye's Tavern, Grantsville; Clarence M. BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ADDING UP THE FACTS

"I SUPPOSE you fellows know just what the other hands contain as soon as you see the opening lead and the dummy." That kind of remark is frequently made to advanced performers by players who are relatively new to the game. The true answer is: "No indeed. Sometimes we have a certain amount of information from the bidding and the lead, and keep adding to it as the play proceeds, until at some point we have accumulated knowledge of the factors which are most important." The answer also could include: "Sometimes we have a bunch of misinformation, worse than none at all."

South paid no attention to East's spade bid, not caring whether it was flukey or not, when he felt the side had a club game within reach. He had plenty of confidence in his partner's cardsmanship if the hand happened to be hard to play, and his faith proved not to be misplaced.

East's lead of the spade K enabled the A to bring a diamond discard. Next North led the heart 5 from dummy. After West's play of the J he did a lot of card-reading. First, West would surely have played the A if he had it, with that singleton in view, so East held that card. Since this showed East with both the spade K-Q and the heart A, West must have every other outstanding high card for his overcall.

North therefore let the heart J win. West returned the club 4, trying to make North think East had the K. But this was transparent to North, who put in the 8, which won. The heart 7 was now ruffed, the A being eliminated to establish the K. The club 10 was finessed, heart 10 ruffed by the club Q, a spade ruffed, the club A scored to consume the K, the heart K scored, also the two diamond tops and then the second trick for the defense was given up in diamonds. The club J then took the final trick.

Exchange Bits Of Territory

OSCOW—(AP)—Poland and Russia have exchanged bits of territory along their common frontier by an agreement concluded recently, it was announced today.

The agreement marked the return to duty of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, who was taken ill late in the winter. He signed the agreement for Russia.

(The controlled Warsaw press presented the territorial exchange as a good deal for Poland. The two territories total about 260 square miles. Informants in Warsaw said Poland gained a rich industrial area of oil and gas wells in the neighborhood of Drogobych (Drohobycz) in the Carpathian foothills while Russia gained a tip of farming territory east of Lublin that juts into the Soviet Ukraine across a secondary north-south railway linking Lwow (Lemberg) and Kovel (Kowel). Russia thus gains full control of the section of railroad.)

Both territories involved in the exchange were Polish between the two world wars. Russia occupied the eastern part of Poland in 1939, when Polish resistance to Germany was in its dying stage.

Drogobych is in the southeastern corner of Poland close to the former territory of Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenia) which Czechoslovakia ceded to Russia in June, 1945.

The city is the center of a small but fairly important oil and natural gas area. The population is predominantly Ukrainian. The Lublin region is a highly fertile agricultural area.

The announcement said the trade was made at the request of Poland and that Maj. Gen. Alexander Zawadski, first vice-premier, signed the accord for the Warsaw government.

It was stated here that the exchange was made for economic reasons and that both regions would be better off.

The agreement provides for resettlement of the Polish and Ukrainian populations of the two territories. The residents may take their portable property with them, but leave real estate, farming equipment and communication facilities intact.

Turkey-Gobbling GI Kills Twelve Reds In Korea

A Cumberland man has been dubbed the "Sergeant York of Korea" by the Army newspaper, "Stars and Stripes."

He is Sgt. First Class Raymond E. Pryor, 19, son of Mrs. Virginia Pryor, 1603 Ford Avenue.

Here is what Stars and Stripes had to say:

"With 3rd Division—A turkey-gobbling Sergeant York has turned up in Korea and the Tennessee mountain method of killing Germans works just as well on Chinese.

"SFC Raymond Pryor, Cumberland, Md., was on top of a hill with a machine gun when the Chinese tried a banzai attack up the side of the hill.

"We kept shooting them down until they started hiding behind a large rock," said Pryor. "They sounded like a bunch of chickens so I started making noises like a turkey. Everytime I gobbled, some of them stuck their heads over the rocks and I was able to pick them off."

"After the attack, the men of I Company, 7th Infantry Regiment, counted 12 dead Chinese in the rocks."

Sgt. Pryor was wounded in Korea December 9 and was awarded the Purple Heart. He has been in the Far East since last September. Prior to that he had served 29 months in Panama.

Before entering service he attended Fort Hill High School and was employed at the B. and O. YMCA.

Forester Training Course In Progress

A training session for 80 members of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks began yesterday at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

H. C. Buckingham, state forester, said classes will be held in first aid; fire fighting methods, maintenance of roads; court procedure, public speaking and other related subjects to the forestry department.

The foresters will be housed at Herrington Manor during the session.

It requires 5,000 tons of steel yearly to manufacture razor blades for the world.

County Judges To Attend Meet

Governor McKeldin's two-day traffic court conference next month at the University of Maryland, College Park, will be attended by judges and prosecutors of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Former Attorney General of Maryland, William C. Walsh, this city, has been named to assist in handling the "welcome and opening remarks" June 15 at 10 a. m. He is state delegate of the American Bar Association.

Registration will get underway at 9 a. m. in Central auditorium of the Educational Building.

The conference will be presented by the University of Maryland, Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Maryland State Bar Association and Maryland Trial Magistrates Association in cooperation with the American Bar Association and Traffic Institute.

Scheduled for discussion are principles of traffic control, enforcement, proper penalty in traffic cases, court administration, uniform traffic tickets for state-wide use and laws of arrest and obtaining warrants.

Governor McKeldin will address the group June 16 at 10 a. m. A luncheon in his honor will be held the previous day.

Certificates will be presented participants before the session closes.

District Legion Plans Sunday Meeting Here

Junior baseball will head a list of items for discussion at a meeting of Mountain District, American Legion, called for Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 at 206 Harrison Street.

Russell C. Paupe, department vice - commander in calling the meeting, asked that all posts sponsoring junior baseball have their chairmen and managers in attendance. All post commanders and adjutants are also urged to attend. Edward Wegman, district baseball chairman, will issue instructions.

Paupe has asked for reports Sunday on graves' registration and the number of cemeteries cared for by each post in preparation for Memorial Day.

Thomas B. Finan, district Americanism chairman, will make a report, and Paul C. Weisenmiller, district child welfare chairman, will distribute report forms.

Temperature is responsible for the size and form of snowflakes.

Condemnation Suit Settled

A condemnation suit brought by the State Roads Commission against the owners of the Clary Club was settled yesterday morning before it was scheduled to go before a jury yesterday afternoon in Allegany Council Circuit Court.

Attorneys did not divulge the amount of the settlement. The State Roads Commission had on deposit with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany Circuit Court, a check for $3,150.

This represented the amount that the SRC was willing to pay for the parcel of ground adjacent to the Clary Club.

This property is needed in the relocation and widening of Route 55, the Vale Summit Road, which is under construction.

A jury was drawn yesterday morning, but shortly before noon Associate Judge George Henderson announced the settlement and excused the jurors.

Representing the Clary Club were Edward J. Ryan, and William L. Wilson, Jr., while counsel for the State Roads Commission were Joseph Buscher, assistant attorney general, and William C. Walsh.

Baseball Broadcast Probe Begins; CCC Golfers Win Match

FBI Checks Restraints By Ball Clubs

Bills Are Introduced To Keep Sports Out Of Anti-Trust Laws

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The FBI is looking into restrictions placed upon broadcasting of professional and amateur games, it was announced today. But at almost the same time, bills were introduced in Congress to make sports exempt from anti-trust laws.

Attorney General McGrath announced the FBI investigation.

He said the justice department is receiving a "substantial number of complaints" about "alleged restraints imposed by professional baseball upon the broadcasting and televising of games."

But, he said, the investigation will cover all sports, including college football.

Four Bills Introduced

The bills were introduced by four members of Congress long interested in baseball.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo), president of the Western League; Rep. Herlong, (D-Fla), former president of the Florida State Baseball League; Rep. Price (D-Ill), a reformed sports writer, and Rep. Hills (D-rk), who described himself as just a fan.

Although all four apparently had baseball chiefly in mind, their similar bills did not mention baseball by name, but said that organized sports should be exempt from the anti-trust laws.

These laws long have frightened leaders of organized baseball.

When a player signs a professional contract, he becomes the property of the team with which he signs. He remains its property until the team decides to get rid of him.

Cannot Peddle Services

He cannot peddle his services to another club if he doesn't like the terms he's getting from the team which signed him. "Chattel" has been the word used by some critics to describe such an athlete.

Does the perpetual ownership of this player—which is provided for under what is known as baseball's reserve clause—violate anti-trust or anti-monopoly laws? If it does, the entire baseball structure, as it is now known, could come toppling down.

Each baseball team controls the rights to baseball broadcasts within a radius of 50 miles from its park.

Here in Washington, for example, major league games from other cities are broadcast here regularly during the day. That's because the Washington Senators normally play at night. Any rival broadcast must be over 30 minutes before the game is to start here.

A justice department official said that two private suits reecntly were filed by radio stations, alleging restraints on broadcasting rights.

Suits Are Filed

Station WFIN-FM, at Finley, Ohio, has brought a private anti-trust suit against the Cleveland Indians and the Lima, Ohio baseball club. It contends that WFIN is not permitted to broadcast any Cleveland games in Finley if the Lima club, which has a park only 35 miles away, is playing at the same time.

A similar suit has been filed by Station KFSB, at Joplin, Mo., against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Joplin baseball team, a brewing company and an advertising agency. This suit asks $15,000 damages.

Graziano To Meet Robinson For Title

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP) — Rocky Graziano, one-time world middleweight champion, said today he would meet Ray (Sugar) Robinson in a middleweight title bout in Chicago during September.

Graziano returned from Montreal today. He knocked out Johnny Greco in the third round there Monday night.

Hodges Blasts 14th

PITTSBURGH, May 23 (AP) — Gil Hodges hit his 14th home run of the season to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers in a 15-hit attack which swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11 to 4 tonight at Forbes Field.

Hodges' circuit blow in the first inning with two aboard gave pitcher Don Newcombe a three-run bulge and enabled him to coast to his fourth victory against two losses.

Pirate Wally Westlake homered in the fourth for his 13th of the year, one behind Hodges. Score:

Kluszewski's Hit Wins Game In 10th

CINCINNATI, May 23 (AP)—Cincinnati hopped all over Jim Konstanty in the tenth inning today to defeat Philadelphia, 4 to 3.

The victory, behind the somewhat spotty pitching of Willard Ramsdell, ended a four-game losing streak for the Reds.

Philadelphia held a 2-0 lead going into the sixth, when Cincinnati tied it up.

Dick Sisler, hitting safely in his 13th consecutive game, rifled the ball over the left field fence in the tenth with two out to put his club in front again.

Fireman Konsanty then took over for the veteran Ken Heintzelman, who gave way to a pinch batter in the ninth.

Bobby Adams, batting for Ramsdell, singled to start the Reds' half of the tenth. Hatton bunted, but Adams was out at second. Then Connie Ryan singled, and Johnny Wyrostek followed with a one-baser, scoring Hatton. Robin Roberts replaced Konstanty. Joe Adcock was an easy out, but Ted Kluszewski drove Ryan home on a safety to center to win the game. Box:

Stephens Equals Record As Bosox Win, 12-0

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Lefty Mel Parnell had a perfect day at bat, three singles and a double, while pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 12-0 shutout over the lowly St. Louis Browns today with a four-hit performance.

During the slaughter of the American League cellarites, whose sixth straight loss was held up for 50 minutes by rain, Red Socker Vern Stephens equalled Luke Appling's three-year-old American League third base fielding record by totaling 10 assists.

Johnny Pesky set up the 10th such play by fielding Ken Wood's hard-hit grounder and tossing to Stephens, who rifled the ball to First Baseman Walt Dropo for the final putout. Box:

PETERSBURG, W. Va., May 23 — Petersburg retained its slim lead in the Alleghany Baseball League by defeating Elkins in a 10-inning game on the Randolph countians' home field Sunday. The score was 14-12.

Elkins tied up the game at 12-all in the 9th, then Petersburg sewed it up in the top of the tenth when Gerald Dahmer and Norris Dolly slammed home runs over the centerfield wall.

Six circuit clouts featured the slugfest in which the teams gathered 38 hits. Ray Hill connected with two aboard in the 6th and Henry Denault socked a four-bagger in the 8th. Chenoweth and Scott knocked round-trippers for Elkins.

Marshall Combs and Stalnaker went the route on the rubber and fanned six batsmen apiece.

Ray Eldridge fanned 12 as the Medium Security Prison team of Huttonsville won over Parsons by the score of 9-7. W. Jones and Meadows hit home runs for the winning team.

At Franklin, Manager Leo Skidmore's Pendleton county team hung it on Bartow to the tune of 8-2.

Bartow plays at Petersburg, M. S. P. at Franklin and Elkins at Parsons in games scheduled for Sunday.

Jethroe's Misplay Costs Braves Tilt

ST. LOUIS, May 23 (AP)—Outfielder Sam Jethroe of Boston lost a costly fly in the sun today and the St. Louis Cardinals took it from there to score a 6-5 victory over the Braves.

The Redbirds break came in the fourth inning, with St. Louis trailing 3-0. There were two out and runners on first and third when Nippy Jones lifted an easy fly to center.

Jethroe had his hands up as if he were ready for a routine catch. But he lost the ball and it struck him in the stomach and dropped to the ground.

The play was ruled a double under the circumstances and it gave St. Louis two runs. Then Joe Garagiola doubled Jones home and Bill Johnson singled Garagiola across, giving the Cardinals a 4-3 lead. Box:

Turnesa Loses To Scotsman In Amateur

Six Other Americans Cop British Matches'

PORTHCAWL, South Wales, May 23 (INS) — Frank Stranahan, Sam Urzetta and five fellow Walker Cuppers drove a winning Yankee wedge through today's third round of the British Amateur Golf championship, but they left behind little Willie Turnesa, upset overtime loser to a sensational 19-year-old Scot.

Five other Americans besides Turnesa fell by the wayside during today's play on the famous old Porthcawl links, with one of them, Walker Cupper Bob Knowles of Boston, bowing to the defending champion Stranahan, 4 and 2.

Urzetta, the U. S. amateur champ from Rochester, N. Y. slapped down John Mill of Scotland, 5 and 4, while victory went, too, to Jim McHale of Philadelphia, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Walker Cup alternate Francis Wininger of Pleasantville, N. J.

But for former champion Turnesa, one of seven golfing brothers from White Plains, N. Y., there was no surviving the former Scottish boys' champion, a fuzzy-cheeked coal shipper named David Reid who won by laying Willie a dead stymie on the 20th hole.

Two down at the turn, Turnesa put on a vivid spurt that saw him one up after the 16th, just two short holes away from victory.

On the 510-yard 17th, however, Willie's third shot failed to make the green. He chipped on, but the eight-foot putt that would have given him a par 5 rimmed the cup and stayed out.

They halved the 18th and 19th holes with even fours. On the 20th, Turnesa's second shot carried wide of the green. He chipped to within a yard of home, but Reid calmly rolled his putt to the lip of the cup dead in Willie's line.

Turnea's final gamble — an attempt to hop his ball over the Scotsman's ball and into the hole — went awry.

Ace In The Hole Turns Out A Deuce

STERLING, Ill., May 23 (AP) —Cliff John, 55, a Sterling insurance agent, carried an insurance policy with him for good luck when he played golf.

If John scored a hole-in-one the Lloyd's Of London policy would pay $400.

John was golfing yesterday at the Rock River Country Club near Sterling. As three companions watched he made a 128 yard hole-in-one on the seventh hole.

John grabbed for the policy. It had lapsed eight days ago.

Seek Practice Tilts

West Virginia Nines To Play In Moorefield

Regional Baseball Tourney Will Open At 1:30 EST Today

Martinsburg will play Wardensville at 1:30 o'clock and Romney will battle Moorefield at 3:30 o'clock in the opening round games of the West Virginia Region No. 4 baseball tournament today at Moorefield.

The games will start on standard time not daylight time.

Today's winners will clash Friday at 2 o'clock for the right to represent the region in the state championship tournament set for May 30 31 and June at Parkersburg.

Fans of nearby West Virginia are particularly interested in the outcome of the Romney-Moorefield game which brings together the teams that finished first and second in the Potomac Valley Conference. Romney's over-all record is 13-1 while Moorefield has bagged nine decisions in 10 starts. These schools broke even during the conference campaign, Moorefield grabbing the opener 4-3 while Romney bagged the second contest 7-3. Kenny Vance and Joe Ely were the winners while Grant Cunningham and Gordon Raines were the losers.

The two-day tournament will be directed by John Mathias principal of Moorefield High School.

Arbiters will be provided by the Tri-State Umpires Association.

Corriganville Blasts LaVale Tossers, 15-2

Corriganville copped its sixth victory in seven starts yesterday in the County Softball League by blasting LaVale's defending champions, 15 to 2 behind the three-hit pitching of Kaufman.

The visitors chipped in seven costly miscues to aid their own downfall. The loss was the third in seven games this season for LaVale.

Walter Basilio's triple was the only extra base blow garnered by LaVale while Bill Clites chipped in with a double and two singles and Lloyd Kline had a triple and three singles for Corriganville.

Games today include Stringtown at Corriganville, Potomac Valley at Wellersburg and LaVale at Ellerslie.

The score:

		R	H	E
LaVale	000 000 2	2	3	7
Corriganville	515 022 x	15	13	2

Brelsford and Lewis. Kaufman and Schad.

New Pen-Mar Little League To Open May 26 In Hyndman

36-Game Schedule Is Planned For Loop

The Pen-Mar Little Baseball League, newly formed, will open its season with a double bill planned at Hyndman, Pa., ball park, Saturday, May 26, beginning at 1:30 p. m.

A gala program is scheduled for the opening with Hyndman host to Barrelville and Corriganville playing Ellerslie in the opening tilts for the four-team circuit.

The Hyndman High School band will lead the parade slated for the occasion and Edmund F. Hoey, Cumberland recreation director, Ralph Hampson, president of the new league and Lloyd G. Keller, principal of the school, will speak briefly in pre-game ceremonies. Mayor C. E. Bush of Hyndman, is scheduled to toss out the first ball.

The games are scheduled biweekly on Tuesday's, Friday's and Saturday's. The 36-game schedule will close August 4 with Hyndman at Corriganville that day.

The four teams are the Barrelville Merchants, Hyndman Firemen, Ellerslie Firemen and Corriganville Firemen.

Colonial Open Begins Today

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 23 (AP) —Golf's summer tour opens here tomorrow with the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation. There will be a field of 42 but around the clubhouse they say you can take your choice among Jim Ferrier, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum for first money.

Hogan has won two of the four Colonial tournaments, Snead was champion last year and Mangrum always has finished high and is the hottest winner along the tour this year. Ferrier, second leading money-grabber of 1951, has played the best of the tune-up rounds.

Big Jim, who has put $11,254.16 in the sock this year—just $159.67 less than Kingpin Mangrum—toured the 7,035-yard par 35-35—70 Colonial course in 67 yesterday.

The railbirds are talking about the Hogan-Snead rivalry which over the years has been a thing to see. This year Hogan triumpher in the Masters against Snead and 62 others while Snead beat Hogan and 27 others in the Greenbrier, W. Va., tournament. And the record shows that when the two are in a tournament it's seven chances in ten that one or the other will win first money.

Top Somerset Linksmen By 19-9½ Score

Locals Take Seven Foursomes Over Rain-Soaked Course

Despite the fact that Pro Carroll Boggs and Partner Bill Catherman lost 3 and 0 to Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, the Cumberland Country Club men's golf team defeated the Somerset (Pa.) Country Club linksmen here yesterday 19 to 9½ on a rain-drenched course.

Winning their second match of the season the Cumberlanders took seven foursomes while losing two. The locals also lost the only twosome played in the match.

Cumberland's previous victory was over Hagerstown's Fountain Head Country Club golf team by a 45-18 score. The locals will play their next match at the Country Club here Sunday with Blairmont Country Club of Holidaysburg, Pa., providing the opposition. The match will get underway at 1 p.m. Yesterday's results:

Steve Gaydos and Joe Vargo, Somerset, defeated Carroll Boggs and Bill Catherman, 3 and 0.

George Garlitz and Dr. P. E. Berry, Cumberland, defeated J. Brant and J. Morrin, 3 and 0.

James Beacham and Henry Dempsey, Cumberland, defeated Bob Boose and Dr. W. Hart, 3 and 0.

John Topper and Dr. K. P. Heintz, Cumberland, defeated B. Barkman and B. Walter, 2 and 1.

Clifton Van Roby and Dr. John Rozum, Cumberland, defeated B. Shumaker and D. Critchfield, 3 and 0.

Ed Statler and Charles Zembower, Cumberland, defeated K. Hare and Pete Shumaker, 2 and 1.

Dr. Frank McCagh and Dr. Frank Cawley, Cumberland, defeated B. Houser and Dr. H. Prugh, 2 and 1.

Cy Bowers and Dick Leonard, Cumberland, defeated A. Graham and J. Welsh, 3 and 0.

H. Younkin and H. E. Wright, Somerset, defeated Loraine Eisenberg and R. E. Guard, 2 and 1.

Sam Evans, Somerset, defeated James Truka, 1½ and 0.

Rain Washes Out Big Tiger Lead

NEW YORW, May 23 (INS) The weatherman stepped in and saved the New York Yankees today. The Detroit Tigers had the Bombers on the ropes, 7 to 3, at the end of three innings, when rain caused postponement of the game.

Erased were homers by Detroit's Steve Souchock, a three-run smack and New York's Joe DiMaggio, a two-run blast.

In Taste Scores Easy Victory At Suffolk Downs

Three Jockeys Ride Triples At Tracks

BOSTON, May 23 (AP) — Moving quickly to the front after the first quarter mile In Taste scored a clean cut five length victory in today's featured Newburyport Purse at Suffolk Downs.

A throng of 9,981 racing enthusiasts saw the aptly named daughter of Condiment-In The Night turn the six furlongs in 1:12 1/5. War Token finished second just a neck ahead of favored Daughter C.

He rode Rudy's Star and Tintina to triumphs for a $14.40 daily double, smallest of the local season. His third victory was aboard Easy Paddy. Borgemenke was the fourth rider to register both ends of a daily double in New England this year.

Jockeys Ride Triples

GARDEN STATE PARK, Camden, N. J., May 23 (AP)—Jockeys Jimmy Stout and Fernando Ferandez scored triples at Garden State Park today to share in its racing honors.

Stout, who presently leads at this meeting, scored his third victory astride Bedford Stable's Call Over, who defeated J. L. O. McKnight's Mr. Buster by a head in the Reciprocity feature. Call Over, a chestnut colt out of Devil-Diver-Duchess Anita, went the six furlongs over sloppy going in a creditable 1:12 3/5 before 13,768 rain-soaked spectators.

Acorn Stakes Split

ELMONT, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—Walter M. Jeffords' Kiss Me Kate and Isidor Bieber's Nothirdchance were the heroines today in the Acorn Stakes dividing the first split ever in the 21 years of the $20,000 added mile race for 3-year-old fillies.

Kiss Me Kate, a daughter of Count Fleet-Irish Nora, splashed home by 12 lengths in the excellent time of 1:36 2/5, best time ever in the stake, in the first division.

Jockey Warren Mehrtens had her up close to the front runners and took over at the top of the stretch to win galloping. Llangollen Farm's Wisteria won second money by three quarters of a length from Apheim Stable's Jacodema.

NEW YORK, May 23 (INS) —All too often the $100,000 Belmont Stakes — third gem in the turf's triple crown—has only a few starters.

This is because so many prospective stake horses have proved themselves only platers in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

But this time—June 16—The Belmont may have its biggest field in history, because none of the three year olds shown to date is a standout.

No one has been able to scare off the others. And so Alex Robb, master of beautiful Belmont, hopes to see about 20 parading to the post for the mile and a half which, he insists, is the real test of a champion.

This also may be the richest of Belmont for it costs $100 merely to nominate a horse and $1,000 to start him. Thus this year's renewal might gross in excess of $120,000.

Robb declares the Derby and Preakness are not always true indications of events to come because a horse seldom hits his real stride before June.

Alex says:

"The turf situation is something like baseball. A normal tail-ender may get off in front for a week or two but when the hot weather comes the tail-ender finds his true level.

"Of course, a team like the Yanks may get off in front and stay there just like Assault, for instance, won the Derby, then went on to wi the Preakness and Belmont.

"But under normal condition neither a ball club nor a race hors shows his true class before June.

Get extra value in car care...
GOOD CAR CARE BEGINS with an oil change right now! Get rid of that old, worn-thin oil. Replace with fresh Esso Extra Motor Oil for hard, hot-weather driving ahead. It gives more miles per quart... helps protect moving parts against rust, dust, wear.
YOU GET THE MOST efficient performance out of your engine when it's free from power-robbing sludge and other harmful deposits. Esso MOTOR CLEANER helps check these impurities.
BATTERY OK? Your Esso Dealer will test it, re-charge it, or, if it's too far gone, replace it with a long-lasting Atlas Heavy-Duty Battery.
PROTECT ALL important parts with a complete lubrication job by your Esso Dealer. He uses up to 9 different, long-lasting lubricants to help keep your car in the best possible shape.
POWER your car with Esso Extra Gasoline, and feel the difference in all-around performance. A patented ingredient helps keep the engine clean, more efficient.
CHECK THESE "CAR CARE" AIDS!
• Atlas "Micronic" Oil Filters
• Atlas Radiator Cleaner
• Atlas Fan Belts
• Atlas Champion Spark Plugs
• Esso Auto Polish
• Esso Auto Wax
Service by men who know their jobs and know your car!
It's wiser to prepare now than to repair later. Your car's a mighty important investment. Protect it. Bring it in to your Esso Dealer for the care that saves wear. The care that costs so little ... and means so much. Your Esso Dealer will give your car the satisfying protection of a fresh oil change and a complete lubrication job. And while you're there, he'll check tires, battery, spark plugs and other important parts. He's ready to give you the complete one-stop service that's part of the EXTRA VALUE you'll find at the Esso Sign.
Please Drive Carefully! The life you save may be your own!

The Pincher Wins

BALTIMORE, Md., May 23 (AP)—Henry H. Hecht's The Pincher returned to action today at Pimlico after more than a month's layoff and proceeded to take a handy decision over Laran in the featured Govans Purse.

The crowd of 8,749 fans backed the 5-year-old son of Helioplis into $3.40 for $2 favoritism, and the George Mohr-trained sprinter gave the crowd no cause for concern, turning the six furlongs over a sloppy track in 1:12 2/5.

"Some rather poor horses have won the Derby and Preakness but no poor horse ever won the Belmont, and don't forget that the Belmont was old when the Derby was young."

The last statement is surely correct for the Belmont was run for the first time in 1867 while the first Derby was in 1875.

But we questioned his belief that no poor horse ever won the Belmont. What about Bounding Home in 1944 and Hurry Off in 1933?

Alex answered quickly:

"Those two were not quite up to the Belmont standard, I admit, but they were far from being poor horses. As a matter of fact, I would call them high class but not great.

"You can fault those two only in comparison with the truly great horses that have won the Belmont. I mean such winners as Citation, Assault, Count Fleet, Whirlaway, Johnstown, War Admiral, Twenty Grand, Gallant Fox, Crusader, American Flag, Grey Lag, Man O'War and Sir Barton."

Alex disagrees with many of the old clockers who insist the current three year olds are at best only high grade platers.

He declared vehemently: "That's all wrong. Bad weather has delayed the training of this crop. We have many good ones around who were not ready for either the Derby or Preakness.

"And it would not surprise me in the least if both Count Turf, the Derby winner, and Bold, the Preakness winner, met their master in the Belmont.

Charles C. King vs. Nannie V. King. No. 22,182 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles C. King vs. Nannie V. King, in the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland. The Object of this suit is to secure the passage of a DECREE divorcing Charles C. King A VINCULO MATRIMONII from Nannie V. King, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married at McConnellsburgh, Pennsylvania on June 28th, 1933, and separated in the same month ten years later; that four children were born of this marriage namely, Viola Mae, Harry C., Dale L., and Alma B., and that when the Defendant abandoned the complainant the four children went with their Mother; and that shortly after the abandonment occurred the complainant came to the State of Maryland and has lived here ever since; but that the Defendant is a non-resident of this state, and when last heard of was residing near Connellsville, Pennsylvania.

It is thereupon this 9th day of May, 1951, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that a copy of this order be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in Allegany County, once each week, for four successive weeks before the 11th day of June, 1951, giving notification to the absentee Defendant, of the object and substance of this suit, and warning here to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of June, 1951, to show cause, if any she may have, why a Decree ought not be past as prayed.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk.

Judge Warns Against Making Rest Of State "Colonial Baltimore"

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough said today if Baltimore city gained proportional representation in the state legislature it could virtually dictate to Maryland's 23 counties.

The veteran jurist warned that if Baltimore's representatives in Annapolis were in proportion to the city's large population, the rest of the state would eventually become "colonial Baltimore."

Goldsborough spoke at a meeting of the Baltimore Advertising Club.

Traffic lights on Baltimore Street, Johnson and Greene Streets and Greene and Lee Streets will be affected.

Technically, the change will involve substituting amber caution lights for the present white "walk" signals.

Officers Will Aid

This would provide a green light, a three second amber caution light to warn drivers and pedestrians that the light will change, followed by a red light.

During the amber light, any cars which have reached the intersection can proceed with caution.

Police said full explanations of the change and its advantages will be compiled before the plan is placed into effect.

Chief of Police R. E. Flynn said traffic officers will be on duty at the intersections to aid drivers and pedestrians.

All agreed that close supervision by the police officers will be needed for at least the first month to give the new plan a chance to succeed.

Maryland Theatre Advertising on WCUM Reverses Trend of Local Movie Going

Back in 1948, when WCUM started operating in Cumberland, the Maryland Theatre, local movie house, faced a nation-wide slump in attendance. They began sponsoring programs on WCUM at once. Here's what they say about the results:

"We are pleased to advise you that WCUM has been instrumental in helping us maintain a steady volume of business despite a nation-wide drop in movie attendance.

"WCUM's aggressive promotion and merchandising has been instrumental in bringing in people from all parts of Western Maryland.

"We unhesitatingly recommend WCUM to any sponsor who is desirous of capturing the market in Western Maryland".

How do you like that for action? All kinds of merchants in Cumberland get this kind of fast, profitable results from advertising on WCUM. You can too. A phone call will bring a representative to tell you how.

Frostburg Organizations To Unite For Memorial Day Rites

Betty Wilson Will Sing At Services

FROSTBURG — A joint committee representing the American Legion, Disabled Americans Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Company "D," Maryland National Guard, the Arion Band and the Maryland Singers of State Teachers' College at Frostburg, has arranged for the annual Memorial Day observance at Frostburg.

This year, in addition, the Board of Governors have joined actively in the arrangements by inviting Walter V. Simon, a former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, to be principal speaker at the 3 p. m. service in Frostburg Memorial Park and bringing Miss Betty Wilson, well-known lyric soprano, from New York to sing at the services.

The community service will begin with a short concert by the Arion Band at the Post Office Plaza at 2 p. m. The speaker will be Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Frostburg.

At the close of the observances, a parade will form on the Post Office grounds and march to Frostburg Memorial Park, where the second service will be conducted.

Color Guards of the various organizations will be led by the Drum Corps of Farrady Post, American Legion, and followed by Company "D", Maryland National Guard, under command of Capt. Gerald Reeves.

Programs Planned

The program at the Post Office Plaza will include selections by The Arion Band, Darrell Zellers, director; invocation, Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, administrator, St. Michael's Catholic Church; address, Rev. Daniel B. Eveland, First Presbyterian Church; selection, The Arion Band; placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D", MNG., Capt. Gerald Reeves; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler, echo bugler not assigned; benediction, Rev. D. B. Eveland, acting chaplain, Farrady Post.

Program at Frostburg Memorial Park, selections, Arion Band; invocation, Father Montgomery; selections, The Maryland Singers, State Teachers College, Dr. Maurice Matteson, directing; Miss Betty Wilson, lyric soprano; "The Gettysburg Address", Joseph L. Evans; selections, The Maryland Singers, and Miss Betty Wilson; address, Walter V. Simon, Petersburg, Va.; The Star Spangled Banner, Arion Band; Placing of memorial wreath, representatives of four military organizations; salute to the dead, firing squad of Company "D"; taps, Adam Kaulbaugh, bugler; benediction, Rev. Eveland.

To Visit Cemeteries

During the morning hours of Memorial Day, the firing squad of Farrady Post, American Legion, will follow the long established custom of visiting all cemeteries of the area and paying military tribute to the fallen buried there. The Arion Band will play for several of these services as well, concluding at the Eckhart Cemetery about noon.

In the event of rain, the afternoon services at 2 p. m. will be held in the American Legion Memorial Home.

Two Poppy Days Barton Schedules

BARTON—Friday and Saturday will be Poppy Days in Barton, according to American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 189.

These poppies were made by disabled war veterans at the Perry Point Hospital. Most of the money received from the sale will remain here to be used to assist veterans and their families.

Dr. McClellan Leaves College Book Collection

FROSTBURG — Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has been notified that Dr. George H. McClellan, a former member of the college faculty who died recently, has donated his entire book collection to the college.

Notification was made by a letter from Mrs. L. D. Creviston, Columbus, Ohio, an aunt of Dr. McCellan's. According to the letter, the collection consists mainly of current fiction.

Dr. McCellan was a member of the college faculty from September, 1937, to January, 1944. He was an instructor in English and advisor to Student Publications and the student yearbook. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Dartmouth College and a Doctor of Philosophy degree at Ohio State University.

Dr. McCellan was employed by the USO during World War II and was a member of the faculty of the Los Angeles College for Teachers at the time of his death.

Midlothian Homemakers Entertained

MIDLOTHIAN—Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, was guest speaker at the May meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Robert Lancaster, with Mrs. Anthony Ritchie, Sr., co-hostess.

In addition to members of the club, the meeting was attended by two guests, Mrs. Charles Folk and Mrs. Janet Broadbeck.

Members of the club elected to attend the Rural Women's Short Course, College Park, were Mesdames Blaine Willetts, Thomas Simmons, Anthony Ritchie, Sr. and Mason Diehl.

Mrs. William Cutter, Jr., exhibited two hooked rugs, and a song book bound by Mr. William Cutter, Sr., 52 years ago.

Mrs. Matthew Willetts had charge of the clothing readings for the evening, and exhibited a book titled "Sewing is Easy."

The History of the bird "Baltimore Oriole" was told by Mrs. Mason Diehl, she also displayed two pictures, and gave a receipe for cooking rhubarb.

Miss Sylvia Simmons read the history of the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers."

Mesdames Ursula Robertson Henry Barnes and Matthew Willetts, gave reports on clothing.

The meeting closed with the group singing "Faith of Our Fathers," and "The More We Get Together."

The club will have an extra meeting this month, May 24, 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Herman Winters, honoring Mrs. Mason Diehl.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Simmons, with Miss Sylvia Simmons, co-hostess.

Miss Olive Cook Gets MA Degree

Borden Shaft Native Given Silver Star

Lt.-Col. Layman Cited For Gallantry

FROSTBURG — Lt. Col. Ernest M. Layman, Jr., a native of Borden Shaft, and a son of Mrs. Mary Layman and the late Ernest Layman, has been awarded the Silver Star and a citation for gallantry in action in Korea.

The citation read:

"On February 12, 1951, near Chom Chon, Korea, Colonel Layman received word by radio that a reconnaissance patrol was engaged in a fire fight with an enemy force. He immediately proceeded to the scene of the encounter moving by a direct route to an exposed observation post under mortar fire.

"Constantly exposing himself to increasing semi-automatic and machine gun fire, Colonel Layman, with complete disregard for his own personal safety moved from position to position checking and encouraging the men. He stayed in his exposed position until the patrol had probed the enemy positions and pinpointed his machine guns. During the withdrawal, he assisted in the evacuation of the wounded who lay in an exposed fire lane.

"The gallantry, devotion to duty, and concern for his men's welfare displayed by Colonel Layman reflect great credit upon himself and exemplify the high traditions of the military service."

At Parsons High School, the commencement will be held in the auditorium. Miss Sally Ann English will play the processional and recessional. Rev. Harold D. Shiftlet, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation.

"Youth Contributes To America's Future" will be the subject of Salutatorian Elton Dodd's address. Valedictorian Helen Louise Felton will give a farewell address.

Special awards will be made by Principal M. M. Freeman. Class President Deets Floyd will present the seniors for their diplomas, which will be awarded by County School Superintendent Jason Wolford. Rev. W. A. O'Dell, pastor of First Methodist Church, will give the benediction.

Recognition Day Held At PSS

KEYSER, W. Va.—Edward Welsh, president of the Honor Society, who officiated at yesterday's 11th annual Recognition Day at Potomac State School, was cited by Dean K. S. McKee for having maintained a perfect straight "A" average through his two years at the Keyser school.

Others honored for high scholastic rankings were Joan Bowers, highest average among sophomore women; Louis Green, highest average among freshmen women.

The program in the college auditorium began at 10:15 a. m. Representatives of all campus organizations spoke during a review of organizations.

Besides citing those with outstanding scholastic records, Dean McKee singled out all students who had received special honors during the year now ending.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—(INS)—Charles Brackett asked for and got Jeanne Crain for the romantic lead in his first 20th picture "The Marriage Broker." Jeanne plays a beautiful young model with Thelma Ritter in another top role. Thelma's a picture stealer if I ever saw one, but Jeanne is pretty well able to hold her own with any competition.

Jeanne Crain

If Charlie—Brackett I mean—finishes "The Marriage Broker" in time, he'll return to his old alma mater, Paramount to produce "Famous" which he had started for Bing Crosby when he left.

I saw Jeanne Crain in a few scenes from "Take Care Of My Little Girl." Although she's the mother of three children, she's certainly able to play a school girl with conviction. Now, in "The Marriage Broker," as in "Dr. Praetorius," Jeanne plays a sophisticated young woman.

Norman Siegel is back from New York with Paramount's eleven Golden Circle youngsters—some of whom will be stars of tomorrow.

"I was amazed the way these kids, some of whom had never been to New York, handled themselves both on the stage and in the interviews," said Norman, "We hadn't intended to take them to New York until June. They actually had no rehearsal but they were so good that a musical by Brett Morgan, called 'The Golden Circle,' is being prepared for them."

Joan Taylor, who already has herself a lead in "War Bonnett," has one of the top roles and the others will all be cast in roles most suited to their talents. Here they are alphabetically: Judith Ames, Pierre Cressoy, Laura Eliot, Nancy Gates, Peter Hanson, Virginia Hall, Nancy Hale, Mary Murphy, Michael Moore and Barbara Rush.

•—•—•

Talked over the telephone with Frank Sinatra, who flew to Hollywood for a few days. He was up to his neck in consultations with Leonard Goldstein on his movie, "Meet Danny Wilson."

"Who's your leading lady?" I asked.

"Why you printed it," said Frankie. "Shelley Winters."

So that would seem to indicate that Shelley won't be free to go to Europe. Alex Nicol, and possibly Lyle Bettger are to be in the cast.

Frankie said he closes his TV show June 9 and starts his picture immediately. While he didn't tell me, I know that he's asked Nancy for a divorce.

•—•—•

Dixie Crosby, who has had a wonderful time in Europe, writes Bing from Paris that she'll be home before June 4 in time for the graduation of their eldest son, Gary, from the San Jose School. Gary will go to Stanford this fall and what a football player he will make with those broad shoulders—and what a singer for the glee club, too.

For the next ten days Bing is getting fresh air fishing at Hayden Lake with Bill Morrow. They motored from Elko with Bing at the wheel.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

In July Writer Marty Rackin is marrying Helen Lazich, pretty blonde RKO secretary. Marty authored "Three Secrets" and "The Enforcer," as well as some of Hal Wallis' top screen plays.

Helen and Peter Rathvon sold their home and leave this week for Europe. I hope they won't be gone too long—we'll miss them.

Clark Gable is certainly not planning to leave his Encino ranch. He is planting an orange grove on adjoining property. Syvia? I don't know when she is coming back.

Mrs. Jimmy Stewart's mother and sister left tonight for home. Gloria is that much better. Jimmy gets back tomorrow from Philadelphia. His "big blonde," Judy (the larger twin), is getting just as pretty as Kelly.

Judy Garland has dropped so many pounds from sheer hard work, that she flew to Paris from London to get a new wardrobe.

Both the north and the south of Ireland will get to meet Mr. Robert Hope. Bob goes both to Belfast and Dublin to play in golf matches. Then he takes himself to the Riviera for a rest. Rest did I say? Robert Welch is sending him the script of "Son of Paleface" to read in his "free" moments.

Poor Carmen Miranda. She just got her house in Palm Springs all furnished when a fire destroyed $2,000 worth of drapes and the entire kitchen.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

On The Line

chant Marine Act of 1936. The act ignited a modest building program which was climaxed with the launching of the "America," about a year before she had to be pressed into action as the troop-carrying "West Point."

But the program was in action, and it was stepped up to dizzy levels. During World War II we built 4,500 carriers, 2,700 of them of the Liberty type, and carried 90 per cent of our troops and supplies to every theatre of war. Without that program and its expansion, we could not have waged a global war. But we still had to pay plenty (about a million dollars a trip) for the use of Queens Mary and Elizabeth.

The shipping picture clouded again after V-J Day. We had about enough cargo ships, tankers and the like to make a serious bid for supremacy, even though our crew costs were considerably greater than those of competitors.

Our weakness was, and to an extent, remains, top-flight passenger liners. The British, French and Dutch moved back into contention to take the cream off the fast transatlantic crossings. But a year ago we began to punch back. The American President Line had three 'round-the-worlders building at Camden, and American Export's "Independence" and "Constitution" were well along the ways.

When war broke in Korea, the Joint Chiefs of Staff grabbed the three President ships and completed them as transports. But the American Export passenger jobs (quickly convertible to troops and gear) have been born, and it looks like we're almost back to the eminence the "Savannah" tried to give us in 1819.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Do war hardships make heroes?

Answer: I believe so, to an extent few civilians realize. From my observation and experience in World War I, I know that the physical and mental wretchedness of combat duty may make life seem so much less worth cherishing than it does in normal circumstances that the risk of losing it becomes proportionately easy to face. Consciously, at least, a man's readiness to face death depends on how much he feels at the moment that he has to live for. The unconscious "instinct of self-preservation" is more likely to express itself in "battle fatigue" than in cowardice in action.

May fear of suicide be an obsession?

Answer: How painful a problem her living with you will create, depends more on you than on her. If you are mature enough to see her as a person instead of a "mother" in the childish sense, you will be able to go on feeling that your home is yours, and to regard her as a welcome guest, not a usurper of your rights and privileges. You will treat her feelings—and even her prejudices—with consideration, but will live and rear your children on the basis of what you think is right, not what she does. In the end she will probably be glad to have the responsibility for your life off her shoulders.

May "grandma" have a place in your home?

Answer: Yes. The person who is "afraid he will kill himself" has the same type of obsession as the one who is afraid that he may injure or kill someone else—like the woman who "can't get it out of her head" that she may somehow hurt her children. In both cases the fear has its source in repressed (unconscious) anger and "aggression." The obsessions generally provide enough "imaginary" outlet for this so that it is most unlikely to be carried out in action. But this is not an invariable rule and it is wiser for the victim of either obsession to seek psychiatric treatment.

Dressed for the Ring

Ring Robes

FASHION: TV has dressed up our boxers and the lads are setting a sartorial example, in robes, for the millions who watch them. Pictured here is middleweight Jimmy Herring in a handsome and reasonably priced rayon lounge or beach robe.

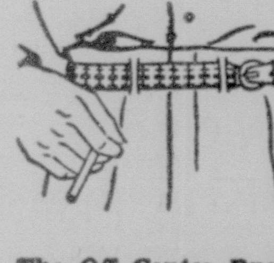
Gadgets: A plastic Pocket Saver that fits securely in shirt or jacket pocket and keeps pens and pencils from marring garments. . . . Filterette Disposable Cigarette Holders that capture the nicotine. Use one for a week, then throw away.

Dress Tips: Don't wait 'til the humid weather catches up with you. Have detachable underarm shields tacked in your suits now. . . . If you use a leather golf glove, don't stuff it into the pocket of your golf bag. Air it between games and make sure it's dry before putting away.

Health Items: Many sacroiliac sufferers get fine relief from a regular polo belt sold in most sporting goods stores. . . . Bill (NBC) Stern advises, "Don't wear run-down, beat-up shoes while working in garden or around the house. It's tough enough without putting an extra burden on your feet."

Motor Notes: Americans had approximately 40,000,000 flat tires in '50 (and that doesn't mean "blind dates"!). . . . In the Frankfurt military zone, 25,000 cars are owned by GI's. PX's sell 'em—and gas costs 12½c. a gallon.

Belt and Buckle: Your belt will feel more comfortable if you move the buckle to the flatter part of the anatomy, as shown at right—allows the jacket to fit better. You'll find it's easier to take a hitch in your belt when the buckle is in that position.



The Off-Center Buckle

Odd Items: There have been plenty of efforts by poets to challenge my recent statement that you can't rhyme a word with "orange." Now try—"purple." . . . A good idea was the "Drunkard's Match" (invented in 1872), a wooden match that wouldn't burn past mid-point. . . . "Pass the Cigars" to—Columnist Walter Lippmann who, day after day and year after year, does a magnificently consistent job of reporting the national and international scene.

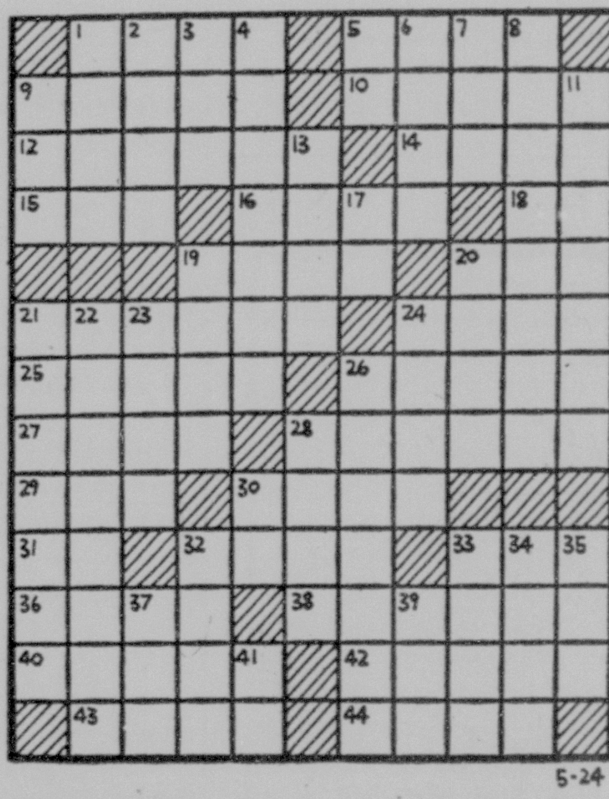
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

SIOHZL GITSOD ORL YLDO GIZO UK ORL GTNOHZL, NIZMLD ORL YLDO GIZO UK ORL DOIOHL—LALZDUS.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: AND HE WAS COMPETENT WHOSE PURSE WAS SO—COWPER.

In Memoriam

CLARK — In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, George E. Clark, who passed away 2 years ago today, May 24th, 1949.

The years go by and life moves on,
The world is changing ever;
But in your family's hearts, dear Dad,
We cherish all the precious thoughts
of many a happy day;
For in our hearts you're still our Dad,
And will never fade away.

Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN and GRANDCHILDREN

Stock Prices Pulled Down For Third Straight Session

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—A sinking spell that turned into an acute setback pulled the stock market down today for the third straight session.

Rail issues, steels, motors and oils were active and lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 80 cents at $91.10. The low for the year is $89.40 reached Jan. 3.

The rail component of the average was off 60 cents at $62.40, the lowest level for that component this year. Industrials were down $1.30 and utilities 20 cents.

Volume came to 1,540,000 shares as compared with $1,440,000 shares yesterday.

New lows for the year expanded sharply to 127 issues. There was one new high reached—Thomas Steel.

The market broadened out to 1,135 issues traded as against 1,094 yesterday. Of the total, 232 advanced and 624 declined.

General Motors stood at the head of the most active list off ⅝ at 48⅝. Others following were New York Central off ¼ at 17¾, National Power & Light up 3/16, at 15/16, Northern Pacific (which has considerable potential oil interests) up ½ at 38, Socony Vacuum off ½ at 28¾, and Baltimore & Ohio off ⅜ at 19¼.

Atlantic Coast Line was off 1¾ at 66¼, and others moving down included Santa Fe off 2 at 150¼, Texas Co. 1¾ at 90⅜, United Air Lines 1⅛ at 26⅛, Union Carbide 1 at 57½, American Can 1½ at 107, U. S. Steel ½ at 41⅜, Goodyear 2⅛ at 78⅛, Freeport Sulphur 2½ at 82, Merck & Co. 2¾ at 75⅝, and Reynolds Metals 2¼ at 46¾.

C&P Telephone Company Asks Rate Increase

Would Also Double Cost Of Local Calls

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore petitioned the public Service Commission today for higher rates throughout the state.

It did not say how much of an increase, beyond the fact that it wants a dime instead of a nickel for local calls from a pay telephone.

The company announced at the same time it had offered wage increases to about 3,700 of its union employes.

It did not go into details on this, either, saying it still is negotiating with the CIO unions representing its plant workers and commercial and accounting employes. One group already has turned the offer down as insufficient.

The PSC did not take any immediate action on the petition. If the previous pattern is followed, a hearing may be set to start about six weeks from now. It may drag on weeks or months and there might not be a decision until next year.

Got Increase In 1949

The telephone company got its last increase two years ago in March —A $4,000,000 (M) addition to its annual gross revenues It asked at the same time for new permanent schedules that would have piled another $2,500,000 on top of this $4,000,000. A year ago in March, the PSC denied this but made the temporary $4,000,000 permanent.

In the spring of 1947, the telephone company got a boost of about $5,000,000 in its gross revenues. This was the first increase it had gotten since 1924.

The C&P of Baltimore is the Bell System's subsidiary for the whole of Maryland Its rates also apply to the Maryland suburbs of Washington, although telephones in that area are tied into the C&P of Washington for operating purposes. Similarly named affiliates serve Virginia and West Virginia.

Wage Costs Higher

W. Griffin Morrel, vice-president and general manager of the Baltimore company, said it needs rate increases because it must pay higher wages, higher taxes, and higher prices for materails, supplies, and new facilities.

"The employers are entitled to more money," he declared. "An increase is justified if we are to keep telephone wages in line with community wage levels so that we can attract and retain the employes responsible for furnishing good service."

The petition to the PSC pointed out that 3,600 traffic department employes — mostly operators — got increases in January after negotiations with their union.

Information on how much more revenue the company wants and how it would increase rates to get this revenue will be presented when hearings start, assuming that the PSC calls hearings.

Seek New Valuation

The formal petition asked only that the commission determine the fair value of the company equipment utilized in its Maryland service and establish a fair return on that valuation.

In March of 1950, the PSC valued the property at $111,594,909 but the company said this was too low.

The company's arguments for higher rates included these points:

General wage increases alone have been granted at the rate of $15,200,000 annually since 1939 and this is $6,000,000 more than the gain in rates.

Since 1945, the company has spent $14,000,000 for new facilities in the state and will spend another $20,000,000 in 1951.

The present rates are based on the company's operation in the year ended Sept. 30, 1949, and conditions have changed vastly since then.

Federal taxes will take $2,700,000 more this year than last.

Prices for the main materials it needs have increased from 33 per cent, for copper, to 308 per cent, for natural rubber.

The company's return on its investment averaged less than 6 per cent from 1947 through 1950.

Industrial Teachers Discuss Inventories

Industrial arts and vocational agriculture instructors in Allegany County public schools held a departmental meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of the County Board of Education with Julius D. Lonnholm, supervisor of industrial education.

Lonnholm said that these sessions are held every two or three months during the school year. Yesterday's meeting emphasized the importance of inventories for the teachers who soon will be "closing shop" for the school year.

About 20 teachers, from Fort Hill, Allegany, Carver, Pennsylvania Avenue, Cresaptown, Bruce, Barton, Central, Beall, Flintstone and Oldtown attended the session. They included general shop, machine shop and farm shop teachers as well as others specializing in drafting, woodwork, electricity, printing, and bench metal.

Celanese Head Will Address Chamber Tonight

Dinner To Honor Harold Blancke

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will honor the president of the Celanese Corporation of America tonight at a dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club beginning at 6:30 p.m.

A capacity crowd is expected to hear Harold Blancke address the local chamber on industry and the community. Arrangements for the prominent businessman's visit here have been made by the local group as part of the chamber's program to create better understanding between big industry and the city.

Other Officials Invited

This visit will mark the first time Blancke has spoken at a public event in Cumberland and also will be the first time he has spoken in a city where a Celanese plant is located.

Fred T. Small, former manager of the Amcelle plant here, and E. N. Cleves, both vice-presidents of the Celanese Corporation, will accompany Blancke here. City and county officials and other officials of the local plant have been invited to attend the affair.

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, will be toastmaster.

Blancke was born in New York City in 1904 and was educated there. He rose rapidly within the Celanese organization and received his first managerial post with the company in 1930 as assistant treasurer. He subsequently held posts of assistant secretary, treasurer and secretary and was named vice-president in July, 1942.

President In 1945

In August, 1945, Blancke was named president of the corporation. He was first elected to the board of directors in 1937 and became a member of the executive committee in 1938.

Local chamber members noted that July 1, 1918 Cumberland made the first tentative proposal to offer land to the Celanese which at that time was the American Cellulose and Chemical Company.

Former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, Tasker G. Lowndes, George E. Smith and W. Wallace McKaig were members of the original committee in charge of the negotiations. The contract with the company finally was drawn up by Sloan.

Settlement Relieves Jury

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court, which listened to all the testimony in a technical civil suit removed from Washington County, was relieved of the responsibility of deciding the case late yesterday afternoon when Associate Judge George Henderson announced that an out-of-court settlement had been reached.

Judge Henderson was preparing to give the jury its instructions when rival attorneys informed him they had reached a settlement. The amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

The suit was brought by Lloyd R. Hoover, Waynesboro, Pa., father of a Hagerstown auto dealer, against the son's estranged wife, Ruth L. Hoover, for payment of a $6,000 note.

Church Teacher Course Planned

Trinity Lutheran Sunday School Teachers Association held a preliminary session at the church on North Centre Street last night for the purpose of introducing a teacher training course for Sunday School teachers.

The first course to be studied will deal with methods in teaching. It will show how new methods are applied to teaching of religious as well as secular subjects.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, church pastor, will be in charge of the class, which will open to anyone who wishes to enroll. The first meeting will be held Wednesday, June 6. Between 15 and 25 teachers are expected to enroll.

18,908 Corporations Operate In State

In 1950 there were 18,908 corporations operating in Maryland, an increase over the 17,946 in 1949, according to the 18th Biennial Report of the Maryland State Tax Commission.

The commission, reporting to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, listed taxes collected by it at $388,612 in 1949 and $410,745 in 1950 on Maryland corporations.

Fees collected from foreign corporations for 1949 totaled $60,458 and for 1950, $61,072.

VFW District No. 3 Will Elect Sunday

District No. 3, Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. at Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW home, Union Street to elect officers for the new fiscal year.

A district commander, senior and junior vice commanders, quartermaster, judge advocate and chaplain will be chosen to represent posts in Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served according to District Commander Edward J. Murray, Mt. Savage.

Two Appeals Granted By Zoning Board

Used Auto Parts Lot Gets Approval

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night granted appeals involving a used auto parts business on Ford Avenue and for a three-family residence on Cecil Street.

Charles C. Sullivan was granted permission to occupy 1800 Ford Avenue for selling used cars, used accessories and dismantling used cars to secure the parts.

The board pointed out there was no objections to using the property for the sale of the used cars and parts but that the dismantling operations could create an unsightly condition.

It was specified that Sullivan must build a fence, behind which the dismantling operations must take place, within 30 days after the business is started.

Sullivan stated he had no intentions of starting a junk yard and that the only purpose of dismantling would be to secure the parts.

Also granted was an appeal filed by Clyde Slider to occupy 807 Cecil Street as a three-family residence.

The board, after questioning Slider, reported facilities for a basement apartment were adequate, including six full sized windows and bath facilities.

In question was the fact that the basement apartment wuold make the house a three-family residence in a Residential B Zoning district.

Maryland Farm Output, Size Show Growth

Preliminary figures of the 1950 Census of Agriculture show Maryland farms have increased in size, mechanization, and output over the last five years.

The census reports that of Maryland's 6,323,840 acres of land area, 64.1 percent is in farms. The size of the average farm is 112.3 acres compared to 101.8 in 1945.

Modernization of farms moved again in the five-year period, with 19,457 farms having telephones against 17,137 in 1945 and 30,302 farms having electricity compared to 25,256 in the previous period.

More than 16,000 farms had trucks and 20,547 had tractors, while the number of horses and mules decreased again, a trend which has been constant in Maryland farming.

The total value of farm crops sold was $172,157,408 compared to $137,095,409 in 1944. The chief money product was livestock and livestock products which had a value of $116,685,765 in 1949.

The value of the average farm including land and buildings is $14,212. This latter figure is not exactly comparable with the 1945 figure because of changed definition.

Of the 36,107 farms 25,671 were operated by their owners. Only 18.6 percent of the farms were of the tenant type.

The U. S. Census Bureau observed that the figures were subject to revision. Figues of the census on a county basis will be issued later.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Retired Welder Honored

Joseph P. Dickel, right, Mt. Savage, is shown above receiving a fraternity ring and being congratulated for 42 years service at his trade as an electric welder. L. A. McKenzie, left, president of Local 1035, International Association of Machinists, presented the gift to Dickel at a meeting held at the Knights of Malta Temple. Dickel came to work for the Western Maryland Railway at Ridgeley in 1942 and learned his trade at the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Shops in Mt. Savage.

Fire Damages Residence At Vale Summit

Wilkins Home Gutted In Costly Blaze

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilkins, Vale Summit Road, was gutted by fire last night. No one was injured in the blaze which broke out in the six-room frame house at about 8 o'clock. Volunteer firemen from Frostburg and Clarysville fought the stubborn flames for an hour and a half before bringing it under control. The cause was unknown.

Firemen were hampered through lack of water and a dam had to be built in a stream about 400 feet away in order to accumulate sufficient water to extinguish the flames.

The father of seven children, Wilkins, has gone to Miners Hospital Frostburg to see his wife and seventh child which was born Saturday night. The oldest daughter about 14 years of age, reported the other children were playing at home and suddenly the back kitchen burst into flames. She led the children to safety as fire spread rapidly through another back room, up to the roof and through the wall into the upstairs bedrooms.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze was undetermined last night and full amount of damage not known. The furnishings were almost a complete loss and only a few household items were saved.

Wilkins, who lost a leg in World War I is a cook by profession.

Traffic Death Toll Mounts

Twenty-nine persons met death on Maryland highways during the month of April and 1,015 persons received injuries in a total of 2,263 accidents. These figures show a sharp increase over the same period of last year.

In Allegany County last month one person was killed on the open highway. According to the April traffic accident report of the Maryland State Police one person was killed every 25 hours during the past month.

Thirty-four persons per day was the average number injured during the month and police report 12 of the fatal accidents throughout the state occurred during daylight hours and 15 after dark.

The following counties were free of traffic fatalities in rural areas during the month: Anne Arundel, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, St. Mary's, Somerset and Talbot.

Joseph P. Dickel Completes 42 Years Service As Welder

In recognition of 42 years service at his chosen trade, Joseph P. Dickel, Mt. Savage, was recipient of a fraternity ring Tuesday evening at a meeting of Local 1035, International Association of Machinists. The presentation was made by L. A. McKenzie, president of the Local.

An electric welder by trade, Dickel, was employed by the Western Maryland Railway Shops at Maryland Junction, Ridgeley, up until his retirement April 27 this year. Prior to moving to Ridgeley, he worked at the old Cumberland and Pennsylvania Shops in Mt. Savage until 1942.

Dickel was born in the Dutch Hollow section of Mt. Savage, March 25, 1886 and is a son of the late Nicholas and Bridget Collins Dickel. He attended Dutch Hollow School and later went to St. Patrick's Catholic School, Mt. Savage. At the age of 12 he left the classroom and went to work in the "brickyard". Later, he was employed in a fire clay mine, where he worked until he was 21.

Two important events happened in his life in 1909. During that year he married Miss Nora Moran and also began working at his trade as an electric welder at the C & P Shops.

Dickel has one son, Francis N. Dickel, 202 Spring Street, who is employed as a fireman on the Western Maryland Railway; five grandchildren and one great grandchild. He is a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Mt. Savage, the Holy Name Society, and has held membership in the IAM for the past 30 years.

Receivers Named For Lonaconing Firm

Attorneys C. William Gilchrist and Gorman E. Getty yesterday were appointed receivers of the goods, wares, merchandise, books and papers of Raymond F. Eichhorn, who formerly operated Quality Tire Service, Main Street, Lonaconing, according to a decree signed by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Judge Harris' decree instructed the receivers to collect outstanding debts owed Eichhorn and to appoint two disinterested persons to return a schedule of Eichhorn's property to court as soon as possible.

The court action came on an equity suit which Gilchrist filed in Circuit Court March 12 for Auto Accessories Corporation, 139 Frederick Street against Eichhorn. The bill of complaint contended that Auto Accessories Corporation had sold automotive parts to the defendant on open account for several years prior to December 5, 1950; that Eichhorn owed a balance of $590.23 as of that date and on December 5 left Lonaconing. Getty filed an answer for Eichhorn in the suit.

Education Will Precede End Of Walk Lights

Commissioner Long Discusses Plan

Plans for an intensive educational program to prepare for the elimination of walk lights in the city's traffic system early in June were discussed last night.

In an informal conference, Police Commissioner John J. Long and top police administrators discussed tentative plans with representatives of the radio and press.

Change June 3

Commissioner Long stressed that an intensive educational program must precede the change which has been tentatively planned about June 3.

The commissioner said the new system has been discussed thoroughly with the supervisory staff of the department, the Krause-Hinds Company, which specializes in traffic signal lights, and the Potomac-Edison Company.

He added the Potomac-Edison Company has ordered supplies of amber lens to replace the present white walk lens.

Traffic lights will be synchronized at about 21 miles an hour on Baltimore Street and will be operated on automatic except when crossings are blocked.

Long said officials feel traffic will move more smoothly under automatic operation than when controls are operated by traffic officers.

Will Speed Flow

The proposed plan to eliminate walk lights and allow pedestrians to walk with vehicular traffic, officials said, will speed up traffic by at least one third.

Police warned, however, that all diagonal crossing by pedestrians must be eliminated.

Also stressed was the fact that vehicles making left or right turns at any intersection must yield the right of way to pedestrians" as required by Maryland law.

Pedestrians, however, would have to yield the right of way to vehicles during the red and amber signal intervals.

Police said lines will be painted at all intersections on Baltimore Street in connection with the plan to allow pedestrians to cross intersections with the flow of traffic.

The Western Maryland Safety Council, Western Maryland Motor Club and the Junior Association of Commerce will be asked to co-operate in explaining the new plan to school children.

They are Dolores Shank, George Fitzer, Bill Powell, Shirley Clontz, Helen Crawford, Donna Nield, Carol Parker, Barbara Priddy, Darrell Henry, Paula Butts, Carol Torbett, Thomas Arnold, Sterley Van Pelt and Robert Wilson. Over 100 students will take part in the colorful operetta. The production is directed by William Kroll with Mrs. Rhea Gibbs directing dancers.

Harry Cohen Again Named Head Of AFL

Stutzman Elected Area Vice President

Harry Cohen, veteran Baltimore union leader, was reelected yesterday to his fifth term as president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor.

The 60-year-old president and business agent of Baltimore Local No. 355 of the Truck Drivers Union was named unanimously by the 300 delegates attending the 45th annual convention of the federation in Baltimore.

The delegates passed scores of resolutions and pledged their cooperation to President Truman, endorsing his action in resisting communist aggression in Korea.

Other officers elected were vice presidents Glen A. Snyder and Carl Scholtz, for Baltimore; Clem F. Preller, and James C. Turner, for Washington; Jefferson Davis, Baltimore, vice president at large; Charles E. Stutzman, for Cumberland; and E. W. Butler, for Hagerstown; Frank J. Coleman of Washington, secretary; and Robert C. Lester, Washington, treasurer.

Oppose Bar Maids

Also winning approval was a resolution, introduced by Local 569, Bartenders Union, this city, condemning use of women bartenders in taverns where liquor is served.

Printed copies of Cohen's annual report were distributed to the delegates.

As president, he was the AFL's legislative representative, or chief lobbyist, at the 1951 Maryland General Assembly session.

"In all my years of experience, I can truthfully say," he declared, "I have never seen a legislative session like the 1951 session.

"Confusion reigned supreme.

Lacking In Leadership

"Lack of leadership was clearly evident. It seemed as if the political party welfare was the order of the day.

"Democrats vied with Republicans; Republicans vied with Democrats in seeking supremacy, with each side sorely lacking in competent leadership. . . .

"The Governor, himself (Theodore R. McKeldin), seemed more concerned about passage of his budget and the approval of his appointments to office than he was about legislation introduced in the interests of the respective counties and the state as a whole."

The situation, he said, reacted against chances of passage of the AFL's labor legislation program.

And labor lobbyists also were partly responsible for the many defeats the unions took in Annapolis, he indicated.

"I have never seen so many representatives from so many different parts of labor in attendance at a legislative session," he said.

Approximately 350 delegates are attending the convention at the Southern Hotel.

The Federation also went on record as favoring higher pay for Post Office and other federal employes, government recognition of federal employes' unions and restoration of "Labor's Magna Carta", the Wagner Act, without amendments.

Fire Chiefs Plan Full Scale Drill

Final plans for the second in a series of "distress drills" by area firemen were completed last night at a meeting held at City Hall Auditorium. Virgil A. Parker, liasion officer for the firemen branch of the Civil Defense Program, said last night that the next drill will be "full scale".

The element of surprise will again be used and the drill will occur sometime within the next two weeks. Area volunteer companies as far as Bedford, Pa., will participate and most companies will move at the signal. Parker said the signals has been simplified and will be uniform.

During last night's meeting maps and charts were distributed and comments made on the recent drill held at the B&O Bolt and Forge. Fifteen chiefs attended with representatives from Wiley Ford, Ridgeley, Bowling Green, Bowman's Addition, LaVale, Bedford Road, Baltimore Pike, Cresaptown, Corriganville, Short Gap, Frostburg, Shaft, District 16, Ellerslie and Bloomington.

AWOL Soldier Lodged In County Jail

Bernard A. Bailey, a soldier allegedly absent without leave from Fort Knox, Ky., for more than two months was arrested by State Trooper John Browning at Oldtown and lodged in the county jail.

The soldier, an Oldtown resident, was being held at the jail pending the arrival here of military police from Baltimore. Police reported that Bailey had been away from Fort Knox, without leave, ever since March 5.

Trooper Browning reportedly had been on the lookout for him for some time.

Fire Alarm Answered

Central Fire Company answered a call yesterday at 6:54 p. m. at the home of B. L. Bennett, 322 North Mechanic Street. Firemen reported grease ignited on a stove but the blaze was out on arrival. No damage resulted.

Gets Occupancy Permit

Nick Catania was granted a permit yesterday to occupy 6 Queen City Pavement as a cleaning and pressing shop. He is moving from 22 Queen City Pavement.

Rubber Workers Will Vote On Proposed Pact

Special Meeting Is Planned Sunday

A tentative contract agreement reached between negotiators of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO), and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be submitted for approval of the local Sunday.

The action will be taken at a special meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. in the union hall, South Mechanic Street.

In a joint statement, the company and union said the negotiating committees of the company and union had reached an agreement on a proposed contract to replace the present pact.

It added that the proposed contract will be presented to members of the union for approval at the special membership meeting.

It is understood that the chief provisions of the pact, which will be effective until March 1, 1953, are a union shop and a change in the vacation clause.

At a NLRB election early this year, the workers of the tire plant voted ten-to-one to authorize the committee to negotiate for a union shop.

Actually, only a handful of the some 1,800 hourly paid workers will be affected by the provision, which requires that workers must join the union within a stipulated time in order to continue employment. They do not, however, have to be union members before they are employed.

The new vacation clause, it is reported, allows workers to schedule vacations two or three weeks at a time, based on a seniority preference, if they so desire. Previously, one week of the vacation had to be taken during a plant shutdown, when vacation shutdowns were scheduled.

Wage issues were not discussed during the current contract talks.

County Needy Program Now Above Average

Allegany County's old age assistance program was higher than the average individual grant provided by other counties but was less than the state average once again, the monthly statistical report of the State Department of Public Welfare for April noted.

The report showed Allegany County paid an average of $34.65 to each individual as compared to the total average of all counties of $33.63. This total was less than the state grant of $37.77 per persons. Altogether Allegany County aided 701 individuals at a cost of $24,290.59. Garrett County helped 298 persons at a cost of $10,354.91 or an average grant of $34.75.

Aid to dependent children amounted to $27,463.14 in Allegany County in April. This amount was given 359 families which contained 943 children, an average of $76.50 per family. The overall county total was $153,819.22 or an average of $75.77 per family. The state average was $80.22 and Garrett County's average $72.57.

Of a total of 486 needy blind assisted in April in the state, 26 were in Allegany County, five in Garrett and 183 in all the counties combined. Allegany spent $950.62 for an average grant of $36.56 per individual. Garrett's total was $40.73 per individual and the state's $41.86. The overall county total was $36.40 per person.

General Public Assistance totaled $4,768.32 in Allegany County. This amount was given to 129 persons, an average of $36.96. Garrett aided 76 persons at a cost of $2,624.51, an average of $34.53. The state average was $41.73 and the overall county average $35.31.

Altogether payment of $2,114.74 was made for boarding home care for children in Allegany County from the General Public Assistance fund. This amount was granted for 55 children, $38.45 per child. Garrett had 46 children cared for at boarding houses at a cost of $819.10 or an average grant of $34.13. The counties totaled $47,934.15 for 1,198 children, $40.01 per child. This compared to $123,632.62 in the state, a $43.66 average.

Allegany County had three committments to state training schools for boys and girls. All were sent to Maryland Training School for Boys in April. The county had 33 boys and girls still detained in training schools at the close of the month. Of these 19 were in Maryland Training School for Boys and 13 in Montrose School for Girls. One was in Boys' Village of Maryland.

WEATHER

Steady showers were in Cumberland most all day yesterday and raincoats and umbrellas were in order. The weather station at Constitution Park recorded a high of 63, a low of 53 and at 8:15 o'clock last night the temperature stood at 54. Precipitation was .24, dewpoint 45.6 and humidity 71 percent. Forecast for today is fair and less humid.
